GERMANS PURSUING BELGIAN ARMY, INTENDING TO WIPE IT OUT AND SEIZE KING ALBERT

FOLLOWING FALL OF ANTWERP $100,000,000 WAR INDEMNITY IS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN DEMANDED OF CITY.

MORE BOMBS DROPPED ON PARIS FROM AIR

Japanese Bombardment Has Silenced Illtis Fort at Tsing Tau —German Artillery Used at Antwerp Starts for Unnamed Point in France. Believed Germans Will Violate Dutch Neutrality.

London, Oct. 12.—The victorious German army of 125,000 men is today sweeping on to Ostend, where the retreating Belgian army is stationed, following its flght after the fall of Antwerp. It is the intention of the Germans to wipe out the Belgian army and seize King Albert and the government officials. The queen is reported to be in England.

The German government has demanded of Antwerp $100,000,000 as a war indemnity.

News of lively fighting between Ghent and Termonde, where the allies repulsed 40,000 Germans, indicates the far northward reach of the allies' lines.

The German heavy artillery used in the bombardment of Antwerp has been started off for an unannounced destination in France.

Sixteen hundred Belgian soldiers, non-commissioned officers and men, arrived at The Hague today, according to a Reuter's dispatch.

"The Germans lost 45,000 men during the attack on Fortresses Waelhem and Wavre-St. Catherine at Antwerp," says a Central News Amsterdam dispatch.

A Hague dispatch quotes a Belgian officer as saying the number of soldiers who crossed from Belgium into Holland is 26,000.

The Daily Mail's Ghent correspondent, wiring Saturday, says: "The Germans have thrown a pontoon across the Scheldt at Wetteren and are pouring a large force northward to cut off retreat from Antwerp. This is weakening their defense of Brussels and is being met by a strong force, which is compelling them to retire.

"In their advance upon Ghent the Germans got as far as Loochristi, when they were driven back on Lokeran. At the same time a rapid advance south of the Scheldt toward Ghent was met with at Melle, where they were again repulsed with the loss of a battery."

Germany is reported to have already intimated to Holland that she intends to lay claim to the lower part of the Scheldt, through which access to the open sea is reached from Antwerp, on the ground of urgent necessity. Only by possession of the mouths of the Scheldt can Germany use Antwerp as a base for operations against England.

Reports from trustworthy sources indicate that Germany is fully prepared to violate Dutch neutrality to operate against the British navy. Antwerp would be especially valuable to the Germans as a naval base, as torpedo boats, destroyers and submarines could be brought there. The larger vesesels would have to go outside to get into the Scheldt.

Paris, Oct. 12.—A German aeroplane at 10:15 this morning dropped bombs between two railroad trains that were in the act of pulling out of the Northern railroad station. The missles did not explode and were later found imbedded two feet in the earth. The railroad trains were crowded with passengers.

Continuation of the activity in the north of France, and repulse of the Germans between Lassigny and Roye are reported in the official statement given out this afternoon by the war office. The statement follows:

"On our left wing the cavalry engagements continue in the region of LeBasse, Estieres and Hazbrouck. Between Arras and the Oise the enemy has attempted numerous attacks which have been repulsed, notably between Lassigny and Roye.

"In the centre we have made some progress on the plateaus on the right bank of the River Aisne, before Soissons and to the east and southwest of Verdun.

"On our right wing, in the Vosges, the enemy has made a night attack in the region of Bam de Sapt, to the north of St Die, but was repulsed."

Shanghai, Oct. 12, (Central News Cable)—The bombardment of the Japanese cruisers has silenced Illtis Fort, one of the three German fortifications at Tsing Tau. The Chinese praise the behavior of the British troops operating on the land there particularly because they pay in full for all supplies they take and because they have not molested the villagers.

Paris, Oct. 12 (Central News Cable)—Officers arriving from the front report the capture of an entire German convoy of 800 men and Mitrailleuses, in the region of Roye by British and French cavalry, on Friday. The convoy appeared from the North, bearing food and ammunition for the German forces operating Roye. It lost its way in the fog. As the fog cleared a French aviator saw it and flew to report the discovery to the French commander. A strong force of cavalry was sent out. It attacked the convoy, which put up a desperate resistance, but subsequently surrendered.

London, Oct. 12 (Central News Cable)—A six-fold increase in the shipment of tea from London to Holland is shown by the official returns issued by the Custom House as compared with the figures of a year ago. In September, 1913, London sent to the Dutch cities of Amsterdam and Rotterdam, 110,634 pounds. During last month London sent to the same two ports 687,394 pounds of tea. One day shipments were 112,996 pounds. The figures suggest that the Dutch have begun to consume six times as much tea as they formerly did, or that the tea is simply passing through their country to Germany. Doubtless it is against the wish of the Dutch Government if this latter be the case.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 12 Central News Cable).—The cost to Switzerland due to war conditions was 3,360,000 pounds at the end of September, according to a statement made here today.

STATE PHTHISIS EXHIBIT OPENS

Important Health Demonstration to Be Held Here for Two Weeks.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Afternoon and Evening Sessions to be Held at High School—Program Will Include Motion Pictures—List of Exhibits—Those in Charge.

Citizens of Plainfield will be given an opportunity, beginning tonight and continuig for the next two weeks, of attending the largest tuberculosis and health exhibit ever held in this county. It will be an education along the lines of disease prevention. The exhibit to open at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Plainfield High School is conducted by the State Board of Health, under the auspices of the Boards of Health and the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The exhibit will be free. Every night moving pictures will be shown upon the work being conducted by the State Board of Health in the care and prevention of tuberculosis. Dr. Millard Knowlton, director of the tuberculosis work for the State Board of Health, will be the lecturer each night in describing the pictures which will be shown in the High School Auditorium.

Among well-known local speakers for the evening lectures will be William S. Tyler, president of the Board of Education, and Mayor Percy H. Stewart, both of whom will speak tonight. Tomorrow night Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, of the Board of Education, will be the speakers. On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock Dr. T. S. Davis, president of the city Board of Health, and William S. Tyler will speak. Thursday night will be for the Italian population of the city. Rev. Vincent Sciolla wil make an address in the Italian language. Friday night at 8 o'clock Dr. Charles F. Boulduan, chief of the department of education, New York Board of Health, will speak. He is one of the highest authorities on health work in the country and will have some excellent advice to impart. Andrew E. Kenney, president of the North Plainfield Board of Health, will also speak.

The exhibit by the State Board of Health will be in the auditorium, while the balance of the exhibits will be in the new gymnasium. The State Board Exhibit will be exceptionally interesting and instructive in giving statistics of work accomplished in the past and showing plans for the future prevention of disease.

The Plainfield Board of Health exhibit will comprise statistics of health work, garbage proposition, public comfort stations and prospective work for the welfare of the city. The North Plainfield Board of Health exhibit, under the supervision of Dr. A. H. Dundon and Louis Oliff, will comprise mainly tuberculosis statistics.

The Anti-Tuberculosis League exhibit under the direction of Dr. Edward Krans, and the tuberculosis clinic exhibit under the supervision of Dr. Krans and Dr. F. J. Hughes, will be among the most interesting features. The latter department will show sample charts and figures. The clinic is now open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 4 to 5, and 8 to 9 p. m., and every one is invited to inspect the clinic rooms at 109 Madison avenue this week and next.

The Charity Organization will show statistics of the relief work accomplished during the past year, and also has an exhibit at Dr. Pittis' office, on East Front streeet, two rooms in illustrating good and bad conditions in the home.

The Nursing Bureau and Milk Station, under the auspices of the King's Daughters, will show statistics of the district nurses' work. There will be an intereting display upon the care of babies, their bath, clothing and proper way of preparing milk.

Among the most important of the exhibits will be that of the Orthopedic Clinic, which was started at the Muhlenberg Hospital two years ago. Dr. Corbusier is in charge of this department and he has arranged to show the treatment of tubercular and other diseases of the bones and joints; corections of deformities, curvature of the spine, flat feet, etc. The aparatus used in the treatment of these diseases will be on exhibit.

The Muhlenberg Hospital exhibit promises to be among the interesting features and will be in charge of Mrs. Foster. This exhibit will show many details of the hospital work and also give statistics.

The Mothers' Association exhibit, in charge of Mrs. C. G. Munro, will comprise statistics. Each day a somple lunch, to show what is being served at the noon lunches, will be on exhibit.

Mrs. H. D. Corbusier will be in charge of the Public Recreation Committee exhibit, comprising posters

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

New York Man Ran Into Car Owned by Robert Rushmore Yesterday.

While driving his motorcycle east on East Seventh street, near Crescent avenue at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, Lewis Kopp, of 154 West 90th street, New York, hit an automobile driven by Joseph Gallagher, of Dunellen, and owned by Robert Rushmore, of this city. The motorcyclist was picked up by the autoist and removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. At the latter institution it was found that his injuries, while painful, were not serious, and he will probably be discharged today. He had a broken finger and cuts and bruises about the body.

The report received at police headquarters of the accident indicates that the New York man was at fault for the mixup. The motorcycle hit the Rushmore car squarely in the middle and the fact that neither was traveling at a fast rate of speed is probably responsible for the fact that serious, if not fatal injuries, to the motorists, was averted.

WHITE MAN CUT BY NEGRO ROWDY

Altercation in Trolley Car Ended in Cutting Affair Saturday Night.

A slashing affair, the details of which are shrouded in mystery, took place on a Main Line trolley car near Terrill road, last night, Richard Burke, of East Sixth street, being the victim of a knife wound said to have been inflicted by William Morsley, colored, of this city. Morsley was taken from the trolley at the Watchung avenue stand by Patrolman Welsh and locked in a cell at headquarters as a suspect. While the police believe they have evidence sufficient to convict the man, who has given them considerable trouble in previous affairs, Chief Kiely asked for an adjournment of the case until Wednesday morning and the defendant was held in $25 bail for a hearing on that date.

Burke, in company with Charles Garfingle, William Berkowitz and Harry Laird, was returning from Garwood about 11:30 o'clock on the west bound Main Line trolley and is said to have entered into a wordy altercation with the negro. The slashing followed and Morsley is said to have thrown the knife into the bushes after the deed was committed. He refused to divulge this information to the police and they are now endeavoring to locate the weapon used in the fray.

The wound inflicted was not a serious one, but the Public Service officials are prepared to press charges of disorderly conduct against the negro when he is arraigned.

MISS AYERS BRIDE OF HERBERT TERRY

Well Known Local Couple Married in First Baptist Church.

Miss Edith Jordon Ayers, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Ayers, of East Second street, was quietly married to Herbert Lewis Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott Terry, of this city, at 7:30 Saturday night. The couple were married in the First Baptist church by the Rev. Philip B. Strong and left immediately afterwards for a short honeymoon trip.

The ceremony was attended by only the immediate relatives of the two parties. Upon their return they will reside on East Second street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Terry are well known in this city, having been students in the Plainfield High School and graduates of that institution in the class of 1913. Mr. Terry is a well known baseball pitcher and has played on several amateur teams in this vicinity.

RUMOR IS DENIED.

A rumor to the effect that Samuel W. Rushmore, of Belvidere avenue, former proprietor of the plant now occupied by the Bosch Magneto Company, on South avenue, had purchased the plant and factory buildings until recently occupied by the Spicer Manufacturing Company at Madison avenue and West Third street, has been denied. Mr. Rushmore was called up on the telephone Saturday morning by a representative of the Daily Press, and he denied that the rumor even had a foundation.

CANDIDATES FORM CAMPAIGN ASS'N

Defeated Office Seekers Combine for Success of Republican Ticket.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

W. de LaR. Anderson Gives a Dinner in Trenton After Which He Makes a Speech in Which He Urges Support of Party Nominees.

William de LaR. Anderson was the host at a dinner given at the Trenton House, Trenton, Saturday evening, to the defeated Republican candidates in the Fourth Congressional district. The purpose of the gathering was to form an association among the defeated candidates. This was accomplished ,the association to be known as the Republican Candidates' Campaign Association.

The principal object of the association is to assist in every way possible the election of the Republican candidates by combining the strength of the personal machine of each defeated candidate. Mr. Anderson was chosen chairman, Dr. Charles Mitchell, of Trenton, secretary, and Walter Firth, of Trenton, treasurer.

Mr. Anderson in addressing the gathering, said among other things:

"At this time, when the industries of our country are paralyzed and hundreds of thousands of men know not from whence the barest necessities to sustain them and their families are to come, it is the patriotic duty of every man to cast his ballot this year so that it will count for a change in the present disastrous situation. In order that men may know how best to act it is only necessary for us to take a non-partisan concensus of current opinion, which I may say has been joined in by the President himself in published statements, which seems to be that our trouble is psychological.

"I am convinced that it is evident to everyone that the drastic and too severe and unintelligent regulation of an interference with the methods of business from producer even unto consumer which has ruled for the past two years has undermined confidence and created a state of fear in the minds of our workers.

"This then is the psychology of the situation—lack of confidence is psychological and fear is psychological—and we must change the psychology to fear and lack of confidence to the psychology to fearlessness and confidence which will mean prosperity.

"I commend to you those who have been nominated as Republicans as being the most likely to inspire the confidence which is so necessary for us at all time. The Republican party, no matter what has been said of it, is and has been the party under which our country has had greatest comfort and happiness. To this party must come a world reconstruction and to this party we must logically turn if we wish to remedy the broadcast fear and lack of confidence which now prevails. I sincerely believe that next November the people of State and nation, regardless of party, will ratify what I have told you.

"Another important factor which we must consider and bring before the fair-minded voter who is affiliating with the Progressive party is the use the Democratic press of the State and nation of a party which is sincerely out for good and efficient government is making of that party as a screen behind which they dodge with their mistakes, extravagances and follies saying, 'Oh, you can't fight us, look out for the Progressives'."

WOMAN HURT IN LEAP WHEN HORSE BECAME FRIGHTENED

In an attempt to leap from a buggy when a horse her husband was driving became frightened, at Mt. Bethel, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Peter Neuman, of East Seventh street, susttained injuries that necessitated her removal to Muhlenberg Hospital. The equine had started to run away and when Mrs. Neuman thought that her husband was unable to manage it she tried to jump clear of the moving vehicle.

The woman was thrown violently to the ground and when received at the hospital it was found that she was bruised about the body and had sustained a severe injury to her right leg. Her injuries are not considered serious, although she will be confined to the institution for several days.

PARENT-TEACHER RECEPTION.

The Parent-Teacher Association, of the Washington School, will hold a class room reception Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Teachers will receive the parents in their own class rooms and parents are urged to take this opportunity to learn about their children's work.

ATHLETICS 4; BOSTON 5

Boston	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	1		5

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 12.—The Boston Braves practically clinched the world's championship title for 1914 today, when they won the third straight game from the Philadelphia Athletics, before a crowd of 38,500 frenzied rooters. Only one more game out of a possible four, and they gain the title.

The game was the closest yet played in the series, the hitting and scoring being even up during the greater part of the contest. Some clever fielding stunts were credited to the infielders on both sides and the Athletics appeared to have regained the "pep" that has been so noticeably missing in the first pair of clashes. Charlie Deal and Johnny Evers were responsible for some clever fielding stunts during the contest, while Baker did some good work in this department for the Phillies. Deal was the bright star of the game, getting one of the two smashes that were sent into the bleachers, Hank Gowdy being responsible for the other. Ground rules prevented both of these clouts from being chalked up as circuit clouts.

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 12.—With defeat meaning practical oblivion, after holding the world's championship for two years, the Philadelphia Athletics entered today's game with the Boston Braves, with their fighting spirit aroused to the highest pitch. They knew that if they lost this game the almost impossible task of winning four straight contests confronted them, in order to retain their championship.

The weather was ideal for baseball with clear skies and a moderate temperature. Only one topic was heard in this city since early morning. There were 38,500 seats ready for those who would crowd into the grounds to see the game, and probably three times as many people were ready to occupy those seats. Had there been room to accommodate them, the greatest crowd that ever assembled in this country would have been on hand when the umpires first shouted "play ball," for every one of the seats was taken, and thousands were turned away in disappointment.

Gaffney and his force used every effort to give every one a square deal, and this was generally recognized. But what can be done with 38,500 seats when 138,000 insist they must see the game, even if it costs a leg or an arm or a neck? The answer is simple. Nothing.

Stallings early announced that he would send Rudolph at the Mackmen, but he later changed him mind and put Tyler in. Mack as usual was noncommittal until the game started. He admitted, however, that he would likely fire a youngster in and this left the choice between Bressler, Shawkey and Bush. His two grand veterans have failed to stop the Boston charges. It was up to his youngsters, and many believed that Mack had a chance if he only could get some fair hitting in place of the weak sister work that greeted Rudolph and James in the first two games. When the game started Bush was put in the box.

The line for the open stand seats started to form at 1:30 yesterday. The gates to the bleachers were opened at 9:30 this morning, and to the reserved seats at 11. The gates to the bleachers were closed shortly after eleven, leaving thousands of disappointed fans outside. Ground rules may be established limiting hits to two bases in left neld.

The Royal Rooters, of Boston, headed by former Mayor Fitzgerald, are located in a section of the temporary stands. The police arrangements were excellent and the big crowd was well managed. The Boston team came on the field and started batting practice at noon, and the Athletics entered at 12:50.

The Athletic lined up today in the same way as in the two preceding games, except that Walsh replaced Strunk in centre field, while Boston shifted Deal to bat after Schmidt, and Gowdy batted after Maranville. Moran replaced Mann, who worked Saturday, and Connolly replaced Cather.

Philadelphia—Murphy, rf; Oldring, lf; Collins, 2b; Baker, 3b; McInnis, 1b; Walsh, cf; Barry, shortstop; Schang, catcher, Bush, pitcher.

Boston—Moran, rf, Evers, 2b; Connolly, lf; Whitted, cf; Schmidt, 1b; Deal, 3b; Maranville, ss; Gowdy, catcher; Tyler, pitcher.

FIRST INNING.

Philadelphia—Murphy opened the first game in Boston with a pretty two cushion swat to left field. Oldring followed with a sacrifice, Murphy going to third. Tyler grabbed Oldring's bounder at the pitcher's box and threw him out at the first corner. Collins flied to left field, but the sun got in Connolly's eyes and he muffed the ball, Murphy scoring the first run. Collins got life at first on the plate. "Home-run" Baker, who has made but one hit in this year's series, strode to the plate and whiffed at three fast ones, recording the first strikeout. Collins proceeded to steal second and made the bag safely. McInnis, another hitless wonder of the series, after collecting three balls and two strikes, drew a fourth wide one and went to the first station. Collins was caught napping at second, Tyler to Evers, ending the inning with Walsh at the bat. Three outs. One run.

Boston—Moran, Boston's first man at the bat, drew three balls and then collected a pair of strikes. After prolonging the agony with four successive foul flies into the bleachers, creating a general disorder among the spectators who scrambled to capture the pills as relics of the fray, he flied out to Collins in the middle of the diamond. Captain Johnny Evers received a second ovation when he appeared at the bat, having a few minutes before been presented with an automobile on the field, and answered with a beautiful single to left field. Connolly, of whom much has been expected in this series in the line of hitting, failed to record his first hit and foul flied to Baker at third. Evers broke the monotony with a steal to second. Whitted, with two and three on him, put a third dent in the atmosphere. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 1; Boston, 0.

SECOND INNING.

Philadelphia—Walsh was retired, Tyler to Schmidt. Barry lifted a high one to Schmidt. Schang drew three straight balls from Tyler and then lifted a short fly to Evers near first. Evers made a grandstand catch out of this play and was given his third big hand of the afternoon. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Schmidt, the first man to appear at the plate in this inning, fanned. Deal pop-flied out to Baker near the third base line. Bush had trouble in putting them over to little "Rabbit" Maranville and gave him four, all of which were declared too high. Maranville stole second, making the base after a nifty slide. Gowdy hit into the crowd for two bases, scoring Maranville. Ground rules prevented this hit from being a home run. Tyler was retired, Barry to McInnis. Three outs. One run.

Score—Philadelphia, 1; Boston, 1.

THIRD INNING.

Philadelphia—Bush flied out to Schmidt. Murphy died via Evers to Schmidt on a lightning play. Oldring went out, Maranville to Schmidt. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Moran was an easy out,

RETURN FROM EUROPE.

Miss Rich and Dr. Rich, formerly of the borough, have just arrived in this country via the S. S. St. Louis, of the American Line, from England, where they had been since the first of August. While abroad they attended the Dental Convention at London, which was in session from August the third until the eighth, together with another sister, Dr. Celia Rich, who returned about a month or so ago. It had been their intention after attending this convention to tour the continent and then return via the Mediterranean route. The outbreak of the war, of course, made that impossible. Instead of becoming panicky at its outbreak and scurrying to obtain passage home, as did the majority of the tourists, the Richs became imbued with the spirit of perfect security manifested by the English, who believe their island to be impregnable, and decided to spend the time that they had planned to take in touring the continent in England's rural lake district. While there the Richs say that one wouldn't have known that war was being waged were it not for the train loads of soldiers that passed daily through the place. England's lake district at this season of the year is generally over-run with tourists but the visit of the Richs was marked by their almost total absence. The few tourists who were there were given every attention, the inhabitants acting as if they couldn't do enough for them. The Richs experienced no difficulty in negotiating their letters of credit, which is contrary to what a brother, Daniel Rich, of Atlanta, Ga., who was marooned in Germany from August first until September first, was able to say in a recent letter to Mrs. Breyer. Mr. Rich was unable, on account of credit being curtailed in Germany, to negotiate his letter of credit and if it had not been for the fact that the proprietor of the hotel at which he was stopping had trusted him as concerns the paying of his hotel bill until gold arrived from America his condition would have been a most deplorable one. Among other things which Mr. Rich, who has now been back in this country two weeks, stated in his letter to Mrs. Beyer, was that the Germans treat the Americans wonderfully well.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dayton and family, of Bayonne, have been visiting Mr. Dayton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dayton, of New Market road, since Saturday afternoon. They will return home this evening.

Rev. and Mrs. F. R. Brown are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Crow and daughter, Miss Alice, of Brooklyn.

The Watchung Investment Company has purchased the property at the southeasterly corner of Prospect avenue and Walnut street, tenanted by F. Amos Johnson, through the John P. Fenner agency from the Dunellen Realty Company.

Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. William A. Arrants, of Newark, over the holiday. Mr. Arrants and Mrs. Arnold are brother and sister.

Mrs. William Shively and daughter, Miss Edna, of Whittier avenue, have been visiting in New York.

Quite a number of boroughites witnessed "Things That Count," at the Plainfield Theatre on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reusch, of Washington avenue, have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowe, of Newark, since Saturday afternoon.

John Dineen, of Brooklyn, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dineen, of Washington avenue, over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Thompson, of Jamaica, B. W. I., who have been making Mr. Thompson's mother, Mrs. H. D. Thompson, of Prospect avenue, a protracted visit, expect to sail for home on Wednesday.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. H. L. Poland, wife of the pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Albert N. Randolph and Mrs. George W. Day have returned from Atlantic City, where they spent an enjoyable week.

The masons have completed the work on the house that is being erected for Clarence T. Voorhees, on Lincoln avenue.

George Meyers, of Prospect avenue, entertained his brother, George Meyers, of Raritan, on Saturday.

CONDITIONS IMPROVING.

The gradual restoration of confidence that has been spreading over the country, as concerns the effect that the present European war will have upon business, has been reflected, locally, by the fact that the Hall Printing Press Company has taken back, during the past two weeks, thirty of the one hundred and thirty-three men that were laid off shortly after the outbreak of the war. The plant is now employing in the neighborhood of one hundred men and the indications are that if business conditions continue to improve at the present rate that the full force of two hundred will be employed at full time by the first of the month.

Mrs. Florence Doty, of Dewey Park, a former resident of this borough, leaves tomorrow, upon the advice of her physician, for California, where she will remain indefinitely.

INJURED LAD RECOVERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schneiderwind, of Prospect avenue, have been told by Dr. N. W. Currie, of Plainfield, who has been attending their nine-year-old son, Walter, that the little fellow can go to school tomorrow. The lad has had far from an enjoyable vacation. He passed most of it on a cot in the Muhlenberg Hospital as a result of jumping off of a shed in the rear of his home and breaking an ankle. The accident happened on a Sunday morning shortly after the commencing of the summer recess.

William Thompson, of Prospect avenue, was a visitor in the city on Saturday.

The Teachers' Training Class connected with the Presbyterian Sunday-school will meet in the chapel tomorrow evening, between the hours of 8:00-9:00. The class was formed on Monday evening, with a membership of 15. Jesse Hurlburt's course in teacher training is being pursued.

Miss B. M. Ward, one of the local teachers, is entertaining a sister, who teaches at Matawan, over the holiday.

MEETS WITH ACCIDENT.

Democratic Committeeman Willard N. Apgar's list of misfortunes was increased on Saturday afternoon, when he sustained a smashed finger while engaged in his trade of carpentering. Mr. Apgar and a helper had repaired a sliding door of the barn in the rear of the First National Bank. Just as the two were about read, to quit the job Mr. Apgar dropped on his knees and was tinkering with one of the rollers, when the helper pushed the door to see how it worked. The end of the middle finger of Mr. Apgar's right hand was drawn in between the door and the roller, tearing off the nail and smashing it badly. The injury caused him intense pain and Superintendent H. R. Cooke, who was nearby at the time, took him around to Dr. Platt's office, in his automobile, where proper attention was given the injured member.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Voorhes, of Jackson avenue, entertained their niece, Miss Edna Blaine, daughter of Alderman Henry Blaine, of New Brunswick, yesterday.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

The Woman's Missionary Society, of the Presbyterian church, will hold an all-day meeting in the chapel tomorrow. They will meet at 10 o'clock. There will be a business meeting and sewing in the morning. Luncheon will be served at noon. The members are invited to bring a box lunch. At half past two in the afternoon, Mrs. W. Steans, of Westfield, will address the meeting. It is understood that Mrs. Steans is desirous of having a Westminister Guild formed here. All new or second-hand clothing for children and grown people are asked to be sent to the manse on or before tomorrow. The thank offering barrels are requested to be brought or sent in. The young women of the congregation are invited to attend the meeting.

Peter Schneiderwind, of Prospect avenue, visited his cousins, Mrs. Carrie Rupell and Mrs. Elizabeth Down, who are on from Washington, D. C., at Newark, yesterday.

William Victorson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Victorson, of First street, who is attending New York University, was a week-end visitor in the borough.

Miss Elizabeth Garretson, of Somerville, spent last week in the borough, stopping at the Ellsworth.

Assessor and Mrs. J. H. L. Peters entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roselt, of Roseville, over the holiday.

Miss Myrtle Fedderman, of Washington avenue, has returned from Maine, where she was one of the instructoresses of the Camp Fire Girls during the past summer and early fall.

Former Postmaster Peter C. Staats was a visitor at Newark, yesterday.

Mrs. Julius Brexer, of Dunellen avenue, is entertaining her sister and brother, Miss Amy Rich and Dr. Stanley Rich, of Nashville, Tenn.

CLARK RAMSEY RETURNS.

Clark Ramsey, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. David C. Ramsey, was brought home ill on Saturday from Blairstown, where he has been attending Blair Academy, in H. E. Nelson's automobile, in which besides Mr. Nelson were his parents. He was resting quietly according to the last report. The young man is suffering from a strained muscle of the heart and has been ordered by his physician to remain quietly on his back in bed. While it is not known how the muscle was strained it is suspected that tennis, the only sport of which the young man is fond, is responsible.

WILLIAM BERKOWITZ LEAVES U. S. NAVY

William Berkowitz, son of Mrs. Annie Berkowitz, of 137 East Fifth street, has just returned to his home in this city after receiving an honorable discharge as seaman in the navy. He has been a sailor boy for Uncle Sam for the past three years, six months and twelve days, to be exact.

He was on the U. S. Franklin when that ship was stationed in Vera Cruz harbor three weeks last May, and witnessed some of the fighting there, although the boys on his ship did not take active part in the conflict. Mr. Berkowitz has spent most of his enlistment on ships along the coast. He was at first appointed to the gunboat Castine, later the submarine tender Severn, then the Fish Hawk, and received his discharge from the Franklin.

While cruising about the coast Mr. Berkowitz picked up many specimens of shells and other deep sea phenomena and has an elaborate and interesting collection which he sent to his home in this city. Mr. Berkowitz has not made up his mind whether he will return to the navy or seek a position on land.

WAR NEWS

Paris, Oct. 12.—With losses of 12,000 killed and wounded, the Germans have suffered a sharp defeat in the district north of Arras and have been driven back from ten to thirteen miles. From Lassigny north to Lens and a slight distance beyond fighting is in progress which, if it has a successful result for the Allies, will drive back the German right wing before the troops released by the fall of Antwerp will become available for service in France. At Lassigny, where fighting has been severe for days, the French have captured a German standard.

One of the bombs which hit the Cathedral of Notre Dame started a fire, which was extinguished before serious damauge was done.

The Hague, Oct. 12.—It is estimated that twenty-six thousand Belgian troops have crossed the Holland frontier and have been disarmed. The Dutch press rejoices at the escape of the Belgian garrison and expresses much sympathy with the Belgians.

In attacks on Forts Waelhem and Wavre-St. Catherine alone the Germans lost more than forty-five thousand men.

Berlin newspapers declare that the civilian population of Belfort is fleeing, fearing a German bombardment.

Rome, Oct. 12.—Cholera is sweeping through Austria from the troops in Galicia to places on the Swiss frontier. Food is growing so scarce in Vienna that the bakers will only make the so-called "war bread" at a considerably increased price.

Inquiry at the Balkan legations drew from the diplomatists here the view that the death of King Charles will not affect Roumania's attitude toward the warring Powers.

Venice, Oct. 12.—Two Austrian torpedo boats are reported to have been destroyed by the Anglo-French fleet off the Dalmatian coast. A torpedo destroyer has been injured by striking a mine, it is reported.

Petrograd, Oct. 12.—Prince Oleg, a son of Grand Duke Constantine, has been severely wounded in an encounter with the advance cavalry of the enemy. The official communication does not state where the fighting occurred, but says several bodies of German advance guards were cut to pieces.

STATE PHTHISIS EXHIBIT

The Samaritan's Sword

The sword of the silver sunlight is the only one he wields,
The sword of the deeds of mercy in the bloom of the fragrant fields.
A song on his lips forever,
And the banner that o'er him springs
The green of the leafy pennant
On the boughs of a thousand springs.

The sword of the silver sunlight—ah, sweeter was never born'—
With its sapphire handle gleaming in the dewy dream of morn:
A smile in his heart forever,
And wherever he goes a word,
As soft as the tender beauty
Of the song of the woodland bird.

The sword of the silver sunlight that flashes aboon the skies,
Catching the laughing twinkle of the good
Samaritan's eyes:
A rose in his hand forever
As over the world he goes
To plant in the path of the living,
The flower of the deathless rose.

The sword of the silver sunlight, more everlasting than steel,
And always drawn in the service of love
that is long and leal:
A kiss on the brows that suffer,
A smile for the hearts that ache,
And his sword on the wing forever
For the sake of the whole world's sake.

MAP SHOWS PLAN FOR REDIVISION OF EUROPE.

It Purports to Represent Kaiser's and Allies' Intentions In Case of Victory.

Says a London Daily Telegraph correspondent in a dispatch from Rotterdam:

"A friend just from Berlin, has brought back a map which explains in a popular manner what the Germans mean Europe should be like in the future and how the Germans believe the allies intend Europe shall be changed.

"It will be news to the people of Scotland and Ireland that their countries are apparently to be left alone, but England is to be pushed into Devon and Cornwall. France is to become an extended Alsace, and Lorraine disappears, and Germany proper ends just beyond St. Petersburg.

"Russia will consist of some swamps to the north, all the southern plains of the great empire of the czar being given either to Austria or formed into a united Poland under German protection."

Printed on the reverse side of this imaginative map is a fantastic outline of what some Germans think are the intentions of the allies. Englishmen will be pleased to learn their country intends to seize the northern provinces of Germany, including the Kiel canal, that they think of handing over the whole of Austria-Hungary to Servia and that after pushing westward of Russia and eastward of France, Germany is to be left a tiny little spot on the map somewhere in the vicinity of Nuremberg.

RED CROSS WAR STAMPS.

Proposed For American Made Goods to Aid Fund For Wounded.

Acknowledging the receipt of a suggestion to swell the Red Cross fund for the war's wounded, made by an editor of the American Press Association, Robert W. De Forest, vice president of the American Red Cross society, says the plan proposed has been submitted to Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the executive committee of the organization. The Red Cross society recently sent a vessel carrying surgeons and nurses besides a complete hospital equipment to minister to the wounded in the great armed conflict irrespective of nation. The money necessary to perform this great service to humanity was forthcoming from public subscription.

The idea which has been proposed to increase this fund is to sell to manufacturers in the United States Red Cross stamps bearing a red cross and the popular trade slogan, "Made In America," these stamps to be affixed to all American made retail merchandise shipped by mail or parcel post or sold over the counter to the purchaser who carries the goods home.

As has been pointed out to Mr. De Forest, such a movement, if inaugurated and made nation wide in scope, is certain to meet with enthusiastic response. It would serve a twofold purpose. First, it would give merchandise of American make wide advertising, and, second, it would yield a large revenue to the Red Cross fund used for the humane purpose of keeping down the awful toll death levies from wounds sustained on the battlefield.

The success of the Red Cross Christmas stamps is proof of what can be done in this direction, and Mr. De Forest has evinced much interest in the proposal that the same idea be employed, but along the lines suggested—to serve those of all nations who fall on the firing line.

BOX PARTY AT BATTLE.

Eight Americans Paid $800 to See the Engagement at Mons.

James A. Wakefield of Pittsburgh, who arrived from Europe, said that he and seven other Americans, ambitious to see a battle, persuaded a Captain Antord of the French commissariat to take them within three miles of the rear of the engagement at Mons. They paid the obliging captain $100 each and went in spring wagons, arriving in the evening as near as they were permitted to go to the field.

He said they could see little of actual destruction, but the air was scarred with exploding shells, farmhouses were burning and the noise was fearsome.

LARGE FIELD OUT FOR COLUMBUS DAY RUN

A good sized field turned out for the run this morning of the Watchung Hunt Club. The meeting place was at the Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse, where the hounds were thrown in. The run covered eight miles, winding up at Metuchen. The run included considerable jumping of post and rail fences as well as ditches. The hounds were checked on the outskirts of Metuchen and taken up there, and thrown in again for the second time. The hounds then led the field to a finish on the Oliver Kelly estate.

One fall was experienced during the run, J. P. Fox being thrown at a four-rail fence. He was uninjured, and remounted and finished. Among the others who finished were Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H. Lawrence B. Smith, Miss Mary F. Baker, of New York city; R. H. Towner, Henry L. Fitch, Mayor Evans, of Westfield; F. D. French; W. P. Smith, Jr., Huntsman Harrison. The meeting place of the Wednesday run will be at the kennels at 3:30 p. m.

BASEBALL

Baker to McInnis. Johnny Evers died, Bush to McInnis on an easy bunt. Connolly hit a long fly which was gobbled by Murphy. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 1; Boston, 1.

FOURTH INNING.

Philadelphia Collins lifted an easy fly ball to Evers as a starter. Baker fanned for the second time during the game, proving an easy victim. "Stuffy" McInnis doubled, this being his first hit of the series, the ball going to deep center field. Walsh, substitute fielder, singled, scoring McInnis and putting the Philly club in the lead. Barry went out, Deal to Schmidt. Three outs. One run.

Boston—Whitted went out, Collins to McInnis. Collins made a fine bareland stop on this play. Schmidt, with three and two on him, swatted a pretty single over the keystone sack. Deal, the hero of Saturday's victory, died, Collins to McInnis, Schmidt going to second on the hit and run play. Maranville hit one along the right field foul line, Schmidt racing for home, followed by Maranville, who was endeavoring to record a home run clout. Umpire Hildebrant, however, declared it a foul and sent both back to their places. Maranville followed this up with a single, scoring Schmidt amid thunderous applause. This run tied the score. A number of unsuccessful efforts were made to catch the elusive Maranville at first, and he finally stole second base and took third when Schang threw to centre field, trying to catch him at the midway post. Gowdy drew four balls and stole second. Maranville was caught at the plate on a double steal, Baker to Schang, ending the inning. Three outs. One run.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

FIFTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Schang flied out to Moran. Bush, after fanning at one ball, hit a hot one to Deal, who threw to Schmidt in time to catch Bush at first. Murphy doubled, after two strikes and three balls had been called, the ball going into deep right field. Oldring fanned. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Tyler went out, Bush to McInnis. Moran followed with the second out, Barry to McInnis. Evers had two balls and a strike before he landed squarely on one of Bush's shoots, and singled to left field. Connolly went out, Collins to McInnis. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

SIXTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Collins hit a hot one to Deal, who fumbled, but made a great one-handed stop, but did not recover the ball in time to throw Collins out at first, the latter being credited with a hit. Baker followed Collins, and hit into a double play, Evers to Maranville to Schmidt. McInnis went out on the first ball pitched, on a fly to Schmidt. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Whitted was easy, Bush throwing him out to McInnis. Schmidt flied out to Oldring, and Deal enlivened things by doubling into the left field stand, with a hit that would have been a home run had the ground rule permitted. Maranville fouled out to Schang, leaving Deal on second. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

SEVENTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Walsh foul flied out to Deal. Barry was retired, Tyler to Schmidt, on an easy infield hit. Schang let three wide ones go by, and then knocked a fly to Evers, who threw to Schmidt. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Gowdy went out, Barry to McInnis. Tyler was fanned. Moran made the third out, Barry to McInnis. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

EIGHTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Bush made the first out, Schmidt fielding the ball to Tyler, who covered first base, while Schmidt was making a wonderful stop. Murphy started by flying out to Whitted, and Oldring ended the half by flying out to Moran. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Evers went out, Bush to McInnis. Connolly went to bat, and the crowd yelled for him to hit a home run, but the best he could do was hit into Barry's hands, who threw him out at first to McInnis. Whitted out, Barry to McInnis. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

NINTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Collins out, Maranville to Schmidt. Baker doubled along right field foul line. McInnis flied out to Connolly. Baker held on second. Walsh walked on four wide ones, and Barry foul flied out to Gowdy. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

Boston—Schmidt out, Baker to McInnis. Deal out, Baker to McInnis. Maranville out, Barry to McInnis. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 2; Boston, 2.

TENTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Schang singled to left field. Bush struck out. Murphy singled through the pitcher's box, Schang going to second. Oldring out, Evers to Schmidt. Schang and Murphy going to third and second, respectively. Collins walked, filling the bases. Baker hit to Evers, who fumbled the ball, and Schang and Murphy scored, Collins going to second. The official scorer gives Baker a hit on the play. McInnis flied out to Whitted. Three outs. Two runs.

Boston—Gowdy knocked the ball over the centre field fence, scoring a home run. Devore went in to bat for Tyler. Devore fanned. Moran walked. Evers singled, Moran going to third. Connolly flied out to Walsh, and Moran scored after the catch, making the score 4 to 4. Whitted pop flied out. Three outs. Three runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 4; Boston, 4.

ELEVENTH INNING.

Philadelphia—James now pitching for Boston. Walsh out, James to Schmidt. Barry out, Schmidt, unassisted. Schang walked. Bush struck out. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Schmidt foul flied out to Schang. Deal flied out to Murphy. Maranville out, Baker to McInnis. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia, 4; Boston, 4.

TWELFTH INNING.

Philadelphia — Murphy walked. Oldring out, James to Schmidt. Collins pop flied out to Deal. Baker walked. McInnis forced Baker out at second, Evers to Maranville. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Gowdy doubled to the left field bleachers. Mann went in to run for Gowdy. Gilbert, batting for James, walked. Moran bunted, and Bush made a wild throw to third base, Mann scoring on the throw.

Final Ssore—Boston, 5; Philadelphia, 4.

SAYS OWN DOG BIT HIM.

W. H. Cockburn, of Dunellen, whose bull pup engaged in a fight with a canine owned by John Rinehart, wishes the Daily Press to say that it was not his dog that bit Mr. Rinehart, but the latter's own dog. He says that both he and Mr. Rinehart were trying to separate the dogs at the time. The latter says that he is not sure which canine bit him.

TALK ON "CHINA."

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its first fall meeting in the chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Samuel Cochran will give a talk on "China." A cordial invitation is extended to all the women of the congregation to attend. Following the meeting tea will be served.

Early Italian Surgery.

Benvenuto Cellini (1500-1571) tells of early Italian surgery. He had got a bit of chipped steel in his eye, "so far into the pupil that it was impossible to get it out, so that I was in very great danger of losing that eye. But the surgeon came to the rescue with the pigeons. The surgeon, making me lie upon my back, with a little knife opened a vein in each of their wings, so that the blood ran into my eye, and I was thereby greatly relieved. In the space of two days the bit of steel issued from my eye, and I found that I had received considerable ease and in a great measure recovered my sight."

Where Poets Fail.

"Trouble 'bout these here poets," said the Georgia farmer, "none of 'em make good field hands. They won't plow for fear they'll hurt a wild flower, an' they won't swear at a mule for fear the animal's got a soul. But it's my public opinion that they're all afflicted with downright laziness!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The Eternal Marathon.

"Man," declared the old fashioned preacher, "is a worm."

"And," said a man who had been married three times and who was occupying a small space in a rear pew, "woman is the early bird."—Chicago Record-Herald.

On the Domestic Voltage.

"Wire you insulate?" the electrician's wife inquired when he made his appearance at 3 a. m. Whereupon he explained that he had become thirsty and had to make a short circuit.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

WILL RESUME THE SERVING OF LUNCHES

Nourishing Dishes to Be Given Pupils at the Bryant School.

The noon time lunches will be served again in the Bryant School commencing tomorrow noon. This announcement has been received with delight by the school pupils. Plans are being made for the inauguration of the noon lunches at the Lincoln School, and will be accomplished in the near future. This will be a big thing for the many children who reside in the outskirts of the East End during the winter months, as it will eliminate the necessity of traveling home for lunch during inclement weather.

The noon lunches at the Plainfield High School have proven a success far beyond the expectations of the Mothers' Association, which organization has the work in charge.

The Mothers' Association requests that all who promised contribution toward the noon lunches to mail checks to Mrs. H. D. Corbusier, 612 Park avenue. All contributions of jam, jelly and marmalade may be sent to the Bryant School at the convenience of contributors.

The committee in charge of the lunches received a substantial present this morning in the form of a dozen jars of cocoa sent by the Waneta Cocoa Company, of Boston, Mass. These large jars of cocoa will prove a substantial saving in the expense of the lunches for some time to come.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE MADE AGAINST BOY AUTOIST

Charged with violating the motor speed laws and with driving an automobile recklessly along South avenue, near Belvidere, yesterday afternoon, Samuel Mann, eighteen years old, of 120 West Fourth street, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and held in $100 bail for hearing Saturday. Mann, who has been driving an automobile but a short time, was arrested after hitting a small child and it is understood that the parties concerned are prepared to press the charges against the youth.

The postponement of the case was made at the request of the boy's counsel and the defendant was released after furnishing the necessary bonds.

FORMER BOROUGH TEACHERS GUESTS AT RECEPTION TODAY

Miss Eva Terry and Miss Bernice Attner, formerly teachers in the North Plainfield High School, were the guests at a luncheon and reception given in their honor this afternoon. Miss Terry was connected with the borough institution for many years. This year she went to Summit to take a position in the High School. Miss Attner was instructor in Latin last year and is now teaching in the Oranges.

There were about thirty of the students of the High School present at noon for lunch which was in charge of Miss Edna French and Miss Mary Robley, teachers in the borough school, and in the afternoon all those who cared to see the two visitors were welcomed and tea was served. The affair was very successful from every standpoint.

Y. M. C. A. HIKERS OUT ON HOLIDAY TRAMPS

Two large delegations of boys from two departments of the Y. M. C. A. left this morning on hikes under the direction of Mermans and Bingeman. The former took the boys from the Friday night class and Mr. Bingeman led the "Indians." The latter party went to Washington Rock and will return home this afternoon in time to take a swim.

All of the hikers took walking poles and carried their lunches on their backs. Camp fires were made at noon and camp lunches were enjoyed.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Union of the Reformed Church, Classis of Newark, will be held at the North Reformed church, Broad street, Newark, of which Rev. Charles H. Stewart, D. D., is pastor, Friday, October 30. Morning and afternoon sessions at 10:30 and 2:00 are to be held. Luncheon is to be served by the women of the church. The speakers will include Miss O. H. Lawrence, Miss Lucy Hunter, Mrs. James Beattie, Miss Tabor Knox, Miss Francisco and Miss Mabel B. Littell. Delegates from the missionary societies of the local churches will be present.

JACOB KRINEY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Jacob Kriney, aged 73 years, who died suddenly on Saturday while walking on Liberty street, near West Third, will be held at the late home on Clinton avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

GUY D. PECK ENTERTAINED FRIENDS ON BIRTHDAY

Guy D. Peck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Peck, of Park place, entertained about twelve of his friends at a party at his home, Saturday night, in honor of his eighteenth birthday anniversary. Dancing was the feature of the evening and all kinds of games were played. Late in the evening refreshments were served by the host's mother and festivities came to an end about midnight.

Those present were the Misses Flora Krausse, Mary Bennett, Naomi Wisch, Lois Peck, Iola Schenck and Gladys Street, of Brooklyn, and Attwood Giddings, Louis Bennett, Lorraine Giddes, Harold Noble, Thomas Fetherston, Harry Hainz, of Wilkesbarre, and Guy Peck, Jr.

BOYS SUSPECTED OF HAVING ROBBED LOCAL DRUG STORE

Charles Hankerson and Theodore Laing, two colored boys of the West End, were arraigned before Judge De Meza in the city court, this morning, and held in $100 bail for hearing Wednesday on charges of breaking and entering. The Red Cross drug store on West Fourth street was broken into Saturday night and $7.50 in cash besides a quantity of cigars, cigarettes and perfumes taken. The boys are suspected of having committed this deed and Chief Kiely requested that they be remanded, pending further investigation on the part of the police.

BOROUGH COURT NOTES.

Eugene Spencer, of Somerset street, was placed under arrest Saturday evening, for exceeding the speed limit on a motorcycle and was arraigned before Recorder Fred Hand, this morning. Sentence was suspended. Henry Bodenheimer, of Watchung, was also before the court this morning, for having attempted to use one of the borough thoroughfares as a sleeping place while in an intoxicated condition. Sentence in this case was also suspended.

LECTURE ON TOBACCO.

Dr. Joshua D. Junney, of Riverton, this State, will deliver an address on tobacco at the Friends' Meeting House, Sunday afternoon, October 25. The general public is invited to attend.

QUIETLY WEDDED BY NEWARK CLERGYMAN

Miss Ida May Viana Becomes the Bride of John M. Schneider.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Ida May Viana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Viana, of Somerset street, to John M. Schneider, of Asbury Park, came as a surprise to even the most intimate friends of the bride in this city when it was made known this morning. The couple were quietly wedded in Newark, yesterday afternoon, by the Rev. O. E. Braune, of the German Lutheran church, immediate relatives attending.

The bride was attired in a blue broadcloth traveling gown and was attended by her sister, Miss Rose Viana. The bridegroom was attended by Edward Shoner, of Newark. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Atlantic City where they will spend a short honeymoon and upon their return they will reside in Newark.

"WORKINGMEN AND THE CHURCH" HIS THEME

Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, has in preparation a serious of addresses to be delivered on the successive evenings, October 18 to November 15 inclusive. The general theme of this series will be "Working-men and the Church" and will be discussed under the following topics: October 18, "The Unrest of Men;" October 25, "Men and the Church;" November 1, "Men and Christ;" November 8, "Men and Human Brotherhood;" November 15, "Men and Personal Contact."

The addresses will discuss, in a popular way, questions that are in the minds of all thinking men, both within and outside of the church, and are given in the hope that they may contribute something to a better understanding between the church and the great number of men who never engage in the services of the church.

EVENING SCHOOLS WILL OPEN TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13

The Plainfield Evening Schools will open tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock. The sessions will all be held in the High School building at Arlington avenue and Ninth street. The students in the department of elementary work, in charge of Mrs. Wardner, will assemble in the gymnasium (in the basement). They should enter the building on the Arlington avenue side at the south entrance.

Pupils taking commercial and general courses should enter the building (new part) on the Park avenue side and report to room 245 for assignments. Pupils taking sewing, dressmaking and millinery should assemble in room 369. Those taking cooking should assemble in room 368. Those taking woodwork should assemble in room 28 (basement). Those taking mechanical drawing should assemble in room 340 (third floor, Arlington avenue side). Mechanical drawing students should bring all their drawing instruments and other equipment with them tomorrow night.

BAPTIZE INFANTS.

Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated at two baptisms at the morning service, yesterday, the infants being LeRoy Layton, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Layton, of Somerset street, and Winfield Charles Schomp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Schomp, of Lafayette place, this city.

A STATE PLAY SURVEY.

California is the first State to undertake a State-wide investigation of recreation. In the midst of the general, growing demand for more organized and supervised play, its recreational inquiry committee aapointed to survey and report with recommendations, the problems of recreation for both young and old, the study to cover rural communities as well as cities and towns, bids fair to have something to say which will be of interest and value to people outside as well as within the Golden State.

California has set the example for its sister commonwealths. It may be well to await the report of the commission there, after which other States will do their citizens, young and old, a most valuable service by authorizing a survey similar to the one in the Western State. Recreation has become at last a consideration in government circles. It is acknowledged that play—wholesome out-door exercise—concerns health, sanitation, industry, conservation of life, improvement of morals, religion, progress, prosperity and efficient citizenship. It deals with the country as well as with the welfare of the city.

Organized play receives great stimulus during a good part of the year in this country for the reason that the demand is the most imperative. Local agencies for recreation have been forced to rely largely upon private enterprise and public spirit. As a municipal enterprise, playgrounds are just beginning to come into their proper sphere of importance while city governments are giving more attention to park and parkway improvements. Now we find a great State giving attention to recreation. Surely the call to play is being heard; the voice of the city children is answered and the same answer is being asked by the rural boys and girls and by adults in urban and country sections.

The "rooting" fan at the ball game has developed into the fan who enjoys participation in sport, be it nothing more strenuous than playing croquet or sitting in the park. Local and State recreation surveys promise to prolong and conserve American life and more general surveys are a necessity.

The wonderful spirit being manifested by the Belgians in spite of almost insurmountable odds, has gained for them the admiration of the whole civilized world. And the defense they are putting up but emphasizes the fact that there is no better way in which Americans can demonstrate their admiration than by contributing to the relief fund being raised to help the suffering women and children. Send your contribution to the Daily Press, and it will be promptly forwarded to the proper authorities.

Too bad when France was placing that big order for war automobiles that some of the work could not have been given to the Saurer factory. Then Plainfield would feel some of the benefits which the prophets say will come to this country as a result of the war.

The Newark Star says that the only complaint that a Boston man had while detained in Germany by the war was because he had to eat so many sausages. Suppose the tables were turned and some poor German had to exist on beans!

The Senators having been photographed for the movies, the nation will wait until the pictures are thrown on the screen to see whether the members of the upper house were good actors, and did not keep their eyes on the camera.

Too many cooks may spoil the broth, as the old saying goes, but Philadelphians do not believe that there can be too many Bakers with the Athletics.

Hurrah! The war has had one good effect on the high cost of living. California prunes have gone down in price.

Stop long enough today to pay tribute to the man who first put this country on the map.

Have to stop now—the ball game has started.

CAPTAIN SMITH CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Second N. J. Cavalry Association Holds Its Reunion Here.

These officers were elected at the fifty-first anniversary meeting of the Second New Jersey Cavalry Association, which was held in Reform Hall, Saturday: President, William C. Smith, of this city; vice presidents, John H. Haid, of Newark; James D. Kemble, of Madison, and P. V. Z. Stryker, of Raritan; secretary-treasurer, A. S. Appleget, of Trenton; chaplain, S. B. Oakley, of Elizabeth.

S. B. Garretson, of Perth Amboy, department commander of the G. A. R., was elected an honorary member of the association. Many letters from absent members were read. The members of the association were guests, while in this city, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and at noon dinner was served by members of the Woman's Relief Corps, Mrs. Mary Kitchell being chairman of the committee in charge.

The Second New Jersey Cavalry was mustered into service on October 5, 1863, many of the members coming from this section of the State. The morning session was taken up most with routine, and after dinner, the business was concluded with the election of officers for the coming year.

N. J. SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION PLANS

Annual Session to Be Held in Newark November 17-19.

Plans for the fifty-sixth annual convention of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association, which will be held in Newark, November 17 to 19, next, are being completed by a committee of local workers, headed by Matthias J. Price as chairman. It is expected that this meeting, both in point of attendance as well as the adoption of methods designed to increase the efficiency of the religious schools, will surpass in importance any previous gatherings of the organization.

The theme of the convention is "With the Master Teacher." Sunday-school leaders of national prominence will discuss subordinate topics, all of which have a wide scope in relation to the work of the schools. The principal meetings will be held in the First Presbyterian church. In view of the fact that this edifice will not accommodate the throng expected to be present during the deliberations, simultaneous meetings will be held in other churches. Announcement of these will be made later.

Interest in the business matters to be considered by the delegates centres at present in the resuit of the annual election for State officers. President Edward W. Cooper, of South Orange, has, it is understood, made plain his desire to retire from that office. Mr. Cooper has served as president during the past three years. Aside from this change the present staff of officers will, it is anticipated, be re-elected without opposition to their present places. These officials are:

Secretary, Rev. Samuel D. Price, of Camden; treasurer, Edward W. Dunham, of Trenton; chairman of the executive committee, George E. Hall, of this city; chairman of finance committee, Arthur M. Harris, of this city; general secretary, Isaac B. Burgess, and grade superintendent, Miss Emily B. Hamblen.

Several features have been arranged by which it is hoped the convention will be long remembered in Newark. Among these are a series of five mammoth prayer meetings to be held in many sectoion of the city on Tuesday night following the initial session of the convention. Another feature will be the presence of a choir comprising over 300 voices under the direction of Grant Colfax Tullar and a public demonstration by the men of the Bible classes throughout the State. In this more than 5,000 will, it is expected, participate.

NEW JERSEY BAPTISTS TO CONVENE AT ATLANTIC CITY

Out of the meetings incident to the eighty-fifth anniversary of the New Jersey Baptist Convention, which will be held at Atlantic City, October 27, 28 and 29, is expected to come action strengthening the position of the church with regard to work among foreigners and in suburban communities and designating the policy to be pursued in relation to rural church problems and those of the seaside. The meetings which will be held at the First Baptist church will, it is expected, be attended by about 700 delegates.

During the sessions of the convention addresses on subjects dealing with every phase of church work will be delivered by Dr. Shailer Mathews, president of the Federation of Churches of Christ in America; Rev. Dr. Arthur T. Fowler, of Orange, Rev. Dr. D. H. Clare, of East Orange, and Rev. Dr. H. S. Potter, of Bloomfield, and other noted leaders.

The convention will close with a banquet on Wednesday night, October 29, at Hotel Chalfonte. At this the principal speech will be delivered by Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn. During the afternoon session on that day Mrs. Frank Goodchild, of New York, will speak on "The Gospel in the Street in Asia," during which she will recount some personal experiences.

Interest centres in the choice of the convention for president during the ensuing year. From what can be learned the present incumbent, F. W. Ayer, will be returned to that position with the unanimous vote of the delegates.

Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will speak at the mid-week prayer service on "Benefits of a Life Wholly Consecrated to God."

The official board of the First M. E. church will meet next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when matters of importance are to be discussed.

The executive committee of the Men's Club, of Hope chapel, is to meet Wednesday evening after the prayer service.

The Girls' Protective League is to meet at Hope chapel, Thursday evening of this week, at which time the gathering will be addressed by Miss Bliss, secretary of the New York League.

FRITZ EINKBEINER WEDS MISS ANNA RUHL

Miss Anna Ruhl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ruhl, of 116 West Front street, and Fritz Einkbeiner, of 201 West Front street, were quietly married at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, performed the ceremony at his home, 147 East Seventh street.

The couple were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cantuccy, of this city. After a trip the bride and groom will reside in Plainfield. Mr. Einkbeiner is employed here as a cake baker.

MAY MOVE FROM BAR HARBOR.

Washington, Oct. 12. While declining to make the statement officially it was intimated by State department officials today that Great Britain and France will raise no objections to the transfer to Boston of the big German liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie now interned at Bar Harbor, Maine. All the two governments will insist on is that the big vessel remain in that port until the end of the war, and that she will not be changed into a German war vessel. If she ventured her nose outside of Boston harbor, after being allowed to go there, a French or English warship would immediately sieze her.

SMALL BOYS ARRESTED.

James Peterson, George and Herrman Overland, small boys, were arrested by Patrolman McCarthy, Saturday night, as suspects. They were thought to have started a bonfire that burned twenty-five feet of new fence belonging to Mrs. Peter Peterson, of West Third street. The boys claimed that another youth did the work and they supplied the police with the name of this individual who will be arraigned Wednesday. Mrs. Peterson was represented in court by V. W. Nash, Jr., as counsel.

WILL RE-OPEN CLASSES.

Miss Margaret Florance will re-open her dancing classes in the Hartridge School Auditorium on West Seventh street tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Arrangements have been made for the Union Thanksgiving service to be held on Thursday morning, November 26, at 10:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach the sermon.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church; Rev. J. Y. Brock, of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, will assist in the service. There will be special music.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewin Smith, of Woodledge road, are rejoicing over the arrival of a girl.

Miss Clara Runyon, of Somerset street, spent the week-end with relatives at Whitehouse.

Mrs. C. W. Jordan and family, of Grandview avenue, have returned after spending the summer at Pine Lawn, L. I.

Mrs. Holes, of West Sixth street, has returned home after spending some time at Bethlehem, N. H.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, left today for Norfolk, Va., where they will spend a week.

S. C. Ryder, of Brooklyn, a former well-known resident of this city, is visiting his son, Edward Ryder, of Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Fairchild, of Brooklyn, were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue.

Robert Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Butler, of West Fifth street, is detained at home with a severe attack of tonsilitis.

All teachers are cordially invited to join this class, which will be under the leadership of William D. Murray, of this city. Mr. Murray has been a successful teacher for many years at Northfield, Silver Bay and in this city. He will follow a course of study originally outlined by Edwin E. Sex, containing all the essentials of effective Bible teaching.

The course is being used all over the country for similar purposes. At the first meeting this week Mr. Murray will discuss the subject, "What is Teaching?" The admission to this class will be free.

COST ROSELLE MAN $10 FOR DENYING CHARGES

It cost Russel Hager, of Roselle, $10 in the city court, this morning, for denials made against the testimony of four witnesses when he was arraigned before Judge DeMeza on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested at the North Avenue station at 7:45 Saturday night, in an intoxicated condition by Patrolman Muir.

When arraigned Hager denied that he was drunk or that he acted disorderly, although Patrolman Muir, Captain John Flynn and Clarence Martin, a station employe, made positive statements to this effect. The defendant intimated in court that the witnesses were not telling the truth, a fact that riled the court and brought about the liquidation of the $10 fine.

PLAINFIELD PARTY VISITS JAMESBURG

Local Delegation Was the Guests of Institution Head Saturday Afternoon.

A party of Plainfielders were guests at the New Jersey State Home for Boys at Jamesburg, Saturday afternoon, being conducted through the various buildings by the assistant superintendent. Several local boys are inmates of the institution and are among the 540 registered there at the present time.

The Jamesburg institution resembles a miniature city, comprising 700 acres of ground and many buildings of a substantial type dot that area. Included in the various branches of work which boys of all ages and nationalities are taught are milking, carpentry, masonry, baking, cooking, farming, shoe making, tailoring, bricklaying and butchery. Boys ranging in age from eight to sixteen are seen everywhere on the premises all busily engaged in work or play.

Noting the apparent freedom allowed the boys one of the Plainfield delegates inquired if it was not necessary to keep the boys "fenced in." The superintendent replied in the negative, informing the party that nothing was done to cut off the boys' avenue of escape. Few instances have been recorded in the annals of the institution where a youth has attempted to gain his freedom and in some of these few cases the culprit has returned to the home after a short absence, deciding that the treatment in the outside world did not equal that which he received at the State reservation.

Fruits of all kinds grow on the place and the boys raise several hundreds of bushels of potatoes of the finest quality annually. All of these are not needed to feed the boys in the home and what are left over are sold. This sale helps to defray the expense of operating the institution. Besides raising their own vegetables the boys raise their own cattle, pigs and poultry for meat. Hundreds of chickens, ducks and turkeys are raised annually and the revenue which these bring is large. A large herd of the finest calibre of cows and nearly one hundred pigs are kept on the premises, all being cared for by the boys. In a modern concrete stable, which was erected by the inmates, are housed twenty-nine thoroughbred horses which are used on the farm and for market work. Up-to-date equipment on the farm is operated by the boys who are instructed in the most modern farming methods. A miniature school of agriculture is conducted on the premises and youths who have a particular liking for this kind of work are instructed by competent directors.

The boys make all their own clothing and shoes, many of the inmates learning shoe making and tailoring during their term at the institution. Excellent pies and pastry of all kinds was being cooked by the boy chefs Saturday afternoon and butter and cheese was being made in the dairy.

On various parts of the 700 acres are laid out football fields and baseball diamonds and many of the boys were engaged in recreative games of one kind or another. All appeared to be enjoying the freedom allotted them and all wore happy smiles on their countenances. The home is far from being a prison house of correction, which so many people take it to be. It is little less than a training school for backward pupils and a majority of the inmates are far better off at Jamesburg than they are in their own home towns. Here they receive nourishment and care that stands out in marked contract to what a majority get at home. The watchful eye of a guard is missing. The boys are free to do what they choose and knowing this none of them stray far from the righteous faith.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The story of "Kitty MacKay," the celebrated and clever comedy which ran one entire year in New York and is to appear here at the Plainfield Theatre, tonight, has to do with a quick-witted and winsome Scottish Cinderella. This young person with her vivid imagination and ready tongue is taken from her life of drudgery with the drunken MacNabs and transported by the fairy Prince to London. What happens to her there is too complicated and funny to be described here. "Kitty" has her trials and tribulations as well, but the play must be seen to have them appreciated. The company to be seen here is an excellent one, the cast containing many names familiar to local theatre patrons. The organization is under the direction of that popular young producing manager, William Elliott, and the play is by Catherine Chisholm Cushing.

Miss Edith Storey, who plays Glory Quayle in the Vitagraph-Liebler moving picture film of Hall Caine's "The Christian," started on the stage when she was eight years old and since then has divided her time between school, the stage and moving pictures. She has played in "The Little Princess" and "Rip Van Winkle;" was in the original cast of "Mrs. Wigs of the Cabbage Patch," in which she appeared for several years. The last part she played was Emma Jane in "Rebecca of Sunnybrooke Farm;" she has been with the Vitagraph Company for several years, during that time with Melies for nine months, as a feature in western drama, returning to the Vitagraph Players about three years ago. Miss Storey has a delightful personality that is most winning. She is very modest and charmingly natural and affable. A real girl, with a genuinely sincere and frank character. This picture will be shown at the Plainfield Theare, Wednesday and Thursday, matinee and night.

Tomorrow in New York—at Wanamaker's

This Is The Great Week of Silks and Velvets

An Exceptional Sale Arising from War Conditions Which Force Manufacturers and Importers to Finance with their Merchandise

Beginning Tomorrow in the Silk Rotunda, Main Aisle, Main Floor and on the Subway Floor, Old Building

It is a silk sale of the unique Wanamaker kind.

A sale of choice fashionable silks and velvets—imported and domestic—at the prices of less desirable weaves.

A sale caused by the turmoil abroad which has closed practically every European silk mill, shutting the world out, for a time, from all the delightful novelties of Lyons.

Silk conditions in America must largely be readjusted to meet this unprecedented situation.

In place of weaving only 87 per cent. of the silks used in this country, there is every prospect that for at least six months longer America alone must practically supply the world with silks.

Our silk manufacturers are preparing to do this.

They are laying in stores of raw silk—to forestall the rise in price.

Their chemists are experimenting with dyes.

Their designers are working out new patterns and weaves.

Many are planning to double their output for spring.

To do all this requires a great deal of ready money.

To secure funds at once the simplest way is to take quantities of their best merchandise, the most readily sold kinds—and offer them to the public at a price which will dispose of them at once.

So we have the privilege of offering small and large lots of fine silks at prices much to the advantage of our customers.

Exquisite velvets, fresh from Lyons — model designs made for the great French dressmakers.

Brocades as wonderful as any told of in the Arabian Nights — sometimes only a single piece of a kind.

White brocades and satins, such as have made wedding gowns almost ever since wedding gowns were made of white.

Black silks in as many as 243 actually counted kinds—black silks for Christmas gifts to mother and grandmother.

Plain silks and satins in literally hundreds of colors—the greens and yellows, orchid pinks and blues that everybody wants and which are not easy to find.

Novelty silks — the printed designs from France and England which will soon grow so scarce that they cannot be had at any price.

These are some of the silks that have come to us from importers, from manufacturers with agencies in Europe, and from manufacturers with all their interests in America.

They have been added to our own oddments from stocks—dress length, in incomplete assortments of colors which cannot be duplicated because they are foreign.

Some 200,000 yards in all.

Note*—Because of the great variety and to facilitate choice, the silks have been arranged mostly in dress lengths—3, 4, 5, 7, 8 yards and lesser patterns, but if the quantity you wish cannot be had in a pattern in most cases one will be cut to the yardage desired.

Group I

French Novelty Velvets $3.85 Yard

Qualities such as we sell at $6.50 to $12.50 yard—some duplicates from our stock and reduced to meet this price.

Paris model velvets in tiger stripes, French plaids, plain stripes, printed backgrounds, casting a reflection on plain surface, crepe and diagonal stripes, imperceptible corded stripes and plain weaves. Twenty-three patterns and colors. Double width.

Group II

Black Imported Chiffon Velvet $3.25 Yard

Formerly here at $5, $6.50, $7 yard

Remarkable purchase of fifty full pieces of this much-wanted black velvet, double width.

Owing to the scarcity of these rich qualities we give fair warning to our customers, retail and wholesale, that this price holds good by the yard or piece and that we cannot guarantee delivery after the first day's sale.

Group III

All Silk Gabardine $1.68 Yard

Far Below the Cost of Manufacture

Wonderful color combinations and black in heavy ribbed all silk suitings, which when trimmed with furs will make costumes that Paris might be proud to own. Nine colors, 36 inches wide.

Group IV

Impoted Novelty Silks $5.50 Yard

Formerly here at $8.50 to $30 yard

Metal brocades, printed chiffons, printed satin, brocaded charmeuse, brocaded velours and other exquisite tissues for formal purposes. 1½ to 5 yard lengths.

Note—More of this class of beautiful fabrics has been sold this season than ever before and the supply in this country is limited.

Group V

Plain Silks and Satins

(Arranged in dress lengths)

58c, 95c yard and upwards

Charmeuse, formerly $2.50 to $4, now $1.35 to $2.45 yard.

Taffeta, American and Swiss, formerly $1.50 to $3, now 95c to $1.85 yard.

Faille, cotele, bengaline and poplins, formerly $1.50 to $4.50, now 95c to $2.85 yard.

Note—More than five hundred shades in these exceedingly desirable plain silks.

Group VI

5,000 Yds., "Silk Piece ends" 95c to $3.85

Formerly here at $1.50 to $8.50 Yard

Plaids, warp printed poult de soie, printed crepes, Swiss broche de caine, metal trimmings linings brocades, moire Pekin, velours and crepes. Lengths from 2 to 8 yards.

Group VII

Novelty Silks $3.45 Yard

Dress Lengths Taken from Stock —Formerly $5.50 to $12.50 Yard

Imported and domestic silks for formal and informal purposes. Modern art prints, charming white moire and brocades, printed fleur de sole, Poiret and Martine novelties, English printed crepe, printed moire, brocaded satin, and some of the most lovely plain taffetas in our stock.

Group VIII

Black Silks

at the following very special prices

68c, 95c, $1.35 yard and upwards

Black satin duchesse, satin imperial, satin Ritz, satin America, satin de chine, satin majestic, satin liberty; 36 to 54 inches wide; formerly $1.25 to $7 yard, now 68c to $2.85 yard.

Black charmeuse crepe, satin charmeuse, liberty charmeuse, suede charmeuse, charmeuse de deuil; 40 to 44 inches wide; formerly $2.50 to $6, now $1.45 to $3.45 yard.

Black faille bengaline, and other corded silks, 36 to 40 inches wide, formerly $2 to $6.50, now $1.45 to $3.85 yard.

Black moire and brocade, formerly $1.50 to $15, now 95c to $5.50 yard.

1,500 yards black satins for wraps and gowns, 54 inches wide, until now $3.50 yard, will be Tuesday, $1.95 yard.

1,500 yards satin Duchesse, 54 inches wide, until now $5 yard, will be Tuesday, $2.50 yard.

THE JOHN WANAMAKER STORE

275TH ANNIVERSARY.

Quincy, Mass., Oct. 12.—The historic old First Congregational (Unitarian) church, of this city, today concluded a notable celebration in honor of the 275th anniversary of its organization. Beneath the walls of this ancient edifice repose the bodies of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams and their wives. The First church was the first religious body organized in the old town of Braintree, of which Quincy was then a part. The movement which resulted in the organization of a church was started in November, 1636, and the First church building was completed in the following February. The present structure dates from 1828.

LAWYERS GATHER IN RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., Oct. 12—Leaders of the bench and bar throughout the United States, together with a number of eminent Canadian jurists, are gathering in this city in anticipation of the fortieth annual convention of the American Bar Association. Committees in charge of the arrangements for the convention met today and completed the final details of their work. Tomorrow there will be meetings of the Trust Company, Savings Bank, Clearing House and other sections. The general sessions of the association will occupy Wednesday and Thursday.

ELECTRIC RY. MEN IN SESSION.

Atlantic City, Oct. 12—Atlantic City is to entertain this week the annual convention of the American Electric Railway Association, the membership of which embraces the executive and operating officials of leading electrical railway companies throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. The convention will devote a considerable part of its time to the work of formulating a platform, setting forth the principles governing and readjustment of the present relations existing between the public and the utility companies serving it.

ALABAMA STATE EXPOSITION.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 12—From nearly all of the States of the South former Alabamians are gathering in the capital for the home-coming week which began today in conjunction with the Alabama State Exposition. With an unusually large attendance already assured the State Fair this year promises to eclipse all former exhibitions of its kind held in Alabama. The numerous buildings and pavilions are filled to overflowing with choice exhibits illustrating the resources and industries of the State. A race program and numerous features of entertainment have been provided by the management.

COMMUNION AT HOPE CHAPEL.

Holy Communion and the reception of new members was observed last evening at Hope chapel, two members being added to the church roll. Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor, was in charge.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

CHAT AND DOPE BASE BALL

By MAC

We are led to believe that the Boston Braves will come in for one monster round of applause when they stroll upon the field at the Hub this afternoon. The Beantown fans are going crazy over their favorites' tactics in the world's series and the whole town was turned over to Stallings and his charges when they arrived yesterday morning. Every player on the team is confident that no return to the City of Culture will be necessary inasmuch as they expect to trim the Phillies in two straight engagements at Boston. Connie Mack and his players, however, are of a decidedly different opinion and they contend that Stallings has played his big aces and it will be an easy matter evening up the series.

In the loss of Charley Brickley Harvard loses the main cog in its scoring machine. Twice in succession Brickley's toe has been the downfall of Yale and he was relied upon as the bulwark of defense in this year's engagement. Without Brickley the Harvard team is like a cart without a horse, his all-around ability having been a conspicuous factor in every branch of Crimson athletics since his entrance into the school. His return to the gridiron this season has been predicted but those who know have shaken their heads dubiously and claim there is but slim chance of his being in condition for even the final game.

Those twenty-two football players who chased the pigskin on Cricket Field Saturday afternoon became so heated up over the outcome of the world's series contest that they carried their grievances to the football arena. Scraps were more frequent than plays at the Holy Cross-Glenmore contest, but nevertheless the followers of the sport had plenty of opportunity to give vent to their inward feelings.

"Artie" Sheridan, the wiry little captain of the Glenmores and erstwhile welter weight champion pugilist, proved a favorite with the side line frequenters Saturday. His accurate booting of field goals before the contest began was an attraction in itself and when he booted the oval over the bars for the three point winning count he completed the afternoon's program, this being the thing the followers of the pastime had been looking forward to all the afternoon.

Manager "Doc" Doyle, of the Holy Cross team, is authority for the statement that Sheridan chalked up fourteen out of twenty attempts at field goals last season and this statement comes pretty nearly being correct if his toe-mark of Saturday is to be taken as a criterion.

After an idle week the Plainfield High School gridiron warriors are scheduled to get into the fray again this afternoon. Less practising and more actual playing would probably be a great deal more satisfactory to the staunch followers of the red and blue. Although the season is at its heighth but one contest has been decided.

Football experts, in pre-season statements, said that the revised rules, instead of giving the smaller colleges a better show against the larger ones as intended, would tend to make the bigger teams' chances of winning easier. Saturday's college scores, however, refute this statement. Harvard had a desperate time winning; Princeton was tried to the utmost by Syracuse; Yale and Dartmouth were behind in the first halves of their respective games; the Army found Rutgers hard; the Navy was beaten, and Lafayette held Penn scoreless. Not so bad for the minor institutions, at that.

Jack Fritts and Ralph Runyon continue to garner laurels for the Queen City. The Plainfield athletes' efforts were largely responsible for the Pastime A. C. victory in the Small Clubs' meet Saturday afternoon.

A general survey of the first two days of the 1914 world's series shows that interest in the national pastime is just as great as it ever was, but that loyalty to Conne Mack's monarchs of baseball is not so strong. The Phillies have lost two games by rotten playing and the fans in Philadelphia are sore clean through. The Athletics have been losing ground with Quakertown fans all season. Unless they win this season all indications point to a total loss of prestige. Philadelphia fans are the kind that can't bear to see their city placed second to any and they want victory in this big series and nothing else.

What will probably be the farewell game of the season was played at Parker Field Saturday afternoon. Some few days ago the Saurers and Royal Giants were talking baseball, but the enthusiasm for a series between these rivals appears to have faded away. We are contented to hail the Saurer squad as city champions this season so why burden us with any more listless baseball at a time when sporting blood should be flowing in the direction of the football gridiron.

In the 1911 world's series Eddie Plank fanned Josh Devore four times in succession. Not content with pitching one of the greatest of all world's series games, "Smiling" Bill James had to go to work and tie the individual laurels of Josh. Bill furnished 66 2-3 per cent of Eddie Plank's strikeout victims.

The Washington, N. J., baseball team cost $5,709.68, of which $3,131.95 went for players' salaries. Gate profits and guarantees amounted to $3,551.95, or $2,157.73 less than the season's expenses. The balance was made up by subscriptions and the team has $117.23 left over in addition to uniforms and paraphernalia. Some minor league magnates ought to look over this Warren county system.

WITH THE BOXERS

Hudson, Wis., promoters have offered Mike Gibbons $4,000 to meet Jimmy Clabby.

Tom O'Rourke says the all-star 10-round bouts have done the game a lot of harm in New York.

Adrian Hegan, one of the best middleweights in France, was seriously wounded in the battle at Mons.

Colin Bell, the Australian heavyweight, is a sterling track athlete and also a fine bike rider.

Jack McGuigan, of Philadelphia, is reported as having been selected as referee for the Langford-Smith bout in Boston on October 20.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Ballou, a former Penn State and Princeton football player, is now making a bid for a place at quarter on the Pennsylvania team.

Dr. Harry Williams, the Minnesota coach, has the lightest team he has ever brought out at Minneapolis.

Syracuse University football players will be numbered this year, each player carrying the same number throughout the campaign.

Though he has but two veterans on his Michigan team, Coach Yost is confident of developing an eleven capable of defeating Harvard.

JUST A CHANCE BRICKLEY MAY PLAY AGAINST YALE.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 12.—Captain Charles E. Brickley, of the Harvard football team, was stricken with appendicitis Saturday and was operated upon immediately. Dr. E. H. Nichols, of Boston, who performed the operation, said Saturday night that his patient was doing well. To the anxious inquiry of Coach Haughton, of the Crimson football squad, Dr. Nicholls said there was just a chance that the crack player might be in condition to play against Yale at New Haven, November 21.

TO DINE BASEBALL CHIEFS.

Boston, Oct. 12—The Boston Chamber of Commerce will have a "Baseball Day" of its own tomorrow, when the fourth game of the world's series is played in this city. The National Baseball Commission will be given a lunch in the chamber at the American House in the early afternoon. The commission includes Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, president of the National League; Ban B. Johnson, of Chicago, president of the American League, and August Herrmann, of Cincinnati. Short speeches will be in order and the distinguished guests will be "let out" in time to get out to the game.

STALLING NOW HAS "A COUPLE ACES IN THE BIG SERIES HOLE"

Mack's Wonderful Machine Has Cracked While the Boston Pitchers Continue to Puzzle Their Opponents—Confidence the Keynote of Big Reversal in Dope—Charlie Deal Redeemed Himself After Some "Bush League" Tactics—Athletics Expect to Even up Series by Superhuman Playing.

By JACK MARTIN
Shortstop Philadelphia National League Baseball Club.

Outbatted, outfielded, outpitched and outgeneraled, the famous Mack machine took a second tumble Saturday afternoon at Shibe Park and after eight rounds of "punchless" battling relinquished one more step in the ladder that mounts toward the 1914 world's gonfalon to the battling Boston Braves. One run in the farewell inning summarized the defeat and culminated one of the most thrilling world's series contests ever staged.

The staunchest followers of the Athletics are now beginning to realize what I predicted from the start—that the defeat of the Mack squad is inevitable. In order to even up the score with Stallings' infants the six times champions will have to play the leading role in a wonderful uphill fight and the form displayed to date would make this fact little short of miraculous.

Confidence has been the keynote of the Braves' success. The McGillicudy veterans have appeared as weaklings, before some of the greatest pitching that ever marked a world's series. Rudolph went to the mound with supreme confidence Friday. He though of nothing but victory and had the Phillies lunging wildly at his slants. Saturday afternoon but twenty-eight men faced James, but two gathered safe hits and eight were fanned.

Friday afternoon the Athletics got the "breaks." Saturday the Boston team had a big corner on the horseshoe stuff. In both cases the Beantown aggregation came out on top of the heap. Those who place faith in the psychology of baseball say that the Braves are ticketed to win the series and I am a member of the latter club of believers. Stallings has a "hunch" and the series is as good as won now.

One little floating swat from the bat wielded by J. Leslie Mann sent Charlie Deal across the plate in the ninth inning Saturday afternoon with the only score made in the second game. Deal had a minute before registered a twin cushion swat. Fleet Amos Strunk, drawn off his guard by Deal's hitherto weak performances at the bat, misjudged the clout and the bingle soared over his head to the flagpole. This was the turning point of one of the most soul-stirring, nerve-racking contests ever played in a world's series.

Flushed with the taste of a double victory the Bostons are prepared to cop four in a row. Can they do it? The throne of the Athletics, the monarchs of baseball, has been caused to totter and shake and in my opinion it is due to fall with a thud.

To date this series has given neither manager a chance to display anything extraordinary in baseball. It has been a case of pitchers, pure and simple. Each one of the hurlers who has adorned the mound has been subjected to some nerve-racking treatment. How long will their mental and physical strength carry them? The question remains unsolved. Actual playing will develop the answer and the wiseacres' dope will probably get its usual jolts.

In scanning the result of Saturday's conflict we pause to note two of the most wonderful plays ever pulled off in a title clash. Charlies Deal was the central figure in both of these plays. One of the instances came to light when the fleet little third sacker was caught off of second, stole third and the other came when he was caught off of the initial hassack and made the mid-station successfully. The pilfering of two sacks in this manner was little short of miraculous. It was something that has never before been accomplished by a world's series eligible and Deal deserves all the credit that can be pushed in his direction for his little bit of spectacular work. Philadelphia players will do well to keep an eagle eye on Deal during the remainder of the contests. He is one of the men I picked to shine in the series and I think that he has now started on the right path. I expect to see the Braves cop four in a row. The Athletics have been brought to realize that they have not got the Giants to battle against in this series and it looks as though the world's title flag was once more to be raised to the top of the heap by a National League outfit. The Athletics have had their work cut out for them because of the simple reason that the word "fight" has been instilled in every one of Stallings' performers. I once more call the fans' attention to the work of "Rabbit" Maranville, the peer, as well as the youngster, of shortstops in the big game today. He has been the main figure in the first pair of contests and some more good work will be forthcoming from his territory in the remaining contests.

WESTFIELD BIRD WINS RACE FROM VIRGINIA

The third and last race of the young bird series under the auspices of the Plainfield Homing Pigeon Club was flown on Saturday from Manassas, Va., a distance of 200 miles. The birds were liberated at 8 o'clock in the morning, with clear weather and no wind. At home the weather was clear and the wind southwest. This was considered the best race of the series. F. C. Brunner's bird won the race, covering the distance in 1268.72 yards per minute. The average diploma was given to F. Rydzinski, whose bird made 1163.16 yards per minute. The birds finished as follows:

F. C. Brunner, Westfield, 1268.72 yards per minute; F. Rydziniski, Roselle Park, 1264.69; W. M. Lambert, Westfield, 1251.50; J. D. Carberry, Westfield, 1201.60; J. Fischer, Westfield, 1199.89; R. S. Parsons, Plainfield, 1189.51.

"HUB" PLAYED AGAIN.

"Hub" Stine got into the game with the Springfield team, Saturday, against Holy Cross College, and played the entire game at guard. The Massachusetts team won by a score of 25 to 0, although they had a tough proposition. Next week the team plays Williams and expect a hard battle.

FIELD GOAL BEAT LOCAL WARRIORS

Beautiful Three Point Counter in the Final Minutes of Play Did the Trick.

SOME HARD FIGHTING

Both Teams Fought Tooth and Nail for Every Advantage—Plainfield Performers Were Outweighed by Speedy Rivals.

After holding their strong opponents down for three periods and for three-quarters of the last, the Holy Cross football team was forced to take defeat when, in the last two minutes of play, a drop kick went sailing over the goal which they were defending. The kick was the third that the visitors had tried, the first two proving dismal failures. A large crowd was present to witness the match and, although the home team played a loose game at times it was interesting throughout, as both teams made long gains and the ball soared back and forth over the center line for three periods.

Holy Cross was slightly outweighed and the surplus weight told at times in center bucks. The fullback for the Glenmores was a giant beside Wilson and it was his fine playing and kicking that won the game. The Brooklynites were fast in every department and in some plays their interference was perfect and long end runs resulted in big gains for first downs before the local men could get in. Many forward passes were used and the visitors made some fine gains although many were spoiled by interference on the part of the home players.

The Glenmores began by kicking off to Holy Cross, who chose to defend the south goal and ran the ball half way to the center after the opposing fullback had made a beautiful kick to the corner of the field. With several quick plays Holy Cross worked the ball over the middle line, but Coyle punted, which gave the opposition the pigskin. The Glenmores started on the first play to use the forward pass and on a beautiful pass by the quarterback made a long gain which immediately put the locals on their guard for any more of the same kind of tactics. The line of the visitors was very strong and held its own at all times which allowed the quarterback to hold the ball for a long time and look over the situation before delivering it to an uncovered man. Holy Cross got the ball once more before the period ended and the ball was changed to the other end of the field. The backs of the visitors always hit the line hard and after making several gains in this way the signal man would suddenly switch off to a forward pass that would go for a long gain. The ball was in the center of the field when the first half was called.

Several new men were put in on both teams at the start of the third quarter and the Glenmores neared their opponents' goal, but could not score. In the third period arguments slowed up the game and both teams were penalized. While steadily working their way to the south goal the visitors were aided considerably when the broughites were penalized fifteen yards. An end run put them directly in front of the goal and a drop kick was tried, but the ball did not rise ten feet off the ground and Coyle fell on it. After a few rushes the quarter was called. Both teams played hard in the last and in the final few minutes, which seemed like a few seconds, the giant plunger of the visitors sent the ball between the uprights for three points.

The lineups of the teams:

OLD-TIMERS HAD A GALA SESSION

Jack Martin Batted 1,000 in Contest Against the Pets.

CLINTON NINE WON

Some Erratic Fielding in Evidence, But Good Sticking Overshadows These Defects—Dick Schott Twirled the Final Rounds.

The veteran Clinton Avenue baseball team still appears to have championship material in it as the Pets were outclassed in the game at Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, when the men who played ball seven years ago defeated the present ballists by the score of 8 to 3. After the first inning, when the Clinton Avenues made three runs and blanked their opponents, the result of the battle was never in doubt. Both teams played loosely and seven errors were counted up. It must be said that Plainfield's "finest" was one who shared these, but then Jack Martin was not playing with the big men, Saturday, and at that he made up for his errors by hitting the ball so hard twice that the fielders could not touch it until it had stopped and by that time Jack was on the bench.

All of the old men that were advertised were present except Warry McLaughlin and his place in center field was filled by Tommy Mullin. In the first inning Mathews was hit hard and one of these circuit clouts accounted for the runs. The ball went through the pitchers' box so fast it wasn't seen until Dorman just got out of the way of it in time to escape being hit and the ball continued till it rolled beneath the goal post in center field. Plainfield's first tallies came in the third after their opponents had added another run to their three. P. Harney relieved Mathews about this time and the visitors were blanked for two innings. In the sixth frame each team scored one with the Pets still two behind. The seventh session proved lucky for the Clinton Avenues and equally unlucky for the Pets, when Jack poled out a long fly to left field which was scored as a homer.

After the game was won Randolph gave way to Dick Schott, the promising young Hope pitcher and he held his opponents scoreless till the finish. Out of four trips to the plate the Philly leagger hit safely three times and was credited with a sacrifice hit, which gives him a perfect batting average for the day. He also made three runs, three putouts and two assists together with three errors.

FINAL DETAILS FOR ELKS' NEW LEAGUE

Junior Organization to Get Under Way November 16—Prizes Announced.

Arrangements for the Elks' junior bowling league were completed at a meeting held in the Newark clubhouse, yesterday afternoon, enthusiasm over the infant organization being shown in every quarter. The six teams that have taken franchises in the league have completed their plans for entering and the personnel of each quintet gives evidence of being a formidable one. Those included in the schedule now being drawn up by Secretary V. W. Nash, Jr., of this city, are Newark, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Paterson, Jersey City and Plainfield. All of the clubs were represented by delegates at yesterday's meeting and the first games will be rolled November 16, according to the secretary's announcement.

Lewis Miller, a member of the Elizabeth Elks club, has donated a solid silver loving cup as a team prize. This trophy will become the permanent property of the club winning the league title three years. The "legs" on the cup do not necessarily have to be annexed successively but the aggregation registering three wins first will come into possession of it. The withdrawal of the New York team necessitated a new split in the prize money, the revised list now being: First, $35; second, $20; third, $15. The first individual prize will be $10, the second $6 and the third $4. The league will give a silver loving cup for the high team average and a prize of $5 for the highest individual score made during the season. The sum of $50 was set aside for the purchase of prizes for highest individual bowlers on each of the six teams. President Alexander Hinton, of Newark, presided at yesterday afternoon's meeting.

J. A. WILSON MAKES BEST NET SCORE

Returns a 76 Net in Competition at the Park Golf Club.

J. A. Wilson returned the best net score in the weekly competition for the President and Oakmount Cups at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, it being a 76. Oliver B. Hill finished second with an 82, and H. E. Blazier was third with an 83, while Charles B. Morse posted a net score of 84. The leading scores were as follows:

J. A. Wilson, 89, 13-76; Oliver B. Hill, 100, 18-82; H. E. Blazier, 89, 6-83; Charles B. Morse, 96, 12-84; J. V. Beekman, 103, 17-86; J. H. Hillman, 105, 19-86; Royle T. Phillips, 95, 7-88; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 93, 5-88; Clarence J. Hand, 102, 12-90.

WESTFIELD SCHOOLBOYS PILE UP A BIG SCORE

Westfield, Oct. 12.—After piling up 53 points against South Orange a few weeks ago, the Westfield High School reaped further laurels Saturday, by swamping the Pingry School football team, 42 to 0. Randall and Crittenden scored two touchdowns a piece, and Carberry and Marenelio one each. Carberry's brilliant playing was one of the game's features.

RUNYON AND FRITTS BOTH SECURE PLACES

Local Athletes Score a First and a Fourth in Small Club's Festival.

The Pastime A. C. is well termed the Nursery of Athletes. That the old little club still deserves the distinct appellation as much as it did in the days of yore was demonstrated Saturday afternoon at Washington Park, in Brooklyn, when the Brazilian Cross topped the rest in the first annual track and field championships of the big legion known as the "small clubs" of the metropolitan district.

In leading twenty-one other clubs in the scoring, the Pastime A. C. earned the right to consideration as the third best organization in this neck of the woods, as far as all around excellence is concerned. Both the New York A. C. and the Irish-American A. C. were barred from the meet. There were few who conceded the Pastimes the position to which they showed themselves entitled, and their well-balanced team was a revelation to the other clubs.

On the winning club were Ralph Runyon, a Plainfield High School athlete, and Jack Fritts, one of Plainfield's finest. Runyon specializes in the pole vault but because this event was omitted from the program he entered the high jump. Runyon managed to come in fourth in this leap, clearing the bar at 5 feet, 6 inches. It was won with a leap of 5 feet, 9 inches.

Fritts managed to land first place in the javeline throw, an event for which he had not been training; Jack has been working out on the Parker Field track for the half mile in the Saturday meet but found the going too fast and failed to place. In the javeline throw he came out ahead by over two feet, hurling the spear 157 feet, 6 inches.

KIELY LEADS KNIGHTS IN ONE-MAN TOURNEY

Blatz But Twelve Pins Behind the Leader and Duffey is a Close Third.

Chief Kiely tops the Knights of Columbus one-man tourney bowlers in the official averages issued today for the first eighteen games. Kiely leads in high score and high individual average. Frank Blatz, club mate of Kiely's on the Elks' team, is second in these two departments and John Duffey runs a close third in both. Blatz is right behind Kiely, the leader being in front by the slim margin of twelve pins.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Temple Sholem will hold its annual meeting at its place of worship on Grove street this evening. Trustees for the ensuing year will be elected, and the reports of the officers will be read. Among the items of special interest to be taken up is the securing of permanent quarters for the congregation. Two courses are open to the organization at this time, either rent another building, or the erection of a new edifice for the future use of that body.

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

Every observer of fashions knows that when skirts become elaborate bodices become plain.

This season we shall see a great many blouses of this sort made of silk, soft satin and materials of the sort to be worn with tailored suits.

There is no fullness whatsoever; consequently the material appears at its best. The neck is just moderately open, with a pretty rolling collar, and this collar can be of the same or of a contrasting material.

The plain set in sleeves that extend to the wrists are the preferred ones.

For the medium size the blouse will require three and three-quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with one-half yard twenty-seven inches wide for the collar and cuffs.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8379, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

NICE GERMAN CAKES.

THE German housewife has a knack at making nice cakes of the kind that go deliciously with the afternoon coffee. Here are few recipes of that kind:

Raised With Yeast.

Sweet Kuchen.—Take two and one-half quarts of flour, two tablespoonfuls of salt, a cake and one-half of yeast, two eggs, two cupfuls sweet milk, one cupful sugar, three-quarters cupful of butter, a nutmeg, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of vanilla and one package of seeded raisins. At night dissolve one cake of yeast in half a cupful of lukewarm water. Mix with enough of the flour to make a smooth, creamy batter. Cover, put in a warm place and let rise all night. In the morning dissolve the other half yeast cake in a little warm water and add to first mixture. Scald milk and let it become lukewarm. Add to it the yeast mixture. Beat the eggs thoroughly, add sugar, melted butter, salt, a little grated nutmeg and the vanilla. Stir until thoroughly blended. Dust the raisins with flour and add to above mixture. Now sift in the flour, mixing it exactly as if for bread dough. Put in a warm place, cover well and let rise until bulk is doubled. This takes from three to four hours. Knead, mold into two loaves, put in greased bread pans and again let it double its bulk. Place in a very slow oven and bake for one and one-quarter or one and one-half hours. When crust is nicely formed cover with paper to keep from burning.

Combination Cakes.

Nut Cakes.—To make this use above recipe, taking more eggs if desired richer. Add besides the raisins, chopped nuts and chopped citron, also lemon peel. Mix, let rise and bake as above.

Dainty Stollen.—Use plain kuchen recipe. When dough is risen and ready to mold into loaves butter the top, fold over like a roll and sprinkle the top with sugar. Raise and bake same as plain kuchen.

German French Cake.—Separate two eggs, beat yolks, add a cupful of milk, a tablespoonful of melted butter, a quarter teaspoonful of salt and one and one-half cupfuls of flour. Beat thoroughly, add two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, beat again and fold in the well beaten whites of eggs. Pour this into a shallow baking pan, cover the top with halves of pared peaches, dust with a half cupful of sugar and bake in a moderately quick oven a half hour. Serve warm, with milk or cream.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Dollies That Played Army Nurse.

"We are all going to war," he said.

"DADDY, all my dollies want to go to war," said Evelyn gravely as she and Jack snuggled down beside daddy for the evening story.

"Well, let's send them as army nurses," said daddy.

"In a story?" asked Jack.

"Why, of course," replied daddy; "that is the only way we can send them."

"We'll send out a message to all the dollies in town and they will be here in just about ten minutes, because, you see, each dolly will be so eager to go that they will come right away on each one's tiny wishing rug."

"Why, how do you do, dollies? You got here even quicker than I thought." Daddy and Jack and Evelyn looked into the smiling faces of rows and rows and rows of dollies, all grouped about the living room. One dolly, a boy dolly with rows of buttons down his coat, came over and stood in front of daddy and Evelyn and Jack.

"We are all going to war," he said in a little piping voice, and I am the doctor in charge. We must get a ship and an outfit which includes medicines, bandages, uniforms, lints and gauzes."

"You want a heap of things, don't you?" asked daddy smilingly.

"Yes," said the little dolly doctor, "and you and Jack and Evelyn must help me."

"You tell us what to do and we will do it," replied daddy without the flicker of an eyelid.

"Well, in the first place, Jack must give us his Noah's ark. We certainly can't get along without it," said the little dolly doctor firmly.

"What else of mine do you want?" asked Jack.

"Nothing of yours, but Evelyn must give us all the dolly's clothing she has, and then she must form a sewing society to make heaps and heaps more."

All the girl dollies who were going to be Red Cross nurses giggled because they each knew that Evelyn didn't like to sew.

"You're asking more of me than you did of Jack!" cried Evelyn.

"Oh, no, I'm not," corrected Dolly Doctor, "because I'm going to take Jack with me. He'll be fine and strong to help carry stretchers."

Just then a queer thing happened. Daddy shook first one kiddie and then the other very briskly, and they both sat up and rubbed their eyes.

"Why, kiddies, we must all have been dreaming," said daddy, rubbing his own eyes, too, and staring about the living room.

"About the Noah's ark?" asked Jack excitedly. "And the dolly's clothes?" cried Evelyn. And daddy didn't say a thing. He had lost track of the story somewhere in the land of Nod, which is very close to the fireside on cool autumn nights.

APOPLEXY FATAL TO J. D. KEMBLE

Veteran Stricken at Reform Hall Dies in Muhlenberg Hospital.

James D. Kemble, aged about 73 years, of Madison, who was stricken with apoplexy at Reform Hall, Saturday, where he as vice president was presiding at the annual session of the Second New Jersey Cavalry Association, died at Muhlenberg Hospital late Saturday evening. At first his condition was not considered serious by Dr. D. C. Adams, who attended the veteran, but later there was a turn for the worse and Mr. Kemble failed to rally or respond to medical treatment.

Mr. Kemble was stricken immediately following the morning session, just before dinner was served. He arose from his chair to speak to a fellow veteran, when he fell to the floor. Mrs. Alexander Brown, of East Front street, a niece of the veteran, was notified and she had her uncle removed to the hospital.

Later Mr. Kemble's wife and his son, E. B. Kemble, of Chatham, were notified and the latter came to Plainfield, reaching here before his father died. He made arrangements to have the remains removed to the family home at Madison.

Mr. Kemble had been a resident of Madison for many years, where he is well known. He has been especially active in the work of the Second New Jersey Cavalry Association, of which he was vice president. He was promoted to that office on Saturday. His associate officers as well as all of the members of the association feel keenly the loss they have sustained in the death of Mr. Kemble.

CLASSES START IN FOR FALL WORK AT Y. W. C. A.

Classes in all departments of the Y. W. C. A. will open today. A large membership is expected and the prospects are bright for a banner year. The gym will be open tonight and regular classes will begin. The glee club will hold its first meeting tonight.

The general Bible class, which is under the instruction of Miss Aller, will meet tomorrow night for organization.

PROCTOR'S BILL.

The vaudeville at Proctor's for today, Tuesday and Wednesday, consists of the following acts: George Nagel & Co. in a comedy sketch, "The Fixer;" Marion Carson, singing comedienne; Monroe & Wilson, singing and instrumental; Herbert Germaine Trio, comedy casting sensation, and Moss & Potter, comedians. Tomorrow "The Perils of Pauline," and Wednesday, "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown. The photoplays are changed daily.

JAMES BABBITT'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of James Babbitt, a well-known colored resident, was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at 200 West Second street, and was largely attended by both colored and white friends of the deceased. There were many flowers, including a large tribute from A. M. Griffen. Rev. E. B. Maynard, of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, officiated at the service and the burial was in Hillside cemetery.

RUSSIANS AND GERMANS BOTH CLAIM GAINS IN BATTLE NOW RAGING IN WESTERN POLAND

NUMBER OF MEN INVOLVED IN TREMENDOUS CONFLICT SAID TO BE AS GREAT AS IN THE FRENCH THEATRE OF WAR—BATTLE AT RACZKI.

FRENCH CAVALRY OVERTHROW GERMAN CORP

Official Bulletin Says Offensive Has Been Resumed at Hazobrouck and Bethne—Germans Take City of Lille—Progress Reported in Centre, But no Move Has Been Made Along the Meuse.

Petrograd, Oct. 13.—The battle which began Saturday on the western border of Poland equals the battle in France on the Aisne in extent and may equal it in length of time. The number of the opposing armies are as great as in the western theatre of war. Semi-official intimations that secrecy is needed for the success of the Russian operations have been published and no information as to the tremendous conflict now taking place has been given out.

The latest official statement contains no mention of the vicinity in which the battle is being fought. It says: "Our cavalry on the front attacked and cut to pieces several bodies of German advance guards and took prisoners all those not killed."

The Hague, Oct. 13.—The Austrian Legation has issued the following:

"The rapid advance of the Austro-Hungarian troops along the river San resulted October 11 in the entire withdrawal of the Russian investing forces from Przemysl, Galicia, which was immediately occupied by Austrian relief troops. The retreating Russians everywhere were strongly attacked. An attempt on their part to cross the river near Sieneawa and Lezajsk gave the Austro-Hungarian troops an opportunity to take a large number of prisoners. These as yet have not been counted.

London, Oct. 13.—A despatch from Petrograd says it is evident that a big battle was fought at the village of Raczki, midway between Augustowo and Sulwaki. After the defeat of the Germans at Augustowo the Russian right wing rested on Raczki. On October 8 the Russians, after seven days of continuous fighting, drove out the Germans, who crossed the river and then posted their guns on the hills. Several batteries including those sent as reinforcements from Koenigsberg were captured.

Advices from Berlin by way of Amsterdam say that the following German communication as to events in the eastern theatre of war has been issued:

"After their expulsion from East Prussia the Russian armies were pushed across the frontier. The centre of the German military operations is now in Poland. The whole of Poland west of the Vistula is now in German possession, the Russians occupying only Warsaw. The few kilometers lost by the Germans in Russia's territory near the East Prussian frontier were of little importance, as it was never intended definitely to occupy or govern Suwalki.

It is not true that the siege of Ossowetz has been abandoned as the fortress has never been beseiged. During our retreat to the East Prussian frontier our troops nowhere were defeated, but, on the contrary, repulsed many attacks of the Russians."

Washington, Oct. 13.—French cavalry overthrew a German army corps of cavalry and drove it northward, according to a despatch received by the French Ambassador today from Bordeaux. The despatch follows:

"The fourth army corps of German cavalry was thrown back to the north of Lys toward Armentiere. Two other German cavalry corps were stopped by our cavalry between Lys and the canal of La Bassee. Roye is still occupied by the Germans. On the night of the eleventh we repulsed attacks os Bisbee, four kilometers southwest of St. Mihiel."

Paris, Oct. 13.—The following statement was given out at the war office today:

"On our left wing our forces have retaken the offensive in the regions of Hazobrouck and Bethne against some forces of the enemy composed for the greater part of cavalry coming from the front along the line of Bailleul, Estaires and La Bassee. The city of Lille held by a detachment of territorials, has been attacked and occupied by a corps of the German army. Between Arras and Albert we have made some marked progress.

"At the centre we have made equal progress in the region of Barry Au Bac and have advanced slightly toward Souain, to the east of the Argonne and to the north of Malancourt between the Argonne and the Meuse.

"On the right bank of the Meuse our troops who hold the heights of the Meuse to the east of Verdun and have advanced to the south of the road from Verdun to Metz. On our right wing, Vosges and Alsace, there is no change.

New York, Oct. 13—A despatch from Rome says a telegram from Petrograd to the Tribuna, states that no Germans remain in the provinces of Suwalki and Lomza, Russian Poland. That the army continues to advance in East Prussia and that the entire district of Lyck is now occupied by the forces of Emperor Nicholas. In addition, the despatch says that the Russians are maintaining their positions in Hungary, Bukowina and Transylvania.

Broomhall cables say Austria Hungary has suspended import duties on all grain and has forbidden use of corn by distillers. Prices there are very high and advancing steadily. It was officially announced by France that much of the harvest in the war zone is not damaged. Preparation

AMERICANISM—A MATTER OF SPIRIT

Mary Antin Gives An Interesting Lecture Before Monday Afternoon Club.

PEOPLE CREATED EQUAL

Author of "The Promised Land" Makes a Touching Appeal for More Consideration of Foreigners—Do Not Obey Constitution.

That to be an American is not a matter of ancestry, but a matter of principal and spirit, was the substance of the address by Mary Antin, the author of the much discussed and widely read book, "The Promised Land," before the members and friends of the Monday Afternoon Club in the Congregation church, yesterday afternoon. The church auditorium was not adequate to accommodate the crowd and the doors of the parish house had to be thrown open.

"Immigration as a Touchstone of American Faith," was the subject expounded by the author. In appealing for more consideration for the alien by the American people, the speaker forcibly expressed her opinion in speaking of the American mother who would move out of a street because a family of foreigners moved on the block, would send her daughter to college and then allow her to go in the slums as a settlement worker as a living example of Americanism. She emphasized that the American mother could accomplish much more by continuing to reside alongside of the foreign family and letting them see and study her way of living, and in talking to them that they might become more proficient in the use of English language.

She emphasized that Americans do not obey the Constitution of the United States in looking down on the foreigners, for the law states that all people are created equal and the American people are unable to handle the immigration question by application of that law.

"Strangers come to this country seeking life, liberty and happiness, and true Americanism is to see that everyone has a chance. We say that Pilgrims were idealists and therefore it is only fair to say that the immigrants of today come to better their conditions. Which of us who has been called upon for sacrifice can say that life of today does not call forth the best metal that is in men?

"I admire Washington and Jefferson because they lived for a principle and I know what it is to live for a principle. As I looked around this new land when I came here twenty years ago things looked different because I was among Americans, and it is because I am an American that I desire more consideration for the immigrants.

"The law of the United States says that all men were born and created equal. I do not know where you can get another law to modify that. Every man, no matter from where he comes has an equal right according to the Constitution. It is not our business to ask the stranger why he comes here, for he comes in pursuit of liberty and happiness as the Pilgrims did in generation past.

"Our national ideal is the 'self-made' man. Why, in the East Side of New York they are all self-made because there is no one to help them. You are apt to say that the immigrants make the slums, but they are trying to keep out of the slums. When they move to a better section among American people, the Mrs. Jones' and Mrs. Robinsons' move away from the alien family and gradually the street again becomes a settlement for foreigners.

"What makes this country different from other lands is that the Colonists fought for what they loved. Your ancestors fought for the rights of humanity so that one man might not be master over another, and that each should be left to work out his own destiney.

"Your ancestors did not see that 1914 would have an immigrant problem. Neither did the Children of Israel know what martyrdom would result from the keeping of the law of Moses. I find that Americans have been discussing the immigration problem when all you have to do is to handle the question by application of the law as laid down in the Constitution. We who live in a land of justice must give justice to all and not slam the door in the face of an alien.

"We are not going to solve the problem by Congress or debate, but just by taking it upon ourselves in helping our next door neighbor. As an American my cry is to do as your fathers did. They didn't stop to see how it was going to work out. Let us live up to the promise made in 1776 and be pointed out by all nations as an example. Give American ideals another trial. Harken to the words of your fathers that they may strengthen you as nothing else."

WAYS TO SUSTAIN BETTER HEALTH

Interesting Talks at State Tuberculosis Exhibit in High School.

EDUCATIONAL PICTURES

Dr. Millard Knowlton Tells of Campaign to Stamp Out White Plague—Mayor Percy H. Stewart and W. S. Tyler Also Speak.

An education in the causes, care, and prevention of tuberculosis and an exhibit in the ways to sustain better health conditions in the home and community began last night, at the Plainfield High School, and will continue until October 23. Many people took advantage of the opening night and were rewarded for attending. This exhibit, carefully arranged by the State Board of Health assisted by the Plainfield Board of Health, is a remarkable one and the most important of its kind ever held here.

The feature last night was an interesting and instructive illustrated lecture by Dr. Millard Knowlton, director of the tuberculosis work of the State Board of Health. William S. Tyler, president of the Board of Education, spoke a few words of welcome and introduced Mayor Percy H. Stewart, who spoke of the commendable work being accomplished by the local Tuberculosis Society. He impressed upon the citizens that each one holds the life of a fellow citizen in his hands and that by following out the instructions given in the pictures they will be greatly benefitted.

Dr. Knowlton, in his lecture, congratulated the citizens upon having such a magnificent building as the High School. In showing pictures of conditions in sections of this city he deplored the fact that the city has not a municipal collection of garbage and waste. He also showed several pictures of rows of out-houses in the borough, argued against such a condition and urged that a sewer system be installed immediately. Pictures of pupils at study at the local fresh air school and several views at Bonnie Burn were interesting.

Dr. Knowlton stated that in 1910 deaths from tuberculosis aggregated 4,540, but was reduced considerable during the past year, due to the educational campaign against the disease which has been strenuously conducted in this State for the past few years. He also informed that mothers should be careful of whooping cough as it often leads to tuberculosis. The negroes are more susceptible to the disease than the white race, and gave as a reason that they invariably live in more crowded portions of the city. He said that going West for one's health is not necessary for it makes no difference where a tubercular patient lives as long as they get proper treatment.

He emphasized that tuberculosis is an expensive disease but the greatest cost is in human suffering. Tuberculosis is not hereditary as the germ gets into the body after birth and not before. His entire address was illustrated with interesting views and motion pictures.

At the exhibit, tonight, Dr. Knowlton will again give an illustrated lecture in the auditorium of the High School. The other speakers will be Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, of the city Board of Education.

The State exhibit will be found in the auditorium, while the local Health Board and other exhibits are in the new gymnasium and comprises a most interesting outlay.

PATRIOTS HONOR NOTED DISCOVER

Fitting Columbus Day Celebration Held in Local Club Last Night.

SPEAKERS LAUD EVENT

Knights of Columbus Members and Well Known Speakers Present at Gathering—Urged to Emulate Life of Noted Italian.

Inspired with the spirit of true American patriotism an audience that packed the spacious interior of the Columbus Club, on West Front street, enjoyed an excellent program of speeches and music under the direction of the Knights of Columbus, last night. Although the day has become recognized as a nation-wide occasion for celebrating, the affair at the local clubhouse was one of two of its kind held in this city and patriots took advantage of this opportunity to pay their respects to Christopher Columbus, the founder of America. Known and designated by the lodge as "Discoverer's Day," the event commemorated the 422d anniversary of the founding of a new country, America. The program was appropriate to the occasion, the speakers dealing with topics typical of the Italian explorer. The interior of the Columbus Club was elaborately decorated and a program of dancing was one of the pleasing features of the evening.

John J. Varley, chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration, presided at last night's event and the speakers were selected from a list all well known to Plainfielders. Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, described Christopher Columbus as a fitting model of character for the twentieth century man to emulate. He spoke of the spiritual ideal that induced Columbus to undertake the perilous task and held this up as his reason for setting out on the journey, notwithstanding nation-wide claims that the recovery of hidden gold was his main object. This ambition frequently lured men of the olden times to strike out in unknown fields of exploration, declared the speaker, but such was not the case with Columbus. Father Bogan classed him as a man of remarkable perseverance and exalted him for his courage as evidenced in his trials with a mutinous crew of foreign seamen. The speaker declared that courage was needed in sailing the uncharted seas and that Columbus had this quality imbedded in his make-up.

Former City Judge William N. Runyon, one of the most popular speakers in the city, was accorded a great ovation when he arose to make a few remarks on the patriotic topic. Mr. Runyon lauded the organization for its efforts to make "Discoverer's Day" the important event it should be and commented on the fitness of so celebrating it. The speaker said that it commemorated an act which established on the face of the earth a nation that at a future day was to be the haven of the world's downtrodden and oppressed. He commented on the war troubles now brewing in Europe and spoke of America's good fortune in being far enough away from the scene of conflict to make the effects on this nation of a minor nature.

Congressman Eugene Kinkead, of Jersey City, spoke of the life of Columbus and the inspiration it held up to the poor boy of the present day. He said that by perseverance and hard work Columbus accomplished a task which up to his time had never before been attempted by mankind. He spoke of the opoprtunities the country has to offer and said there was room for all who come to our shores. In reviewing the war situation the Congressman commented on our position of absolute neutrality and urged the maintenance of this policy.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart gave a short talk in which he urged the American people to try to realize what sacrifices were made by our predecessors to give us the advantages we enjoy today. He classed the public schools as the great levelers of the nation and told of the opportunities the man of today has for self-advancement.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, was another speaker at the celebration.

FRED'K SHEELEN'S FUNERAL.

A large number of friends and relatives atended the funeral services of Frederick Sheelen, of Fanwood, held this morning at St. Mary's R. C. church, of Westfield, at 9 o'clock, at which a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated. Rev. Henry J. Watterson, rector of the church, officiated. The interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

BOSTON 3; ATHLETICS 1

Boston	.	0	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	x---	3

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 13.—Boston Braves won the World's Baseball Championship title for 1914 this afternoon, when they defeated the Philadelphia Athletics in the fourth straight game of the series.

The contest was similar to that played in Philadelphia Saturday, the competition being listless on the Philadelphia side. The Mack crew appeared to be shot to pieces and Stallings' men had little trouble in handling the situation to the advantage of the Braves in a majority of the rounds of play. The winning punch was once more missing, the Athletics having numerous chances to pull the game out of the fire with one solid lick.

Manager Connie Mack derricked Shawkey after he had weathered six innings of battling and sent Pennock to the mound. He was also subjected to some rough treatment. Rudolph's confidence helped him considerably as he was cool at all times and this coupled with the gilt edged support accorded him by his backers made the Philly crew look like a delegation of schoolboys.

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 13.—Having won three games of the world's series from the Athletics, the Boston Braves made a great effort to clean up the series today. With clear skies, and a much lower temperature than yesterday, and a brisk east wind sweeping the field, the game started before another enormous crowd of fans, who did not gather as rapidly as on Monday, however. The open stands did not fill up until 1 o'clock.

With the odds at three to one, the Braves were hot favorites in the private betting. Manager Stallings put Rudolph in the box, while Connie Mack used Bender as his final hope to save the game.

Ground rules prevailed, as in yesterday's contest, providing for two bases for all hits into the temporary stands in left field. Captain Evers got a great reception from the crowd when the Braves trotted on the field and started batting practise. The Athletics were also on the field early, indulging in batting practise. The attendance was estimated at 35,000 at 1:30.

The batting order at the start was as follows:

Philadelphia—Murphy, rf; Oldring, lf; Collins, 2b; Baker, 3b; McInnis, 1b; Walsh, cf; Barry, shortstop; Schang, c; Shawkey, p.

Boston—Moran, rf, Evers, 2b; Connolly, lf; Whitted, cf; Schmidt, 1b; Gowdy, c; Maranville, ss; Deal, 3b; Rudolph, p.

FIRST INNING.

Philadelphia—Murphy, the first man up, was an easy out, Evers to Schmidt. "Rube" Oldring followed with a high fly behind home plate, which "Hank" Gowdy smothered. Eddie Collins got a big hand when he cracked out a scorching single to short center. With Collins racing around the first bag uneasily, "Home Run Baker" ended the inning by lifting a high one to Whitted in the centre garden. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Moran with a victor's confidence in his eyes and actions, was an easy out for Baker, who fielded his grounder along the third base line in finished style and heaved it to McInnis. Johnny Evers died via the same route and Connolly ended the session with a long fly to Oldring. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia 0, Boston 0.

SECOND INNING.

Philadelphia — "Stuffy" McInnis was the Phillies' first actor in this round and after drawing a pair of fouls grounded to Deal, who tossed him out with ease at the first turn. Walsh, substiting for Strunk in centrefield, doubled to the left field bleachers, and Barry followed this performance by grounding out to Maranville at short. "Rabbit" getting in one of his lightning throws to Schmidt at first and holding Walsh nailed to the keystone sack. Schang, one of the disappointments of the present series, collected three balls and two strikes, and then whiffed at a third, leaving Walsh stranded at the mid station. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Whitted, who was given a drop in the batting order as a reward for his inability to connect in the first three games, began today by flying out to Oldring, the latter making a nifty running catch. Schmidt was a quick out on a hit to pitcher's box, Shawkey throwing him out at first. Gowdy, the hero of yesterday's game, was given a thunderous round of applause when he appeared at the plate for the first time today and after collecting three and two, took a trip to first via the four ball route. The pass was not an intentional one. Maranville forced Gowdy at second base, ending the round. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia 0, Boston 0.

THIRD INNING.

Philadelphia — Shawkey opened this inning by taking three wide swings and returning to the dugout. Murphy was retired by Schmidt at first, after Deal had made a wonderful stop along the third base line. Oldring singled to centre field, recording his first hit of the series. Oldring attempted to steal second but was caught at second on a throw from Gowdy to Maranville. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Deal opened the round by flying out to Oldring. Rudolph had two strikes on him and finally grounded to Barry, who threw him out at first. Moran died in the same fashion. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia 0, Boston 0.

FOURTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Collins grounded to Evers and was counted out at first. "Home Run" Baker, who came through with one of the telling licks yesterday, added another hit to his credit by singling along the first base line, the ball going several inches over Schmidt's head. McInnis aided the cause with a pretty single to left field, Baker sprinting around to the third corner. "Stuffy" attempted to stretch his bingle to a two bagger, however, and was caught off second, Connolly to Evers. Walsh fanned the empty ozone three times and ended the inning with Baker on third. The punch was again missing. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Evers did some patient waiting at the home plate as a starter off in this frame and finally succeeded in working Shawkey for a quartet of bad ones after two strikes had been put over on him. Collins handled Connolly's weak grounder with ease and threw to first, but Johnny Evers was safely lodged at second when the pellet was returned, Connolly dying at the first cushion. Whitted hit to Collins, who fumbled the ball, allowing the batter to get life at first and Evers romping safely to third. The official scorer gave Whitted a hit on this slam, the ball being red hot and too hard to handle. Collins, in going after the ball, turned his ankle and the game was stopped while his teammates rushed to his assistance. After a short delay, however, he gamely resumed play, although limping badly. Schmidt went out, Barry to McInnis, Captain Johnny Evers scoring the first run. "Hank" Gowdy was retired, Shawkey to McInnis on a bunt to pitcher's box. Three outs. One run.

Score—Philadelphia 0, Boston 1.

FIFTH INNING.

Philadelphia—The Phillies, determined to retrieve lost ground, opened with a rush and Barry singled through short on the first ball pitched by Rudolph. Schang, who failed in a pinch on his last appearance at the plate, was disposed of by Schmidt after he had hit a weak one to Evers. Barry took second on the play and FIREMEN'S FAIR.

The entertainment committee of Defender Fire Company, No. 1, the personnel of which is Harry Shugars, chairman; Melvin Fritts, Harry Dodwell, Charles Vail and John Stilger, met in the Borough Hall, last evening, and decided upon Wednesday and Thursday evenings, November 18 and 19, as the dates of the coming firemen's fair, provided that William G. Holton Hall can be secured for those evenings.

BOWLING TOURNEY.

The ladies' two team bowling tournament commences on the Presbyterian alleys, this evening, and in the initial games it will be Mrs. H. A. Wickham and Miss Helen Shively vs. Miss Florence Smalley and Miss Josephine Dealaman vs. Miss M. L. Crawford and Mrs. William E. Terry. Since the recent organization meeting of the tournament Miss Mary Logan and Miss Hazel Van Alstyne have entered their names and formed the eleventh necessary team and Mrs. William E. Terry has taken the place of Mrs. William Johnson, who dropped out. The complete list of teams is as follows: Team No. 1, Miss Pearl Dodwell and Miss Ruth Voorhees; team No. 2, Mrs. H. A. Wickham and Miss Helen Shively; team No. 3, Miss M. L. Crawford and Mrs. William E. Terry; team No. 4, Miss Mabel Noyes and Mrs. Emmett Dice; team No. 5, Miss Luella Stryker and Miss B. M. Ward; team No. 6, Miss Florence Smalley and Miss Josephine Dealaman; team No. 7, Mrs. Robert Craig and Mrs. Albert Russell; team No. 8, Miss Florence Smith and Mrs. Fred Vail; team No. 9, Mrs. Ernest R. Brown and Mrs. H. B. Arnold; team No. 10, Miss Mabel Bennett and Mrs. W. J. Smith; team No. 11, Miss Mary Logan and Miss Hazel Van Alstyne. The veteran tournament rollers of the above are Miss Pearl Dodwell, Mrs. H. A. Wickham, Miss Ruth Voorhees, Mrs. Emmet Dice, Miss Luella Stryker, Miss Florence Smalley, Mrs. Robert Craig, Miss Josephine Dealaman, Mrs. Albert Russell, Miss Florence Smith, Mrs. Fred Vail, Mrs. H. B. Arnold, and Mrs. W. J. Smith. The Dodwell and Voornees team, who finished second in last summer's tournament, appears to be the general favorite. Mrs. H. A. Wickham and Miss Josephine Dealaman, who formed the Dealaman and Wickham team, which finished first in last summer's tournament, are both entered in this tourney but are on opposing teams.

ASK FOR RECEIVER FOR ARTHUR H. OSMUN TODAY

Trenton, Oct. 13—Artaur H. Osmun, of Plainfield, has been made defendant in bankruptcy proceedings in the United States District Court. A petition was filed against him September 30, by Robert Reis & Co., and others, alleging him to be insolvent and asking that a receiver be appointed. The court made an order requiring Osmun to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed and why he should not be adjudged insolvent. A hearing on the order is taking place in the United States Court in Newark, today.

FRACTURED HER ARM.

Miss Ruth Hedden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hedden, of Union street, while jumping from the porch at her home, last night, fell and broke her arm. She was assisted to the house and a physician was summoned to set the broken bone. The break is quite a bad one and it will be some time before Miss Hedden will regain the use of the member.

PROCTOR'S OFFERS AN ALL-STAR VAUDEVILLE BILL

The vaudeville bill at Proctor's the first half of this week is considered the best since the opening of the vaudeville season. The Herbert Germaine Trio with their sensational acrobatic feats, keps the audience spell-bound from curtain to curtain. Lucy Tonge, who is gifted with a beautiful contralto voice, rendered several of the old favorite songs. Moss and Potter entertained the audience with piano selections and popular songs. George Nagel and Company in their comedy sketch, "The Fixer," kept the audience in an uproar from start to finish, and Monroe and Wilson have a novel act with a pantomimic scene showing the power of music. The Perils of Pauline will be shown today and The Million Dollar Mystery will be the feature photoplay tomorrow.

ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT.

started to worry Rudolph by fake attempts to pilfer the third corner. After fanning the first time at bat, Shawkey smashed out a double, scoring Barry from second. Murphy was easy money for Evers, who recorded his second assist of the round by throwing him out at first, Shawkey going to third on the play. "Rube" Oldring fanned. Three outs. One run.

Boston—Maranville opened the round with a grounder to Barry, who threw him out at first. Deal had three balls served up to him and stood at the plate while a pair of strikes were called, ending his stay by grounding to Baker along the third base line, the latter retiring him at first. Rudolph followed in the wake of his rival on the mound and singled to center field. Up to this time each twirler had fanned once and secured a hit apiece. Moran followed the slab artist with a hit to centre field for two cushions, sending Rudolph to third. Evers came to the plate with two club mates on the sacks and with three and two on him laced a hot one over second for a single, scoring Rudolph and Moran. Evers attempted to steal second and was caught flat footed at first when he made a turn and started back, Shawkey throwing to McInnis. Three outs. Two runs.

Score—Philadelphia 1, Boston 3.

SIXTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Schmidt retired Collins at first on a throw from Maranville after the batter had hit a scorcher down to the shortfield. Baker lifted a high foul fly back of third, Deal turning it into a pretty catch. McInnis died, Maranville to Schmidt. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Connolly was taken out at this juncture and Mann was substituted at the bat. Connie Mack derricked Shawkey in this inning and Pennock was sent in to do duty. Mann started his work by flying out to Walsh. Whitted dented Pennock's delivery for a one-base tap. Schmidt followed with a similar clout to centre field, Whitted advancing to third. Gowdy appeared amid another tumult and cries for a homer resounded in the grandstands, but he took three healthy swings and beat a hasty retreat. He was trying for a home run and swung wildly. The band in the cheering section held down by the "Royal Rooters" was playing "Tessie" at this juncture in an effort to get Pennock's goat, but he appeared unmoved. These same actics proved fatal to Bush yesterday. On an attempted double steal, Schmidt was caught, Schang to Collins to McInnis. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia 1, Boston 3.

SEVENTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Walsh drew a pass as a starter in the stretch stanza. On the first ball pitched to Barry, Rudolph threw wild, and Walsh was caught at second trying to advance, Gowdy to Evers. Barry followed this up by striking out, hitting wildly. Schang rang up two and three on the umpire's indicator and after hitting a pair of fouls into the bleachers took another healthy swing and went back to the bench in disgust. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Maranville had three balls and two strikes before he hit a swift one to Collins, who threw to McInnis. Deal went out, Baker to McInnis. Rudolph waited patiently and was given his base on balls, but he was left on first, when Moran flied out to Baker. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia 1, Boston 3.

EIGHTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Pennock flied out to Evers. Murphy had two strikes and a ball called on him before he flied out to Mann, who made a fine catch at the left field bleachers. Oldring landed on the first ball pitched, and flied out to Evers. Three outs. No runs.

Boston—Evers struck out. Mann went out, Collins to McInnis. Whitted walked, and then stole second. Whitted went to third on a passed ball. Schmidt fanned. Three outs. No runs.

Score—Philadelphia 1, Boston 3.

NINTH INNING.

Philadelphia—Collins fanned. Baker out, Evers to Schmidt. McInnis out, Deal to Schmidt. Three outs. No runs.

Final Score—Philadelphia 1, Boston 3.

O Prince of Peace!

O Prince of Peace, to thee be given
The homage of the warring world!
Let all the clouds of wrath be riven
And all the battle flags be furled.
Let peace prevail where war enfolds
The millions in its blighting breath.
Assert thy sway where hatred holds
Its awful carnival of death.

The village homes, where love and life
And laughter recently held sway,
Are desolated by the strife
And shattered in the fearful fray.
The harvest fields with blood run red,
Where sheaves of ripened grain should be,
And Death, the Reaper, piles his dead
In furrows strewn with agony.

The widows and the orphans weep
For those they never more will see
The loved ones gone to their long sleep,
The victims of this butchery.
Oh, pity the bruised hearts of those
And bid war's dreadful carnage cease!
Make friends of them who now are foes,
O Prince of Peace! O Prince of Peace!

KAISER'S VIEW OF PEACE AS TOLD BY HIS SPOKESMAN

France Must First Bend the Knee, New German Envoy Says.

Until France and her allies admit that France has been beaten by Germany the last named country will continue to fight. This statement is credited by the New York Times to Herr H. von Eckhardt, the newly appointed German minister to Mexico. He said that the admission by France that she had been beaten was the first condition of peace, so far as the German government was concerned.

Herr von Eckhardt told of a conversation he had with the kaiser two days before he left Berlin for New York. The kaiser, he said, displayed the keenest desire that the world should understand that it was Russia and France and not Germany that had started the war, and that it was Russia and France who had thrust the sword into Germany's hands.

"The emperor," said Herr von Eckhardt, "insisted that he had done all that was in his power to maintain peace in Europe. He was deeply serious. However, the kaiser is not alarmed. He is confident that victory will be with German arms.

"The German army was in Brussels at the time when I had this talk with the kaiser, yet he was not carried away by that fact. Instead he insisted that the situation was very serious and he told me that everything he had done was with the thought of peace in mind and that, while he was working with this end in view, Russia mobilized and France had begun hostilities at Nuremberg and bombs had been thrown. He holds Russia and France responsible for this conflict, and the reason those two countries wanted war was because they did not wish Germany to play a too important role in the world."

With reference to the atrocities that have been blamed on the Germans, Herr von Eckhardt said he had seen no proofs of them.

"What about the possibility of an early peace in Europe?" he was asked.

"It is the wish of Germany, as well as of the whole world," he replied, "that there shall be peace. But it must come, and this I assure you, with honorable conditions for the German empire. First and foremost, the most important condition of peace must be the acknowledgment that we are victorious in France, that we have won in France. Until this is admitted that Germany has defeated France Germany will continue to fight.

"Furthermore, when peace is restored it must be with the guarantee that never will more wars come."

"WAR NOVELTIES" SELL WELL

Big West End Shop In London Keeping Several Factories Busy.

The manufacture of "war novelties" that are being sold at a Regent street, London, shop, is keeping several factories busy. Silk flags of all nations, except those of Germany and Austria, are particularly popular, being used as dinner table and general interior house decorations.

The profit made on each article sold is given to the Red Cross society. The flags cost from 25 cents to $2.50 each. On a $2.50 flag the profit is 60 cents. A pincushion with a patriotic emblem, sold for 25 cents, gives 4 cents to the fund, and a more elaborate pincushion, sold at 32 cents, gives 8 cents.

Cushions and nightdress cases embroidered with regimental crests and mottoes are on sale. On the cushions are embroidered such phrases as "Keep Going," and "Keep the Flag Flying," and there are also embroidered crowns, flags, roses, thistles and shamrocks.

A smart cockade of red, white and blue to place in the autumn felt hat, is selling well.

Begged to Enlist With Four Sons.

An old man of soldierly bearing applied to the chief recruiting officer at Vesoul, France, for enlistment with his four stalwart sons. The father had fought against the Germans in 1870 and begged to have another chance at them. He was seventy years old, and the officer was compelled to refuse. The old man was overcome with grief, and, touched by his disappointment, the recruiting officer unpinned the Cross of the Legion of Honor from his own breast and fastened it upon that of the stout hearted old Frenchman. The four sons were accepted and left immediately for the front.

FLEEING BEFORE "THE RED WRATH"

Scenes of "Terrible Spectacular Splendor" Depicted.

PEASANTS' AWFUL PLIGHT.

A Rocking Horse and Blossoming Geranium Only Signs of Habitation Left In One Belgian Village—"Pitiful Procession of the Disinherited, Stupefied Rather Than Terrified."

In the Outlook Albert R. Williams writes vividly of his experiences in Belgium after the German invasion. He tells among his experiences the following:

"We were up on the little hill back of Mesch just as the sun was sinking, and for the first time war, in all its terrible spectacular splendor, smote me hard. From the hill at my feet there stretched a great plain filled with a dense mass of soldiery. One could scarce believe that they were soldiers so well did their gray green coats blend with the landscape. One might believe that they were indeed a part of it could he not feel the atmosphere fairly vibrant with the mass personality of the myriad warriors tramping down the crops of the peasants.

"Those great hosts on the plains beneath had furnished the picture with a red, luminous background made of the blazing towns of Mouland and Vise. The fire was set as a warning to the inhabitants round about. They were taking the warning and coming by the thousands across the border into Limbourg, their only haven of safety. When we drove down from the hill into Eysden we were in the midst of these peasants fleeing before the red wrath rolling up into the sky. They came shambling in with a few possessions that they had hurriedly laid their hands on, singly or in families, a pitiful procession of the disinherited. Some of the men were moaning as they marched along, but most of them were taking it with the tragic resignation of the peasant, not understanding, stupefied rather than terrified.

Wit and Candy His Best Passport.

"In the morning I climbed to the lookout on the hill. The Germans had all gone. I walked over to where the great Netherlands flag proclaimed neutral soil. I showed my pass from Maastricht, and with one step I was over the border into Belgium, now under German jurisdiction. The helmeted soldiers across the way looked neither fierce nor fiery. In fact, they greeted me with a smile. I explained that I was to go through to Liege. Was it possible? They shrugged their shoulders. Was it dangerous? Not in the least. The Germans were right. It was not dangerous--that is, for the Germans. By proclaiming the everlasting friendship of Germany and America, and passing out some chocolates I made good friends on the home base.

"A half mile and I came for the first time actually face to face with the waste of war. There was what once was Mouland, the little village I had seen burning the night before. Here and there a house had escaped the torch. In the smashed window of one house a bright geranium blossomed. It seemed to cry for water, but I dared not turn aside. In the last house as I left the village a rocking horse with its head stuck through the open door smiled its wooden smile, as though it at least could keep good cheer though the roofs might fall.

"One Belgian had sought for his own benefit to conciliate the Germans, and as the kaiser's troops at the turn of the road came upon his house there was the kaiser's emblem raised to greet them. The man had nailed it high up in an apple tree that they might not mistake his attitude of truculent disloyalty to his own country, hoping so to save his home. But let it be said to the credit of the Germans that they had shown their contempt for this treachery by razing this house to the ground, and the poor fellow had lost his soul along with his earthly treasures.

A Woman's Way of Courting Favor.

"I saw now a few houses with signs of life, and a little below Argenteau came upon several buckets of water in front of a house, with a peasant woman standing by them. I inquired what these were for. She had no time to explain, for a column of soldiers at that very moment came plodding slowly along.

"As soon as she saw the soldiers there was a smile on her face which ill concealed her anxiety. She pointed to her pails. At the sight of the water a thirsty soldier here and there would break from the ranks, rush to the pails, take the proffered cup, and hastily swallow down the cooling draft, and always with a smile or with a word of gratitude hand the cup to the woman and rush back again to his place in the ranks.

"I followed the road now leading down through the long street of Jupilles. So I arrived on the outskirts of Liege, and expected to see a battered city, after all the bombardments it had undergone, but it seemed to have suffered really but little, considering it had been the center around which the storm of battle had been raging for over three weeks."

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 13, 1914.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO.

There are few Plainfielders familiar with the history of the city prior to fifty years ago, and we suppose if there are any who have been here eighty years, they can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Perhaps some of the residents now living can recall having heard older inhabitants tell about the city in its early days, but only on rare occasions do we find authoritative statements. Former Councilman Frank L. Holt is the owner of a rare book published in 1834, "The History of New Jersey From Its Discovery by Europeans to the Adoption of the Federal Constitution," by Thomas F. Gordon. In those days Union county had not been formed, and Plainfield was described as follows:

Plainfield, a large and thriving village of Westfield township, Essex county, on Green Brook, the line between that and Somerset county, 211 miles northeast from Washington City, 65 from Philadelphia, 45 from Trenton, 20 southwest from Newark 16 from Elizabethtown, 25 from New York and 11 northeast from New Brunswick; on a plain of very level land, between 2 and 3 miles wide and about 11 long; contains 1 Presbyterian, 1 Baptist and 1 Methodist church, 2 Friends' meeting houses (Hicksite and Orthodox), 2 grist mills, 1 saw mill, 4 stores, 3 schools 2 clergymen, 1 lawyer, 2 physicians 2 taverns, 13 master hatters, who manufacture about $75,000 worth of hats annually; 5 master tailors, employing 70 hands, who work for the southern market; a fine engine and company, a mutual insurance company, established in 1832, which in a few months executed policies to the amount of $150,000; and 120 dwellings; a ladies' library, an apprentices' library. A four horse mail stage to New York three times a week, and as often to Philadelphia on alternate days, runs through the village. The country around the town is rich, well cultivated and healthy; the water good and the society moral and religious, and ambitious of improvement. The neighboring mountain, about a mile north of the town affords an abundant supply of cheap fuel, and screens the valley from the violence of the north and northwest winds; and gives a very pleasing prospect to the south and east over a space of 30 miles.

There is much of interest in this brief insight into the Plainfield of eighty years ago, not the least being the statement that even then the place had a reputation of being "moral and religious and ambitious of improvement." Two clergymen doing duty in three churches of different denominations must have been a problem confronting the people, and in the vernacular of today that one lawyer must have had a "cinch."

THE WORLD'S SERIES.

Luck may enter into the world's series ball games to a certain extent, but the most rabid Athletic supporter cannot fairly assert that it was luck that won the first three games for the Boston Braves. No post mortem can attribute the defeat of the mighty Athletics to anything but hefty work with the bat on the part of that group from Beantown, coupled with the excellent pitching of Stallings' youngsters, who have been introduced to world's series crowds this year for the first time.

The first three games have been well played contests, and were won on their merits, showing that the paper advantage given to the Athletics amounted to little or nothing.

The Press is giving to the fans and its reads unequalled baseball service during the series. We also wish to recall to our city readers that the Daily Press is the ONLY local paper which is delivering into the homes of the subscribers served by its route boys, the full detailed description of the game, with a complete summary and box score such as can be worked out from the hastily telegraphed records sent from the field of play. The baseball edition of the Press has been on the street each day a half hour ahead of all other papers in Plainfield.

"How long has it been since this section had rain?" said a traveler to a Paterson man the other day, according to the Call of that city. "Well, sir," was the reply, "you'll have to ask someone else. You see I've lived here only five years."

Talk about the agonies of war! Is there anything worse than trying to follow the various installments of continued news items from the first page to the labyrinth in the rear pages of the New York papers?

No, gentle reader, when the teacher asked the English literature class what they knew about Ceres, she had no reference to a certain struggle which was transferred to Boston yesterday.

Another reason why Plainfield has it on New Brunswick. The tax rate in the Middlesex county seat was raised 38 points this year. Ours went up four points.

The price of sauerkraut is reported to have gone up $17 a ton. Will some reader kindly inform us how much that will be a portion at the lunch counter?

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

Residents of Plainfield who have been complaining of the noise of locomotive whistles, may be interested in the following extract from a letter of W. G. Besler, president of the Central Railroad, which appeared in last night's N. Y. Sun.

"As a fundamental, it will be admitted that audible signalling is and always has been, an accepted method of communication and of conveying information. In railroad service we have visible signals, which are subdivided into position, color and motion. These signals are again divided into day and night signals. Much more might be said on this subject, but we will pass on to engine steam whistle signals.

"Audible signals, which include engine steam whistle signals, air whistles, bell signals, torpedos or explosive signal—and we might go on indifintely and in retail, but I will only give you the following, abstracted from the Standard Code of the American Railway Association, which covers the steam whistle, concerning which you ask the question, 'Is the steam whistle necessary to the modern railroad?' Rule 14 is as follows:

"Note—The signals described are illustrated by 'o' for short sounds; '—' for longer sounds. The sound of the whistle should be distinct, with intensity and duration proportionate to the distance signal is to be conveyed.

Sound	Indication
o	Stop. Apply brakes.
— —	Release brakes.
— o o o	Flagman go back and protect rear of train.
— — — —	Flagman return from west to south.
— — — — —	Flagman return from east to north.
— — —	When running, train parted, to be repeated until answered by the signal prescribed by Rule 12 (d). Answer to 12 (d).
o o	Answer to any signal not otherwise provided for. When freight trains are flagged, the call for brakes may also be the answer to the the flagman's signal
o o o	When train is standing, back. Answer to 12 (c) and 16 (c).
o o o	When running. Fire alarm signal. See Rule 978.
o o o o	Call for signals.
— o o	To call the attention of trains of the same or inferior class to signals displayed for a following section.
— — o o	Approaching public crossings at grade.
— —	Approaching stations, junctions and railroad crossings at grade.

"A succession of short sounds of the whistle is an alarm for persons or cattle on the track, and calls the attention of trainmen to danger ahead.

"14 (a). Engines displaying signals will give whistle signal '—oo' when passing track or bridge gangs.

"These signals, which are the standard practice in the United States, Mexico and Canada, have received the indorsement of the inspectors of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and in the case of signals for road crossings, &c., at grade, are a matter of State law, and constitute the whistling to which the public takes exception, but which is a necessary part of railroad operation and no substitute has yet been devised which can successfully or acceptably replace it. The 'noise' (if such it may be termed) is a signal and means something!

"One has no right to criticise or find fault who cannot suggest a remedy or improvement. If the best brains in our railroad service have not been able (because of the fog, curvature or intervening obstruction) to devise any other system of signals than the Standard Code, which is in universal use in the United States, is it likely that the public, with no knowledge of existing requirements, can suggest the answer?"

HENRY P. STEVENS.

$5 MORE FOR RELIEF OF BELGIAN SUFFERERS

Another contribution of $5 for the Belgian Relief Fund, to be used for the widows and orphans of soldiers, was received this morning by the Daily Press from Mabel L. Loizeaux. As has been told before, all money thus sent to the Daily Press is given to the local Belgian Relief Committee, and they in turn deliver it to the New York general committee. Any effort to describe the suffering which the war has brought on the entire Belgian nation, in view of the stories to be found in the daily papers, would be superfluous, and it is hoped that in view of the great want much more will be sent to the Press to further this good work.

RUNYON ELECTED SCOUT PRESIDENT

Movement Firmly Established as City Institution at Meeting Held Last Night.

WORK OF THE YEAR

Reports Read Showing Accomplishments of the Period Ending September 30—Public Demonstration Plans For Saturday Concluded.

The Boy Scout movement was firmly established as a Plainfield institution last night, when it entered upon its fourth year of existence and its first as a regularly organized body. Judge William N. Runyon was elected president of the council, T. A. Davis and L. M. Leck vice presidents, and Dr. George T. Moore, secretary and treasurer. An executive committee for the council was urged by F. K. Anderson, chairman of the nominating committee, and W. D. Murray, Dr. George T. Moore, Joun Leal. President Runyon and the commissioner were appointed. A Court of Honor which examines scouts for promotion, was appointed, consisting of William D. Murray, the commissioner, Frederick A. Martin, L. M. Leck, C. E. Bond and A. D. Beers. E. A. Sprowl, scoutmaster of Troop 11, was made second deputy scout commissioner, and A. V. Searing, Jr., was confirmed as scoutmaster of Troop 5. Alexander Milne was elected a member of the council.

The growth of the local scout movement was shown in the commissioner's report for the year ending September 30. Five new troops were started during the year. There are twelve scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters. In October last year there were five. There were only 70 boys in the movement last year. This year there are 125 scouts in good standing in Plainfield proper. Every community from Elizabeth to Somerville now has a scout organization, including Watchung. Mt. Bethel and New Brunswick and Raritan has advised the commissioner that it also wants a boy scout organization. New troops are to be organized in the First Baptist church on October 22 and in Hope chapel on October 29. During the year a troop was started in the special training department of the Plainfield public schools. Only one troop disbanded in the year just closed and arrangements have been made to keep that organization together until a scoutmaster can be procured.

J. W. Aughiltree, chairman of the field day committee, reported that arrangements had been completed for the public demonstration of scout work to be held at Parker Field next Saturday afternoon. The scout law will govern the standard of conduct at the competition. The patrol, rather than the individual will be the competing unit, except insafar as the special individual prizes are concerned. The patrols will compete for the Paul R. Collier championship pennant, for the Dr. Corbusier first aid cup and the Tiffany contest for proficiency in making fire by friction. The only event for individual competition will be that of the Collier cup to be awarded to the boy making the greatest number of points for his patrol, half to count through his standing in rank and merit badges earned during the last scout year. Judge William N. Runyon, William D. Murray and a national Boy Scout official will serve as judges of award. Major Sewell will also be a judge if he can be in town Saturday.

The approved program with the points allowed for each follows: 1 mile hiking, 5; knot tying, 5; barrel rolling, 5; first aid ambulance drill, 5; bandaging, 5; pyramid building, 5; fire by friction (cup competition, half to count on scout's standing), 5; scout pace, ¼ mile in 3 minutes, 5; wireless telegraph message, sending and receiving, 10; signalling, semaphore, 10; whistle, 5; heliograph, 5; water boiling, 10; surprises, 10; drumming and fife, 5; bugling, 5. Extras will include contests and clowns, Joseph Angerbauer, Claire Higgins.

All scouts will assemble at the First Presbyterian church at noon Saturday, from which place a parade will start. Scouts from New Brunswick, Somerville, Bound Brook, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Westfield, Cranford, Garwood, Roselle, Elizabeth, New York and Yonkers are expected to be in line. The parade will be headed by the Boy Scouts fife and drum corps and about 300 are expected to be in line. Scoutmasters will have charge of their own troops, which will be in line by numerical order.

Howard Willett and Howard Leck, of Troop 10, and Jack Fawcett and Henry Hannigan, of Troop 5, presented themselves for first class examination, the examiner for the Troop 10 boys being E. M. Genung, 822 Hillside avenue, and for the boys of Troop 5, Paul R. Collier. Harold Zeck, Charles E. Rice and Christian E. Kroener, of Troop 9, and Irving D. Manley, of Troop 11, filed applications for merit badges.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE IN REGISTER SMITH

His Efficiency and Accuracy is Generally Recognized Throughout the County.

Justification for County Register Frank H. Smith's action in basing his candidacy for re-election on the Republican ticket on his record, is frequently given by no less an authority than the highest court of the county. There was an instance of this just recently, when a suit was being tried in which the ownership of property was a factor in the case. The title was not involved in this particular instance, but it had a direct bearing on the case and had to be established by proof.

Mr. Smith was subpoened as a witness and was directed to produce a certain record book from his office showing the ownership and location of the property. It happened to be in the Netherwood section of Plainfield. The book was produced and after the witness had been asked to tell the page and title under which the land was recorded, it was offered in evidence. The presiding judge at this juncture informed the attorneys that it would not be necessary to mark the book as an exhibit in evidence, but it could go to the jury as it was and should be considered by the jurors as authentic.

This confidence in the efficiency and accuracy of the register's office is felt generally among lawyers, real estate men and all others who have to do with title searching for the settlement of disputes as to ownership, information concerning owners, or the transfer of the title to another. It also applies to the recording of mortgages, discharges, releases, contracts, leases, etc. The secret for it lies in the business-like administration of the office which has been endorsed by all who are familiar with Mr. Smith's methods.

He has adopted as his slogan in the campaign, "A Business Administration by a Business Man in a Business Office." In commenting on this fact recently, one of the best known attorneys in the State said: "That has been Register Smith's rule and guide throughout his term, and it is therefore no mere pretty phraze to catch the public fancy, or an empty jingle for political effect. Instead, it is the cold brutal truth, which he has earned and is justly entitled to."

PENNSYLVANIA CLUB WOMEN.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 13.—A large attendance marked the opening here today of the annual convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. Delegates representing clubs in every part of the State were present. The initial session was held this morning and was devoted principally to the exchange of greetings and the reception of reports from the several officers and heads of standing committees. Vocational education was the chief subject of discussion this afternoon. During the remaining sessions, which will carry the convention over until Saturday, the delegates will listen to addresses and engage in discussions dealing with a wide variety of educational, legislative and sociological subjects.

NOTED EDUCATORS TO SPEAK.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The fifteenth convocation of the University of the State of New York will be held here the latter part of next week. The program will cover two days and will be notable for the prominence of the speakers. Among those who are scheduled to address the gathering are Governor Glynn, President John H. Finley, of the State University; Dr. George Herbert Palmer, of Harvard University; Dr. Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, of Columbia University; Dr. Charles W. Kent, of the University of Virginia; Mrs. E. H. Harriman, of Orange county, and Dr. Herman M. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health.

TABLET TO COLONEL WEBSTER.

Manasses, Va., Oct. 13.—The Twelfth Massachusetts Regimenta Association has purchased an acre of ground on the Cather property, known as Hard Labor, which includes the spot where Col. Fletcher Webster, son of Daniel Webster, was killed in the second battle of Bull Run. The association of the Webster regiment and the Fletcher Webster Grand Army Post, No. 13, united in the purchase and will immediately erect a marker, to be dedicated the latter part of this month. The marker is to consist of a suitable inscribed bronze tablet and a granite boulder from the Webster farm at Marshfield Mass.

SOCKS FOR BRITISH SOLDIERS.

Much interest has been manifested during the past two weeks by a number of British women in this city who are knitting socks for the winter use of the soldiers of their native land. This movement in the city was started by Miss Christina Grant, an invalid, of West Fourth street. A number of elderly women are now engaged in knitting the socks for the "boys" of their country, several of them being seventy-five years of age or over. A committee of the women have in charge the taking of subscriptions for this fund.

AMERICAN BOARD ANNUAL MEETING

105th Session of Missionaries is Being Held in Detroit Today.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, in charge of the foreign missionary work of the Congregational church, began its 105th annual meeting in this city today. Rev. J. P. Huget, of Detroit, welcomed the delegates and Vice-President Edward D. Eaton, of Beloit, Wis., made the response. The convention sermon was delivered by Rev. Dan F. Bradley, of Cleveland, and the survey of the year's work was presented by Secretary Enoch F. Bell, of Boston.

An interesting program has been prepared for the subsequent sessions of the convention, which will continue through Friday. Reports will be made by Treasurer Frank H. Wiggin; the home secretary, Rev. Cornelius H. Patton, and by Miss Helen B. Calder, home secretary of the women's branch.

Tributes to the memory of the late president of the board, Dr. Samuel B. Capen, of Boston, who died in China last year, will be given by Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Robert E. Speer, of New York.

Medical work as an evangelistic agency will be discussed by Dr. H. S. Hollenbeck and Dr. H. N. Kinnear, of China, and Dr. Alden R. Hoover, of Western Turkey.

"The Religious Value of Industrial Work" wil be presented by A. J. Orner, of South Africa, and Rev. Henry Fairbank, of India.

Rev. Charles C. Tracy, of Marsovan, Western Turkey, will speak on "Education as an Evangelistic Force." "A Fraternal Message to Moslem People" will be given by Rev. George F. Herrick, of Constantinople, and Rev. George F. Greene, of Constantinople, will give "The Call to Home Churches."

Rev. George A. Hall, of Brookline, Mass., wil give reminiscenses of the India centenary, and Secretary W. E. Strong and Rev. Rockwell H. Potter will speak of contrasts and progress in mission work.

The meetings will close with messages from outgoing missionaries and the closing words, "The Challenge of the Years," will be given by Vice-President Eaton.

VALIDITY OF PIERCE BANK STOCK ACT SUSTAINED

Trenton, Oct. 13—Chief Justice Gummere has filed an opinion in the Supreme Court sustaining the validity of the Pierce Bank Stock Tax Act. The decision does not dispose of the question of the constitutionality of the act on the points raised in a suit argued before the Supreme Court, in Newark, last Saturday.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Earle Williams, who plays John Storm in the Vitagraph-Liebler production of "The Christian," is modest. Some actors are backward about deliberately giving their stage history. Mr. Williams is not an exception to the rule, and we considered ourselves fortunate when we caught him in a communicative mood. After some hesitation he said, "My first professional appearance on the stage was with the Baldwin-Melville Stock Company at the Grand Opera House, New Orleans, in September, 1901, in the play "Siberia." Played a short season with the above company and was then with the Academy of Music Stock Company in the same city. Then followed engagements with the following companies: Melbourne McDowell and Florence Stone, Sardou repertoire, a season with James Neill. Three years with Frederick Belasco at the Alcazar in San Francisco. The Belasco in Portland, Oregon, and with two of his road attractions. A short season with Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin, then I played the heavy in "The Man on the Box," with Henry Dixey; the heavy in "When Knighthood was in Flower," the heavy in "Way Down East," leading man at the Orpheum Stock in Salt Lake City, Utah, the heavy in "The Chorus Lady," with Rose Stahl; "Underwood, the Suicide," in the "Third Degree" and "The Husband," in "The Sign of the Rose," with George Beban. The picture will be shown at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow and Thursday afternoon and evening.

WILSON TO ADDRESS LAWYERS.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13—The annual meeting of the American Bar Association will be held in this city next week, beginning Tuesday and continuing through Thursday. President Woodrow Wilson will deliver the address of welcome. Former President William H. Taft, who is president of the association, will follow with the annual address. Other speakers will include Senator Elihu Root, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of the Dominion of Canada; Romulo S. Naon, the Argentine ambassador, and Governor Simeon Baldwin, of Connecticut.

CALKINS DISCUSSES SCHOOL QUESTION

Declares That Running Expenses Constitute 38 Per Cent. of Tax.

Councilman Leighton Calkins, Republican candidate for Mayor to succeed Percy H. Stewart, was present at, and addressed the weekly meeting of the First Ward Republican Club held last evening, at the Frost building. While the address was somewhat informal in nature, Mr. Calkins frankly discussed several of the financial questions of the city which are before the citizens of the city today.

Among the points which Mr. Calkins emphasized during his talk was that the running expenses of the Plainfield system of public school constitutes thirty-eight per cent. of the tax of the present year. He also referred to the Board of Education as a body now condescending to consult with the Common Council in regard to the financial question arising in the former body, and felt that in due season, should this program be followed to any extent, will result in a better understanding on the part of the citizens of the expenditures which are today being criticised on all sides.

The canvass of the entire ward under the direction of this organization has been completed during the course of the past week, and plans are now under way to provide for a full registration of voters next Tuesday, which will be the last day set aside for the purpose of registration of those who desire to vote at the November election.

The following challengers and canvassers have been appointed by the organization: First district, challengers, Herbert D. Templin and A. R. Thanchand; canvasser, E. Victor Lorton; Second district, challengers William H. Pope and Henry Hansen; canvasser, C. Howard Fitzbrook; Third district, challengers, Harold Gloak and Harry Drake; canvasser William Gloak, Jr.; Fourth district challengers, Caspar Stadele and Herbert Adams; canvasser, Caspar Stadele. The next session of the club is to be held Monday evening at Republican headquarters, at which time a series of neighborhood meetings will be arranged.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Considerable campaigning of the "buttonhole" variety has been done in the county fight so far. Of course, the "buttonholing" system is always popular and effective, but it has replaced rallies and fed fire to a greater extent than ever before.

With both the Republican and Democratic county campaigns starting in earnest this week, the belief was expressed by party leaders today that the voters will soon show signs of throwing off the apathetic attitude toward politics that has been so manifest this year. The Republican banquet scheduled for Thursday night in Elizabeth will give the Republican candidates an opportunity to present their platforms and to outline the issues upon which they seek the support of their fellow-citizens. Rutherford B. Franklin, of Summit, has been selected as toastmaster, and John H. Capstick, of Montville, the Congressional nominee, is expected to bring some of his friends down from Morris county to whoop things up for him. No speakers from outside the district have been announced as yet, but if there are no "imported" orators, then there surely will be some of the party's big lights here before election day.

The Democratic organization will get into swing Saturday, when a royally conducted tour of the county will be held with Governor Fielder as the guest. The receptions tendered the Governor in his primary and general election trips through Union in 1913, have not been forgotten by the leaders, who are hopeful for a repitition this year. Of course, there have been local meetings in both parties already, but they have been more in the nature of outpost skirmishing.

BANKERS MEET IN RICHMOND.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 13—This was the opening day of the fortieth annual convention of the American Bankers' Association. Today's proceedings were confined to meetings of the Trust Company, Savings Bank, Clearing House and State Secretaries' sections. The sessions of the association proper will be held tomorrow and Thursday and will include addresses by a number of financiers and public men of national prominence.

TERCENTENARY FETE.

New York, Oct. 13—The New York Commercial Tercentenary Commission has prepared its program for Tercentenary Week, beginning October 24. One of the features will be an automobile pageant, with General Nelson A. Miles and Rear Admiral Peary at the head. The concluding feature on October 31, will be a great industrial, educational, peace and patriotic pageant.

CHAT AND DOPE BASE BALL

By MAC

In the two contests played to date the Plainfield High School warriors give every promise of developing into likely aspirants for the Union county title. The initial contest against Somerset County invaders, proved conclusively that the aggregation this year is far above par, the trouncing administered to Somerville High School coming as a welcome surprise to the red and blue cohorts. Cleaning up on Westfield High School talent yesterday gave the local warriors further prestige to whatever laurels that may be floating around at this writing. The Mt. Ararat youths have been spending some valuable time taking falls out of the best scholastic elevens in this State and only two days before swamped the Pingry eleven with every variety of football. The local players' triumph on Parker Field yesterday is worthy of more than passing comment and we now expect great things from the Ninth street camp during the remaining weeks on the football schedule.

In Referee Woodman the Plainfield youths have a valuable asset to their athletic forces. We have been compelled to comment favorably on this individual's work in the field on past occasions and his performance yesterday afternoon attracted still greater attention from the combatants and non-combatants. Mr. Woodman is what is termed "the man for the job" and his decisions are rarely disputed. His word is law on the field and everyone of the warriors has been brought to realize the referee's intimacy with the football code.

It might be well for Holy Cross to give its cohorts a change in the official line once in a while and sign up Mr. Woodman as an experiment for one contest. We do not want to see the local school's "man of the hour" taken from the red and blue, but would like nothing better than to see him act in the role of referee on Cricket Field some Saturday afternoon. It would be a rare treat for more than one of the borough eleven's ardent supporters.

The double defeat of the Holy Cross eleven over the week-end has come as a big surprise to its many followers. In both of the contests the teams fought furiously for every inch of ground and it is to be regretted that in both instances the red and white was outweighed and in some departments outclassed. Some good football has been provided for the lovers of the sport by Manager Doyle, however, and the local cohorts are willing to admit that their favorites cannot always be left on top when teams of the highest possible calibre are brought to the Queen City terra firma. We're all with you "Doc," win or lose. Keep up the good schedule and the result will soon be apparent.

"Baseball luck" again invaded the Boston Braves' camp yesterday afternoon. In the tenth frame of the world's series conflict Johnny Evers was the central figure in one of the worst "bones" ever pulled on a ball lot, rivaling the one he assisted Fred Merkle in making on the Coogan's Bluff field several years ago. Had it not been for the timely swatting of "Lanky Hank" Gowdy Evers would have been the leading character in the story of the third encounter. As it was Hank stepped to the fore and yanked the laurels down for himself.

Information coming to hand this morning indicates that the Y. M. C. A. basketball squad will be increased two-fold tomorrow night. Some clever performers, who have done some consistent work in other years for various quintets in this section, have decided to cast their lot with the association this season and the result will undoubtedly be the formation of one of the greatest combinations that ever wore basketball suits in this city.

Newark police athletes have effected the formation of a basketball team. Why not a similar movement in the local force? The Plainfield coppers ought to be able to get at least five good performers out of thirty odd patrolmen.

We note that "Bill" Rutledge has redonned football moleskins. Well, it's something that we have been expecting all along. Bill has a habit of going into hibernation at the start of every season but always springs into the limelight before the season gets far under way.

As an end Jack Caulfield is certainly making good with the Holy Cross team. The shift of this man from tackle to the extreme wing was a good move on the part of Coach Martin as he is graced with an abundance of speed and has at his command all the stamina that is necessary for the proper handling of this berth. Before the season draws to a close the followers of the pigskin game will probably witness some individual starring from the Caulfield camp.

The baseball season is fast waning as evidenced by the interest manifested in that attraction on Paker Field Saturday afternoon. The close of the world's series will signal the demise of the 1914 national pastime regime and it has been far from brilliant in these parts. This is the first year in some time that we have been forced to express this opinion of baseball as played in Plainfield, and it is to be hoped that next year will witness a general overhauling in local camps. Rennovation is sadly needed in some quarters and it looks as though some big shakeups were about to occur.

Jack Martin says: "It's all over. You might as well concede the pennant to the Stallings' camp."

But then, you never can tell, Jack. It sometimes pays to stop, look and listen.

FUMBLE PAVED ROAD TO DEFEAT

Holy Cross Goal Line Crossed by Fast Cupid Eleven, of Brooklyn.

SOME HARD BATTLING

Local Boys Could Not Advance the Pigskin to Within Striking Distance of Goal Line—Final Score 6 to 0.

A bad fumble in the last half of the first quarter was the cause of the defeat of the Holy Cross football eleven at the hands of the strong Cupids, of Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, on Cricket Field. The local boys acted in the same way they did in the game Saturday and gave their opponents many chances while their own playing was poor.

Many forward passes were tried and invariably failed, which slowed the game up considerably. When the first period started the home team went in with a rush but was soon stopped and forced to settle down to hard work. About ten yards from the goal line Holy Cross obtained possession of the ball and tried desperately to get out of the dangerous territory and were succeeding to a good extent when the fumble came and a Cupid player pounced on the ball. Holy Cross could not hold them and it only took a few plays for Woodworth, the fullback, to land the ball over the line for six points. The kick failed.

The locals went into the game in the second period and played their hardest but could not seem to break through the strong line of their opponents. The first half of the game ended with the ball near the middle of the field and on the kick off the visitors brought the pigskin back half way to the centre. There were some exciting plays in the last part of the game and several forward passes were successfully worked. After the second half had started the Cupids changed from offensive to defensive tactics and played a tight game without trying to score.

This is the first time the Holy Cross goal has been crossed this season in the three games played. Three new men got into the Holy Cross lineup yesterday and the crowds welcomed back "Bill" Rutledge, who simply could not keep out of the scrimmage, although he stated early in the season he would not play under any conditions. He took his old position at right tackle and played it in his usual style. Jack Fritts was also in uniform and played right half for one quarter and Fred Becker also was put in this position for a short time. The lineups:

Cupid A. C.	Holy Cross
Dutemple	Caulfield, L. Manning left end
Lucke	Lee, Moor

HARVARD HAS A JAP FOOTBALL CANDIDATE.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13—Harvard has a Japanese candidate for the freshman football team. The Jap is Aaio Mural and he seeks a berth at one of the end positions.

"Football is a great game," says Mural, "and while my chances to make the first freshman team may perhaps be slim, I mean to fight it out all the way."

Taio is 18 years old and prepared for Harvard at the Lawrenceville, N. J., school, where he was a member of the football squad.

THREE NEW PLAYERS WILL TRY FOR TEAM

Second Practice of Y. M. C. A. Squad Will Be Held Tomorrow Night.

Four new candidates are expected to report at the regular weekly practice of the Y. M. C. A. basketball squad, tomorrow night, and the fight for the guard positions on the team promises to be hard. Of all the excellent material that has reported thus far one of the best teams in the history of the association will be formed and the captain and officials of the Y. M. C. A. are looking forward to a banner year in this line. Hard practice will begin this week as the management expects to stage the first game Saturday evening, November 7.

The team this year will get more practice than in former seasons, as a second quintet will be formed to keep the regulars in condition and also to act as substitutes for the games. Among the new men who will appear tomorrow night is Bergen Naylor, the fast guard of the Scotch Plains Parish House team last season. He will tryout for a place as guard with Captain Brynairski, but will have plenty of competition. Gavett, the big center of last year, will also be present at the next practice and play in the pivot position.

Two new players, who have had much experience in this line of sport, will report and both are considered guards. They are the production of the borough High School team last year, one being a regular and the other a sub. Ashley Burner and Addison Newkirk are the men. Neither are in school now and will make a good stab for positions.

NETHERWOODS TAKE ONE FROM CENTURY BALLISTS

The fast going Highlanders triumphed over the Century Rubber team Sunday afternoon, by a score of 10 to 5. After the Century team scored three runs in the second inning, Denny pitched invincible ball, holding the hard hitting Century sluggers at his mercy throughout the remaining part of the game. Besides pitching a great game Denny struck out fourteen. "Kats" Miller also pitched a good game.

WHY NOT THIS GAME?

The Royal and Saurer teams were scheduled to cross bats at Parker Field, yesterday afternoon, according to the reports that were handed out about two weeks ago. At that time Columbus Day was se aside for this contest but it never came off.

GOWDY HERO OF BOSTON'S THIRD VICTORY IN HAIR-RAISING FINISH

By JACK MARTIN

Shortstop Philadelphia National League Baseball Club.

Following up my dope of the three preceding days, the Boston Braves, playing superhuman baseball and snatching up every little opportunity that appeared above the horizon at Fenway Park, practically cut and dried the 1914 world's series laurels yesterday afternoon when they took the Connie Mack machine into camp in one of the greatest title conflicts ever played. No one can fittingly describe the tactics employed by George T. Stallings, "the miracle man" of baseball, at the Hub yesterday afternoon. Driving his campaign worn players at a killing pace for twelve long rounds, the famous leader was rewarded with a triumph that has set the baseball world aglow. Those who favored the Athletics and gloated over their work of past seasons have been forced to hide in the background. The staunchest followers of the long and lean Philly manager and his wonderful crew of players are now ready to concede the 1914 gonfalon to the Beantown players. The Boston team has already been treated to an appetizing taste of the good things that go with victory. Confidence reigns supreme in the "Royal Rooters'" camp and little short of a miracle can onw deprive the Braves of the title. However, the day of miracles in baseball has passed. In other words, "there's nothing to it." All that's left is the shouting and that is already resounding from every street corner in Boston and each player who dares shove his cranium out of a hotel door is pestered to death by victory-mad world's series bugs.

The supply of good things in store for the winner is unlimited and the Boston Braves are getting one big, bountiful share of the melon that is now ripe for cutting. There is gloom in the Philly camp and even the players themselves are resigned to defeat. While the Mack delegation may take the contest on the card this afternoon it is a well known fact that the Beantown aggregation has a wholesome regard for its ol dhome town and a return trip to Philadelphia is not desired. Boston fans await the drawing of the 1914 curtain this afternoon and the members of the club are already starting to pack up their duds for departures to family firesides where they will be objects of individual idolism.

Mentioning the name of Gowdy summarizes yesterday's triumph. Gowdy was the man wh osent the take-off hit out in the early stages of the contest. His initial bingle put the Boston machine in working order. After the Phillies had gained an apparent victory in the tenth it was Gowdy who cracked out the four cushion lick that put them in the running again. Once more in the twelfth his big stick came to the fore and he was the man responsible for the Boston verdict as the shades of night were falling fast. In the dusk of the evening Mann romped across the gutta percha with the great big tally of the issue and Gowdy's name soared to lofts that carried it to all quarters of the globe. It will be a memorable day to the big backstop as well as to the Boston fans. Whether or not he makes good with the club next year is immaterial at this instant. He now has a laurel that will go with him to the grave and the big awkward youth, who at the beginning of the series was thought by some to be the one clog in the Braves' machine, has gained the coveted triumph of every player, but one which few ever realize.

Baseball fans who have never been in Fenway Park cannot realize the distance from the home plate to the centre field fence. I have played on the field and know that Gowdy had to treat the horsehide sphere to one unmerciful wallop in order to carry it floating over the tier of seats. In my estimation such a clout at the Polo Grounds would have landed on the "L" tracks, and by this comparison scoreboard fans will be able to get some idea of the real distance negotiated by the pill.

The five men I picked to shine in the series are living up to standard I established for them with the possible exception of Connolly. He has failed to come through with his little contribution of sensatfonalism and his friends are still watchfully waiting his mount to the pedestal of fame. Deal continues to cover himself with glory. His ball playing has been little short of phenomenal. Prior to the big series he was a bench warmer and jumping into such a conflict after a month's visitation on the bench is remarkable, in view of the fact that he is turning some wonderful stunts around the difficult corner.

INITIAL GAME A VICTORY FOR BOROUGH FOOTBALLISTS

The North Plainfield A. C. football team won its first game of the season, yesterday, on Parker Field, when it disposed of the Netherwood A. C. warriors by the score of 19 to 0.

The winners started the game with line charges, but after the first half changed their tactics and played an open game. Barto crossed the line once and Maurer accounted for a pair of touchdowns. The lineups:

North Plainfield	Netherwood
Conroy, J. Hebert	Mumford
left end
S. Harper	Dennison left tackle
H. Todd	Schmidt left guard
Smith	Lindsey
centre
J. Hebert	Horan

N. A. C.	0	0	0	0	— 0

Touchdowns, Maurer 2, Barto; kicked goal, Clay; referee, Lewis; time of quarters, first and fourth, 10 minutes; second and third, 8 minutes.

AMOS STRUNK WILL PLAY NO MORE THIS SEASON

Boston, Oct. 12—Strunk, center fielder for the Philadelphia club, will be out of the game for the rest of the series, it was learned last night. When the Philadelphia players returned from Fenway Park they found Strunk with one hand heavily bandaged on account of an abscess, which had been forming for several days.

His loss will be felt particularly by the Athletics, because up to yesterday he was the only one of the American Leaguers hitting anywhere near true form. Walsh will take Strunk's place.

SECOND GAME OF SERIES WILL BE PLAYED THURSDAY

The Plainfield Eagles bowling team will entertain their Somerville brothers on the local alleys Thursday night in the second game of the second series of three games between these two lodges. The county seaters have one game on the locals in this series, but the Queen City pinners already have won a series by taking two out of three games.

In the first meeting the locals lost the first game and won the next two straight and they have hopes of doing he same thing this time. The two teams are very evenly matched and always bowl good games.

and some large cunners were picked up by all of the boats, but the catches did not run high in numbers. The Anthony R., Sophie, Sea Bird and several others of the Newark fleet started in at the Ambrose Channel Light, and later on shifted to the Seventeen Fathoms banks. One place was about as good as the other, only a few fish being picked up at each new spot.

An Orange fisherman returned yesterday from a week's fishing in the Delaware River near Stroudsburg. He reports the river rather low, but says the bass are biting well.

One angler landed a seven-pound blackfish and several others that ran smaller, on a trip aboard the Tarus at the Seventeen Fathoms banks yesterday.

PRACTICE FOR HOPE CHAPEL TEAM WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

Coach Jack Martin has called a practice for his Hope Chapel crew at the chapel gym tonight and all candidates are requested to be present. Martin is pleased with the material that he has to train and expects to put out a winning aggregation this season. Only a short practice will be held tonight with possibly a short period of scrimmage.

The opening game is little over three weeks off and training will begin in earnest next week. The preliminary practice of shooting and passing help a good deal in the development of the team. Practice will start at 8 o'clock.

HOPE CHAPEL'S OPPONENT LOSES ITS FIRST GAME

The Colonial basketball team, of Elizabeth, old rivals of local teams, won from the All-Newarks, to the tune of 37 to 16, Saturday. The Colonials had an easy time all the way through the game and played a fast game for the first. All of last year's men were present and the same old team work prevailed.

Hope chapel players should take notice as the All-Newarks come to this city for the chapelites opening game November 7. One of the forwards, the center and one guard did all the scoring for the Newarks while the guard men appeared to be very weak on the defense.

SAW BIG GAME.

Preston M. Dunning, formerly of the borough, but now of Norwood, Mass., was one of the 35,520 fans who cheered the Boston team on to victory at Fenway Park, yesterday, in the third game of the big series.

"NEIGHBORHOOD MEETINGS" TO BE HELD BY REPUBLICANS

The Fourth Ward Republican Club has completed plans for two neighborhood meetings to be held this week. The first is to be held at the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest tomorrow evening, and the other to be held at the club rooms of the Plainfield Association Football Club on South Second street, Friday evening.

These gatherings are to be addressed by Councilman Leighton Calkins, candidate for Mayor, and Councilman Francis J. Blatz, who is seeking reelection from the Fourth ward. It is expected that Frank H. Smith, candidate to succeed himself as county register, and John J. Carroll, chairman of the city committee, will address the meetings.

OWLS TO JOIN FUNERAL BENEFIT ASSOCIATION

American Nest, No. 1,327, Order of Owls, at the next meeting will take a vote on which of the funeral benefit organizations the local nest will affiliate with. The uniting with a funeral benefit socity will increase the death benefit $150, making it $250 with a slight increase in dues.

All members are requested to be present at the next meeting as several points in changing the by-laws will come up.

TOMLINSON Y MEETING.

The Tomlinson Y will hold a meeting this evening at the home of James Dunwell, 411 East Seventh street. President Robert Butler will be in charge of the meeting, having recovered from a short illness, and he requests the attendance of all the members. An elaborate social program has been arranged.

ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE.

The Junior O. U. A. M., Uniformed Rank, of Mt. Bethel, is planning for an entertainment and dance to be held at the Mountain House, of that place, Saturday evening, October 24. The entertainment will be concluded with dancing. Prof. Naylor's orchestra, of this city, will play.

CAPT. FLANNERY TO ENTERTAIN

Captain Ted Flanery will entertain the members of Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, at his home in Scotch Plains, Thursday night. The boys will leave K. of P. lodge rooms on the 8 o'clock trolley. This event promises to be a delightful affair.

WILLIAM NEWCORN CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Encouraging Reports at Annual Meeting of Temple Sholem.

Temple Scholem held its first annual meeting last evening, at which time a large number were in attendance, and much business of a routine nature transacted. The reports presented by the committees, officers and Board of Trustees were encouraging, and indicated that much had been accomplished during the first year of organized life.

Rabbi M. Shoenbram, who has been pastor of the congregation during the past year, was re-engaged for another term of one year. One name was added to the membership roll. The question of leasing or buying another building for quarters was discussed at length and referred to a committee composed of Samuel Schwartz, Herman Schwed and Herbert Schuldenfrei. Preliminary plans for the annual ball to be held shortly after the first of the year were made and referred to the following committee: Adolph Tepper, William Schloss, Lewis Levin, Herbert Schuldenfrei, Dr. Raphael Yood, L. M. Livingston and Samuel Rothberg.

The following were elected to the Board of Trustees for the ensuing year: Herman Schwed, William Newcorn Emanuel Schloss, Jacob Tepper, Herbert Schuldenfrei, Dr. Raphael Yood, Samuel Schwartz, Victor Drellich and Max Tepper. The board, in turn, elected the following officers: President, William Newcorn; vice president, Jacob Tepper; secretary, Herbert Schuldenfrei; treasurer, Herman Schwed. Mr. Newcorn was elected to the presidency only after Herman Schwed, the retiring officer, declined to serve another term.

Standing committees for the year were appointed to serve for a period of one year as follows: Ritual and choir, Jacob Tepper, Victor L. Drellich and Emanuel Schloss; Bible school, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tepper and Mrs. William Newcorn; finance committee, Max Tepper, Dr. Raphael Yood and L. M. Livingston. After the formal business session came to a close, a number of short addresses were made by the officers, during which Mr. Newcorn, the new president, delivered one of his characteristic addresses of encouragement.

FUNERAL OF JOHN GULICK IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of John N. Gulick was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the late home 15 Park place, North Plainfield, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including a delegation from the Carpenters' Union, of which Mr. Gulick was a member. Rev. C. C. Cain, pastor of Grace M. E. church, officiated at the service, reading the Scripture, making a prayer and a short address.

The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers, all members of the Carpenters' Union, were Herman Overland, John Snyder, S. S. Smalley, Garret Mattis, Morgan Stites and Frank DeCamp.

SUFFRAGE TEA ROOM OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

The opening of the tea-room at the suffrage headquarters at 128 East Front street, yesterday afternoon, was most successful. Many of the women who attended Miss Mary Antin's lecture at the Monday Afternoon Club meeting dropping in after the lecture. They said that those who had heard Miss Antin reveal to them a new standard of American womanhood had their fears dispelled as to what they would do when granted the right to vote.

The tea-room will be a daily feature of the campaign work of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield which has been undertaken along aggressive lines. The women will soon begin their canvass of every voter in Plainfield and North Plainfield.

MISS ROWLEY ENTERTAINED AT HER HOME LAST NIGHT

Miss Jubilee Rowley, of the borough, entertained a number of her schoolmates and friends at her home on Grove street, last evening. There were about twenty-five present and the evening was spent in dancing. A musical program was also enjoyed consisting of selections on the piano by the guests and the victrola.

Shortly after midnight light refreshments were served by the hostess' mother, who was assisted by Mrs. W. O. Taylor. Those present were the Misses Edith Dalley, Ann Hull, Lucy Douglass, Mabel Douglass, Lillian Spencer, Madeline Blair Dorothy Martin, Margaret Ewart, Marjorie Burtis, Elizabeth Hilpot, Amelia Brizzie Jubilee Rowley, and Russell Lee, Duclos VanMater, Ralph Smalley, Augustus VanDeventer, Hoyt Tomkinson, Lester Chandler, Warren Townley, William Taylor, Roy Love, Franklin Rowley and Ralph Taylor.

WOMEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE FROM INJURY

Dunellen Party Collided With Newark Man's Auto at "Death Curve."

Four Dunellen young women in an automobile touring car had a lucky escape from serious injury at "Death Curve," on Springfield road, near Westfield, yesterday afternoon, when the vehcle in which they were riding collided at right angles with a car of a similar type owned and driven by C. W. Sandy, of Newark. Mrs. A. L. Barton, the driver of the car, was accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Hanley, Miss Florence Gangloff and Mrs. Lewis T. Underhill.

They were driving to Morristown and had reached a point on Springfield road near Broad street when the car owned by Mr. Sandy suddenly appeared in front, having rounded the corner. The latter driver became confused and swerved his machine directly into the path of the Barton auto and a collision followed. Both cars were turned completely around, but no one in the mixup was injured, although several of the women were shaken up considerably.

This incident is one of eight that have occurred at this juncture within the last couple of months. Each of the previous accidents have resulted in injuries to those involved in the affairs. The curve at this point is a particularly bad one as the autoist rounding the turn is completely hidden from anything in front until he is directly upon it.

MISS MARJORIE RANDALL WEDS CHARLES VANWINKLE

Miss Marjorie Randall, of this city, and Charles VanWinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas VanWinkle, of Somerset street, were married by Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, at his home on the Valley road, at 8 o'clock last night. The wedding was a very quiet one, there being only a few relatives and friends present to witness the ceremony. The couple was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. William G. Myers and her husband, of this city, and other members of the party were Miss Winifred VanWinkle, Miss Hattie VanWinkle and William Richmond.

After the ceremony a reception was given the couple at the home of the groom's parents. Both the bride and her attendant were gowned in blue and each carried large bouquets of chrysanthemums.

The bride was a member of the class of 1911 of North Plainfield High School, but left that institution about three years ago. She is well-known here and has a large circle of friends. The groom is in business with his father in this city.

WOMAN HURT IN ACCIDENT WAS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. John Gottleigh, of Scotch Plains, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, suffering from injuries said to have been sustained in an automobile crash on Springfield road. The police have only a meagre report of the accident coming from the hospital authorities and the details are unknown.

She was removed to the institution in an automobile owned by J. F. Huntsman, of Watchung avenue, and at the hospital this morning it was said that her injuries are not of a serious nature.

MISS VIOLET BURNER WEDS K. H. STUART

Ceremony is Performed by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring in Presence of Relatives.

Miss Violet D. Burner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Burner, of Jackson avenue, the borough, and Kenneth H. Stuart, son of Mrs. Geargiana Stuart, of Grove street, the borough, were quietly married at 7 o'clock last evening. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony at his home on West Front street. Only the members of the immediate families were present. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride, who wore a traveling gown, was attended by her sister, Miss Elsie Burner, as bridesmaid, and Russell Brennan, of this city, was the best man. Immediately following the ceremony the couple left on a trip. They will reside with the bridegroom's mother on Grove street, and will be "at home" after October 26.

The bride has been employed until recently as bookkeeper with the Thompson Automobile Company, of Park avenue. Mr. Stuart is the proprietor of the Waldorf shoe store on West Front street and is one of Plainfield's most progressive merchants. Both are well known here and have a large circle of friends.

RECREATION NOTES

The Italian Social and Educational Club held a very successful meeting last night, at the Lincoln School. There were about seventy members present. There was a short business meeting in which Mr. Colletta was elected president of the club; Mr. Di Lenardo vice-president; Miss Brancati secretary, and Mrs. Meese treasurer. There was a very pleasing musical and literary program after which dancing was enjoyed.

The Dramatic Club meets tonight at 8:15 in the Washington School. There will be rehearsals of the two plays, "My Lord in Livery" and "Sarah's Young Man."

The Choral Society, directed by S. Frederick Smith, will hold its first meting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Franklin School Auditorium.

The Needlecraft Club will meet with Miss Rogers for the first time tonight at 8 o'clock in the Washington School. Any girls who are interested in needlework are cordially invited. A social hour will follow the regular class lesson.

The Italian Club will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School.

HONOR MEMORY OF J. P. NOLTING

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson Unveils a Tablet at Grace Church.

The tablet erected by friends at Grace church in memory of John Paul Nolting, for several years a vestryman and zealous worker in the parish, as unveiled following the 7:30 o'clock service at the church Sunday morning. The tablet occupies a prominent place, and is a deserving tribute to one who devoted so much of his time and effort to the church. Mr. Nolting died on October 26. The inscription on the tablet is as follows:

1870-1913
To the memory of
JOHN PAUL NOLTING,

This tablet is raised near the spot where for years as vestryman duty and the joy of service in equal measure ever led him. Unquestioning in faith, helpful and tender with the weak, strong in purpose and accomplishment, his example is cherished by a host of friends who here affectionately pay their tribute to him.

NOON DAY LUNCHEONS POPULAR WITH PUPILS

More than seventy-five school pupils of the Bryant School patronized the noon time lunch which re-commenced for the season as that school today under the direction of the Mothers' Association, of this city. Members of the committee in charge of the lunch this noon were Mrs. R. G. Newman and Mrs. H. P. Stevens.

Several teachers in the Lincoln School walked to the Bryant School to partake of the tasty and nutritious food served to the pupils. Lunch will be served at the Bryant School every noon hereafter until the close of the school term next June.

PLAN FOR ANNUAL REUNION OF CO. K

At the regular Monday night drill and meeting of Company K, Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., last night, plans were made for the annual reunion and reception of the company. All who have attended former reunions held by Company K boys know this will be a gala event when the spirit of true comradeship will reign supreme.

Sergeant Apgar was chosen as chairman of the general committee in charge of the coming event. It has not as yet, been decided whether the reunion, to be featured with a banquet, will be held in the armory or some other adequate place.

The boys were put through drilling and school of squads last night.

JACOB KRINEY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Jacob Kriney, of Clinton avenue, who died suddenly Saturday noon, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, at which time a large number of friends and relatives were in attendance. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

RECEIVED WORD OF DEATH OF HER FIANCE IN WEST

Miss Olive Schreibweis, of Watchung avenue, has received the sad news of the sudden death of her fiance, Dr. William G. Browne, of Los Angeles, Cal. While visiting in Plainfield Dr. Browne was attacked with appendicitis and an operation was performed in San Francisco and the victim died from the effects.

The wedding was to have taken place Saturday, November 7, at Greenwich, Conn. Miss Schreibweis is a graduate nurse of Muhlenberg Hospital in the class of 1909.

MISS ELIZABETH KNAPP DIES IN THE BOROUGH

Miss Elizabeth E. Knapp, of Brooklyn, aged fifty-two years, daughter of Milton and the late Susan J. Knapp, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her father, 67 Mercer avenue, North Plainfield.

Miss Knapp has been visiting her father for the past five weeks, during which time she was taken sick. Death was attributed to complications. Her father is the only near relative which survives. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be private.

MISS RUTH VAN VLIET TO WED MARTIN C. FAWCETT

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Deuse Mairs Van Vliet, of Washington avenue, to the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Gray Van Vliet, and Martin Cathcart Fawcett, on Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of October, at eight o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. David Nevius Groendyke, 91 Mercer avenue. A reception will follow the marriage ceremony at half after eight o'clock.

GRASS FIRE.

The borough fire department was called out yesterday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock to extinguish a grass fire on Myrtle avenue, near West End avenue. Raymond Schmidt, of the department, had his hand slightly burned at the time, but to no great extent.

It really seems as if there were no limit to be set to the variations of the two piece skirt.

This one shows fullness at the upper edge arranged to give the effect of box plaits, while the shaped circular flounce renders it entirely new and individual.

Besides being smart and in every way desirable, the skirt is so simple that any home dressmaker can make it without difficulty. There are only two seams, and the flared flounce is arranged on indicated lines.

In the picture one material is used throughout, but something more of a tunic effect could be obtained by facing the skirt with a contrasting material under and below the flounce, and, if a combination is desirable, such a suggestion may prove helpful.

For the medium size the skirt will require four yards of material twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 34 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8372, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CREAMED VEGETABLES FOR FALL.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Fish au Gratin.
Potato Puff.
Creamed Celery.
Milk Toast.
Hot Gingerbread.
Tea.

CREAMED vegetables are delicious. Then, too, cream and butter, which are two of the chief essentials in their preparation, are decidedly nutritious. Almost any kind of vegetable is nice cooked in this way.

Appetizing Dishes.

Creamed Parsnips.—Take six medium sized parsnips, peel and cut in two. When tender add sufficient hot water to the water in which they were boiled to make a cupful. Stir in a large tablespoonful of butter mixed with a tablespoonful of flour and yelk of an egg, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of pepper and a little cream. Boil all together for a moment.

Creamed Celery.—Take the white stalks and hearts of two bunches of celery and boil them in salted water until nearly tender. Drain and put in a dish to keep hot while a cream sauce is made. Pour sauce over celery.

A Popular Food.

Creamed Baked Potatoes.—Take potatoes, peel, slice them thin and put into a saucepan of boiling water in which are two peeled onions. Cover closely and parboil. Drain off the water, take out the onion. Arrange the potatoes in layers in a baking dish, covering each layer with a white sauce to which a half dozen drops of onion juice have been added. When the dish is full, sprinkle the top with minced parsley and set in the oven to bake.

Green or Ripe Tomatoes.

Creamed Fried Tomatoes.—Take large tomatoes and cut into thick slices. Roll the slices in flour or in cracker dust. Set upon ice for an hour. Have butter or good clean dripping in a frying pan, using enough to cover the slices. Heat and lay in the tomatoes carefully, a few at a time. Fry until tender and lightly browned. Make a white sauce of a roux of butter and flour, stirred to cream with a cupful of milk (or half cream, half milk). When smooth and hot pour over the tomatoes, which should have been drained free of grease and arranged on a hot platter. Green tomatoes are nice cooked in this way.

The Doctor Ordered Some Furniture Made of the New Wood.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Romance of the Mahogany Tree.

"KIDDIES, I have a romance for you tonight, a 'sure nuff' romance about a mahogany tree."

"How can trees have any of that stuff—romance, you call it—about 'em?" asked Jack skeptically.

"Why, the whole world and everything in it is just one great big romance if you can see it that way. A tree is just a tree if you never think of why it's a tree instead of being an elephant or a river or a mountain."

"Well, why is it a tree, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

Daddy laughed. "We can wonder about it all we please, but if we could tell we would know the great mystery of the universe."

"Hum!" said Jack and Evelyn in unison, their young brows wrinkled.

"Tell us the romance, daddy," they begged.

"Very well, kiddies," said daddy, and began:

"The precious mahogany tree is found only in dense primeval forests and never anywhere but in tropical climates.

"So the mahogany tree hunter must make up his mind to many privations. Rocky, mountainous, volcanic soil produces the most beautifully marked wood.

"This monarch of the forest grows to an enormous height and size, and the vast spread of its branches is no less remarkable than the space of ground occupied by the roots.

"The earliest allusion to mahogany occurs in the diary of Cortez between 1521 and 1540. He and his men used it for shipbuilding, and it was upon the island of Santo Domingo, discovered in 1492 by Columbus, that the finest mahogany was found.

"The use of it for furniture and ornaments was quite by accident, so the story goes. A West Indian sea captain sent a few planks of the wood to his brother, Dr. Gibbons of London.

"The doctor was building a new house in Covent Garden and gave the wood to his carpenters to use. But they complained that the wood was too hard, so the planks were laid to one side.

"One day the doctor wanted a candle box, and when the cabinetmaker complained that the wood was too hard the good doctor had tools made especially for the cutting of that wood.

"The box was a wonderful success. It was so beautiful that the doctor ordered some furniture made of the new wood.

"Many of his aristocratic patients saw his new furniture and desired to have some like it, and thus began the devastation of the mahogany tree until now it is a very rare wood indeed, as the supply is practically exhausted."

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful fn a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

TOWNSHIP TAX RATE GETS BIG DECREASE

Thirty Points Reduction Announced by Committee at Meeting Yesterday.

The monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society was held in the town hall in Watchung, last night, and the committee on taxation issued a lengthy report announcing a reduction of 30 points in the rate this year over that of last. The report stated that reasons for this decrease are a four-point reduction in the county rate, a reduction of $800 in the budget of the Township School Board, and reductions in the general needs of the township owing to the business methods adopted by the Township Committee and to the success the committee had had in having won various cases for the taxation of property heretofore unassessed.

In the absence of Dr. Richard Moldenke, Charles C. Wheeler presided at the meeting and following the business session, which included the reading of the reports of the various committees, among them the fire committee's report to the effect that the new auomobile chemical apparatus would be ready for operation in the near future, a fine musical program was enjoyed. Martin A. Korff and his son, Alfred Korff, and Edwin Spear, rendered instrumental selections. Miss Helen Schmidt and Douglas Demler sang several pleasing solos. Miss Harris made an appropriate Columbus Day recitation. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

ITALIANS EXTOLL GENIUS OF COLUMBUS

Bishop Miraglia Makes Interesting Address to Fellow-Countrymen.

Marking the celebration of Columbus Day, a meeting of unusual interest was held at the Italian Mission on East Third street, last night. The room was filled with an enthusiastic audience. The program was enlivened by musical numbers given by the Plainfield Italian Band.

The principal speaker of the evening was Bishop Miraglia, who eloquently extolled the wonderful genius of Columbus. The bishop is a picturesque figure and he wields a fluent and graphic Italian speech and held his audience spell-bound while enlivening his discourse with flashes of wit.

Rev. Mr. Maugione, pastor of the mission, presided, and introduced the speakers, who included former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, Rev. Lewis Bond, and A. DelMonaco, the last named describing the trip of Columbus. Martin A. Korff and his son, Alfred Korff, played a violin and cornet duet. A chorus comprising six members of the church sang "Nabucco." On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings other meetings in continuation of the celebration are to be held, at which Bishop Miraglia will speak. Another feature of last night's meeting was a beautiful solo by Mr. Williams, of Bethel Mission.

NEW OIL LANDS DISCOVERED.

Washington, Oct. 13—Oil lands that may rival in richness any yet developed in the country have been taken over by the Government, says the Interior Department in a statement issued. The lands, 12,553 acres in extent, are situated in the Big Horn Basin, Wyoming, and constitute the only mineral lands withdrawn from public entry in September.

BOROUGH G. O. P. ENDORSE TICKET

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., is Again Chosen Head of Organization.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Captain W. C. Smith and Others Speak Hopefully of the Success of Party Ticket at the November Election—List of Officers.

Unanimous endorsement of the entire local, county and Congressional ticket was given by the North Plainfield Republican Club at its annual meeting in Debele Hall, last night, at which time officers for the year were elected. Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., presided at the meeting, and briefly outlined the work of the campaign, speaking with assurance of the success of the party ticket at the November election.

These officers were elected: President, Mayor Robert, Clark, Jr.; vice-presidents, First district, George F. Brown; Second district, Edmund Rushmore; Third district, Theodore Martin; Fourth district, Julius J. Stahl; Fifth district, William L. Smalley; secretary, Horace Conover; treasurer, Allen Gowperthwaite.

An executive committee, which is to have charge of all matters relating to the campaign, such as arrangements for meetings and sending out literature, was named as follows: First district, J. V. E. Vanderhoef and Fred Armstrong; Second district, Edmund Rushmore and Andrew Lutkins; Third district, Henry DeMott and Frank Kesselring; Fourth district, Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and William C. Smith; Fifth district, Allen Comperthwaite and S. C. Mundy. A finance committee of seven members was named as follows: William C. Smith, Andrew Lutkins, Julius J. Stahl, Allen Cowperthwaite, U. S. Tingley, Edmund Rushmore and J. V. E. Vanderhoef.

The members of the registration committee were appointed by districts as follows: First district, Clarence Smalley and Alexander Milne; Second district, D. C. Gulick and W. W. Rowley; Third district, Charles F. Stahl and William Trembath; Fourth district, Horace Conover, Julius J. Stahl, William Campbell, Dr. J. H. Cooley and L. B. Woolston; Fifth district, D. C. Allen and William Uhrhahn.

Following the transaction of business, there were several short addresses, Captain William C. Smith being one of the principal speakers. He expressed confidence in the success of the Republican ticket in November, provided the members of the party would only stick together as a unit and not allow dissentions to upset the harmonious relations. He urged every Republican to be true to his party and thereby help to elect the entire ticket. In response to an appeal from Mr. Cowperthwaite for a reimbursement of the treasury there was a good response.

The club is in excellent condition and following the organization an aggressive campaign will now be waged right up to and including election day.

TOMLINSON Y. MEET TO ELECT VICE PRESIDENTS

The Tomlinson Y at a meeting held at the home of the treasurer, James W. Dunwell, last night, vice-presidents representing each church were elected as follows: First Baptist, Louis Bennett; Friends, Miss Caroline G. Borton; Presbyterian, Edmund Teel; Trinity Reformed, Miss Edna Oliver.

The committee chairmen were chosen at the last meeting, except poster, Gideon Fountain and Miss Violet Cronce as head of the flower committee. The society expressed its regrets over the loss by resignation of the general secretary, Mrs. William Hamilton, a faithful worker and one of the organizers. Miss Mary Bennett was chosen in her place. After the business meeting a social was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

RECEPTION TO ORCHESTRA.

Under the auspices of the officers and teachers of the Temple Baptist Bible School an informal reception will be given to the school orchestra, Tuesday evening, October 27, at 8 o'clock.

MISSIONARY AND AID MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society, of Warren chapel, will be held in the church parlors, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be no executive meeting.

SESAME CLUB MEETING.

The Sesame Club will meet at the residence of Miss Moyer, 1211 Putnam avenue, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

TWICE ACCUSED OF KNIFING WHITE MAN

William Moosley Arraigned in City Court This Morning to Answer Charge.

Arraigned before the same magistrate the second time for slashing a white man was the experience of William Moosley, colored, when he appeared before the bar of justice in the city court, this morning, and for the second time he escaped the maximum sentence for the offence. Moosley, together with Martin Denlinger, William Berkowitz, Richard Burke and Clarence Coles, the last named also colored, were defendants in court to answer to disorderly charges preferred against them by Superintendent George Luhr, of the Public Service Railway Corporation, and was fined $10 with the option of spending forty days in the county jail. The men were accused of rowdyism in a Main Line trolley car last Sunday night, and Moosley was alleged to have slashed Burke with a sharp instrument, but denied the allegation.

Evidence produced by the Public Service authorities was weak and while it showed that Moosley did cut the white man it failed to convince the court that Burke, Denlinger and Berkowiz were liable to a sentence for disorderly conduct. In disposing of the cases, Judge DeMeza admonished Burke and Denlinger for their part in the fracas, but vindicated Berkowitz and Coles from all part in the affair. They were all in the trolley car when the scuffle between Burke and Moosley took place, and were said to have had some part in the wordy altercation that led up to the stabbing. Burke was cut on the arm and the gash inflicted was not of a serious nature. Several years ago Moosley was held in $1,000 bail for stabbing a man in a local hotel, but escaped conviction when the victim refused to appear against him.

In disposing of the cases against the men, Judge DeMeza said that he was determined to break up rowdyism on trolley cars within the city limits and had the evidence produced been of a substantial nature it is likely that all of the men would have been severely dealt with. Three of the witnesses testified that a Scotch Plains police officer was on the car at the time the fracas took place, but that he refused to arrest the offenders because the trolley had stopped a few feet over the city line.

PORTUGESE COUPLE LOST IN THIS CITY

Got Off the Train Here and Thought They Were in California.

Miss Margaret Louiz, a sixteen-year-old Portuguese girl, and her twelve-year-old brother, got off the 12:59 train at the North Avenue station, this morning, and were found wandering aimlessly about the streets by a policeman. Neither could speak a word of English and the queries of the patrolman gained no response. They were brought to police headquarters and later removed to Muhlenberg Hospital for observation purposes.

It was learned this morning through an interpreter that the two had landed in this country yesterday on board the "Calabria" and were on their way to the home of a brother-in-law in California. No reason could be ascertained for the leaving of the train at the Plainfield depot, but it is thought that the girl believed she had arrived a her destination and was seeking the home of her brother-in-law when taken into custody. The two travelers were placed on the 12:30 train this afternoon by the hospital authorities and resumed their trip.

ROBERT M'CORMACK IS CHOSEN GRAND KNIGHT

Robert McCormack was chosen grand knight of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, at the election of officers, held last night at Columbus Club. The balance of the officers elected are as follows: Deputy grand knight, J. J. Varley; chancellor, E. J. Harding; warden, A. A. Martell; advocate, F. J. Blatz; recorder, Garret Keating; financial secretary, Charles L. Kling; treasurer, John J. Carty; David B. Doyle was elected delegate to the State convention and J. J. Varley was chosen as alternate.

The officers will be installed at the first meeting in November by District Deputy Dolan. A large number of members were present at the election.

LARGE EVENING SCHOOL REGISTRY

Nearly 300 Pupils Enroll for Classes at High School.

OFFER MANY SUBJECTS

Persons From 15 to 50 Years and Representing All Nationalities Are Included Among Those Who Seek Education.

Nearly 300 pupils are now enrolled in the evening High School. About 250 were in actual attendance at the opening last evening. They came from the home, the factory and the office. All walks of life were represented. Persons of all ages ranging from 15 to 50 were present. Of course, all nationalities were represented. Over 90 enrolled for mechanical drawing. In this department it is not possible to take care of this number.

There were large classes in typewriting, stenography, bookkeeping, algebra and geometry. The classes were of a fair size in other subjects. Quite a number enrolled last evening in sewing and cooking. Enrollments will still be received this evening and tomorrow evening. Ushers were stationed at the door and in the halls to direct students where to go so that by 8:30 all were in their rooms and regular class work was begun. Some 15 teachers are required to take care of the classes in the evening High School.

Last year over 200 took grade work at the Stillman building. This work is now conducted in the High School building. The enrollment last night does not quite reach this number, but it is expected that the number will run over 200 before the end of the week, so that the total number of pupils at the evening school will probably be about 500.

Mrs. Sarah L. Wardner is in charge of the elementary department. Her assistants are Miss Helen Trenbath, Miss Alys Trenbath, Miss Mabel Trenbath, Miss Rebea S. White, Miss M. Josephine Skillings, Miss Nora M. Koons, Miss Sarah Watrons, Miss Harriet H. Humphrey, Miss Julia L. Post and Irving Kuntzman.

The evening High School is under the principalship of J. C. Evans, the popular head of the commercial department in the Plainfield High School. Classes were opened as follows:

J. C. Evans, commercial law; Miss Pauline Denton, stenography; Miss Frederica Quentin, stenography; Miss Dorothea Bull, typewriting; Roy W. Lord, bookkeeping; Miss Dorothy Tate, arithmetic and bookkeeping; Miss Nellie Waterbury, writing and arithmetic; Henry R. Hubbard, grammar, corespondence and spelling; Lester D. Beers, algebra and geometry; Miss Alice M. Lindsley, sewing; Miss Evelyn Fisher, dressmaking; Miss Lucile Jackson, cooking; Henry F. Oesting, shopwork, woodwork; Charles R. Bostwick, mechanical drawing.

The classes occupy twenty-six schoolrooms. This, in addition to the health exhibit and lectures in the auditorium and gymnasium made the school a very busy place last night. Additional enrollments are expected tonight, but no further enrollments will be received in the High School classes after this week.

One of the objects of the evening school is to enable persons to "find themselves," hence a large degree of freedom in electing subjects is necessary. If a pupil begins a subject and finds he is not adapted to it, or for any other reason, wants to change, this change may be permitted. The pupils should be sent to the office (room 245) with any suggestions that the teacher may desire to make, in fact the teacher may accompany the pupil to explain the situation, if it seems desirable to do so. The changes should be made through the office in order that a record may be kept of work being done, and the whereabouts of the pupils, known.

CHARLES FERRARO WEDS MISS LA BAR

Miss Ruby LaBar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry LaBar, of New street, and Charles Ferraro, of Somerset street, the borough, were married at 7 o'clock last evening. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, performed the ceremony at his home on Central avenue. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Phillips, of this city, Mrs. Phillips being a sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Ferraro will reside in this city, where the groom is employed as a salesman.

HONOR MEMORY OF FATHER MILLER

Month's Mind Mass of Requiem Held at St. Joseph's Church.

MANY PRIESTS ATTEND

Eloquent Eulogies and Special Music Features of Impressive Service Held for the Beloved Prelate—Monsignor Fox Among Visitors.

The demise of Rev. Father William H. Miller, the idolized rector of St. Joseph's church, occured a month ago today, and in faithful reverence of his memory, his former parishoners and clerical associates gathered in St. Joseph's, this morning, for a month's mind solemn high mass of requiem. The edifice was filled with a gathering that included many relations and friends of the deceased, together with thirty priests from all parts of the State.

Rev. Monsignor Fox, of Trenton, vicar-general of the diocese, attended in the unavoidable absence of Bishop McFaul.

Those celebrating the mass were all closely associated with Father Miller, and were as follows: Rev. Father Zimmer, of Raritan, celebrant; Rev. Father Dunphy, of Dunellen, deacon; Rev. Father Dittrich, of Atlantic City, sub-deacon, and Rev. Father John Baldwin, of Mt. St. Mary College, master of ceremonies. Rev. Father Leahy, of Spring Lake, made the address during which he eulogized the beloved priest and spoke the words of comfort so keenly appreciated by those bereft of his companionship and counsel.

The musical portion of the service was in charge of James E. Bailey, assisted by A. E. LaPorte and Mrs. Alfred Seidel. Mrs. Harry G. DeMeza presided at the organ and the boy's choir sang.

The attending priests were as follows: Fathers Roche, of Asbury Park; Eagan, of Sea Bright; Swartze and Ryan, of New Brunswick; Langan, of Far Hills; McGrath, of Stony Hill; Caton, of Hampton; O'Connor, of Metuchen; Kennedy and Lane, of South Amboy; Hart and Poli, of St. Joseph's; Streuski, of South Amboy; Terrill, of Rahway; Sciolla and Bogan, of St. Mary's; Ryan, of Somerville; Casey, of Trenton; McEmery, of Caldwell; Hogan, of Newark, and Gilfillan, of Sayreville.

ANNUAL REUNION OF THE ELEVENTH N. J. REGIMENT

The annual reunion of the Veteran Association, Eleventh Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will be held at New Brunswick, on Saturday, October 24, in Brunswick Hall, Church street. The morning session will convene at 10:30, adjourn for dinner, returning to the hall again at 1:30 p. m. to enjoy a social "Camp Fire," to which all persons are welcome.

The afternoon exercises wil consist of brief addresses by various comrades, and singing some of the old familiar war songs. Those comrades for whom "taps" have not yet sounded and who cannot be present will please write the assistant secretary by return mail, giving their correct address, in order that he can report that they are still on the firing line.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION BECOMES VERY GRAVE

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Mexican situation today assumed graver proportions than at any time since the occupation of Vera Cruz. Secretary Garrison telegraphed to Governor Hunt, of Arizona, expressing disapproval by the Administration of the Governor's intention to send State troops to the border at Naco, Arizona.

LOCAL MOTORIST KILLED IN CRASH

Arnold E. Finkle Dies as Result of Injuries Sustained Last Night.

CYCLE HIT A WAGON

Witnesses Say Driver of Motorcycle Was Speeding Fifty Miles an Hour When His Machine Crashed Into Farm Wagon on South Avenue.

Speeding west on South avenue on a motorcycle that was traveling at a rate said to have been fifty miles an hour, Arnold E. Finkle, of 333 Emerson avenue, crashed into a horse and farm wagon at 7.3 o'clock, last night, and sustained injuries that resulted in his death in Muhlenberg Hospital at 3 o'clock this morning. Witnesses of the accident claim that the motorist was running his machine at its greatest speed on the wrong side of the thoroughfare and that the wagon, owned and driven by George T. Lukins, of Picton, was proceeding along at little more than a walk.

The fact that the wagon was traveling east and the motorcycle west, caused Finkle to crash headlong into the horse's chest and the heavy motor propelled vehicle struck the animal with terrific velocity. The equine's right fore leg was splintered between the hoof and the flank, the bones protruding out of the skin in a number of places. So great was the agony that the animal suffered that it was deemed advisable to shoot it at once.

Finkle's body was hurled against the horse with such force that it rebounded several feet, the unfortunate man landing on his head on the macadam. The top of his head was split from one side to the other, his brains protruding from an ugly gash. He was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital where he lingered in an unconscious condition until this morning.

The heavy steel parts of the motorcycle on which the victim rode were bent double by the force of the collision. When picked up by spectators it was a tangled mass of iron and steel, fit only for the junk pile. Lukins, who was driving the rig, was badly shaken up, but sustained no injuries. Those witnesses interviewed by Police Chief Kiely following the accident claim that the motorcyclist was running in great excess of the speed limit and that the dead man was entirely to blame for the smash. It was dark when the accident happened and the wagon was carrying lights at the time, according to the police.

The circumstances surrounding the accident are particularly sad inasmuch as Finkle, together with his wife and one child had recently moved into their new home on Emerson avenue. Sought by the police after the accident, Mrs. Finkle was found at the tuberculosis exhibit in the High School, and when acquainted with the sad details of her husband's catastrophe she was completely overcome.

Finkle was employed as a clerk in the Westfield postoffice and was in the habit of going back and forth to that town on his motorcycle. He was of a quiet, unassuming disposition. Lukins was arrested following the accident and after being held at police headquarters all night, was released this morning, evidence obtained by Chief Kiely vindicating the wagon driver of any blame for the death of the motorcyclist.

County Register Frank H. Smith, of this city, was on his way to attend a political meeting and had just passed the point of the accident as it occurred. He has his chauffeur stop his car and return, after which Mr. Smith rendered "first aid" to the injured man. He summoned Dr. Thomas D. Blair and the ambulance and saw that all that was possible was done for the motorcycle victim.

MISS AGNES VAIL IS GIVEN VERDICT FOR $1,300

Elizabeth, Oct. 14.—Miss Agnes Vail, who sued Chas. L. Dana, Jr., and his wife, Katharine, to recover for injuries sustained by Dana's automobile November 9, 1913, in Piscataway township, got a verdict for $1,300 in the Circuit Court, yesterday afternoon. The verdict was against both defendants. The jury was out an hour.

In charging the jury Judge Speer advised the jurors to consider the fact that Mrs. Dana, who was driving the car, had no license, if they believed the lack of a license on her part had any bearing on the accident. A three weeks' permit was held by Mr. Dana. Charles A. Reed, of counsel for the plaintiff, in summing up, said that reckless driving was responsible for most accidents and damage suits.

GERMANS PREPARE TO BESIEGE BELFORT, STRONGEST FORTRESS IN FRANCE; PRZEMYSL UNDER FIRE

MADRID HEARS THAT PORTUGAL HAS DECLARED WAR ON GERMANY, AND LISBON REPORT GERMAN RESIDENTS HAVE LEFT.

GERMANS MAY BE IN OSTEND-CITIZENS LEAVE

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Now Threatened by Germans; Vienna Report Says Przemysl Garrison Has Been Relieved But Russians Say Not—Prepare for Belgian Government at Havre.

London, Oct. 14, (Central News Cable)—It is officially announced at Petrograd that the seige of Przemysl is progressing. According to a despatch to the Reuters Telegram Company from the Russian capital, the Russian artillery is rapidly destroying the forts, which, however, continue an energetic resistance. The Przemysl garrison, it is announced, does not exceed 30,000 men.

A news agency despatch from Petrograd says that it has been announced officially that two German submarines were destroyed during the attack on the Russian cruiser Pallada.

Report of a revolt of part of the forces of the South African Union, formerly under the command of General Beyers, is contained in a despatch received at the Colonial Office from Capetown. The despatch reads:

"Since the resignation of General Beyers as commander-in-chief of the union forces, demonstrations of indignation and disloyalty have occurred among the forces in the southwestern provinces, which were under the command of Colonel Maritz The Governor sent Colonel Britz to supersede Colonel Maritz, but that officer insolently refused to give any explanation and took prisoner the messenger sent to his camp. Colonel Maritz then sent an ultimatum to the government that if certain demands were not immediately conceded he would attack the Royal forces and invade the Union.

"Colonel Maritz has in his possession German guns and it is reported that he has been given the rank of general, commanding the troops. He has a force of Germans under him in addition to his own rebel command."

It is reported here but not confirmed that the Germans have captured Ostend. No details have been received as yet. It is believed that the Belgian army headed by King Albert is safe and soon will be able to strike a blow at the enemy. The forces that are reported as having taken Ostend approached that place from Ypres, Courtrai and Eecloo.

Montenegrin forces under General Vukovitch in Bosnia have defeated a force of 16,000 Austrians south of Sarajevo, according to a despatch received by a news agency from Cettinje.

Copenhagen, Oct. 14, (Central News Cable)—The Germans are preparing to besiege Belfort, the capital of the French department of the same name. This is the strongest fortress in France. The Germans will send the largest force that can be concentrated against the fortress.

Madrid, Oct. 14, (Central News Cable)—Portugal has declared war against Germany, according to a despatch from Lisbon, which cannot be confirmed from official sources.

Lisbon, Oct. 14, (Central News Cable)—As a result of cabinet meetings and conferences of party leaders with the President, it has been resolved to convoke Congress on Friday to pass a vote for the mobilization of troops. It is reported that the German minister to Portugal and other German residents of Portugal are about to leave for Madrid.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The war office this afternoon gave out the following statement:

"First, on our left wing as far as the Oise, operations are pursuing their normal course; second, at the centre the progress of our army in the region of Barry au Bac is confirmed; third, on our right wing there is nothing new.

"In the Belgium theatre of war in the region of Ghent some engagements took place on the nights of October 12 and 13 and during the day of October 13. Some Anglo-French troops occupied Ypres."

Vienna, Oct. 14.—The following official bulletin was given out at the War Office last night:

"Our offensive has reached the River San after numerous victorious fights. The Russians have failed to cross the Vistula in Russian Poland." A later official bulletin is to the effect that Przemysl has been wholly relieved. What remains of the hostile army has been attacked. "Jarosalau and Lezagsk are in our possession."

Copenhagen, Oct. 14.—The steamship Frederik VIII sailed today for New York, taking the last party of Americans who have been stranded here. The vessel was crowded. The American Consul General made it known today that if any more needy Americans desire to return the Standard Oil Company's steamer, John D. Rockefeller, would arrive shortly and the company had offered free transportation.

Bombay, Oct. 14 (Central News Cable)—Joseph Blum, formerly German Consul here, was arrested yesterday at the instance of the censor. His offices were sealed preparatory to an official search.

Tokio, Oct. 14.—It is reported that the German commander at Tsing Tau has agreed to the Japanese proposals for the preservation of the lives of non-combatants in the German fortress, and it is expected that the neutrals will leave Tsing Tau shortly by way of the Shantung Railway.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Word that a great battle had begun in Russian Poland was received at the Russian Embassy today. The despatch follows:

"The battle has begun on a line from the country around Warsaw along the Rivers Vistuala and San to Przemysl and further to the south of the River Dneister. In East Prussia the situation remains unchanged."

The despatch adds that a fierce battle is in progress on the left bank of the Vistula River. The fighting is raging on the road leading to Ivangorod and Warsaw. No details were given. The impression given is that

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the First Baptist church, met in the lecture room of the church this afternoon.

WILL ATTEND MEET.

It is expected that Crow Troop, No. 1, and Columbus Troop, of the local Council of Boy Scouts of America, will hike down to Parker Field, Friday, to attend the meet to be held by the Plainfield Council Boy Scouts of America. It is urgently requested that all the Boy Scouts attend this meet, as it will show them the most excellent and efficient results which can be obtained through co-operative work and the great benefits which can be derived by all boys who may join any of the local patrols or troops. It is, of course, regretted that the local boys will be unable to take part in any of the events this year, this principally being due to the fact that all entries are to be strictly confined to Plainfield Boy Scouts. It is expected, however, next year that events will be open to all troops in the vicinity of Plainfield, at which time it will certainly be the desire of the local troops to take part in all events to which they may have entry. The boroughites are requested to attend this meet, if possible, and see what the movement means in order that a desire may be created to assist in any possible manner the local council in their endeavor to make the local movement a most worthy success.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Hoch, of Somerville, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ronayne, of Front street, on Monday evening.

William T. Piddington, Jr., of Whittier avenue, has been ill with a sore throat and a cold.

DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS.

Announcement was made at last night's monthly meeting of the Piscataway Township Taxpayers' Association that the superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Coal Storage plant at South Plainfield had been informed that sixty of the employes of his plant were delinquent Piscataway township poll tax payers, and that he had caused a notice to be posted in the plant that all who would not pay their just taxes would be discharged. Much favorable comment was elicited by the action of the superintendent.

A committee composed of, John Gray, H. C. Pierce and Mr. Ross was formed to go over the revised telephone franchise. The affairs of the township farm were discussed at length and in this [illegible] of the Township [illegible] pressed satisfaction over the manner in which it was being run by the new overseer, Mr. Walters.

ATTENDED FUNERAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert LeRoy Pierce attended the funeral of Mrs. Pierce's brother, William P. Dunn, at the late home in Stelton, this afternoon. Mr. Dunn died in the eighty-second year at 3 o'clock on Monday morning. He was a member of the Stelton Baptist church and the last of the old deacons. Besides his sister Mr. Dunn is survived by three children, Mrs. Herbert Runyon, of New Durham; Mrs. Edward C. Potter, of Metuchen, and William Dunn, Jr., of Stelton. Interment was at the Presbyterian cemetery, Metuchen, where the body was laid at rest beside that of his wife.

Edward Shepherd and family, of Plainfield, were Columbus Day guests of Mr. Shepherd's aunt, Mrs. Mary Chapin, of Glen Gardner.

'Plains & Fanwood.

A meeting of the Past Councilors Association of Union county will be held in Scotch Plains, tomorrow night. Charles Elliot is secretary of the association and has charge of the arranging of the meetings.

Mrs. E. J. Gottlieb, of Scotch Plains, is now in Muhlenberg Hospital, where she is recovering from the effects of being thrown from a wagon on the Springfield road, near Westfield, when she was returning from Mountainside on Monday evening. The wagon in which she was riding collided with another wagon going in an opposite direction. It is said neither wagon carried a light. Efforts are being made to find the owner of the second vehicle, who, it is claimed, was responsible for the accident.

TELLS ON THE KIDNEYS.

Plainfield People Have Found This To Be True.

The strain of overwork tells on weakened kidneys. The hurry and worry of business men, the heavy lifting and stooping of workmen, the women's household cares, tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they can no longer filter the poison from the blood and the whole body suffers from the waste matter that accumulates. Weakened kidneys need quick assistance. Doan's Kidney Pills are prepared especially for weakened backs: tired, worn-out backs—have proven their merit in thousands of such cases. Convincing proof of their worth in a Plainfield citizen's statement.

Mrs. C. B. Coriell, 60 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I suffered from kidney disorder for years and the principal symptom was a severe backache. Since I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, I have taken them off and on and they have always acted like magic, giving me prompt relief."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Coriell had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Havana's Pathetic Little Door.

This little door is one of the entrances to La Casa Beneficencia, the large and well regulated orphan asylum of Havana. The passerby might easily take it for a coal hole if coal were generally used in Cuba, for when the door is closed there is nothing to indicate its use. On opening it, however, one finds a revolving circular box divided into three compartments. It does not need a very vivid imagination to picture the drama that has been enacted here on many occasions.

A woman, her head covered with a black shawl, her arms holding a bundle to her breast, hurries along the narrow street. She reaches the little door. Glancing furtively about to see that no one is looking she opens the door and, shaken by stifled sobs, kisses for the last time the baby she is about to renounce. She places the child in the circular box, gives it a turn and hurries on. Inside one of the Sisters of Charity hears the tinkle of a bell. It marks the arrival of a newcomer in La Casa Beneficencia.—Boston Herald.

Force of Habit.

A humorist was looking over a mill, and while in an unguarded moment he was perpetrating one of his jokes upon an innocent operative he was drawn into some ponderous gearing and badly crushed.

They extricated him from the machinery and laid him on the floor.

"Who is it? Who is it?" was the anxious inquiry as a crowd collected.

Nobody knew.

Then the funny man suddenly opened his eyes and strove to speak. A sympathetic bystander bent down to catch his words.

"There's good reason why nobody recognizes me," he whispered painfully.

"What is it?" asked the sympathetic one.

"Because," the humorist explained as he saw a chance to get one home, "it's because I've been traveling incog."

That was his final effort, for he never spoke again.—London Tit-Bits.

"Towel" of Hot Air.

In hotel, factory and public lavatories, where roller towels should not be used because of the danger of spreading skin disease and where the expense of furnishing individual paper or cloth towels is considerable, the electric hand drier may be used economically and satisfactorily. A sanitary hand drier described in the Electrical World consists of a sheet metal case with an opening in its top in which the hands can be inserted and dried by a current of hot air. A foot pedal operates a quick acting switch which starts a blower, forcing air through the electric heater. The hand drier is, of course, absolutely sanitary, as it is unnecessary to touch any part of the apparatus when using it. The hands can be thoroughly dried, it is declared, in from thirty to forty seconds, which is less time than is required to perform the same operation with a linen or paper towel.

Associations.

All experience evinces that human sentiments are strongly affected by associations. The recurrence of anniversaries or of longer periods of time naturally freshens the recollection and deepens the impression of events with which they are historically connected. Renowned places also have a power to awaken feeling which all acknowledge. No American can pass by the fields of Bunker Hill, Monmouth and Camden as if they were ordinary spots on the earth's surface. Whoever visits them feels the sentiment of love of country kindling anew, as if the spirit that belonged to the transactions which have rendered these places distinguished still hovered round with power to move and excite all who in future time may approach them.—Daniel Webster.

Long Honeymoon.

Marriage among Moslems in India is followed by other ceremonies. The bride, with the bridegroom, is taken back to her father's house after four days; then again she comes back to her husband's house after ten days' stay and then after a stay of twenty days returns to her father's house for at least six months. Thus instead of having a short period of honeymoon they make it last almost a year.

Why Roquefort Is Strong.

Roquefort cheese gets its sharp flavor from caproic, caprylic and capric acids and their salts, which are formed by a sort of hydrolysis of the fat during the ripening period. This change is caused by a microbe called Penicillium roqueforti. These acids have a peppery taste.

Draining Doughnuts.

A pair of long wooden knitting needles are most excellent for draining doughnuts. As the doughnuts are fried slip them on a needle, and when it is full rest it on the top of a pan to cool. The doughnuts do not crush, and the lard drains off.

Melting the Heart of Anger.

Is thy friend angry with thee? Then provide him an opportunity of showing thee a great favor. Over that his heart must needs melt, and he will love thee again.—Richter.

Glazed Tiles.

The making of glazed tiles or "azulejos" is the only ancient Valencian industry which has retained its importance through centuries up to the present day.

An Ode to the Censor.

The censor came down like the wolf on the fold,
And his scowl it was black, and his eye it was cold.
And the things that he did to the news of the war
Have never been witnessed by mortals before.
Across the dispatches his pencil flew fast
And knocked out the punch from the lot as it passed.

The war correspondent, distorted and pale,
Watched the horrible hash that was made of his tale,
And the sound of his wailing reached farther, a lot,
Than any dispatches he penned ever got

And there lay the copy that once told a story
Of thundering battle and world moving glory,
And nothing was left but lead blackened scrawl,
A jumble of words that said nothing at all.

Oh, the public at large is profuse in its howl,
And the crowds at the bulletins grumble and growl,
But the sedulous censor, to give him his dues,
Is a world beating wonder in swatting the news.

GERMANS MOWED DOWN, BUT KEPT ON CHARGING

Diary Also Tells of Fleeing Women Slain In Fighting at Mons.

Private J. Calvert, of the East Lincolnshire regiment, who missed his regiment during the retreat from Mons, arrived in Paris with the diary of a comrade who had fallen. It describes the fighting during the last week of August and the first week of September.

"The Germans came on in huge masses. Two thousand of us rained bullets at them, and as we had been taught to aim and not merely to shoot from the hip, they went down like ears of wheat before the reaper. Did it bother them? Apparently not. They still came on like sheep to slaughter.

"When we slackened fire because our rifle barrels were so hot they formed up to charge. We redoubled a hail of bullets from our trenches until the German dead were so piled up that those behind could not climb over them, and they just had to fall back.

"After dark we heard trumpets assembling them. The Germans lighted lanterns to collect their men, and all we had to do was to fire at the lights.

"Hundreds of women and children were fleeing from surrounding villages in the early morning. We protected them as best we could, but many were shot."

A diary of another soldier tells of subsequent engagements in which some men were almost overwhelmed by heavy artillery fire, and adds:

"The fifth engagement we were in was after we had been several days slowly retreating toward Paris. Our worst moments were when our line of retirement lay through villages. Houses were smashed and I saw dead and wounded on every side."

Here the diary abruptly ends.

WITH WIFE SAW BATTLE.

Caught In Chateau Almost Between Firing Lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall of New York city witnessed the battle between the German and French armies at Blamont. They took refuge in a chateau almost between the firing lines and finally escaped on a train carrying wounded.

"Baron de Turckheim, our host; the baroness, my wife and myself and one aged servant were marooned for ten days while the battle raged about us," said Mr. Kendall.

"From our retreat we could see the smoke and hear the booming of the cannon. The battle kept coming nearer, and we finally were obliged to take refuge in the cellar.

"On the night of Aug. 10 there was a sound of breaking glass on the second floor, and we found the lance of a uhlan sticking through the window. We opened the door and admitted fifty uhlans, who searched the chateau and its inmates.

"The fighting was now so close that we could see the troopers who had been hit by bullets falling from their horses. This continued for four days, and we lived most of the time in the cellar, eating crusts of bread and rice."

BREADSTUFFS COST MORE.

Potatoes and Butter Slightly Lower Than a Year Ago.

That average prices of practically all important agricultural products on Sept. 1 showed increases over quotations of one year ago is indicated by the department of agriculture's general review. Cotton was the marked exception, dropping almost three cents a pound. Almost all the grains showed big increases, while average prices of meat animals on Aug. 15 were $7.63 a hundredweight, compared with $7.20 a year ago and $6.56 in 1912.

Corn advanced from $0.754 on Sept. 1 last year to $0.815 this month; wheat, from $0.771 to $0.933; oats, from $0.303 to $0.423; rye, from $0.630 to $0.754; buckwheat, from $0.70 to $0.798; flax, from $1.28 to $1.39. Hay, chickens and eggs advanced slightly. Butter and potatoes showed slight decreases.

Her Nine Sons Wounded.

One woman in Paris, says a correspondent, Mme. Bonnard by name, has received news that all her nine sons have been wounded. She is a widow.

TWO WISE CANDIDATES.

When John H. Capstick entered the campaign for the Republican nomination for Congress, he brought with him a wide business experience. There were a lot of people in Union county who thought that Mr. Capstick was going to be an easy victim for former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, and Fowler was so confident that he made a prefunctory campaign. The Stuchell candidacy was not taken seriously at any time. Mr. Capstick however, took his campaign seriously, and he sought the best means of reaching the hundreds of voters with whom it was impossible for him to get in personal touch. As a business man, he realized that there was only one real way, and he chose newspaper advertising. What was the result? Three times a week in every daily paper in the district, there appeared an advertisement large enough not to be missed, and in that advertisement was a short, concise, and well worded argument in favor of Mr. Capstick's candidacy. Such advertising had no effect upon the practical politicians, and Mr. Capstick and his managers realized that fully, but with the average newspaper reader it is evident that the advertising had great weight, and the successful Republican nominee has not hesitated to give full credit to the advantage gained by newspaper advertising.

Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., who is seeking re-election, has adopted the same method of reaching the voters that so successfully aided his Republican opponent to get the nomination. Mr. Tuttle has arranged for the insertion, for a few short, telling arguments in the papers throughout the county, these being changed frequently. The first appeared in the Daily Press last night. He has taken the catchy slogan, "The Man on the Job With Wilson," and it's a safe bet that as a result of this advertising campaign, that slogan will everywhere be associated with the name of the present efficient Representative from the Fifth district, and will be known to every voter in Union and Morris counties.

When two candidates for office who have been successful in business prior to entering politics, see such decided advantage in the use of the advertising columns of the newspapers, it is a pretty good demonstration that they are up to date. The man who is not afraid of publicity in this age is the one who gets the votes.

A NEED.

There's need for a new society in Plainfield. A good title would be the "Anti-Theatre Pest Society." The fellow who knows it all, and can see nothing good in productions unless they are being shown in a Broadway house; the noisy individual who likes to read the titles between the moving pictures so loud that everybody within fifteen feet can hear him; giggling young couples, who are more interested in their small talk than they are in the show, and who apparently don't care whether or not their neighbors hear what is transpiring on the stage; the "Smart Aleck," to whom nothing is new, no matter how clever the performer may be; and the pest who insists on climbing over half a dozen others between each act so that he can walk to the back of the house to show the spectators that all of the beauty within the walls is not to be found on the stage, are all familiar characters ond should be eliminated. When the theatre managers find a method of getting rid of a few of the varities mentioned, perhaps the plain, ordinary, common variety of theatre-goer will be able to enjoy an evening's entertainment in peace.

It used to be that prior to a moving picture show, a sign would be displayed upon the screen, requesting the women to remove their hats, or a similar notice was printed on the program. Custom soon made that practice unnecessary and the notices disappeared. Now the shrewd manager who originates a polite expression which will be effective in putting mufflers on some people's talking apparatus, will earn the gratitude of the average citizen who goes to see and hear what is going on on the stage. He does not want the aid of a personally conducted explanation by some "galoot" in the audience, whose vocal organs are four sizes too large.

DEFENDING CIVIL SERVICE.

Efforts on the part of some State officials at Trenton to break down the Civil Service law, are being ably combatted by the Trenton Times, probably the most influential newspaper in New Jersey. We have made reference before to the opinion which has been given by Attorney General Westcott, which is at variance with the ruling of the Civil Service Commission, and now Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, for four years the president of the Commission, writes a letter to show that Mr. Westcott was warranted by neither law or the facts.

The Times, in commenting on the Westcott opinion, says it was made to order. As Dr. Johnson explains, it is not the business of the Attorney General or State House Commission to decide whether or not a competitive examination is practicable, and what places shall be put in the exempt class. It is the Civil Service Commission that has been given the power "to prescribe, amend and enforce rules and regulations for carrying into effect the provisions of this act," and it is made "the duty of all of the officers of this State to conform to, comply with and to aid in all proper ways in carrying into effect the provisions of this act, and the rules and regulations prescribed thereunder and any modification thereof."

The inquiries made in the competitive examinations are "as to residence, age, sex, health, habits and moral character," and are to be made "practical in their character and shall relate to those matters which will fairly test the relative capacity of the persons examined to discharge the duties of the position to which they seek to be appointed, and may include tests of physical qualifications and health, and, when appropriate of manual skill." Political or religious opinions or affiliations are not to be concidered.

As the Times says, very few official positions need be exempted from the competitive class for the reason that examinations are impracticable. It would be much better for the State if the competitive class was greatly enlarged.

HOW TO FIX THE VALUE OF GOODS

European War Brings to Front Many New and Perplexing Problems.

New York, Oct. 14—The European war is bringing to the front many new and rather perplexing problems for importers and customs officials alike. One of these relates to the question of the part war taxes should play in estimating the foreign market value of merchandise exported from the country where such taxes have been levied as a result of the general conflict now raging in Europe.

The Netherlands, for instance, has imposed war taxes to compensate for the losses in trade due to the war by the interruption or curtailment of commercial relations with other countries, and to raise money to pay the cost of the mobilization of troops to maintain the kingdom's neutrality. The question has now arisen here whether the Dutch war taxes are internal levies or merely export taxes. Importers of goods from Holland, in some instances, are claiming that the Dutch taxes are not internal, but should be regarded by the customs officers here as possessing an export character.

The reason for this view by importers is that if the Dutch war taxes are held by the American customs administration to be internal they must be added to the foreign market value as a basis for the assessment of duties, whereas if export taxes they cannot be added to make market value upon entry here. In practically all cases the appraising officials of the Customs Service at this port are making market value on the basis of the prices prevailing before the war. Some goods coming from Germany have been returned at the values known to exist there just before the war started, since it has been impossible for the officials here to get definite information as to current prices.

Just what war taxes have been imposed in Germany since the war began are unknown to the customs administration, but when light is thrown on this phase of the situation it is regarded as possible that the taxes will be included in the market value of the merchandise, thus calling for the payment of higher duties, both on goods of German production as well as on those of other countries recouping their national finances by means of special war taxes. This question, it is said, is being investigated by the Treasury Department to the end that equitable duties may be collected from foreign merchandise when the taxes result in the goods selling at prices higher than normal.

Another problem being dealt with has to do with assessing goods of German manufacture or origin, purchased, for example, by American importers in France, England or other countries and shipped here from the country of purchase. The fact that the goods may have been produced in Germany or Austria will cut no figure, as the factor of the origin of the merchandise will be ignored.

In this way, it is explained, if an importer here manages to pick up lots of goods of German or Austrian manufacture elsewhere than in those countries he pays duty on the market value in the country where bought without reference to whether the market in the two countries named is higher or lower for similar goods.

Some importations, however, have been held up for the production of additional evidence to bear out market values entered by importers, while other cases of disputed valuation have been sent to the Board of Appraisement of the United States General Appraisers for final settlement. It is acknowledged in customs circles that the war has upset market values generally abroad, not only in the countries in actual conflict, but in neutral countries as well. Added to this is the difficulty of obtaining reports from consular representatives as to the present market conditions. This difficulty is responsible, the officials say, for taking values as they were before the war began.

As time goes on the treasury officers expect to receive reports throwing more light on market conditions, but at the present time little information of a helpful nature is gotten out of Europe. Importers who succeed in picking up German goods in other countries report that while some advantageous sales as regards prices were put through, goods of this character cost close up to the German home market prices, and were in some instances many times higher, as the merchandise was wanted here at practically any price.

REV. DR. GEO. G. VOGEL WEDS MISS LILLIAN MAY KIERAN

The wedding of Miss Lillian May Kieran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kieran, and Rev. Dr. George G. Vogel, superintendent of the Newark District of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, well-known in this city, was solemnized Monday, at the home of the bride's parents, 372 Parker street, in Newark. Officiating at the ceremony were Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, pastor of Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, of which Dr. Vogel was formerly pastor and the bride and her family are members, and three other district superintendents of the conference, colleagues of the bridegroom. They were Rev. Dr. George W. Smith, Rev. Dr. Jacob A. Cole and Rev. Dr. F. J. Hubach.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edythe Kieran, as maid of honor, and by the young daughter of the bridegroom, Elizabeth Vogel, as flower girl. John Banks Kieran, brother of the bride, was best man.

Only immediate members of both families witnessed the marriage, which was followed by a wedding breakfast. Pink chrysanthemums and autumn leaves were used in decorating.

Dr. and Mrs. Vogel have gone on a two-week motoring trip through the State. Upon their return they will reside in Newark.

CARROLL TAYLOR BURNED WHILE EXPERIMENTING

While engaged with chemical experiments in the labratory of the Colorado School of Mines, Carroll Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Taylor, of Fairview avenue, accidentally spilled a quantity of acid on his face and left arm and was so badly burned that medical attention was necessary. Some of the acid came very near his eyes.

Taylor was making up some back work, having been ill for a few days previous to the accident and in mixing the acids a few drops splashed out on his hand. This caused him to jump and in doing so he knocked over the "beaker" which held the hot fluid. His face and arm were immediately bandaged and treated. The arm wound was the worst, as the cloth was taken from the face first and he still has his left arm tied up and cannot use it.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS TO MEET IN ELIZABETH

The Plainfield Bible schools will be largely represented at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association to be held in the Greystone Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, tomorrow. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions, at each of which prominent Sunday-school workers will be heard on topics of interest to all Christian workers.

Among the officers of the association are the following: Vice-president Rev. C. L. Goodrich; superintendent home department, Mrs. Julius M. Williams; superintendent missionary instruction, Miss Harriet R. Halloway. A. V. Searing, Jr., and James E. Church are district secretaries for Plainfield; Rev. Evarts C. Conover is a member of the State executive council, while A. M. Harris and G. E. Hall are members of the executive committee.

THRILLS IN THE WAR NEWS; AIR BATTLES AND HEROIC DEEDS

Aviator Under Attack Felt Like a Bird In an Eagle's Clutches.

Soldiers Who Fight on With a Fine Disregard of Shot and Shell.

DESCRIBING the first actual battle in the air, in which he was an actor, Sergeant Werner of the German aviation corps, who piloted Lieutenant von Heidsen over Paris, says he felt like a bird in the clutches of a hawk and an eagle.

"I was intently watching the country," said Werner, "when suddenly the lieutenant pressed my arm. He pointed upward. At that time we were nearly 5,000 feet in the air. Fully 1,000 feet higher than we were and coming at full speed toward us was a big Bristol biplane.

"I tried to climb upward, realizing that when he got over me he would drop a bomb and we should be blown to pieces. But the effort was vain. Soon the Bristol was directly over our heads. I was not afraid, but this was a moment of suspense that took years out of my life.

"At last I knew how a bird feels when an eagle or a hawk is swooping down upon it.

A Duel In the Air.

"Suddenly I saw a flash alongside of me. For a moment I thought that the expected bomb had struck. Then I realized that the lieutenant was shooting with his automatic pistol.

"The plunging of the aeroplane made accurate shooting difficult, although one shot struck my plane. It was very evident that the Englishman was shooting to disable our motor, and we were doing the same thing on our part.

"While I was figuring on when the next bullet would strike the lieutenant pointed thousands of feet higher.

"There, coming at tremendous speed, was a small Bleriot monoplane, looked for all the world like an eagle coming to join the attack. I felt certain now that the end was in sight.

"But the Bleriot also failed to have bombs and was forced to depend on pistols. Swooping up and down, and circling us and all the time firing at us, the Bleriot kept on. It was certain that there could be only one end to this unequal fight.

"Suddenly, however, German troops appeared below us. They began firing at the enemy, and the Bleriot and the Bristol, finally exhausting their ammunition, sailed off unharmed."

Giddy Drop In Aeroplane.

How nerve saved French officers when a shell crippled their aeroplane is told in a story from Bordeaux to the London Times.

Lieutenant Roecker, with Captain Sommon as staff observer, left Marville to reconnoiter the enemy's movements in the neighborhood of Longwy, Arlon and Virton. When they were 1,800 meters above Musson wood, three kilometers northwest of Longwy, an aeroplane protection battery guarding a German dirigible opened fire on them. A shell burst so near them that the machine was completely thrown off its balance. The motor stopped, and they began a giddy descent, which, in spite of the furious efforts of the pilot, was checked only 200 meters from the ground.

The pilot was determined rather than fall into the hands of the enemy to dash down amid the flames of the Longwy citadel, but a descent was finally made 300 meters southwest of Longwy in advance of the French firing line, which was withdrawing at that moment under a heavy rifle and shell fire. Here, after an examination of the motor under a hail of shells and bullets, Lieutenant Roecker explained to Captain Sommon a method of starting the machine, and a quarter of an hour afterward both officers had returned to their posts.

Bullet Proof Soldiers.

Sergeant Fougere of the Eightieth regiment French infantry is the hero of a thrilling series of experiences.

During one of the battles in Belgium Sergeant Fougere received eight bullet wounds. He was finally captured by the Germans, but escaped while being transferred to the rear.

Despite a broken arm and wounds in his calf, thigh and ankle, he limped over the ten miles which lay between the invaders and his own regiment.

A correspondent at Ostend says that among the French wounded in recent fighting was a dragoon with six bullet and three bayonet wounds in the upper part of his body. He was expected to recover.

Germans Are "Automatons."

A French quartermaster, lying wounded in Paris, after praising the terrible work of the "brave little cigars"—namely, the French 75 millimeter cannon, says:

"The Germans fight well. One would say they are automatons. If there is any retreat it is simply before greatly superior numbers.

"They are like ants, innumerable ants.

"The scout work of the German aeroplanes is fine. The moment our regiment changed position it was sure to receive a visit from an aeroplane, shortly after which the German fire direction was changed and shells began to come thick on the new position."

Germans Scorned Bullets.

Private Whitaker of the British Coldstream guards, writing to his fiancee, describes the fighting at Compiegne as follows:

"You could not miss the Germans. Our bullets plowed into them, but still they came for us. I was well intrenched, and my rifle got so hot I could hardly hold it. I was wondering if I should have enough cartridges when a pal shouted, 'Up, guards, and at 'em!' The next second he was rolled over with a nasty knock on the shoulder. He jumped up and roared, 'Let me get at 'em!'

"They still came on, and when we really did get the order to get at them we made no mistake. They cringed at the bayonet, but those on our left tried to get around us.

"We yelled like demons, and after racing as hard as we could for quite 500 yards we cut up nearly every German who had not run away. Then we took up a new position.

"Here our cover was not so good. At our left were the cavalry. The enemy's guns were blazing away, and they got to us nicely, but not for long."

Referring to the charge of 2,000 Turcos (Algerian troops) in one recent battle an eyewitness, an officer, said that it was one of the greatest in the annals of war. The commanders were utterly unable to restrain the Turcos from dashing off in pursuit of the enemy.

Petty Officer a Spartan.

One of the survivors of the British cruiser Pathfinder, which was wrecked by a mine in the North sea, said the chief petty officer of the cruiser, although badly injured, tried his best to cheer up the sailors, calling on them to sing "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary."

After telling of the first shock as the cruiser struck the mine and the latter exploded, killing instantly all the men in the fore part of the vessel, the survivor said:

"Our boats had been smashed, so we pitched overboard booms, pieces of wood, gratings—anything that would float. We tried to wrench doors off the hinges, but we had not enough time.

"The chief petty officer swam here and there among the struggling men, carrying them pieces of wood and wreckage and assisting them in other ways. He saved many from death. He got together eleven sailors and enabled them to remain afloat for more than an hour until help came. He cheered their spirits by singing the popular 'Tipperary' song and tried to get them to join, but the response was not hearty.

"The petty officer saw four of the men sink to death. More were on the point of losing their grip on the pieces of wood, which were keeping them on the surface, when the officer saw the smoke of torpedo boats speeding to the rescue. He cheered and sang until the drooping spirits of the remaining men in the group were revived, and they stuck it on until they were taken aboard the rescuing fleet."

Balloon Directs Siege Gun.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the London Chronicle sends the following dispatch:

"A soldier present at the capture of the French fort of Manonville, near Luneville, describes in a German newspaper the work of a new sixteen inch siege gun. These guns, he said, were placed two miles from the fort where the gunners were unable to see their target. They received the range and direction from a captive balloon.

"The gun is described as being very long and of tremendous weight, and its position when being fired is almost upright. The shell is fired by a charge weighing fifty kilos (125 pounds), and the noise and concussion are terrific. The shock almost knocks down all who are near."

Unbroken German Lines.

From a London correspondent comes the following interview with a wounded soldier home from the front, who describes German methods of fighting.

"It is very hard indeed for us to get any real grasp of the scheme of fighting, and it is not always possible to realize how much depends on our resistance at a particular point, but, as a rule, we fight for all we're worth and take the chance of losing more than the game's worth.

"The impression we got was that the Germans have so many men available at any point where they deliver an attack that as soon as one body gets tired or shows signs of losing its nerve under fire it is recalled to the rear and replaced by fresh men, who are brought up in motors and all sorts of vehicles. The used up men then are taken away and very likely come on again after a rest.

"Many of our men go on fighting for hours after being hit, simply because in extreme cases they don't feel the bullet going into them. I saw a case where a bullet passed through two men in succession and then glanced off a cavalryman's saddle."

Salmagundi

By George I. Sill.

Salmagundi, don't want no scrap with nobody nor nothin'.

And speaking of "scraps," reminds us that the Peace Palace at The Hague was dedicated August 28, 1913, with appropriate ceremonies. Much business doing there now?

Along the proposed Lincoln Highway from ocean to ocean, will be three thousand miles of shade and fruit trees, besides beautiful shrubs and flowers. What a place for strolling pleasant summer evenings! One could get up a good appetite for breakfast walking half its length.

We wonder if the course for the study of city government beginning this month at New York University, will ever supersede the smooth-running, well established curriculum of good old Tammany.

Down in Cuba, a law has been proposed liberating 1,500 murderers and other homicides now in prison. We hate to say it, but suspect Governor Blease, of South Carolina, to be at the bottom of this scheme.

Chicago Police Pals of Thieves?—News heading.

If you're asking us, we say frankly we don't know and we don't care. Among other important things connected with the European situation, we're at present trying to figure out how far the Germans "fall back" each time. Allowing a thousand yards for every "fall back" it would seem as if they had fallen back as far as it was possible to fall.

About this time look out for editorials entitled: "Nature's Gorgeous Apparel," "The Melancholy Days Have Come," "The Rime is on the Pumpkin," (whatever that means), "Our Peerless Autumn," "Now for Thanksgiving!" etc., etc. Some clever manufacturer of dope, however, will probably write one with the all-embracing heading: "The Fall Chestnut Crop," and have his salary raised to Fourteen Simoleons per, immediately.

Even in our poor, weak way we wouldn't attempt anything so ambitious as an analysis or classification of the chestnut crop at this or any other season of the year, but rather content ourselves with some apropos quotation from the poets. We don't know whether or not we shall use them, but the following noble lines of Bryant occur to us at once:

"The melancholy days have come;
The saddest of the year,
When we must take to ten-cent rum
And give up five-cent beer."

What has become of James the apostle?—James E. Martine, the apostle of apple-jack, we mean. We once had a copy of his speech on that delightful subject delivered on a memorable day to his enraptured colleagues in the United States Senate, bound in gold and vellum and beautifully illuminated. Unfortunately we couldn't resist the importunities of friends who wished to borrow it—and well, you know how it is when you begin to loan a valuable book. For awhile we didn't miss the volume so much, because we had it all by heart; but now, memory begins playing her tricks with us and we must get another copy. What was it he said in that speech about the "sun kissed apples of New Jersey?", Ah, Mr. Martine, sin [illegible] N. H. [illegible] touch."

Oh, we don't know!—we think if our thought works were uninterrupted for awhile, we could construct one of those Limericks. (Space of one minute in which you could hear a good many pins drop.) Here it is:

Our German friends call him the Kaiser;
Of other's red blood he's no miser;
God pity the lands
Under his iron hands,
And when the war's done, make them wiser.

We started out trying to be funny, but you can't joke much about this European war. It's probably the most awful thing that ever happened to mankind—the most far-reaching in its consequences. Apart from the unspeakable mental and physical anguish it is causing now, consider for one moment its cost in cold cash—conservatively estimated at sixty million dollars per day—piling up a debt under which the people of Europe will stagger in want and suffering for generations to come. "O, Murder most foul!" that countless thousands, the flower of their countries, with no personal interest at stake—should be driven like dumb cattle to the slaughter. Yes, when the war's done, may the Almighty make the peoples wiser. Monarchs and militarism must go, and we think already the handwriting appears on the wall.

We do not vouch for the truth of the following story and perhaps run some risk at the hands of the National Committee of one of our great political parties, in publishing it at all. It's about Thomas Jefferson, who Walter Linbarger says was the Father of Democracy. Mr. Jefferson, it seems, to use the vernacular, was "dead stuck on" a certain Declaration of Independence he had written and insisted on reading it aloud to anyone he could, by hook or crook, manage to corner. Although naturally a kindly, charitable man, in this particular he was absolutely without mercy. Therefore, when about to be inaugurated second President of the United States, knowing that a great many distinguished citizens would be present to see him dismount and tie his horse as per schedule; to follow his form with eager gaze as he ascended the platform, and to listen with bated breath (people "baited" their breath much more in those days, than they do now!) while he read his inaugural, it occurred to him that an altogether unprecedented opportunity would present itself to turn on the hose. After Chief Justice Marshall had administered the oath of office, Mr. Jefferson faced the expectant throng and began handing out to them: "When in the course of human events — — —" Luckily the thunders of applause which greeted him as he turned to his audience, had not yet died away and his first few words were unheard, except by those who stood immediately about him. Chief Justice Marshall was the first of these to "come to" after the "break." With rare presence of mind he sprang forward and firmly grasping Mr. Jefferson's coattails, whispered into that gentleman's organ of hearing the following dignified and well chosen language: "Mr. President, for the love of Mike, have a heart! You've got, sir, the wrong pig by the ear—that's the wrong anaesthetic—not the piece you were going to speak at all!" The story goes on to relate how after considerable difficulty, the Father of Democracy, was steered into the right track again. Frankly, we doubt the whole story—in fact it's perfectly absurd on the face of it, for in 1801 the word anaesthetic had not yet been invented.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Rose Melville is again playing "Sis Hopkins."

"Let's Get Married" is the name of a new musical play.

Joe Weber is to produce a new melodrama called "The Fallen Idol."

Valerie Bergere has a new sketch called "The Lock of Panama."

Robert Loraine, the well known actor, is in the English military aviation corps.

Eleanor Gates, author of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," is writing a light opera.

Jack Lait, author of "Help Wanted," has written a sketch called "The Scarlet Scandal."

H. H. Frazee is to produce a play called "A Woman of Today," by Elizabeth Hull Gould and Frances Whitehouse.

Henry E. Dixey has shelved the playlet "Castle Romance," in which he was appearing with Marie Nordstrom.

Klaw & Erlanger announce that their next musical comedy production, "Papa's Boy," will have its premiere shortly in Philadelphia.

Marie Dressler has reconsidered her decision to retire from the stage and soon will be seen in a new farce, entitled "The Sub."

David Warfield has started on a tour which will take him all through the South, up to the Pacific Coast and back through the Northwest.

The opening date for "A Pair of Silk Stockings," by Cyril Harcourt, at the Little Theatre, New York, has been set for October 20.

The Liebler Company is actively at work on preparations for "The Garden of Paradise," which is to be a magnificent spectacular production.

Until a new play is ready for her, Grace George has decided to tour the country in a revival of Clyde Fitch's "Truth," under the management of Winthrop Ames.

E. H. Sothern is said to have declined an offer of $2,000 a week from a manager who wanted him to make a thirty weeks' tour in "If I Were King."

"The Song of Songs," adapted from Suderman by Edward Sheldon, is scheduled to have its initial production in Atlantic City about the end of this month.

Elsie Janis has canceled her English contracts, owing to the war, and expects to return to New York in time to begin a tour of the country the first of November.

Charles Frohman has secured a thirty-minute curtain raiser for Billie Burke this season. It is called "Jerry" and was adapted from Dickens by Paul M. Potter.

Elsie Ferguson is to appear this season under the management of Charles Frohman and Klaw & Erlanger in "Outcasts," by Hubert Henry Davies, author of "The Mollusc."

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

1914 BASEBALL STARS PRODUCTS OF GEORGE STALLINGS' SCHOOL

By JACK MARTIN
Shortstop Philadelphia National League Baseball Club.

Athletic fans have seen their favorite machine put out of commission and the world's baseball title has taken a trip to Beantown. The squeaks so noticeable in the Connie Mack engine during the first three games of the series were even more pronounced in the final clash yesterday, and the Athletics relinquished the final leg on the baseball throne to George Stallings' wonderful crew of youngsters. Old times were squelched by performers of the younger generation. Men whose names were borne to lofty heights by reason of their marvelous deeds in last year's big series have been pushed unceremoniously into the back ground by new-comers. In the niches of fame that were last year occupied by "Home-run" Baker, Eddie Collins and Chief Bender, are now firmly seated "Little Rabbit" Maranville, Charlie Deal, Richard Rudolph and "Hank" Gowdy. The new timber raised the baseball pastime to its highest pinnacle and brought the world's title to the Massachusetts' Hub by marvelous all around work. Superhuman playing, verging on the miraculous, accounted for the surprising feat.

The year 1914 has had its sport dope reserved in tennis, golf and boxing and now baseball has been added to the list. The wiseacres' dope has been exploded in each of these branches of sport and thousands of dollars have changed hands as the result of the side track. Philadelphia fans are today a sorrowful lot. Few realized that the Stallings' club was in the race one week ago and all are today in a dazed condition. The play of the last five days reads like a fairy tale. Some there were who predicted a four straight verdict for the Bostons, and I was among the latter. It was a wide chance and only the closest figuring swerved my opinion in this direction. Well I knew that George Stallings had the greatest squad of ball tossers that ever graced the globe and I had the idea that the Athletics' time for defeat was at hand. Heretofore the reputation of the Connie Mack aggregation had carried it aloft. Stallings' men, instilled with confidence, were not afraid of the monarchs of baseball and went right after them in a fearless manner. If the Giants had not held out so much respect for the Mack club last year the result of the 1913 series might have been vastly different. The old National League might have had the world's flag in its park when this series was sent under way. As it now stands the pennant will return to the senior organization, Boston being responsible for the regaining of lost laurels.

At the beginning of the season a despised club, the Boston Braves have flashed to the fore in a manner that dazed even those most closely connected with baseball. It was not a steady fight for the National League flag, but a sudden splurge. When I was with the Boston club at the beginning of the season it commanded little respect as a National League pennant aspirant. It was one of the teams that are merely ornaments in the daily standings of the clubs. Today it heads the baseball world. The reason is unexplainable. The credit for the triumph is widely distributed. George Stallings' name is linked among the notables of today's sporting calendar, as are also those of Rudolph, James, Gowdy, Deal, Maranville, Evers and a couple of others. The victorious performers today could have the country for the asking. Boston is wide open. Stallings holds the key to the city and everywhere there's a Boston player there's also a crowd.

My dope has panned out. Before a ball was pitched I claimed that if the Braves won the first game they would capture the next three and with them the pennant. I picked Rudolph and James to do the bulk of the hurling. They did it and each has two victories to his credit in the final standing of the series. Both performed phenomenally and left little to be hoped for in the minds of the fans. The metropolitan papers corroborated my prediction of three days ago in their sporting columns this morning. Deal was my choice as one of the headliners for the series and the metropolitan sport writers are trailing up this dope this morning.

George T. Stallings' school of baseball players has at last been productive of world's series talent. Enrolled on the present school's roster are the greatest players in the game today. Each day before a game Stallings held short sessions of his school and the men went into the fray with final instructions from the big fellow. It was this way not only during the world's series but during the entire season. When I was a member of the Boston club I was one of the pupils in this mid-day school and was told what to do and when to do it by Manager Stallings before I entered a game. Stallings is well versed on each batter's strong points or weaknesses and is himself one of the greatest students of baseball. He knows the good points and faults of every performer in the game today and imparts this knowledge in a tactful manner to his proteges.

We were the victims of considerable joshing on the part of other clubs for our daily school attendances and when we were dismissed from a session usually found a number of rival players awaiting us with taunts of one kind or another. We were taught to disregard these slams and they went in one ear and out the other. None of us, however, dared to forget anything that Stallings dealt out to us in the way of information. While I was a member of the Boston club we worked a system of signals that have never before been used in baseball. Stallings' smile was a signal used to instruct the batter to line one out when he had two balls and no strikes, three balls and no strikes and three balls and one strike on him. This, of course, was the dope provided the pitched ball was a good one and came within striking distance of him. This code was relayed from the coacher on the base lines, who would advance several paces toward the batter after getting the silent notification from Stallings.

Few there were who knew that Maranville was injured in the second game of the series played at Philadelphia, when Walsh jumped into him at second in the last inning, when he was launching the first half of a double play. He was spiked in the thigh but this in itself would be a great handicap to the average base runner or shortstop.

FOOTBALL PLAYER DYING.

Corley Hays, right halfback of the Fordham Prep football team, lies dying in St. Francis' Hospital, Jersey City, as the result of an injury received in the game with St. Peter's College on Columbus Day. As a final resort to save the player's life an operation was performed last night. Drs. Duffy, Hoskins and Mooney, who performed the operation, entertained no hope for their patient. Hays is a resident of Yonkers and is a nephew of the late Mgr. Hays.

TO "TRAP" CRANFORD COURSE.

New York, Oct. 14.—The Cranford, N. J., Golf Club, whose 18-hole course was opened two years ago, are now arranging with Donald Ross, the famous golf architect, to trap the fair greens, which, when completed, will make the course one of the best in this part of the country.

FIRST MATCH OF ELKS' LEAGUE OFF

Rutherford Asked for Postponement With New York and First Match Tonight.

Bowling in the Elks' League will start tonight with the New Brunswick team opposing the Paterson quintet, in the Silk City. The opening of the league was scheduled to take place last night, with Rutherford rolling at New York, but the Rutherford five asked for a postponement.

The minners for the past eight years have been as follows. 1906-7, Jersey City; 1907-8, Hoboken; 1908-9, New Brunswick; 1909-10, Jersey City; 1910-11, New Brunswick; 1911-12, Hoboken; 1912-13, New Brunswick; 1913-14, Newark.

It will be noticed from the above that New Brunswick has won the honors on three occasions, while Jersey City and Hoboken have each taken the trophy twice, with Newark breaking into the winning column last year for the first time.

The schedule for this week is as follows: Tonight, New Brunswick at Paterson; tomorrow, Jersey City at Plainfield, Elizabeth at Rahway; Friday, Hoboken at Newark.

BASEBALL NOTES

Bill James, the Braves' star and leading National League pitcher, won 27 and lost 7 games.

Captain Jake Daubert, of the Suberpas, suffered an attack of Charley Horse right at the close of the season.

Just to strengthen his title of "Batting King," Ty Cobb clouted out a home run in his last game of the season.

"Chief" Bender, of the Athletics, leads the American League pitchers, with a record of winning 17 games out of [illegible] pitched.

Rot[illegible]e Kansas City outfielder, who finished the season with the White Sox, batted for .300 in the 34 games in which he took part in the American League.

With three players, Dolan, Magee and Huggins, among the first ten base-stealers, the Cardinals have the edge on National League teams in sack pilfering.

Charley Herzog has not yet signed to manage the Reds next season. It is expected, however, that "Buck" will attach his John Hancock to a Red contract before long.

The St. Louis Browns and the Washingtons in the American League and the Cincinnati Reds in the National League did not have a single batsman to finish in the .300 class.

Ohio is the home of major league tail-enders this year. The Cincinnati Reds finished last in the National League, while the Cleveland Naps landed in the American League cellar.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Both Pennsylvania and Cornell suffered defeats right at the beginning of the season.

Dick Wigglesworth and Mal Logan, two old Harvard stars, are coaching the Crimson quarterback material.

Knowles is putting up a great game for the Yale eleven. The Eli kicker is doing even better work than last season.

Glenn Warner, the Carlisle Indians coach, is an old Cornell player and for several years had charge of the football team at Ithaca.

It is said that Yale's good showing in the use of the forward pass is due to the coaching of half a dozen Canadian players, to whom throwing the ball is second nature.

GOLF BY AUTO LIGHTS.

An innovation, coming as a climax to the biggest day of the season on the Suburban Club golf course, in Elizabeth, was sprung late Columbus Day afternoon, when several players putted out the last hole by the aid of automobile lights. Displaying nothing short of wonderful eyesight, the players were able to follow their ball over the hill from the eighth hole as they came in, but the rapidly falling darkness now made putting an impossibility and play was delayed until a number of auto lips were lighted and the cars pointed so that the green was illuminated.

SALIENT FEATURES OF LAST GAME.

Players who hadn't made hits up to yesterday, but who managed to get in one and escape batting averages of .000 were Oldring, Barry and Moran.

Stallings, according to report, bet several suits of clothes that Connolly would outhit Baker. He loses these bets, although Baker didn't distinguish himself.

The need of umpires in the outfield was shown here. There were two wallops yesterday, which were so close to the line that umpires not on the spot would have had a hard time deciding whether they were fair or foul.

Byron, of the National League staff, did excellent work behind the bat yesterday, and Hildebrand on the bases was equally good.

A sharp grounder struck Eddie Collins on the ankle and made him limp for a while.

The batting average of Evers for the series was .437. He quite outshone the great Collins in all around value.

Rudolph is credited with two of the Boston victories and James with two.

In the fourth inning Byron turned to the bench and reprimanded the Boston players. They were doing too much talking and of a kind Byron didn't consider proper.

Evers, Maranville, Gowdy, Rudolph and James were the leading performers for the new world's champions.

Boston and Chicago are the only cities to have a club in each league win a world's series.

Said a prominent big league manager before the series: "It's 10 to 1 the Athletics win." But the country is full of prophets who were confounded by the work of the Braves.

The series began on Friday and ended on the 13th. However, if George Stallings, the most superstitious man in baseball, knew this he gave no indication of it.

SPRINGFIELD T. S. MAY DROP HOLY CROSS TEAM

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 14—Asserting that Holy Cross used unnecessarily rough tactics in the game with Springfield Training School here on Saturday, the local management is considering steps to drop the Worcester college from the schedule next season. One of the coaches at the Springfield institution made the statement after the game that there were several instances where Holy Cross players could have used better judgment in making tackles and in their work in general.

For this reason it is understood that a conference will be held in the near future to decide what steps will be taken. The feeling exhibited by the players and on some occasions on the part of the local team robbed the game of any spirit of friendly rivalry. "Hub" Stine, of the borough, played during the entire game on the Springfield team.

WITH THE BOXERS

Frankie Burns and Kid Herman have been matched to box in New Orleans, November 1.

Billy Gibson, one of the New York promoters, has closed down his club because of poor business.

Announcement is made that Mike Gibbons and George Chip will meet in a 10-round bout in New York, October 21.

CLOSE COMPETITION IN P. C. C. FINALS

Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Barbara Fleming Annex Doubles Title.

Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Barbara Fleming won the ladies' doubles tennis tournament of the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday, when they defeated Mrs. R. Story Rowland and Mrs. Boardman Tyler in two straight sets, the first of which was real championship tennis. The scores were 9-7 and 6-2. Both teams tried hard for the title and the losers gave their opponents a hard run for both sets.

Mrs. Brown and Miss Fleming took the lead at the start. With the score 8 to 7 in their favor, Mrs. Brown and Miss Fleming played some beautiful shots out of their opponents' reach and in the sixteenth game put over the telling point that ended the set.

The second set was also closely contested, although the winners of the first took a big lead at the beginning and maintained it throughout playing on the defense.

POOR JOHN M'GRAW GETS BUT PALTRY $18,000 YEARLY

John J. McGraw, the baseball manager, swore off personal taxes yesterday to the amount of $366. The assessment was made for 1911 on an estimated value of $20,000. Mr. McGraw said he lived at 301 West 109th street, and that on October 1, 1911, he was interested in a billiard room. He said he had a ten-year lease on the premises, but he did not make any money, and sold out at a loss.

Concerning his assets, he said he has a business account at a bank that ranges from $8,000 to $500 and an automobile. Concerning his liabilities he said he was responsible for a note for $9,500, held by the Washington Heights Bank, but that it had been paid. He also owed $2,500 on debts contracted in the billiard business, but these had all been paid, too.

Mr. McGraw said his salary was $18,000 a year, and that it was all consumed in the maintenance of his family.

FORMER LOCAL STAR WINS WEST SIDE TENNIS TITLE

In one of the best matches of the tournament, Mrs. S. F. Weaver, formerly of Central avenue, defeated Mrs. E. Barnes for the championship of the West Side Tennis Club, yesterday, on the club courts at Forest Hills, L. I. The new champion was at the top of her form and won two sets to one at 5-7, 6-4, 6-3. The contest brought out all the best qualities of the rival players.

Mrs. Weaver lost the first set after deuce had been called. She played a good back court game and held her opponent safe in the last two sets. It was the aggressive play of Mrs. Weaver that enabled her to capture the championship. Miss Florence Ballin, who managed the tournament, announced yesterday that the final round for the doubles championship would be played this week.

WHO IS THE OWNER OF THIS THOROUGHBRED HUNTING DOG?

Albert Jaeger appeared in the city court, this morning, as complainant against Edward Vanderhoef, whom he charged with stealing a hunting dog valued at $20. According to Jaeger, the defendant had in his possession a canine which he (Jaeger) had purchased from Clarence VanNorden for $20, in November, 1912. City Judge DeMeza ordered Vanderhoef to produce the dog in court, and when brought before the magistrate the animal refused to recognize anyone but his present master, Vanderhoef. The dog claimed no acquaintance with either Jaeger or VanNorden and so complicated were the condition involved that Judge DeMeza reserved decision.

Vanderhoef claims that the dog was stolen from him by a man named Burke and taken to the farm of William Mernagh in the mountains. Mernagh corroborates the latter part of the testimony and further statees that Burke left the canine in his case, but refused to come after it when notified that the dog was becoming a nuisance and would not longer be cared for. After his patience was exhausted Mernagh says that his son, who is now one of Plainfield's "finest," brought the dog to Mr. VanNorden and the latter in turn sold it to Jaeger. Judge DeMeza is now confronted with the tangle and is endeavoring to determine just who the canine belongs to.

SECOND TOURNAMENT STARTS IN DUNELLEN

Presbyterian Alleys Will Again Be Used for Popular Women's League.

A large crowd of bowling enthusiasts attended the first matches of the second women's tournament which is being held on the Presbyterian alleys, Dunellen, last night. Three matches were played last night.

In the first match Miss M. M. Crawford and Mrs. Charles Vail had a hard time defeating the Misses Florence Smalley and Josephine Dealaman but finally came out winners by five points, the scores being 171 to 166. The losers came back in the second match and took it easily. The Wickham-Shively combination dropped two games to the Smalley-Dealaman duo, which gave the latter three victories and one defeat in the first night's play. The winners made a high score of the night with a 225 in the last game.

The scores and standings:

MANY ENTRIES FOR ANNUAL P. H. S. TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The entries for the Plainfield High School tennis tournament closed today, with twenty-two names in the singles and four teams in the doubles. Last year's champion, Curtis Dall, will not be able to enter this year because of an operation on his throat. Roscoe Blanchard, who reached the semi-final round in the Princeton tournament a few weeks ago, looks like the possible winner. There are many capable racquet wielders in the school, however, and close competition is expected. The matches will be played on any available courts and will start tomorrow afternoon.

The entries for the first round are: Schenck vs. Borden, Eggie vs. Crone, Beckman vs. Cockburn, McDowell vs. Mills, Newell vs. Swackhamer, Blanchard vs. Stelle, Worden vs. Todd, Case vs. Smith, Stringham vs. Carter, Ellis vs. V. Williams, Parvin vs. D. Williams.

The entries for the first round in the doubles championship are: Mills and Case vs. Blanchard and Parvin, Eggie and Beckman vsfl Noonan and McDowell.

LOCAL ELKS WILL PLAY JERSEY CITY TOMORROW

The local "Mills" will get into action tomorrow night, on the Watchung avenue alleys, when they meet the Jersey City Elks in their first game of the State League.

Captain V. W. Nash, Jr., has not yet picked his team to enter the first match of the schedule.

NEWARKERS WANT GAME.

The Acme Juniors, of the Belleville Avenue Playgrounds, Newark, would like to arrange games with 125 pound teams in the State, offering suitable inducements. Vanderbeek, McGlynn, Parkinson, McEvoy and Lawlor are to represent the team. Address challenges to John McDonald, 580 Market street, Newark.

WON HOLIDAY CUP.

Harry DeMeza won the Holiday Cup in the lickers' handicap at the Park Golf Club, Monday afternoon, and also turned in low score for the day. In the morning his score was 80, but in the afternoon he went five points better. H. E. Blazier won the approaching and putting contest.

TWELVE REPORTED FOR HOPE CHAPEL PRACTICE

Twelve basketball candidates reported for practice at Hope Chapel last night and the squad was put through a short scrimmage. Jack Martin was in charge.

Several good men have appeared for the centre position and Martin is working hard so as to get the best pivot man possible. The team will be in good shape for the opening game, which is three weeks ahead.

WAR NEWS

Warsaw, capital of Russian Poland, is threatened by the Germans, according to an official despatch from the American Consul, who asked instructions regarding the care of foreign interests during the expected period of German occupation.

A wireless message received from the foreign office at Berlin states that German military authorities searching the archives of the Belgian General Staff at Brussels found a portfolio inscribed, "Intention Anglaise Belgique," containing important documents. One was a report to Belgian War Minister, dated April 10, 1906, containing the result of detailed negotiations between the Belgian General Staff and the British military attache at Brussels, Lieutenant Colonel Barbardiston. A plan of English origin, sanctioned by Major General Grienson, chief of the English General Staff, contains strength, formation and landing places of an expeditionary force of 100,000 men and other details; also a map showing a strategical drawing up of the French army, demonstrating the existence of a Franco-Belgian agreement.

The only factor preventing the transfer of the Hamburg-American Line steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie from Bar Harbor to Boston, Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt said today, is the transfer of a suit against the vessel by the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York, from the jurisdiction of Maine courts to those of Massachusetts.

Bordeaux, Oct. 14 (Central News Cable).—M. Augagneur, Minister of Marine in the French Cabinet, has left for Havre for the purpose of meeting the Belgian Ministers and Cabinet officers due there tonight, to take up the functions of the Belgian Government on French soil. The French have prepared offices for the Belgian Government in that city. Measures have been taken to accommodate the Belgian Government with the fullest facilities to exercise its authority and duties. Several other Belgian Ministers and officials embarked this morning from Ostend, en route to Havre.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO CANDIDATES

County Aspirants for Office Entertained at Westfield Last Night.

County and Congressional candidates, together with party workers and members of the Union County Republican Committee, attended a reception at the home of E. S. F. Randolph in Westfield, last night, when further plans for the campaign were discussed and interesting speeches were made by the candidates. Mayor Harry W. Evans, of Westfield, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the several speakers.

William Newcorn, chairman of the county committee, briefly outlined plans for the campaign, adding that he was not a candidate for any office, his being his sole purpose to do all he can to elect the party ticket. Other speakers included John H. Capstick, Congressional candidate; State Senator Carlton R. Pierce, candidate for re-election; Arthur N. Pierson, C. L. Morgan and William N. Runyon, Assembly candidates; County Register Frank H. Smith and County Clerk James C. Calvert, both of whom seek re-election, and George Otto, candidate for sheriff.

All of the candidates expressed their confidence in the success of the party ticket. The candidates seeking re-election referred to their records in office and the fact that they had received the endorsement of not only members of the party but county officials as well. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and all felt much encouraged over the prospects of the result at the November election. A social time with refreshments concluded the reception.

G. O. P. COMPLETE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Headquarters to Be Opened This Week in Stirling Building.

The City Republican Executive Committee held its weekly meeting last evening at headquarters, at which time many matters of importance were discussed. Reports from the various wards indicated that the canvass is now completed, and that an endeavor would be made to secure a heavy registration next Tuesday, which is the last day set aside for that purpose.

Campaign headquarters will be opened in the course of the present week at the store until recently occupied by Mrs. L. J. Denton in the Stirling building on Park avenue. Literature will be distributed from this place, which will be open afternoons and evenings.

"Neighborhood meetings" will feature the present campaign in this city, with such gatherings being held in all parts of the city. These gatherings will be informal in nature, giving the individual voter an opportunity to ask the various candidates questions on topics and subjects in which they may be especially interested.

It is planned, aside from the "neighborhood meetings," to have at least three open air gatherings in the business section of town, together with one large mass meeting at Plainfield Theatre, which is to be addressed by a speaker of national reputation, probably United States Senator Spooner.

SOMERSET DEMOCRATS FORM CAMPAIGN CLUB

The Somerset County Democratic Club, at its meeting in Somerville, yesterday, organized for the coming year by electing F. G. Thomas, of that place, president. Among the fifteen vice presidents chosen are Dr. William L. Saunders, S. S. Swackhamer and Walter C. Linbarger. Former Sheriff Selah Schoonmaker, of Somerville, was elected treasurer, and Charles Matthews, of Somerville, was chosen secretary.

The organization plans to form clubs in all sections of the county. The first meeting of the county club will be held at Somerville, Friday night, when prominent speakers will be heard and further plans for the campaign will be discussed.

ENTERS BROOKLYN SCHOOL.

William Brower, of East Fifth street, a licensed Marconi wireless operator, who was aboard steamers plying between New York and Mexican ports during the recent troublous times in the latter country, has recently entered the school at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. After he completes his studies at the yard, he becomes a non-commissioned officer. Mr. Brower was in Mexican waters during most of the trouble between this country and our southern neighbors.

3,000 LOST IN EARTHQUAKE.

Washington, Oct. 14.—More than 3,000 lives were lost in an earthquake in the Province of Konia, Turkey, on October 5, according to a cablegram today from United States Ambassador Morgenthau to the State Department.

BARGAIN HUNTERS AT RUMMAGE SALE

Miniature World's Series Enacted in Business Section Today.

Those who wandered down Park avenue in the vicinity of North around the noon hour today, were treated to a miniature world's base ball series scene minus the ticket scandal. Fans of the feminine variety, bent on getting first whack at the bargains offered in a pile of second-hand articles gathered together by charity workers in the store at Park and North avenues, began the formation of a line leading to the bargain store long before the scheduled opening time, 1 o'clock. Women of every nationality camped on the sidewalk along Park and North avenues for an hour or more before the "turnstiles" were opened this afternoon and by their talk and actions attracted considerable interest.

So formidable did the crowd appear to the workers in charge of the affair that it was deemed best to make a request for police protection and the department reserves, comprising Patrolman John Kelley went to the scene. The husky officer stood guard at the door when the place was thrown open, but it became necessary to cut off the influx of bargain-mad shoppers and the doors were closed again after the place had become swamped. It was necessary to let the crowd into the place in relays and the first to get in got the choice relics in the large assortment.

Many of the purchases were made at first sight and when the lucky buyers got out into the fresh air again they spent some minutes examining them. Women with men's trousers, children's sweaters and household necessities were conspicuous and one woman was noticed endeavoring to try on a pair of trousers which were probably purchased by her as a surprise for the head of the house.

HEALTH EXHIBIT AROUSES INTEREST

Practical Talks and Motion Pictures Attract Many to State Demonstration.

That citizens of Plainfield and the borough are taking great interest in the tuberculosis and health exhibit being conducted at the Plainfield High School has been evinced by the large number who attended the exhibit Monday and last night. As on the initial night of the exhibit, Dr. Millard Knowlton, director of tuberculosis work for the State Board of Health, gave an exhaustive lecture on the care and prevention of the dreaded disease.

Dr. Knowlton will give another lecture tonight in the High School auditorium on "What a Community Can do to Prevent Tuberculosis." Dr. Thomas S. Davis, president of the local Health Board, will also speak and present a few suggestions of vital interest to the citizens.

Owners of cattle and horses will be interested in one of the exhibits which concerns the betterment of conditions around manure heaps. For some years authorities have been trying to find a susbtance that would kill the flies that gather around such places without injuring the manure as fertilizer. At last a substance has been found that will accomplish this and samples will be given out at the school to all who desire to try it.

Free moving pictures are shown every night.

RECTOR KUES ADDRESSES LOCAL FLOWER GUILD

Rev. C. L. Kues, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, last evening addressed the monthly session of the Plainfield Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild held at the Friends' Meeting House on Watchung avenue. Mr. Kues dwelt chiefly on the work as it was being accomplished by the City Missions of New York, where the workers periodically carry flowers and fruits to the inmates of the prisons.

Mrs. A. G. Negley, who has been secretary of the local guild since its inception last spring, resigned from the office owing to the pressure of other duties. Miss Brown was appointed to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Negley was later appointed treasurer of the organization. Robert Love led the singing, accompanied by Harvey Naylor on a violin. Plans were completed for the sale of bulbs and plants being held today on the grounds of the Meeting House.

Y. M. H. A. MEETING.

The local Y. M. H. A. will have its first meting of the season this evening at their headquarters at 204 West Front street. A special speaker is to feature the occasion, at which time the campaign for an increased membership will be started. A short business session is to be held.

DONATION OF APPLES WANTED.

Donations of apples would be greatly appreciated at this time at the Children's Home, as fruit is a necessary part of the diet prescribed for the children. Imperfect fruit that may drop from the trees can easily be utilized for apple sauce and can be canned as well for winter purposes, so that the expense item for winter fruit can be materially reduced, if the efficient matron can have some of the apples that lie on the ground and are wasted.

ORIGIN OF THE CURFEW.

The Cover Fire Bell Was Rung Way Back In King Alfred's Time.

What is the curfew? Its etymology carries its history with it. The word comes from the French couvre-feu (cover fire), a bell tolled at evening as a signal to the inhabitants to cover fires, extinguish lights and retire to rest. It is erroneously said to have been instituted in England by William the Conqueror as an arbitrary bit of tyranny, and the nursery historian has waxed sentimental over the wrongs of the conquered Saxon, and conjured up pictures that must be balm to the downtrodden Celt. Even Thomson tells us:

The shivering wretches at the curfew sound
Detected sunk into their sordid beds.

But the couvre-feu was known before William's time, both in England and on the continent. He did, indeed, issue an edict on the subject, and although this edict may incidentally have helped to put down the Saxon beer clubs, which were hotbeds of political conspiracies, its primary aim was as a precaution against fire. That danger was an ever present one in those days of chimneyless wooden houses.

The ancient city ordinances of London abound in stringent fire regulations. None of them, however, was more effective than the "cover fire" bell, which as far back as the time of King Alfred was rung in certain places in England. William's edict rendered compulsory an ancient custom. But it was a wise legislative act and not a bit of arbitrary tyranny. We find plenty of early traces of the custom or its equivalent, as, for instance, the blowing of a horn at the market place in continental Europe.

WORLDS OF THE UNIVERSE.

All Might Be Annihilated and Not Affect the Solar Systems.

I am asked, "Are distant stars which shine by their own light visible only, or are worlds like our earth visible by reflected light?"

Go out to Neptune, our own last local world in our modest solar system; turn around, look back this way; then you must have a large telescope to see the earth. Only the sun of all bodies in our solar system is visible from space deeps. And it looks like the point of the finest sewing needle from stellar distances.

Thus from space depths only suns at terrific heat are visible in any telescope, even the largest that can be made. Then all worlds are invisible and unknown. The earth and man are both totally unknown to people on worlds revolving around any of the hundreds of millions of other suns, if there are such worlds and inhabitants.

Imagine that there are 1,000,000,000 suns, each surrounded by eight worlds like those revolving now around our sun. Then if an accident suddenly annihilated the 8,000,000,000 worlds, people and all, the accident could not even be noticed. The suns would all move on with velocities in between four and eighty miles per second precisely as if there had been no accident. Thus if there are intelligences in the depths of the sidereal universe they have not heard of man nor his infinitesimal world—the earth.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

A Ten Years' Penance.

It is happily seldom that the revenge of a disappointed husband takes quite such an extreme form as in the case of the man whose will ran thus: "When I remember that the only happy times I ever enjoyed were when my wife sulked with me, and when I remember that my married life might, for this reason, be considered to have been a fairly happy one because she was nearly always sulking, I am constrained to forget the repulsion the contemplation of her face inspired me with and leave her the sum of £60,000 on condition that she undertakes to pass two hours a day at my graveside for the ten years following my decease, in company with her sister, whom I have reason to know she loathes worse than she does myself."—London Tit-Bits.

Easy Dusting.

Mrs. Florin had a new maid, and one morning as she entered the library she was somewhat surprised to find the girl seated in one of the chairs with her hands folded.

"What!" cried the mistress. "Here you are sitting down! Why, you were sent in here to dust the room!"

"Yes, ma'am," was the girl's reply, "but I've lost the duster, and so I am sitting on each of the chairs in turn."—Harper's Magazine.

Victimized by Changing Times.

"Now, then, Cousin Emma, let me give you a bit off the breast."

"Yes, please, I should like to taste that, for in my young days they always gave it to the grownups, and now they keep it for the children, so I've always missed it."—London Punch.

Not a Party Man.

"Is your husband a confirmed party man?" asked the smiling candidate.

"Laws, no! He's quit dancin' and don't even attend his lodge reg'lar," answered Mrs. Wayback.—Dallas News.

SUFFRAGISTS TO MEET IN CAMDEN

Tentative Program for the Twenty-fourth Annual Convention.

DINNER TO BE FEATURE

Reports of Officers and Committees to be Presented—Newark Junior League Work for Defeat of John A. Matthews for State Senator.

A tentative program of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association is just being sent out. The convention is to be held in Camden, November 6 to 7, and between two and three hundred delegates will be present, representing every county in the State. By permission of the Mayor and City Council, the convention will meet in the Council chamber of the Camden City Hall.

The morning session of the first day will be devoted to reports of the officers of the association, and the chairman of the following committees: Press committee, Miss Elizabeth Pope, Jersey City; finance committee, Mrs. Arthur Hunter, Montclair; enrollment committee, Miss Josephine Conwell, Paterson; church work committee, Mrs. Faraday, of Arlington. Also reports from the county organizers.

The afternoon session will be devoted to reports from the ninety branches of the association, also from Mrs. Philip McKim Garrison on the work of the joint legislative committee. At 6 o'clock a dinner will be given for all interested Suffragists and their friends at one of the Camden hotels. A number of men and women prominent in political life will be guests and will make short speeches. At 8 o'clock there will be a public mass meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall, at which there will be several prominent speakers. At this meeting the Suffragists ought to be able to celebrate the victory for their cause in many, if not all, the seven Western States which will vote upon the question on November 3.

The Saturday morning session will be devoted to the election of officers for the coming year and the election of delegates to the National Convention in Nashville, November 12 to 17.

At the afternoon session, representatives of the National Congressional Committee and the Congressional Union will speak. A talk will be given on the Pennsylvania methods by Mrs. Hull and ten-minute talks on different phases of suffrage work will be given by the folowing women: "How to Get the Most Oout of Street Meetings," Mrs. R. S. Huse, acting president of the Elizabeth league; "Suffrage Automobile Tours," by Miss Florence Helsey; "Conducting a Local Suffrage Headquarters," by Mrs. A. B. Jones, president of the Plainfield league. Miss Esther G. Ogden, treasurer of the National Publishing Company, will also speak on "Suffrage Literature."

At its meeting on October 2, the Newark Junior Equal Suffrage League voted to do its utmost to prevent the election of John A. Matthews, who is running as an independent candidate for State Senator from Essex county. This is in pursuance of the promises of the suffrage organizations throughout the State to oppose candidates for any office, who announces that if elected they will work against a referendum on the suffrage amendment to the Sate Constitution. In view of the fact that the Junior Suffrage League is made up of young business women, from eighteen to twenty-six years of age, the particular class of women which the Anti-Suffragists are opposed to "having the burden of the vote" thrust upon, it is believed that it will do much to defeat whatever vote Mr. Matthews might be likely to receive. It is probable that the other organizations in Newark, the W. P. U., the Newark Equal Suffrage League and the Essex County Society will follow the example of the juniors and aid in making the defeat of Mr. Matthews a signal victory for the Suffragists.

RECREATION NOTES

The Italian Social and Educational Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School. There will be a sewing class for the girls, music and games.

Selected moving pictures will be shown tonight at the Washington School. There will be two performances 7:30 and 9 p. m. These pictures are very fine and it is hoped that the people of the West End especially will take advantage of them.

The Bryant Social Club will meet Thursday night at 8:15 in the Bryant School. The new social dances will be taught.

Selected moving pictures will be shown Thursday night at 7:30 and 9 p. m. at the Washington School.

Winthrop Ames, director of the Little Theatre, announces that he will produce Alice Brown's play, "Children of Earth," which won the $10,000 prize offered by him for the best play by a native author, about Thanksgiving.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

A New York evening paper on Saturday last had its first column on the front page occupied by the following:

CALLING THE VOTERS OUT.

Political Managers Are Trying to Make Them Register.

First Day's Returns are Below Those of Last Year.

Managers of the political parties were exerting themselves today to induce voters to register, and they hoped that tonight's totals would compare favorably with the second day of registration last year. District politicians were prodded by managers of the various candidates to get in personal touch with the captains and have them personally solicit voters to go to the registry places. If the names of voters registered in previous years could be found in the telephone book, they were called up and urged to register.

If only this political news had come from a Suffrage State how the Anti's would have played it up as an unanswerable argument against giving women the ballot that they did not bother to use! However, the newspaper story referred to contained no hint that male suffrage is a failure.

New Jersey women have been watching with interest the automobile conclave of the New York Suffragists enroute to Rochester. There have been many enlightening sessions along the way. For instance:

"It was the Mayor of Hudson, conservative old Hudson, who voiced the opinion of some who are inclined to favor equal suffrage and of many 'antis' when he said at the luncheon given there:

"I am in favor of suffrage. But I wish that the women as well as the men could have a chance to vote on it next year. I think that would be the fairest way to decide."

And to this charming paradox of having women who haven't the right to vote given the right to vote on whether they should vote, Mrs. Raymond Brown replies:

"That is one of the remarks which I have often heard on the lips of Anti-Suffragists, and it always seems to me each time I hear it that it is especially interesting that those who believe that women are not competent to vote on any other question are willing to have them decide this one which affects half of the people in this State."

How About Jersey D. T's?

There are fewer D. T.'s in New York State this year. What are D. T.'s? They are but Doubting Thomases, the men who stand on the sidewalk and say:

"Women may form seven-tenths of our High School graduates and one-tenth of our criminals; they may be the ones to whom we entrust our homes and our children, the most precious things in the world to us; they may be the ones who are foremost in our churches and our philanthrophies, but we don't think they are fit to be voters." Or:

"Woman suffrage is a dangerous thing. It wil wreck the home, and ruin the State." This in spite of the fact that ten States have enfranchised their women, their homes are as intact as ever, and their State life vastly improved, according to their own report.

Good Suffrage News From Many States.

(Woman's Journal, Oct. 10.)

Action on equal suffrage has been taken recently by political parties in several States. In no case does the platform speak unfavorably.

In New Jersey last week, the submission of the suffrage amendment to the voters was practically ensured by the adoption of a plank to that effect at the Democratic and Republican conventions in Trenton. The Progressives went still further, and declared themselves in favor of giving women the ballot. Suffrage was the main issue at the Democratic convention, as the tentative platform did not contain the plank for submission. So strong a feeling developed among the delegates, however, that the plank was carried. It was a distinct victory for the New Jersey Suffragists.

The Massachusetts Democratic convention declared for the submission of the suffrage amendment. The Republicans did not follow the advice of their candidate for Governor, Mr. McCall, who is a Suffragist. They remained silent on the question. The Progressives gave their endorsement enthusiastically. This is the same political situation that existed last year, when the amendment easily passed both Houses. As in New Jersey, success in the coming Legislature will mean a vote on the question at the polls in 1915.

In the suffrage States there is not only praise for the women voters in the party platforms, but a strong insistence upon a federal amendment. All three parties in Colorado have declared for nation-wide suffrage, and the Democrats in Arizona have just done so.

In Nevada, where the amendment is to be voted upon this fall, the Republican platform devoted two paragraphs to explaining why it felt that it could not take a stand for or against suffrage, and the Democrats held up as one of the most laudable results of their State work the submission of the question.

Although a constitutional amendment cannot be considered in Vermont until 1920, the State Democratic party declares that it favors "placing the ballot in the hands of women on an equality with men as directly and speedily as possible."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The double coat makes an exceedingly interesting feature of autumn styles. Undoubtedly it owes its inspiration to the cape, yet it is distinctly a coat and one that will be found very generally becoming.

This model is exceedingly simple to make since the sleeves are in the Japanese style, and the various pieces can be put together without difficulty.

FANCY DOUBLE COAT.

In the picture only the collar is of a contrasting material, but this is a season when we will see a great many combinations of silk with wool and of plain material with fancy material, and a quite different and equally handsome effect could be obtained by making the undercoat of one material while the overcoat and vest portions are of another.

For the medium size the coat will require five yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with one-quarter yard twenty-seven inches wide for the collar.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8375, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CHESTNUTS ON THE TABLE.

THE Italians make thrifty use of the chestnut as food. The American housewife also would find it much to her advantage to learn how to use them. Some suggestions for preparing excellent nut dishes for the table follow:

A Handsome Dish.

Chestnut Loaf.—Take a cupful chestnut meats chopped fine with a cupful breadcrumbs moistened with cream, a cupful hot mashed potato, a tablespoonful minced onion and salt and cayenne to season. Bind these ingredients together with a beaten egg, shape into a loaf, dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven. Garnish with lemon crescents and parsley.

Deviled Chestnuts.—Take a quart of chestnuts, shell and blanch them. Dry thoroughly, then brown in hot olive oil or butter. Have ready a mixture composed of two tablespoonfuls of chopped mixed pickle, a tablespoonful Worcestershire sauce, one-quarter teaspoonful salt and a dash of cayenne. Turn this over the hot nuts and serve.

Deliciously Flavored.

Chestnut Omelet.—Make a chestnut puree. To a cupful of the pulp add two tablespoonfuls of sugar strup or honey diluted with cream, a pinch of salt, a tablespoonful of sherry or orange juice. Make a plain omelet and just before folding spread a layer of the puree over half the omelet and then fold and serve.

Chestnuts With Beef.—Take a nice lean piece of beef not more than three pounds in weight and simmer it very slowly, but steadily, with a cupful of water or weak stock, a dust of grated nutmeg and pepper and salt (preferably celery salt) to taste in a closely covered pan for two hours. Roast and skin one and a half pounds of chestnuts. When the meat has been cooking rather over one hour put in the nuts, cover as before and finish cooking. Arrange the beef on a well heated dish, lift the chestnuts carefully without breaking them and place them around it, then, having thickened the liquor, stir into it two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, pour it over all and serve.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Lead Soldiers Mobilized.

The Drummer Rattled Off a Lively Tune on His Little Drum.

"JACK, have you locked up your lead soldiers for the night?" asked daddy.

"Why, no, daddy!" said Jack wonderingly. "I never lock them up."

Daddy laughed. "Well, you see, all the soldiers are longing to go to war, and I thought yours might march right away without your permission, just like a company I know about."

"Oh, daddy, did they, honest?" cried Evelyn.

"Listen to my story, dear, and then you'll know all about it," said daddy.

"Just after war in Europe was declared there was a disturbance one night in this particular nursery as 12 o'clock struck.

"There was the rumble of muffled drums, the clanking of guns, and suddenly the door of the nursery closet opened, and into the moonlight shining through the window and making a great patch of light upon the nursery floor marched a whole regiment of gallant lead soldiers.

"The drummer rattled off a lively tune on his little drum, the lead general rushed to and fro and shouted 'Forward, march; forward, march!' and the soldiers made their short, straight lead legs flash.

"How high they held their heads, how they did stick out their chests, and how their hearts did beat under their gayly painted coats!

"The clock waved its hands at the gallant regiment and struck 13 from very joy. The rocking horse pranced as hard as he could, and the dolls clapped their hands with glee, and all the animals in the Noah's ark filed out of the ark and formed a circle, and then they all made a noise which they meant to be 'Hurrah!'

"What a din there was in that nursery as the tin bugle shrilled, and the rumty-tum-tum of the little red drum beaten so lustily by the tiny lead drummer was joined by the hurrahs of the Noah's ark animals.

"Then the little lead general shouted an order:

"'Halt!'

"The regiment paused instantly, and the general made a little speech.

"'We are French soldiers made in Germany and imported by America,' he said. 'Now, what side do you think we had better fight on after we cross the great wide sea?'"

"Oh, daddy, which side did they choose?" breathlessly asked both children.

"Well, kiddies, I don't know. I only know that there was a silent vote taken and the regiment marched out of the door.

"The door banged, and I nearly jumped out of bed."

"Oh, it was a dream!" shouted the kiddies.

"Maybe," agreed daddy.

OPENS UP NOSTRILS, CLEARS HEAD, ENDS COLD OR CATARRH AT ONCE

Instantly Relieves Swollen, Inflamed Nose, Head, Throat—You Breathe Freely—Dull Headache Goes—Nasty Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

BANKERS MEET AT RICHMOND.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 14.—Following two days of committee meetings and departmental conferences, the fortieth annual convention of the American Bankers' Association got under way today with the first of the general sessions. The assembly room of the Jefferson Hotel was filled with representative bankers and financiers from all sections of the country when the gathering was called to order shortly before 10 o'clock this morning, by the president of the association, Arthur Reynolds, of Des Moines. Greetings were extended by Governor Stuart, of Virginia; Mayor Ainslie, of Richmond, and President Purcell, of the Richmond Clearing House Association. Response in behalf of the visiting delegates was embodied in the annual address of President Reynolds. The remainder of the morning session was occupied with reports of officers and heads of committees and an address by Martin W. Littleton, of New York. The feature of the afternoon session was an address on the "Federal Reserve System," by Congressman Carter Glass, chairman of the House committee on banking and currency.

SILK EXPOSITION AT PATERSON.

Paterson, Oct. 14—An Industrial Exposition and National Silk Style Show is now being held in Paterson, the pioneer silk city of the United States. The affair is under the direction of the Paterson Chamber of Commerce. The exposition proper is being held in the Paterson Armory, the center of which is given over to the silk exposition while the other industries of Paterson tenant the surrounding booths. The silk display is one of the finest ever seen in the United States. The production of silk from the egg to the finished broad silk and even the complete gown is shown. The National Silk Style Show includes a display of the [illegible]'s latest in gowns as well as a demonstration of the extent of the Paterson silk industry. The gowns included in the display are all "Paterson Made" and were designed by American modistes.

PIEDMONT & NORTHERN PLANS.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 14—The directors of the Piedmont and Northern Railway Company who operate a high speed electric interurban line between Charlotte and Gastonia and Greenville and Greenwood, S. C., are planning to build an extension between Spartansburg and Gastonia, a distance of thirty-two miles. The company proposes to extend the line northward from Charlotte to Concord, N. C., about twenty-five miles, and has also in view the extension from Concord to Salisbury, Greensboro and Durham, N. C. The work on the Concord branch will be the first started.

FOR UNIFORM STATE LAWS.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14—Preliminary to the annual meeting of the American Bar Association, which is to be held in this city next week, the commissioners appointed by the Governors of all the States to draft acts for uniform State laws assembled here today and began a five days' conference, the results of which will be presented to the bar association for further consideration. One of the most important of the new measures to be considered will be a draft of a uniform cold storage law.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 14—Delegates representing local chapters of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the great laymen's organization of the Episcopal Church, have gathered here in large number from all sections of the country for their twenty-ninth [illegible] sions were [illegible] will be continued over next Sunday.

TEXAS NURSERYMEN MEET.

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 14—The fifteenth annual convention of the Texas Nurserymen's Association began in this city today and will continue over tomorrow. Many members from all parts of the State are in attendance. President John S. [illegible] of Sherman, and other officers of the association delivered addresses at the opening session.

The Daily Press will be glad to have its attention called to any misleading or untrue statement, if such should appear at any time in an advertisement in its columns.

Readers are requested to assist in protecting themselves and legitimate advertisers.

The difference between a House and a Home is often only a matter of a judicious planting of Shrubbery, Trees, etc., to soften lines and cover up bare spots and corners. We have here in our Nurseries EVERYTHING for the decoration and improvement of your grounds and would be glad to supply your wants. Phone 1349.

COUNCILS AWARD SEWER CONTRACT

Bids Aggregating $234,213 Are Accepted by Joint Municipalities.

TO START WORK SOON

Cauldwell-Wingate Co. and Atlantic Construction Co. to Build Trunk Line—Edward Bader Will Construct Disposal Works.

Contracts for the joint trunk sewer and sewage disposal works to be built by Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen were awarded at a meeting of the members of the three councils in this city, last night, after a lengthy conference of the sewage commission. All of the Plainfield councilmen were present except Theodore Martin, R. A. Claybrook and John H. Cose.

The contract for the building of the trunk sewer was awarded to the Cauldwell-Wingate Company and Atlantic Construction and Supply Company, associate, of New York, their bid, $101,111 being the lowest of the thirty-seven received. The contract for the construction of the disposal works was awarded to Edward L. Bader of Atlantic City, his bid, $313,-162.00 being the lowest for that work. The length of the trunk sewer to be built is about three miles.

According to the specifications the contract is to be signed within ten days after it is awarded and work must be started within twenty days after that time and completed within twenty months. At the conference held prior to the open meeting, Edward Ashmead, of the law firm of Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, was present, as was also George W. Fuller, the engineer. The former looked after the legal matters, while Mr. Fuller reported concerning the concerns about to receive the contracts. They all have handled large contracts, according to Mr. Fuller, and are responsible.

All the members of the three councils voted in favor of awarding the contracts with the exception of Mr. Blatz. His reasons for not doing so were that he objected to paying 6 per cent. interest on the sale bonds, and the present upset condition of the bond market. He wanted to know definitely where the money was coming from to complete the contract and how much the city would have to pay for it, realizing that Plainfield is to pay 68 per cent. of the cost of the work.

There is a possibility that arrangements may be made to issue short time notes covering a year or so which would provide sufficient money to carry the work along until such time as there is relief in the bond market. It is estimated that the accepted bids represent in the neighborhood of $30,000 less than would be possible under good times with plenty of work, and those who favored the awarding of the contracts contend that this fact helps to offset a possible increase of interest the city might have to pay for the money to do the work.

Bills for sewer work, such as advertising proposals for bids, books, stationery, etc., for the commission, amounting to $624.24, were ordered paid. A letter from the State Board of Health approving the revision of the sewer plans, was read, and as soon as the contracts are signed everything will be in readiness to go ahead with the work.

It is understood that the committee on right of way has succeeded in getting all of the affected property-owners to agree to a price for said right of way. This will probably cost between $15,000 and $20,000. The contracts were awarded last night in accordance with a resolution offered by Councilman Thomas F. Hylan, of the Plainfield body.

WHY TUTTLE STICKS ON THE JOB WITH WILSON

Congressman Sends Letter to Constituents Explaining Absence.

Congressman W. E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, who is seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket has sent a circular letter to many of the voters in the Fifth district, in which he explains why he has not been on the hustings during the campaign now in progress. He enclosed a copy of the letter which President Wilson wrote to Chairman Doremus of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, in which the President announced that he would not take the stump, but would "stick on the job" at Washington, preferring to be judged by his record than by any promises regarding future action.

Congressman W. E. Tuttle, Jr.

In sending the Wilson letter, Mr. Tuttle says "This explains why I have been unable to be among my constituents during the recent past, to learn at first hand their views of the legislation which has been under consideration this summer."

Continuing, Mr. Tuttle says:

"I have remained in Washington because I have felt that I should do my share to advance the President's policies and serve the public interests, and I believe that this action upon my part will meet with your approval.

"The present Congress has been in session since April 7, 1913, a period of eighteen months. During that time much important legislation has been proposed, considered and finally enacted into law. Among the more important laws enacted may be mentioned the Underwood Tariff Act reducing the tariff, the Federal Reserve Act which completely reforms our banking and currency systems, the Federal Trade Commission Act, which creates a tribunal to adjust disputes among competitors engaged in interstate commerce and prevents the abuses heretofore existing, the Industrial Employes' Arbitration Law to settle amicable differences between employers and employes, and the Alaska Railroad Act to facilitate the development of that wonderful territory, and with other legislation to conserve its natural resources."

WILD ANIMALS AT LARGE IN RAINEY'S HUNT PICTURES

Plainfield has apparently not forgotten the wonderful animal pictures shown here in 1913, for tickets for this new series of Rainey's African hunt pictures to be shown at The Plainfield Theatre, afternoon and evening, Friday and Saturday, are selling like the proverbial hot cakes. These pictures of animals in the heart of the African jungle are even more thrilling than the previous series. Two performances will be given on Friday and Saturday for the benefit of the Plainfield Exchange for Woman's Work.

Arrangements for the production are in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, chairman; Mrs. Frank D. Warren, Mrs. Horace Stevens, Mrs. N. C. Barnhart, Mrs. Edward Patterson and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore. Candy will be for sale during the performances and will be in charge of Miss Louise Booth, Miss Hope Ivins, Miss Lillian King and Miss Dorothy Burke.

DONATION OF APPLES WANTED.

Donations of apples would be greatly appreciated at this time at the Children's Home, as fruit is a necessary part of the diet prescribed for the children. Imperfect fruit that may drop from the trees can easily be utilized for apple sauce and can be canned as well for winter purposes, so that the expense item for winter fruit can be materially reduced, if the efficient matron can have some of the apples that lie on the ground and are wasted.

VALUE OF OPEN AIR SCHOOLING

Tubercular Children Continue to Thrive Under the System.

PUPILS GAIN IN WEIGHT

Beginning January 1 the Board of Education Will Take Over the Local Institution and Supply a Teacher—History of Work.

Outdoor schooling continues to justify itself, according to the report of Dr. Clara Krans, of the Open-Air School committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield. The league has long maintained an Open-Air School as a demonstration for the education of Plainfield folks. Report after report has shown that aneamic children and those with tubercular tendencies have thrived physically and mentally in the demonstration school. The children admitted to this school have been at advantage over children with impaired health who continued in the public and private schools of Plainfield.

The demonstrations have resulted in an agreement by which the Board of Education takes over the burden of supplying instruction and will pay $1 yearly as rent for the school. The Anti-Tuberculosis League will continue to supply a nurse and cook, and bear the expense of the prescribed diet. The Board of Education takes over the school next January. In many cities the Boards of Education maintain open-air classrooms. Both New York and Newark have them. There are accommodations for about 24 pupils in the school to which the Plainfield Board of Education will supply a teacher after January 1.

In Dr. Krans' report for the last session of the Open-Air School it was shown that 23 of the 24 pupils gained in weight. There was a gain of 76½ pounds in weight distributed among 23 pupils. One child gained as much as 9½ pounds in weight. The lowest individual gain was one-half pound. Regarding the 20th child Dr. Krans said:

"The loss of 4½ pounds was in one child who had previously gained very markedly and whose weight fluctuated above and below and finally settled at an approximately normal level.."

Children selected for admission to the Open-Air School were those whose already impaired health and possibly retarded mental progress would have been unfavorably affected by continuance in closed school classrooms. The health of the pupils was closely observed by the Open-Air School nurse. As her observations, checked by Dr. Krans, indicated 18 pupils were treated at the Muhlenberg Clinic, making a total of 111 visits. Fourteen children were sent to a dental clinic, making 86 visits. Nine had treatment at eye, ear, nose and orthopedic clinics, and four benefitted by the removal of tonsils or adenoids.

Dr. Krans reported individual cases benefitted by the open-air teaching, the prescribed diet, the trained observation of a nurse, with bathing, sleep, etc., and the medical treatment afforded which distinguishes the Open-Air School. One child who had been absent for periods measured by weeks when attending the regular schools lost but one-half day during the whole of last year. Another, equally irregular at regular session, because of regularity of attendance at the open-air classes was able to skip a grade. A nervous girl not only improved in her nervous and physical health, but was able to gain one and a half grades during the year without any of the deplorable consequences so frequently occurring in neurotic children. A backward child, after five or six years at the bottom of the first grade, this year passed to the second. The most marked improvement was shown by one boy who not only gained physically, but did two grades' work in one.

That Plainfield urgently needs outdoor classrooms to insure children with an impaired health an education without further physical deterioration and possibly with physical improvement was set forth in this closing paragraph in Dr. Krans' report:

"There are seven children from last year whom it is desired to keep through the first term at least, unless there are urgent reasons for replacing them. Two of these have attended more than a year and like a great number of less fortunate ones probably need to spend their whole period of school life out of doors."

SUCCESSFUL SALE.

The Plainfield Plant, Flower and Fruit Guidl held its second semi-annual bulb sale on the lawn of the Friends Meeting House, yesterday afternoon, at which time a substantial amount was raised with which to carry on the work during the course of the winter.

TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT with MOTION PICTURES and LOCAL HEALTH EXHIBIT at the HIGH SCHOOL.

Public invited to attend this free educational project to continue until October 23.

Speakers tonight will be Dr. Millard Knowlton, of State Board of Health; Dr. Thomas S. Davis, president Plainfield Board of Health. Father Vincent Sciolla will deliver an address in Italian language.

"For your better health in home an municipality."

ADDRESS IN ITALIAN AT HEALTH EXHIBIT

Feature to Be Given Tonight for Benefit of Foreigners Who Are Interested.

One of the largest attendances of the week was recorded at the tuberculosis and public health exhibit being held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium last night, when Dr. Thomas S. Davis, president of the local Board of Health, spoke of the need of a new isolation hospital in this city. In his remarks the speaker stated that the present one offered but limited accommodations, the present facilities making it impossible to treat but one disease at a time in the institution.

Tonight in addition to Dr. Knowlton's lecture, the subject of which will be "What the Individual and Organizations Can Do to Prevent Tuberculosis," there will be an address in Italian by Father Vincent Sciolla, of St. Mary's church.

The exhibition is attracting widespread interest and many visitors have been received at the High School at the evening sessions. Those in charge are greatly encouraged over the result of the experiment and hope for increased attendances at the remainder of the meetings.

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Captain "Ted" Flannery Host at An Anniversary Party Last Night.

True fraternalism was exemplified at the home of Captain "Ted" Flannery in Scotch Plains, last night, when he entertained the members of Crescent Company, No. 13, K. of P., in helping him to celebrate his birthday anniversary. The occasion proved a delightful one and every member of the Uniformed Rank and members of the old Independent Fife and Drum Corps, who furnished music for the occasion, were most hospitably entertained.

Captain Flannery was highly honored by the members of Crescent Company in being presented with a handsome solid gold watch charm. Captain Flannery was completely surprised with the gift and expressed his deep appreciation. On one side of the charm is the emblem of the Uniformed Rank and on the other side the emblem of the K. of P. It is of beautiful design and a present to be proud of.

Captain Flannery has been a member of the K. of P. order for more than thirty years. He is one of the charter members of the Uniformed Rank, K. of P., and has been captain of the command for the past sixteen years. He is still captain of the rank and a most efficient one.

The evening was pleasantly spent in enjoying martial music, singing and cards. Throughout the evening a collation was served.

CONDUCTING ART EXHIBIT.

Teachers in the local and borough public schools will probably be interested in viewing the exhibit of work now being conducted under the auspices of the teachers of art in the New York city High Schools, in the Fine Arts building, 215 West 57th street, this week. The demonstration of work is a particularly unique one and deals with all branches of scholastic work.

OFF FOR A HIKE.

Charles Dolliver, borough clerk, and William J. Trembath, together with other borough politicians, started on a hiking trip this morning, intending to take in portions of Pennsylvania in the general vicinity of Stroudsburg. The party will return the latter part of the week.

DOLLAR DINNER TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

County Republicans Will Gather in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, Tonight.

EXPECT 700 GUESTS

All the Congressional and County Candidates Will Speak—Franklin B. Rutherford, of Summit, Will Be Toastmaster.

Marking the formal opening of the party's campaign in Union county, a dollar dinner will be given tonight in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, under the auspices of the Union County Republican Committee. The affair promises to be one of the biggest in the history of the party in this county, at least seven hundred guests being expected to attend. John H. Capstick, Congressional candidate, will be accompanied by at least one hundred friends and supporters from Morris county and about two hundred guests from this city will be present. Every section in the county will be represented.

Following tonight's affair the campaign will be carried on up to election day in an aggressive manner by noon-day meetings at the various shops and factories throughout the county and with meetings on the street and in halls at night. It is expected that there will be two large mass meetings in Elizabeth, with prominent speakers, and one in this city, at which it is hoped to have United States Senator Spooner as the principal speaker. Meetings will also be held here at the factories, while the City Republican Committee has arranged for neighborhood meetings in the different wards at which the local candidates will speak.

Rutherford B. Franklin, of Summit, wil be the toastmaster at the dinner tonight, and the speakers will include the following: Former Congressman Chas. N. Fowler and Rev. William T. Stuchell, both of whom were defeated for the Congressional nomination; Congressional nominee J. H. Capstick, William N. Runyon, Arthur N. Pierson and Charles L. Morgan, Assembly nominees; State Senator Carlton B. Pierce; County Register Frank H. Smith and County Clerk James C. Calvert, who seek a re-election; George Otto, candidate for sheriff, and Dr. H. P. Dengler, candidate for coroner, and Mayor Victor Mravlag, who seeks a re-election in Elizabeth.

In the speech-making tonight the legislative candidates will be given the preference for the reason that the reforms advocated in the party platform can only be accomplished through legislative action.

GEORGE LUHR HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Popular Trolley Official Entertains Friends at a Pig Roast.

George Luhr, superintendent of the Elizabeth division of the Public Service Railway, celebrated the forty-fifth anniversary of his birthday, yesterday, and last night, according to his annual custom, he entertained a company of about twenty-five relatives and friends at a pig roast at his home on West Front street. It was about 9:30 o'clock when the guests sat down to a "spread" fit for a king. The menu comprised a roast pig with all the fixins', and everyone had their fill.

After the repast, vocal music and dancing were the features until long after midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Luhr proved themselves admirable entertainers. A large birthday cake containing forty-five candles was greatly admired.

The musical part of the program was furnished by Mrs. John J. Gettings, Augustus Meisner, Jack Todd, William Smith and Councilman John H. Cose, while Mr. Luhr, by request, sang "Where the River Shannon Flows." Mr. Todd also favored the guests with several solos, singing topical songs that won hearty applause.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Jacobus, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gettings, John Van-Buskirk and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jarrard, of Elizabeth; Police Chief P. S. Kiely, former Police Captain Christian Frederickson, Councilmen Theodore Martin, John H. Cose and Francis J. Blatz, Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, George O. Stevens, Edward Brown, Thomas Melick, Alfred Estelle, William Smith, John Todd, Richard Harrigan, Fire Chief A. D. Jennings, Ellsworth Westcott and Hugh Higgins.

GERMAN TROOPS FROM ANTWERP REACH BRUGES AND THIELT—FRENCH PROGRESS AT LENS

LONDON REPORTS THAT HEAVY CANNONADING IS HEARD OFF KUSTENDJE IN ROUMANIA ON THE BLACK SEA.

AUSTRIANS DEFEATED IN A TWO DAYS' BATTLE

Russians Occupy Fortified Positions on the Line of Stry, Sambor and Midyra—Movement of Germans Toward Ostend is Progressing—Capture of Two German Steamers Reported—Fire Destroys Austrian Arsenal at Monfalcone.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The war office today gave out the following: "In the Belgian theatre of war the German troops coming from Antwerp are marching toward the west and reached the region of Bruges and Thielt on the evening of October 14.

On our left wing the enemy has evacuated the left bank of the river Lys; between the Lys and the canal of La Bassee the situation is stationery.

"In the region of Lens and between Arras and Albert our progress has been notable. Between the Somme and the Oise there is no change. The Germans have bombarded our line, but made no infantry attack. At the centre between the Oise and the Meuse we have advanced toward Craonne.

"At the northwest of the road from Barry Au Bac to Rheims, and at the north of Prunay in the direction of Beine numerous German trenches have been captured. Between the Meuse and the Moselle after having repulsed on the night of October 13-14 attacks at the southwest of Verdun, our troops advanced on the fourteenth to the south of the road from Verdun to Metz.

"On our right the partial offensive taken by the Germans in Ban De Sapt, to the north of St. Die, has been definitely stopped. In Russia the conflict continues on the front, extending from the region of Warsaw along the Vistula. As far as Przemysl and still farther toward the south to the Dniester there is no change in East Prussia.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Reports of heavy Russian reverses in the fighting in Poland are contained in a wireless despatch today to the German embassy from the Berlin foreign office. The despatch says: "The general staff reports that the enemy including part of the garrison of Antwerp is in hurrying retreat from Ghent westward to the coast and pursued by German forces. Lille is occupied. The Germans made 4,500 prisoners. Although Lille was declared an open town by municipal authority, the enemy attemping from Dunkerque an outflanking evolution, sent forces there with this order: 'Hold town until arrival outflanking army.' This army not arriving caused the uselessly defended town to be damaged by German troops. Close to Rheims cathedral two French heavy batteries were located. The light signals from one tower of the cathedral were observed. Of course all hostile measures of fighting detrimental to our troops will be fought down without regard to sparing the cathedral. In the western theatre the Russians were defeated near Schirwindt. We took 3,000 prisoners.

London, Oct. 15.—A news agency despatch from Bucharest by way of Rome says heavy cannonading is heard off Kustendje in Roumania on the Black Sea. It is believed that the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which now fly the Turkish flag and which yesterday undertook to escort from Sulina, an arm of the Danube, traversing the district of Dobrudja, Roumania, several transports laden with munitions, either have attacked or have been attacked by the Russian fleet.

It was announced by the official press bureau today that the Comet, a German sailing vessel with wireless, had been taken by the Australian fleet at Rabaul. The steamer Markomania, of the Hamburg-American line, has been sunk by the British warship Yarmouth in the vicinity of Sumatra. The Yarmouth has captured the Greek steamer Pontoporos and is taking the prize to a harbor. The press bureau also announced the captured vessels had been reported previously accompanying the German cruiser Emden. There are about 60 prisoners of war on the Yarmouth.

Amsterdam, Oct. 15 (Central News Cable).—Russia has more than 10,-000,000 men less than forty-five years old who have served under the colors and who are available for military service, according to the Berliner Taeglche Rundschau.

Persons arriving at Teereuzen from Ghent state that there are 100,-000 German troops concentrated there.

Rome, Oct. 15 (Central News Cable).—An Austrian Imperial Decree has called to the colors three classes of citizens whose ages are under 20 years, according to a despatch from Vienna to the Tribuna.

Boston, Oct. 15.—It is understood that the W. H. McElwain Company has obtained a contract from the French Government for 150,000 pairs of shoes. The Endicot-Johnson Co. recently secured a large contract from Greece. Inquiries have been in the market for about 1,500,000 pairs of shoes from agents of foreign governments. It is believed that France, Belgium, England and Russia each require about 500,000 pairs of shoes. England has taken a lot of leather from the United States of late and may fill parts of her requirement for shoes in home factories.

London, Oct. 15.—A despatch from Amsterdam says that exportation of petroleum from the Netherlands has been forbidden by a Royal Decree.

Rome, Oct. 15 (Central News Cable).—Fire has destroyed the Austrian Arsenal at Monfalcome, at the head of the Gulf of Trieste. A dreadnaught under construction was virtually destroyed and six thousand Tix torpedo destroyers were damaged. The fire broke out while 5,000 men were at work and quickly enveloped the scaffolding and the workshop. It is alleged that a quantity of woodwork was soaked with petrol. The damage to the arsenal is reported to have been enormous. A number of the workmen have been arrested.

The Turkish Government has notified the German Emperor of its intention to demobilize its army on account of lack of money, says a despatch to the Tribuna, from its special correspondent in Constantinople.

The Austrian and German armies were completely defeated yesterday

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

MOTORED TO TRENTON.

Instructor Julius Margentino and Fowler W. Vail motored yesterday afternoon in Mr. Vail's new Ford touring car to Trenton, where Mr. Vail was examined for his license as a driver.

Miss Hazel Crawford, of Flemington, is spending a few days in the borough as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Trewin, of North avenue.

Mrs. Margaret Mansier, who is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. John Pierson, of New Market road, was stricken with another attack of a long standing trouble on Tuesday. For a time it appeared as if she would pass away, but she rallied towards evening and according to the latest reports she is resting quietly.

Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, of Prospect avenue, left on Tuesday for Battle Creek, Mich., where Mr. Meyers is going to take the famous baths for rheumatism at the Battle Creek Sanitorium. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers plan to be away for at least three weeks.

Harold Damker, of North avenue, is assisting in the grocery store of Frank Cashin.

ENJOYING A VACATION.

Frederick Haynes, of Washington avenue, is enjoying an annual two weeks' vacation from his duties as teller in the First National Bank at Plainfield. As per his custom of former years Mr. Haynes will pass the major portion of his vacation at Barton's Camp in the Adirondacks.

William T. Kennedy, of Dunellen avenue, has resigned his position in the Plainfield grocery store of Peter Neuman.

Mrs. Henry S. Garretson, of Front street, spent yesterday with her mother, Mrs. Peter Benwood, of New Market.

The household effects of A. B. Rumsey, who has been boarding with Mrs. Mary Runyon, of North avenue, for the past four months, are being transferred from a car shipped here from Dayton, Ohio, to the new C. Lester Rule bungalow on Center street.

TO BUILD A HOUSE.

Contractor George Felmley, of Plainfield, staked out ground for a house, yesterday, to be erected for Mark Hipp on the lot adjoining the residence of Arthur S. Gaston, on Front street, near Jefferson avenue. Mr. Hipp has sold his present residence on Front street, near Madison avenue, to John Cushing, of South avenue.

Contractor Goldson W. Smalley is laying a crosswalk, for the borough, across Whittier avenue, at Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiedenhaupt, of Madison avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwarzer and son, Paul, Jr., of Brooklyn, over the week-end and holiday.

Miss Anna Rinehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rinehart, of Penfield place, has returned from the St. Peter's Hospital at New Brunswick, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The Dunellen Home and Investment Company have sold a lot on Columbia street to Edward M. Pyatt, of South Plainfield.

Deacon Frank R. Wynkoop, of the Presbyterian church, led the mid-week prayer service in the chapel of the church, last evening, owing to the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. R. Brown, who was called away.

When last heard from Dr. M. J. Whitford, who is making a protracted vacation trip, was up at Medicine Hat, Alberta County, Canada.

Mrs. E. N. Bowen, of New Market road, entertained the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, of Bound Brook, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. J. P. Smedley, of Prospect avenue, who has been ill on and off for the past six months, is able to be around again, as her many friends will be glad to hear.

ENTERTAINS CARD CLUB.

The Afternoon Card Club met with Miss Nellie S. Tabb, of Main street, this afternoon.

Miss Annabel Hague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hague, of Madison avenue, is able to be out and about after a fourteen weeks' confinement in her home as the result of an illness with scarlet fever.

Street Commissioner Smalley has men at work cleaning out the brooks of the borough.

BARACAS TO ROLL.

The Baracas will roll the Presbyterian "5," of Woodbridge, on the Presbyterian alleys, this place, this evening. A social hour will be enjoyed after the match, during which refreshments will be served.

The new Henry Wrage house, at the corner of Fairview avenue and Centre street, has been rented through the John Fedderman agency to Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Allen, who have been boarding at the Mansion House. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will take possession at once.

PLANNING FOR FAIR.

The entertainment committee of the Defender Fire Company will meet in the Borough Hall, this evening, and decide upon two other dates for the approaching fair of their company as they have been unable to procure the W. G. Holton Hall on the two nights, November 18 and 19, that were decided upon at a recent meeting.

Nelson Giles, the local milk dealer, predicts that milk will advance to 10 cents a quart if we don't have rain before long.

BUSY DAY FOR BANKERS.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 15.—This, the second day of their fortieth annual convention, was a busy day for the members of the American Bankers' Association. Rural credits and the relations between the banker and farmer formed the general theme of discussion. President Arthur Reynolds called the session to order at 9:30 o'clock this morning and Bishop O'Connell delivered the invocation. The program for the session included addresses as follows: "Fundamental Problems in Highway Improvement," by Logan W. Page, director of the Public Roads Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture; "The Banker and the Larger Citizenship," by Edward K. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina; "Soil Fertility; the Greatest Necessity and the Best Investment," by Dr. C. G. Hopkins, of the University of Illinois, and "Educating the Producer," by Dr. J. D. Eggleston, president of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The business of the convention was brought to a close this afternoon with the report of the committee on nominations and the installation of the new officers.

A supper and demonstration is being planned by the Loyal Band of the Trinity Reformed church, November 10. A special committee has the arrangements in charge. Supper is to be served at 7 o'clock.

STRIKING INCIDENTS OF THE WAR AND ACTS OF SPLENDID HEROISM

Graphic Side Lights on the Great Armed Conflict of the Nations.

Adventures of Aviators Add Thrilling Chapter to Europe's Drama.

MANY a graphic side light on the war in Europe is contained in a paragraph here and there in the stories which get past the wary censors. Some of the best of these are given here.

Here are two instances of individual French heroism:

"In a village on the point of occupation by German cavalry a French soldier, the last of his regiment there, heard a woman's cries. He turned back. At that moment a uhlan patrol entered the village. The soldier hid behind a door and then shot down the first officer and then one of the soldiers.

"While the rest of the patrol hesitated, the soldier rushed out, seized the officer's riderless horse, swung himself into the saddle and, hoisting the woman behind him, rode off amid a hail of bullets. Both reached the French lines unscathed.

"The second act of bravery cost the hero his life. On the banks of the Oise a captain of engineers had been ordered to blow up a bridge in order to cover the French retreat.

"When a detachment of the enemy appeared on the other side of the bridge the officer ordered his men back and then himself, running forward, fired the mine with his own hand, meeting a death which he must have known to be certain."

Spies' Reckless Daring.

"The German attempts are amazingly daring near Toulon. Attempt follows attempt with an incredible indifference to the sudden death which follows capture," writes a correspondent.

"One of the patrol thought he saw a movement down among the vines on the side of a deserted road and knew that something was wrong. He immediately gave a hail. As there was no reply he fired two shots among the vines. Some one gave a scream, and the soldier ran up with his bayonet at the ready.

"Three men jumped out from among the vines, and one of them fired twice at him with a revolver or automatic pistol. He was not hit and went right at them with his bayonet, firing again as he ran. He killed one man. More soldiers ran up, and they chased the two men that were left down the deserted road to the little bay. There was a small petrol launch close in shore. Immediately afterward the launch put her bow around and went out to sea.

Shot and Didn't Realize It.

"But that's not the most dramatic part of this evening's business. It was suspected that more men had come ashore from the launch. A general alarm was sent out immediately. This precaution was well justified, for two men were caught trying to blow up one of the railway bridges.

"These two men were given exactly one minute to prepare themselves. They were shoved against the pier of the bridge, and the firing party shot them from so close a distance that one man's clothes caught fire. He didn't seem to know that he was hit at first, for he started trying to put out the places where his coat and vest were burning. Then he went down plump on the ground. The other man died instantly.

"When the German was trying to put out his burning clothes just before he slumped down he kept saying in broken English (not German, mind you): 'I vill burn! I vill burn!' He seemed quite unable to realize he was shot."

Bold Deed by Forty Russians.

"We have heard so little of the methods of the Russian soldiery on the actual field," says the Petrograd correspondent of the London Morning Post, "that it is a delightful task to record a gallant little feat on the Russian extreme right when it had the Austro-German forces on the move backward. Forty men of the so called regiment of scouts swam the Vistula and succeeded in blowing up and setting fire to an enormous quantity of stores, especially commissariat, of the retreating armies.

"The Austrian river steamboats, seventeen pontoons, eighteen barges laden with stores, to say nothing of timber for bridges, a number of boats and all kinds of military material were destroyed by the smart piece of scouting work done in a few hours.

"This gallant act, evidently done under cover of darkness, was one of the main causes of distress felt by the retreating Austro-Germans. The artillery shelled and destroyed the rest of their stores from the other bank of the Vistula on the following day. The result is starvation of the whole army, who have devoured the emergency three days' rations each man carries."

Fought to the Last Man.

Field Marshal Sir John French, commander in chief of the British expeditionary forces on the continent, in an official report narrates interesting incidents that occurred during the battle of the Marne.

"On Sept. 10," he reports, "a small party under a noncommissioned officer was cut off and surrounded. After a desperate resistance it was decided to go on fighting to the end. Finally the noncommissioned officer and one man only were left, both of them being wounded.

"The Germans came up and shouted to them, 'Lay down your arms!'

"The German commander, however, signed to them to keep their arms, and then asked permission to shake hands with the wounded noncommissioned officer, who was carried off on his stretcher with his rifle by his side.

"On Sept. 10 part of our Second army corps advanced into the north and found itself marching parallel with another infantry force at some little distance away. At first it was thought this was another British unit. After some time, however, it was discovered that it was a body of Germans retreating.

"Measures promptly were taken to head off the enemy, who were surrounded and trapped in a sunken road, where more than 400 men surrendered."

Awed by Germans' Bravery.

A wounded officer, describing the fighting on the Marne, pays a high tribute to the Germans' bravery. Said this officer:

"Germans approached in considerable numbers with the apparent intention of outflanking us, for they poured in on our extreme left. 'Hold the position,' was the order we received, and I can tell you it was just the order we wished, for how they swarmed toward our position! Wave after wave approached, turned, slowed down and fell away before the hurricane of lead with which we greeted them.

"God, but they were brave! One can't deny them that tribute."

Prince Proud of Wound.

"Oh, am I not a lucky dog?" cried Prince Joachim, the kaiser's youngest son, on his cot in a Berlin hospital. He referred to the wound he sustained in battle, and his remark was addressed to an old servant.

An officer who was with the prince when he fell gave a first hand recital of the wounding of the kaiser's son in East Prussia, where he had been sent after the battle of Namur.

"Shortly before the Russian resistance was broken and during the hottest part of the battle," said the officer, "Prince Joachim, who was an information officer with the staff, was sent to the firing line for needed information as to how the battle was going.

"With the adjutant, Captain von Tahlzahn, he rode across almost a mile of ground under heavy shell fire interspersed with rifle volleys.

Badly Hurt, Risked Life Again.

"Just as he had got over the stretch of country safely and dismounted to talk to a group of officers a shrapnel shell burst close by. Both Prince Joachim and Captain von Tahlzahn were injured, the adjutant's injuries consisting only of contusion of the legs, with no break of the skin, whereas the blood gushed immediately from the torn wound in the prince's thigh.

"The first bandaging station was almost a mile to the rear. To get back to this station would have meant a slow and very dangerous ride for the prince. He bound up the wound himself temporarily, remounted and dashed back under fire to the bandaging station.

"His wound was treated at the station, and he was taken to the advanced hospital at Allenstein. He was kept at the advanced hospital until it was safe for him to travel and then was brought to Berlin."

Shells Rocked Airship.

The London Daily Mail's Petrograd correspondent sends a description by M. Poiret, a French aviator who is serving with the Russian army, of a flight over the German position accompanied by a staff captain:

"I rose to a height of 5,000 feet," said Poiret. "Fighting was in full swing. The captain with me already had made some valuable observations when the Germans, noticing my French machine, opened fire on it.

"A number of their bullets pierced the wings of the aeroplane and others struck the stays. We still flew on, however, as it was necessary to obtain the exact position of the enemy. Then the German artillery began. Then shells burst near the aeroplane, and each explosion caused it to rock. It was difficult to retain control, as pieces of shells had seriously damaged two of the stays. The fantastic dance in the air lasted twenty minutes.

"The captain was wounded in the heel, but continued to make observations. Finally I turned the machine and landed home safely. I found ten bullet marks and two fragments of shells in the machine."

British Airship Tactics.

"The constant object of our aviators," says Field Marshal Sir John French of the English military forces, "has been to effect an accurate location of the enemy's forces and incidentally, since the operations cover so large an area, of our own units.

"Nevertheless the tactics adopted for dealing with hostile air craft are to attack them instantly with one or more British machines. This has been so far successful that in five cases German pilots or observers have been shot while in the air and their machines brought to ground. As a consequence the British flying corps has succeeded in establishing an individual ascendancy which is as serviceable to us as it is damaging to the enemy."

As Aviator Saw Retreat.

An air man, who viewed the German retreat after the battle of the Marne, says:

"It was a wonderful sight to look down upon, those hundreds of thousands of moving troops, the long gray columns of the kaiser's picked troops, some marching in a northerly, others in a northeasterly direction, and all moving with a tremendous rapidity eloquent of their desire to place themselves beyond the reach of the allied armies, which were harassing them at every step.

"The retreat was not confined to the highways. Many German soldiers were seen running across the fields, jumping over fences, crawling through hedges and wending their way through woods. These men doubtless belonged to regiments which had been badly cut up in the fierce fighting which preceded the general retreat. Deprived of a majority of their officers, they were a mere rabble of fugitives, many without rifles, having abandoned their weapons in their haste to escape their French and British pursuers."

Bombs Like Stars Gone Mad.

"The wildest flights of imagination couldn't approach what happened in Antwerp," declares a correspondent whose belated story by mail describes the Zeppelin attack on the Belgian capital. He says:

"There was a terrific explosion far away, a deep booming roar. A moment later a spark came whirling and circling through the air like a shooting star gone mad. It sank into the sky line of roofs, and another explosion boomed out.

"And then up against the stars I saw the Zeppelin, perhaps a mile high and out over the outskirts of the town.

"Another spark fell, and there was a third explosion. Then a new sound filled the air. It began far away. It was the rattle of rifles, thousands of them. Under my window the soldiers began to shoot, the flashes lighting my room.

"Thirty thousand soldiers were shooting, each as fast as he could fire with his magazine rifle. The orders were not to try to hit the Zeppelin unless it was overhead. Every man's duty was to shoot straight up.

Fence of Metal a Mile High.

"They were filling the air with steel. They were putting up a fence of metal a mile high around the city and palace.

"The big guns in the forts around the city began to boom. Aeroplane machine guns mounted on automobiles dashed about the streets, adding their rattling sound to the din. It was a million Fourths of July rolled into one."

The correspondent adds that the bullets sent into the air by the soldiers came falling back like rain and were picked up by the populace as souvenirs.

Politely Kills Teuton.

Lieutenant de Lupel of the French army has endeared himself to his command by a most unusual exhibition of what they are pleased to term "old fashioned French gallantry."

Accompanied by a few men, Lieutenant de Lupel succeeded in surrounding a German detachment occupying the station at Mezieres. The lieutenant on searching the premises came upon the German officer hiding behind a stack of coal. Both men leveled their guns and for a moment faced each other.

"After you," finally said the Frenchman courteously. The German fired and missed, and Lieutenant de Lupel killed his man.

The French soldiers cheered their leader, and he has been praised everywhere for his action.

A Burnt Cork Charge.

Some of the French soldiers have discovered that the Germans are very unwilling to face the black troops from Senegal. Taking advantage of this fact, they have carefully blackened their faces with burnt cork before charging the enemy.

This, added to the horrible yells to which they give vent, seems to have had considerable effect on one occasion, when a body of Germans simply turned tail and fled like rabbits when they saw these minstrel Senegalese charging them.

"The Valley of Death!"

A correspondent tells of a Russian officer, badly wounded, who would not let two of his men stay behind to carry him off. With a pool of his own blood widening around him he sat on the ground, cheering on his men from behind. The gorge, he adds, was full of dead men, lying in heaps. On the slopes, even at Galitch, where he was present, he had never seen so many dead in an equal space. Artillery officers visited the spot later in the day to see for themselves the effect of their fire and were astonished that their shrapnel had proved so deadly.

The troops gave the place the name of "the Valley of Death." The Austrian general commanding the division watched his men being disarmed. Presently the Austrian standards were brought up from the gorge, and at the sight he drew a revolver and shot himself.

FIREMAN SUSPENDED PENDING A HEARING

Joseph G. Robinson May Be Permanently Retired by Councilmanic Board.

Alleged to have committed an infraction of the fire department regulations by absenting himself from duty without leave, Joseph G. Robinson, a fireman in the No. 4 engine house, at Netherwood, is under suspension pending a hearing before the councilmanic fire board. The nature of Robinson's act, should the charge be substantiated at the hearing, makes him liable to permanent retirement.

He has been in the department for five years and has been the central figure in several other episodes that have resulted in his arraignment before the fire board to answer to charges. On the former occasions Robinson has escaped permanent retirement after facing the complaints, but it is understood that the serious nature of the present allegations is likely to result in his discharge.

Some time ago Robinson had a scuffle with a civilian while off duty, and this escapade was brought before the board, but no official action was taken, it is said, other than to force him to make a settlement with his victim. In this instance, Robinson is said to have assaulted one Peter Duhamil, a New Englander, who until recently was employed by the Spicer Manufacturing Company at its local plant. He was confined to his bed under the care of a physician for several weeks. Robinson agreed to pay the doctor's bill amounting to $58.50, and in view of this fact the matter was dropped.

RAISE FUNDS FOR GERMAN RED CROSS

Pleasing Program Given at Saengerbund Hall Last Evening.

A successful concert and ball was held under the auspices of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society at Saengerbund Hall, last night. The entertainment was a benefit affair, the funds being raised for the German Red Cross fund. The program was divided into three parts, the first being a concert given by Paroubek's orchestra. The orchestra played many fine selections, much to the pleasure of the audience. The hall was decorated with American flags and green plants.

Dr. Richard Moldenke was the chief speaker of the evening and he delivered a stirring address urging the support of the American people to the home country in this time of war. Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, also made a short address along the same line. William N. Runyon rendered a pleasing baritone solo and was called upon for an encore. After the regular program the audience enjoyed dancing until a late hour.

PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N MEETING VERY SUCCESSFUL

One of the most successful meetings of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington School was held yesterday afternoon at the school. It was a social gathering and the main object was to enable the parents and teachers to become acquainted. There were about sixty present in all and at first the teachers met the mothers in their respective class rooms and talked over such matters as were necessary concerning the scholars.

After these individual conferences all of the guests adjourned to the kindergarten room where a general social time was enjoyed. The meeting was very interesting throughout. Light refreshments were served, tea being poured by Mrs. James Chamberlain and Mrs. Theodore LaRue. Mrs. James E. Kimball, president of the association, was present and had charge of the meeting.

CONCERT AND ENTERTAINMENT.

There will be a concert and entertainment at the Swedish Lutheran church on East Seventh street, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. A quartet of students from Upsala College at Kenilworth will sing and the rector of the institution, the Rev. Peter Froeberg, will be the speaker of the evening. The work of the congregation is progressing with good attendance at services. Friends are cordially invited to visit the chapel on Saturday evening. English and Swedish will be used in song and speech.

LODGE ANNIVERSARY.

Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., has under consideration a celebration under the auspices of the lodge, to be held October 28, the occasion being in the nature of a roll call and anniversary of the institution of the organization. A special endeavor is to be made to have as large a percentage of the members present as possible. It is probable that grand lodge officers will be present to address the gathering.

LESS MANUAL LABOR.

It is sincerely to be hoped that every resident of Plainfield will visit the State Tuberculosis Exhibit now being held at the Plainfield High School. The talks given each evening are instructive and beneficial, for everyone should be familiar with the common methods to be adopted for the prevention of tuberculosis. Nowadays the authorities are giving as much thought and time to the prevention of disease as they are to the cure, for effective work in the former lessens the burden of the latter.

Prevention of tuberculosis is one of the greatest tasks that confronts the world today, and it is directly related to such important subjects as public and personal hygiene, the campaign against alcoholism, the promotion of child welfare, the regulation of industrial conditions in respect to hours of work and factory inspection. All of these, properly regulated, tend to lessen the danger of tuberculosis, but there is probably no better preventative than good hard work in the open air, or for that matter, any kind of manual labor.

There are, strange as it may seem at first thought, certain modern industrial changes which carry with them detrimental features that are not apparent on the surface. A growing group among whom the amount of muscular work done is small in comparison with the daily activities of their ancestors is coming into existence. The changes are a consequence of altered methods of conducting business with the modern extension of commerce. Machinery has replaced muscle. The development of the industries by machinery has called for a different type of human working-power in which skill rather than strength is required. As a modern writer has expressed it, the bodily qualities of the worker have been forced by the employer more and more into the background of valuation. Industrial factory work requires not so much strong men as persons who can perform with skill the many small tasks which the machines have so far not been able to perform. Hence the tendency to employ children, half-grown persons and women.

More significant than this is the fact that the number of those who do little manual labor has increased greatly. This is an era of office workers, of business and governmental officials whose implements are the desk chair, pen and pencil, rather than the hammer and the hoe. Even in agriculture, machinery has eliminated some of the hardest types of manual labor. Muscular exercise, however, is a benefit rather than a detriment to the human economy, says The Journal of the American Medical Association. It improves the function of the essential organs of the body. Hence there has arisen an unexpected consequence, namely, the habit of trying to avert the possible harmfulness of some of these changed conditions by "balancing the lack of paid muscle work by work for hygienic reasons, by play and sport." The creation of work for the sake of health sounds almost paradoxical.

RAILROADS AND SMOKE.

Railroads everywhere and factories as well may draw a lesson from Pittsburgh, Pa., where the various railways are co-operating with the city in fighting black smoke. Many of the roads, it was shown in a recent conference in the "Smoky City," are carrying smoke observers on their payrolls, are using the camera to secure evidence of violations of efficient stoking rules and are penalizing engine crews for such violations. The crusade also includes special instructions to all firemen in proper stoking.

Railroad men agree that locomotives can be fired without becoming smoke producers and, so fired, they are more economical of operation, and what they agree, manufacturers are admitting with reference to stationary engines. Overfiring produces volumes of black smoke without an increase of power. Lighter firing not only nearly eliminates the smoke evil but shows more efficiency and a reduction in coal bills. Keeping up the temperature in the firebox tends to consume the carbon and gases which otherwise will be emitted from smoke stacks to pollute the atmosphere.

It is not the public which should be so concerned about the smoke extravagance. It is a matter of dollars and cents for railroads and manufacturers. There is no real reason for the backwardness and opposition with which industry and commerce usually consider smoke wars which are started by public-spirited citizens who desire a clean and brighter community. The roads in Pittsburgh have only shown evidence of their cognizance of a vital principle. It is to be hoped that manufacturers generally will take up the consideration and solution of smoke elimination.

Overhanging clouds of dense smoke do not indicate the industry of a community; instead, they advertise the city's extravagance and wastefulness. Winter is the time of greatest smoke pollution, largely as a result of the clouds belched from chimneys on private residences since householders know comparatively little of proper stoking of furnaces. With the winter coming, this is a good time to advance upon the smoke nuisance in an attempt to eliminate what there is of it in the city.

Saturday's contributed editorial will present the Democratic side of the present political campaign, and in order to assume an absolutely fair attitude toward all parties we have arranged to have the columns given over to the Republicans in the issue of Saturday, October 24. This is the first time that political discussions have appeared in the Saturday editorials, and we have only consented to the use of the columns for the purpose after being assured that both sides would be heard from.

MILLS REPORT BIG ORDERS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 15.—More than 25,000 tons of wire products, exclusive of wire rods, have been sold by Pittsburgh mills to foreign consumers within the past few weeks, making one of the largest export trade reports for some time. Considering that the volume mentioned is confined to wire products exclusively, the record is the highest that has been made by the steel trade. Most of the buying, it is said, has been in small lots and from a half-dozen nations. It is the aggregate that makes the surprising showing. The most important order came from the French Government, though placed through outside parties. This order calls for 500,000 spools of barbed wire for prompt shipment. The order is the largest single one placed in several years.

WILL PROBE ROCK ISLAND.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—Investigation of the financial operations of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad by the Interstate Commerce Commission will begin here tomorrow, before Commissioner Clements. The commission's inspectors and accountants have been going over the books of the road and preparing a foundation for the inquiry. Officials of the commission having knowledge of these preliminary steps, believe that the investigation may rival in importance that made into the affairs of the New Haven system. Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk, who has been working upon the inquiry, under direction of Commissioner Clements, will represent the commission at the hearings.

FRITZ V. HOLM TO BE A GUEST

Noted Explorer to Be Entertained at Boy Scout Meet Saturday.

WILL BE A JUDGE

Charles E. Rice Is Awarded Eagle Scout Medal—Athletic Events to Be Preceded By a Parade Through City Streets.

The Boy Scouts of Plainfield will have as their distinguished guest on Saturday, Dr. Fritz V. Holm, several times honored by King George of England, Kaiser William of Germany, and who was decorated by the late Pope Pius for the service he has rendered civilization by his exploring expeditions. Dr. Holm penetrated into unknown parts of China to find the Nistine stone which proved that Christianity was known in China as early as 500 years after Christ. A copy of the stone is now in the American Museum of Natural History in New York. He has visited Plainfield before as the guest of Allen E. Beals, the scout commissioner, and delivered a lecture gratuitously to the Plainfield scouts on his adventures in China.

Dr. Holm has consented to serve as one of the judges of award at Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, and will head the parade of scouts as it starts from the First Presbyterian church for Parker Field at 1 o'clock. Chief Scout Executive James E. West and several prominent scoutmasters from New York are also expected to be present. Dr. Holm will serve with William N. Runyon, president of the scout council, and William D. Murray, chairman of the Court of Honor.

Another honor has been accorded to this city in that one of its Boy Scouts has achieved the highest elevation possible to attain in scout craft. Charles E. Rice, a member of Engineers' Patrol, of Troop 5, has been awarded the eagle scout medal, as the ninety-second scout in the country to have attained that distinction out of 200,000 Boy Scouts. Of this number New Jersey can boast of twelve, which is far ahead of even New York State in this respect. To win this prize the aspirant must win twenty-one merit badges and in the case of Scout Rice these include photography, printing, craftesmanship, firemanship, handicraft, business, poultry farming, civics, personal and public health, signalling, art, first aid to animals, carpentry, swimming, astronomy, cooking, pathfinding and camping and cycling. He must pass examinations before members of the council appointed as a Court of Honor.

Flying Eagle Patrol, of Troop 12, has decided to enter the competition with only three days of preparation. The scoutmasters of this troop are L. M. Livingston and Samuel Rothberg. The patrol, just organized, will be led by Harold Livingston.

Admission to the field will be free to all boys under 19 years of age. Only in case of rain will the demonstration be postponed. The program will open sharp at 2 o'clock. The parade starts promptly at 1. Scouts are urged whenever possible to take their equipment in the parade with them. Charles L. Eaton, mounted insignia scout of Red Cross Patrol, Thomas P. Fitch, leader, will lead the procession. New Brunswick Bicycle Troop, John C. Francke, leader, will be couriers. Next will come the Scout Fife and Drum Corps of Troops 5, 9, 10 and 11. Then will follow the Plainfield Scouts in numerical order by troops, then the Troop 7 Fife and Drum Corps; then uniformed visitors, then ununiformed visitors. Order of marching will be in columns of fours. Moving pictures will be taken by Pathe Freres of some of the features of demonstration. Some world records are being sought for by some of the more proficient Scouts.

The members of the Scout council will assemble in a body at Parker Field on Saturday afternoon.

COMING ELECTIONS VITAL TEST FOR BOTH WILSON AND PROGRESSIVES

Congress Vote Will Reflect Public Sentiment as to President's Policies.

Significant as a Guide to 1916—Leading Figures In Campaign Now On.

ON Nov. 3 takes place one of the most important and also one of the most interesting national elections in the history of the country. Thirty-four United States senators, all members of the house of representatives and governors of twenty-eight states will on that day be chosen by vote of the people. Upon the result of these elections hangs the political future of Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic president. Supporters of the administration find in the gubernatorial election already held in the state of Maine cause for high hopes. Maine has chosen a Democratic governor, Oakley C. Curtis, to succeed a Republican, and it has long been an accepted political axiom that "As Maine goes so goes the Union."

Heretofore United States senators have been elected by the state legislatures, and now under the direct election law they are nominated and elected the same as other candidates. In the forty-eight states there are ninety-six United States senators, one-third of whom are chosen every two years for six year terms. The present senate is composed of fifty-two Democrats, forty-three Republicans and one Progressive, Miles Poindexter of Washington.

There will also be elections in every congressional district, 435 in all, to choose the entire membership of the Sixty-fourth house. In the present house there are 290 Democrats, 123 Republicans, 15 Progressives and 1 independent.

The Big Question.

The big thing about the forthcoming struggle at the polls is the question of how strongly the nation at large feels about the policies of President Wilson and the Democratic party. The elections will reflect public opinion on such great public questions as the new tariff, income tax law, banking and currency legislation, the Wilson policy as regards trusts and big business, and the repeal of free tolls at Panama.

There is another important feature of the approaching contest—that is, it will show decisively the relative strength of the Republican and Progressive parties and the possibility of their fusion. With no less a leader of the Progressives than a former president of the United States, the strenuous Colonel Roosevelt, Democrats and Republicans alike have injected more than ordinary spirit in the fight to elect their respective candidates. It is the general belief that in the event of the Progressive party making a good showing in November Colonel Roosevelt will be again a candidate for president in 1916.

In practically all the states—except in the south—where United States senators are to be elected the Progressives have entered the race. The most notable campaign made by any of their candidates is that of Gifford Pinchot in Pennsylvania, which serves to divide the opposition to Senator Boies Penrose. In Indiana former Senator Albert J. Beveridge aspires to return to his old position, and in Kansas Representative Victor Murdock is running against former Senator Curtis, Republican, and Representative George A. Neeley, Democrat.

The terms of sixteen Democratic and sixteen Republican senators now serving will expire March 3, 1915, and two vacancies are to be filled where senators now hold by appointment.

Important Changes.

Even though the elections should reveal no marked shift of political strength, there will be a number of notable changes in the makeup of the senate, especially on the Republican side. Neither Senator Root of New York nor Senator Burton of Ohio, two of the best known members of the present minority, have sought re-election. Senator Perkins of California, who is serving his third term, will drop out next spring, and also Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin. Senator Bristow of Kansas and Senator Crawford of South Dakota have been beaten at the primaries by other candidates for the Republican nomination.

On the Democratic side the election of Representative Oscar W. Underwood to succeed Senator White of Alabama, who was elected last spring to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnston, is assured. In Louisiana Representative Broussard has been nominated by the Democrats to succeed Senator Thornton. In every other case where a Democratic senator now represents a state he has been renominated by his party.

In addition to the thirty-two senators regularly to be chosen, two others will be elected, one in Georgia to succeed Senator West, who was appointed on the death of Senator Bacon, and another in Kentucky, where Senator Camden, appointed on the death of Senator Bradley, has been nominated by the Democrats for the short term, and former Governor Beckham for the long term.

Governorships at Stake.

The terms of twenty-eight governors will expire early in 1915, their successors to be elected in November next. Georgia will elect a new governor in July, 1915, and Kentucky in December, 1915. The states to elect governors in November are:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The fight in many states is extremely bitter. In Illinois, for instance, there is a battle royal between Lawrence Y. Sherman, Republican, who seeks reelection to the senate, and his Democratic opponent, Roger C. Sullivan. Sullivan has long been in the local and national limelight. He captured the nomination in spite of the opposition of Secretary Bryan, Governor Dunne and Mayor Harrison of Chicago, Sullivan's own city. A third very busy contestant for the senatorial toga in Illinois is Raymond Robins, a noted social worker who is a Progressive.

Uncle Joe Cannon, the venerable former speaker of the house, is adding spirit to the contest in Illinois by reason of his ambition to go back to Washington as the successor of Frank T. O'Hair, Democrat.

Pennsylvania looms big in the coming struggle. Here Senator Boies Penrose, Republican, who is running for re-election, is battling with all his might against A. Mitchell Palmer, Democrat, and Gifford Pinchot, Progressive. As an indication of the bitterness of the fight in Pennsylvania the opponents of Senator Penrose withdrew their candidate for governor, William Draper Lewis, in order to concentrate their strength upon one man.

The gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania is also a hot one. The Republicans have put up Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, a well known educator, and the Democrats Vance C. McCormick.

New York's Campaign.

In New York state Governor Glynn, who superseded William Sulzer, is seeking election on the Democratic ticket. His opponents are Charles S. Whitman, Republican, and Frederick M. Davenport, Progressive. Although beaten in the primaries former Governor Sulzer says he will run independently.

James W. Gerard, ambassador to Germany, won the Democratic nomination for senator from New York while absent from the country and without making a personal campaign. The Republican candidate is James W. Wadsworth, son of a former congressman and himself former speaker of the New York assembly. Bainbridge Colby, Progressive choice for governor, is a New York lawyer.

The campaign in Colorado is important by reason of the disturbance in the coal fields of the state last April, and the mining issue has assumed formidable proportions. The Democratic candidate for governor to succeed Elias M. Ammons is former Senator Thomas M. Patterson, and E. P. Costigan is again the Progressive candidate.

Senator Thomas, whose term is expiring, is opposed by I. N. Stevens, Republican city attorney of Denver, and Ben Griffith, Progressive.

California's Hot Fight.

Former Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California, the Progressive candidate for the senate, is the center of an interesting contest in that state. His opponents are John B. Curtin, a Democratic member of the state senate, and John D. Fredericks, Republican, who was district attorney of Los Angeles at the time of the McNamara trial. There are three well known contestants for the senate seat which is to be vacated by George C. Perkins of California. They are Francis J. Heney, Progressive, who attained national prominence as a graft prosecutor; Joseph R. Knowland, Republican, who has been a member of the house of representatives for ten years, and James D. Phelan, Democrat, former mayor of San Francisco.

The Wisconsin Republican primary resulted in what has generally been interpreted as a defeat for Senator La Follette, whose seat was not, however, involved. Governor McGovern is the bull moose leader in Wisconsin, although the Progressive party is not organized in the state. McGovern carried the Republican primary for the United States senate seat which Mr. Stephenson is vacating, although he was bitterly opposed by Senator La Follette. The Republican contest for the governorship resulted in the selection of E. L. Philipp. Judge John C. Karel is again the Democratic candidate for governor.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS CONFRONTING Y M. H. A.

Eloquent Addresses Heard at Fall Rally of Local Association.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association opened its season last evening at the temporary quarters on West Front street. A large number of young men of Jewish faith were in attendance. The affair was the most successful ever held under the auspices of the organization.

Faluk Younker, of New York field secretary of the national body of the Y. M. H. A., and kindred organizations, was the speaker. He dwelled chiefly on the early struggles of both the Y. M. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. in his own State. Mr. Younkers discussed at length on the problems confronting the organizations of today, and told how they were being met in various parts of the country. His words of encouragment and advice were well received. His address, as a whole, was inspirational in nature, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the assemblage.

Dr. H. Martin, also of New York, being located at the Eighty-sixth street Temple, who has been visiting Dr. Raphael Yood, of Grant avenue, for several days, followed Mr. Younkers with a short address, speaking chiefly of Reformed Judaism, and the good work which the young Hebrew man might accomplish through this medium. Dr. Martin's address was one dealing chiefly with social and industrial problems, and was highly interesting.

William Newcorn, of this city, was the last speaker of the evening, and spoke concerning the problem and questions confronting the local organization, and suggested several lines of work which might be adopted for the fall and winter season. After the completion of the address by Mr. Newcorn, it was decided to have a series of lecture on up-to-the-minute topics every other week, with prominent local speakers addressing the gatherings. These lectures, as will be planned, will be educational in nature to a certain degree.

Before the gathering was brought to a close it was decided to either entirely remodel the headquarters of the organization on Grove street, or to secure permanent quarters for the organization, which has been increasing its membership in great strides during the past year and a half. The present building on Grove street has been utilized during the past year by Temple Sholem, which organization also has the leasing of new and larger quarters under consideration. Samuel Rothberg presided during the meeting. The question of remodeling the building was placed in the hands of a committee composed of Benjamin Kline, Morris Abrams, Jacob A. Fass, Samuel Schwartz and Jacob Sachar.

TRAIN RIDERS HELD FOR THE PHILADELPHIA POLICE

Two men giving their names as Joseph Collins and James Crawford were arrested last night, by Patrolman Muir, and held in the local police headquarters as illegal train riders. The apprehension of the men was ordered at the request of the Philadelphia police, who want them for some deed in that city. They were riding a blind baggage when arrested.

Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, the men were remanded to await the arrival of the Philadelphia authorities who will come here today and endeavor to identify the men. Only meager details were received from the Philadelphia police head and it is not known what they are wanted for in that city.

DEFENDANT HAD TO PAY $5 FINE WHEN TABLES TURNED

Although she appeared in the city court this morning as complainant against Mrs. Joseph Grant, colored, whom she charged with attempted assault, Lizzie Dunn, also colored, was compelled to liquidate a fine of $5 in order to gain her freedom from the courtroom. After hearing considerable testimony on both sides of the case, Judge DeMeza admonished the Grant woman for taking the law into her own hands and suspended sentence, at the same time hailing the complainant to the bar.

After a scathing reprimand in which he admonished the woman for trifling with the law, Judge DeMeza levied the fine on her. It was apparent from the testimony offered by the defendant and defendant's husband that the Dunn woman had been trying to break up the Grant home and was succeeding pretty well when Mrs. Grant threatened to butcher her with a carving knife.

TO VISIT GLASGOW.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown and two children, of Dunellen, are among the cabin passengers sailing on the Anchor Line for Glasgow, Saturday. They will visit relatives for awhile, returning in the spring. Miss Annie Henderson, of Plainfield, a sister of Mrs. Brown, will accompany them. Passage was secured through Estil's Steamship Agency, of which Will F. Williams is the local agent.

ANOTHER CONTRIBUTION TO BELGIAN RELIEF FUND

One more contribution of $1 to add to the sum being raised in Plainfield to relieve the suffering of the women and children in Belgium, has been received by the Daily Press. The contributor is Rev. Cortland H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. In sending the money he said that he regretted that he could not make it much larger, as this was one of the most worthy appeals that has ever been made through the columns of this newspaper.

Subscriptions for the work will be received by the Daily Press, and forwarded to the local relief committee, who in turn send it to the central committee in New York.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT FIRST CHORAL MEETING

The inaugural meeting of the Choral Society organized by the Public Recreation Committee, was held in the auditorium of the Franklin School, Tuesday night, under the direction of S. Frederick Smith. With seventy-seven choir singers, school teachers and others present the success of this undertaking seems assured.

Many singers that belonged to the original Plainfield Choral Society were present and were pleased to again be singing oratorios. Officers will be elected a a meeting next Tuesday night, and over one hundred voices are expected to turn out. The "Messiah" will be sung at the Christmas concert and "Elijah" will be given in the spring.

REQUESTS THAT BODY BE GIVEN TO HOSPITAL

An unusual request left by a suicide before he took gas and ended his life Tuesday night, was made by David Sonnenshin, a salesman, of 161 West Twenty-eighth street, Bayonne, who wrote a note asking that his body be given to some hospital or medical school, to be used for dissection. After the doctors are through with the body, he directed that it be cremated.

These instructions were in a note addressed to Nicholas Sonnenshin, a brother, of 2 Broadway, New York. Sonnenshin said financial reverses were responsible for his act.

MAC SAYS

"The King is dead; long live the King!" We thrill no Baker's name; no longer do his praises ring, as "master hitter of the game." Another monarch reigns instead and stalks triumphant to the throne, the Crown of Swat is on his head—Hank Gowdy rules, unscathed, alone!

For when through ages we look back on stars whose fame has traveled far, not one could hit a harder whack or give the sphere a harder jar; a home run slammed outside the lot, two doubles walloped to the stands, today made Gowdy "King of Swat"—a willow sceptre in his hands.

And this new star in balldom, who fills the world with awe, was once in the heavy thralldom to Mr. John McGraw.

But John with eyesight cloudy and vision rather dim, could not "see" Mr. Gowdy and so he traded him. (If smile of glee you'd gaze upon, mention Gowdy's name to John)

And here the muse is put to shame—she can't just describe this game. It was won and lost and lost and won some several times ere the game was done, and from 2 o'clock till the sun had set, our hands were shaking, our brows were wet, as for 12 mad innings we sat in thrall to thrills and chills of that game of ball.

And the Braves won out—by a brand of wit, a strength of soul and a nerve and grit which probably never will be surpassed in all the years that the game shall last.

In the tenth they were "nipped," they "were down and out," when two men scored on Baker's clout, and we saw "good night" in the gathering gloam and reached for our hats—and started home. But hark, what's that? There's a thud—a crash—as Gowdy swings for a home run smash, then a hit or two when the need is great and Moran comes trotting across the plate, and the rooters throw their hats aside for the tenth is o'er and the score is tied.

Then at last in the twelfth comes the looked-for break. Joe Bush throws wild with the game at stake, and the run comes in as the rooters roar, and the Braves have conquered by 5 to 4!

Prospects for basketball at Hope Chapel look pretty bright at this writing, notwithstanding the fact that several of the veterans will be among the missing when the curtain rolls up. The crew of second string men developed by Coach Jack Martin last year will come into good use this season and their work during the two practises that have been held indicate that they come right up to the required standard. Hope has always had the reputation of being in the front at the jump off and Manager Leigh's preparations indicate that the squad will repeat history again this fall.

"Hub" Stine and his teammates up at the Springfield Training School are considering the advisability of dropping Holy Cross from next year's football schedule. Unnecessary roughness is alleged on the football field, the offense having been perpretrated at last Saturday's contest which Springfield won.

Information has come to hand that the Y. M. C. A. basketball is considering a proposition to engage in State League activities this season. This should prove a big aid in starting a basketball boom in this city during the fall and winter months and it is to be hoped that Manager Frank Dunning will see fit to enter into negotiations for such a project. Montclair, Madison, Summit and Plainfield are the teams mentioned in the call and this quartet is understood to be unanimously in favor of promoting the new movement. All that the Plainfield Association needs is a little systematic competition of this variety with rival Associations on the basketball court and some rousing interest should be awakened.

Those who have cast aspersions upon the honesty of baseball may gather food for reflection in the knowledge that $92,000 will be refunded to those fans in Philadelphia and Boston who held tickets for the third games scheduled in both cities. John A. Heydler, secretary of the National League, said yesterday that that sum would have to be refunded because the series lasted only four games. It was necessary for the fans to buy a block of three tickets for the games in each city, and the money for the extra game unplayed must be returned. Mr. Heydler said that the returns in Philadelphia would be slightly more than in Boston, since all but 4,000 seats at Shibe Park had been reserved. At Fenway Park 19,000 seats were sold first come first served.

Captain Nash will send his Elks' senior league pinners against the Jersey City "Bills" in the opening tilt of the season on the Watchung avenue drives tonight. The wiseacres are predicting a banner year for the local aggregation on the State circuit and it is to be hoped that the team will get going full blast on the jump-off tonight. Captain Nash has not definitely decided on his lineup although he has intimated that there will be a couple of changes from last year's personnel.

The open season for theatrical managers is now in full sway. Ball players who have appeared in the diamond limelight during the past fortnight are being pestered to death by the footlight bookers. The hero ball players are dividing their time between dodging the footlights and eluding offers of marriage from admiring swains.

Have you noticed how Jack Martin's baseball dope handed out by the Philly shortstop in the columns of this paper has panned out? Jack had a line on everything that was going on and the information he dealt out came pretty near being on a par with the results.

The appearance of Ashley Burner and Addison Newkirk on the Y. M. C. A. court last night was a welcome sight for Captain Brynariski. The Association pilot is after all the material he can land and prospects for a formidable aggregation are growing brighter every minute.

It has been intimated in Y. M. C. A. and High School circles that the opening basketball game on the new P. H. S. court will be staged between the red and blue aggregation and the Y. M. C. A. quintet. This would make a banner inaugural attraction and would prove a fittting event for the opening of the new court.

The bowling bug has invaded the feminine athletes' camp in Dunellen and the alley sport is thriving in that little village as it never has before. The women pin splitters have set up some excellent records on the suburban shutes and a match between the fair pinners of Dunellen and a team of male shooters would prove an interesting event. Why not a contest of this variety sometime in the near future?

Ironies of the times—John J. McGraw, a pauper, having but $18,000 a year on which to support a family. Johnny Evers makes but $40,000 on the 1914 baseball season—We agree with Sherman.

Captain Abrams, of the North Plainfield High School basketball team, announces that a new coach of State wide playing fame, has been discovered in one of the class rooms of the borough institution. This individual is no less than a former All-Star Normal School center and has done considerable pastiming on the basketball court. This announcement will undoubtedly prove interesting to the Plainfield High School youths who this year have designs on the championship trophy.

FORDHAM SCHOOLBOY DIES AND TEAM CANCELS GAMES

Charles Corley Hayes, of Yonkers, a Fordham Preparatory School boy who was injured in a game of football at West Side Baseball Park in Jersey City, Monday, died yesterday morning, in St. Francis Hospital, Jersey City.

The school team played the St. Peters' College team on Monday, and it was right at the end of the game that the boy was injured. He went down in a rush, and in the hospital it was found his abdomen was injured. An operation failed to save his life.

When news of Hayes' death was received the football management of the school cancelled the schedule and disbanded the team.

FORM B. B. LEAGUE.

In process of formation is a basketball league to be composed of teams in Central and West Jersey, to be known, probably, as the Inter-county League. Perth Amboy will be represented, as will Trenton, New Brunswick, Milltown, Burlington and Morrisville, Pa., just across the Delaware River from Trenton; possibly two other towns may be taken in.

GOOD PRACTICE WAS HELD LAST NIGHT AT Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball squad held a practice last night, about ten candidates being out in suits ready for work. The three new men who promised to tryout appeared and all showed up well in their respective positions. Gavett was out for the first time and played center. Burner and Newkirk were the two new men.

Captain Al Brynairski and Coach Meermans were present and put the team through a short scrimmage and signal practice. Several new plays have been worked up by the leader and will aid the team in their games while all of last year's good ones will again be used. The first game will be played November 4, when the team will go to New Brunswick by automobile and meet the strong Knights of St. Peter's five on their court. The schedule is being filled up and there will be many good attractions here for basketball fans.

Those who reported last night are Joe Gavett, Harry Moulton, Bill Taylor, Ralph Seals, G. Borden, Walter Koechlein, Captain Brynairski, Ashley Burner and Addison Newkirk.

STALLINGS LIKE JACK JOHNSON.

"I am sorry that I cannot congratulate Stallings. He has too much of the Jack Johnson style. He didn't get my 'goat.' Johnny Evers and the other Boston players beat us on the field and they cannot get too much credit, but when I think of Stallings' attempt to have me put before the world as lacking in sportsmanship I feel that it would be lowering myself if I showed any other attitude than that of contempt for a man bringing such methods into baseball."

FISHERMAN'S LUCK.

A. L. Martin had some good luck pickerel fishing in the Passaic River on Tuesday. He hooked nine, but had to throw six back on account of their size. The three he kept were large and he was well rewarded. Mr. Martin says that he had one beauty right up to the bank and then lost him.

HANK AND DICK JOIN HANDS IN VAUDEVILLE.

The stage is about to be enriched by the advent of two eminent Bostonians. Messrs. Rudolph and Gowdy, Hank and Dick, who recently figured prominently in the overthrow of a certain swaggering white elephant, are going into vaudeville. They will appear at Hammerstein's next week and are now thick in the throes of rehearsal. Year after year baseball goes on contributing to the stage and to literature, and now greedy Thespis lays hands on the boss pitcher and the boss slugger of the late national diamond collision.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT ON K. OF. C. ALLEYS

George Taylor High Man of the Night While Sullivan and Strappe Break Even.

George Taylor led the Knights of Columbus pinners last night, with four victories and two defeats and also captured the high score mark when he hit the wood for a 251 in his second game with Sullivan. Duffy and Strappe were the other two contestants, the former losing four and winning two and Strappe getting an even break. Sullivan also broke even.

Sullivan took the last game of his match with Taylor but was far behind in the first two. Very few two hundred scores were pinned. In his match with Duffy, Sullivan made 215 and 217. He beat Duffy two out of three and Duffy also dropped two games to Strappe in the second match. Taylor found Strappe a hard proposition in the last series of the night, but finally copped two games, dropping the middle one. The last contest was the closest of the night, only five points separating the two scores at the finish. They were 173 to 168.

The scores:

Sullivan	172	213	194
G. Taylor	182	251	166
Duffy	178	163	180
Strappe	169	206	198
Sullivan	217	215	147
Duffy	199	159	156
G. Taylor	198	163	173
Strappe	185	183	168

"HUB" STINE HAS WON HIS FOOTBALL LETTERS

Herbert Stine, the local athlete who has been playing on the Springfield Training School football team this season, is the proud possessor of his "S" or will be when the honors are given out in the near future. This is Stine's second year in that institution and he already has his baseball letters. The football monogram is won by playing two full games in one season and "Hub" has done that already.

In the first game that the team played he was in the game at guard for one half, when they defeated Worcester 39 to 0. In the game against Harvard two weeks ago he played his first full game and performed so creditably that he was put into the game last week against Holy Cross and was not taken out. Stine is practically sure of a game for the rest of the year. When he left this city in September, he had no intentions of going out for football, but he was induced to try out on the line by the coaches, who realized that his weight was the needed thing. Sminck and Townley are still practicing baseball and have hopes of being picked for the spring training trip in the South next year.

TIGER-DARTMOUTH BATTLE TO BE STAGED IN PRINCETON

Princeton, Oct. 15.—Definite announcement that the Princeton-Dartmouth football game on October 24 would be played in the new Palmer Memorial Stadium was made yesterday by the athletic authorities. The consent of the turf expert has been obtained and the authorities are making preparations to handle the largest crowd that ever attended this struggle.

Only the finishing touches are being added now and the playing field is in wonderful condition. The work of measuring the stands and of making the charts has just been completed and the new structure will seat 40,848. This does not include the standing room. There will be no application blanks for tickets for this game, but the reserved seats at the rate of $2 apiece already have been put on sale and may be obtained by application to the treasurer of the athletic association.

NEW COACH FOR THE N. P. H. S. BASKETEERS

Experienced Player Now Teaching in the Borough to Handle Squad.

Claude Jeffries, a new instructor, will coach the North Plainfield High School basketball team this season, was the report given out this morning by Captain Abrams. Mr. Jeffries has charge of the Manual Training Department of the High School, coming here as a stranger and at once took an active part in athletics. He started his basketball career in the Millville High School, playing centre on every basketbal team the school put out during his stay in that institution. After graduating from High School he entered Trenton Normal School and played centre four years during his stay there.

Mr. Jeffries made the All-Star centre on the Normal School five of New Jersey and was considered one of the best centres of his time. He will have full charge of the team and North Plainfield expects to put out another championship team. The squad will start practise as soon as Saenger Hall can be secured. All of last year's stars have returned with the exception of Burner and Dunning, whose places will be filled by Conroy and Townley. The first game that the boroughites will play will be Nutley High School on November 21, and the schedule will start a few days later than last year.

PATERSON ELKS SWEPT THE BRUNSWICK BOARDS

Initial bowling in the Elks' League for the season of 1914-1915 was done last night, the members of the Paterson team, on their own alleys, capturing three games in a row from the New Brunswick quintet. The exhibition given by the Paterson pin knights was particularly classy and consistent, three scores of 900 or better being recorded. They began with an even 900. The New Brunswick representatives did their best work in this game, finishing seventeen pins behind the Silk City bowlers with 883. In the next game the Paterson five did its best pinning and a total of 936 was good enough to account for a victory by fifty-six pins. In the last game Paterson was there for 919, while New Brunswick dropped to 826. Harkins was high with 221 for New Brunswick. Harry Taylor rolled well for Paterson with marks of 224 and 209 and he had an average of 204-3. The scores:

BRAVES ARE THE HAPPIEST HUMAN BEINGS TODAY

Boston, Oct. 15.—The Braves had a farewell gambol at Fenway Park, yesterday forenoon, received their world's series checks and last night most of them attended a banquet given by the city in their honor at the Copley Plaza. Several of the players left for their homes immediately and others departed last night. The marriage of Rabbit Maranville at Springfield on October 28 will bring the boys together once more.

The Braves performed all sorts of stunts in the field. They posed for movie men and wrote their signatures on baseballs for fans who wanted souvenirs.

Gowdy and Schmidt were the first two to get out on the park. They wore street trousers and baseball shirts. A moment or so later Strand, Crutcher, Mann and others, togged in their fighting regalia, romped on the field and then some pretty snappy work was witnessed.

A movie man lined the men up. When he thought he had them arranged he announced that he could not find a crank. This was the cue for Connolly to step to the bat. His offering was:

"You can find Johnny Evers in the front row, mister."

Chief Stallings was very happy. He moved here and there acknowledging congratulations modestly. He was glad to see his men happy and said they were the ones to whom all the credit was due.

WILL HAVE SPECIAL CAR FOR HOLY CROSS GAME.

Milltown, Oct. 15.—Even though the Michelinites lost to the Franklin A. A., of Newark, to the tune of 40-0 last Saturday, many local fans have not lost interest in their warriors, and the "Royal Rooters" are endeavoring to get a sufficient number together to charter a special car to make the journey to Plainfield this coming Saturday to witness the Holy Cross-Michelin contest.

All those who would like to join the party of Royal Rooters are requested to signify their intention to the secretary of the association, William R. Evans.

It is believed that the required number will be easily secured.—New Brunswick Home News.

Bluefish are scarce articles in Atlantic county and Cape May waters and the ones that feel it most are hotel owners, who make a practice of serving fresh seafood dinners. Menhaden boats can be seen working up and down the coast, searching for fish, but the hand line men say they are not getting any. Just as soon as a set is made the bluefish fishermen watch the hand through glasses as a good catch would mean that bluefish are also about. Sea bass, blackfish, weakfish and croakers are in the catch brought ashore now.

Dry weather has driven the deer to the swamp land in South Jersey, as they find it impossible to get enough to eat in the country where everything is dried up. Should the drought continue until the season opens, many a buck will be carrying his antlers when it closes because of his having wandered from his own beaten path. Guides claim that they will be able to locate them even in the swamps, but it is a hard task without a dog, and stalking with a dog is against the law.

The wind has been just right this week for channel bass fishing and the talent at Corson's Inlet are striking into them every day. Bass weighing up to forty pounds are not out of the ordinary. The small two and three-pound bass that were along the shore last year, are not to be seen this fall, for which the sportsmen are thankfut, as they were hardly ever used for food and it seemed a shame to hook them.

One angler spent two days at Greenwood Lake. He had very little success from the point of number of fish caught, but he got two large pickerel and a bass that scaled four and a quarter pounds. He also had half a dozen bass that averaged a pound and a half apiece.

Two channel bass were caught at Seaside Park last Sunday. One weighed thirty-nine pounds at Segur's in Asbury Park, while the other was smaller.

Three codfish were caught by fishermen at Wreck Lead yesterday. The largest one weighed eight pounds, and the fish were feeding along with the blackfish. Several ling were caught as well as a few fluke.

JIMMY ARCHER ARRESTED.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Jimmy Archer, catcher for the Chicago National baseball club, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging assault. The complainant was George E. Wolfson, 29 years old, a rug manufacturer, who says the ball player attacked him at the close of Monday's city series game between the Cubs and White Sox. Archer declared that Wolfson annoyed Mrs. Archer. Wolfson denies the charge.

FIVE-MAN TOURNAMENT.

Entries for the five-man team house bowling tournament of the local B. P. O. E. will close on Saturday, October 31, with the tournament secretary at the office in the clubhouse on Watchung avenue. A large number have already enrolled their names, and the tournament promises to furnish lots of amusement during the coming bowling season.

SPECIAL NOTICE
Schalk Celebrated Beer

Guaranteed product of choice barley malt and hops only. Free from artificial coloring or any other foreign substance. Brewed in the old Bavarian thick mash method under highest hygienic conditions. Fermented and aged exclusively in glass lined steel tanks.

Owing to the fact that our sales of this famous brew have increased to such an extent that we now receive these goods in large quantities, and we have therefore been allowed a liberal discount by the brewer, and as we are sure that our output in the future will enormously increase by selling at reduced prices, we have decided beginning October 1st to put this pure product on the market at $1.50 per case of 2 dozen bottles, f. o. b.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT SCHEDULE COMPLETE

Secretary Charles William Bingeman Announced Various Activities Today.

At the close of the boys' department gym period in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, the four captains were chosen from the Indian League and they in turn selected their teams, as follows:.

Iroquois—James Brownlee, captain, Willis Henry, George Feaster, Robert Spicer, Edward Mackey, Clifford Randolph, John Squires, George Gary, Harold Allen, Wendell Purcell, Cyril Poling, Kenneth Burtis, John Johnson, Luther Henry.

Sioux—Alfred Smith, captain; Elis Enander, Benjamin Kornfield, Walter W. Penny, Jared Wolf, Edward Billian, John Endress, Charles Alexander, Benjamin Satterfield, Arthur McVoy, Russell Lynn, Harold Nielsen, Victor Chamberlin, Roswell Ewart.

Omaha—Benjamin Doane, captain, Henry Windham, Charles Gates, Donald Willett, Sidney Angleman, Walter Brown, Richard Davis, Henry Faye, Norman McGee, Harold Whitford, Edwin Boyer, Raneo McDonald, Chauncey Gold, Theodore Trotter.

Wawayanda — Arthur Krausse captain, Clarence Goss, Harold Wilson, Edward Bolte, Thomas Cuming, Ralph Taylor, Kenneth Stover, William Thiers, William Runyon, Albert Stevens, John Moore, George Wirth, George Harlan, Wallace Weglaw.

On Monday afternoon, Mr. Meermans, the physical director, will give the first examination for the leaders corps and the first event in the athletics will be run off. The event for Monday will be the running broad jump. Beginning on Monday these small boys will have an all round competition. In athletics each team will be credited with the number of points that each boy makes. In aquatics the team will receive points for the progress that each member makes in the swimming tests and attendance at Bible study will be recorded on a point basis. For each new member that a boy brings in a certain number of points will be awarded.

The competition is largely individual but the awards go to the team and thus the group becomes the centre rather than one particular boy who excells. Through the "Help the Other Fellow Club" every boy is given a chance to give two cents a week for a number of weeks. This amount, together with the proceeds from exhibitions, will go toward helping needy boys in this city and State and a small portion paid to the fund which supports the Plainfield missionary representative in South America. The new members will be added to the teams as they come into the association.

The Bible class will be held every Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 5 o'clock, and will be taught by Boys' Secretary C. William Bingeman.

Following is the schedule of athletic events to December 21:

Monday, October 19, running broad jump; October 26, running high jump; November 2, potato race; November 9, standing broad jump; November 16, standing hop, step and jump; November 23, snap under for distance; November 30, running hop, step and jump; December 7, two standing broad jumps; December 14, three standing broad jumps; December 21, 15 yard dash.

On Wednesday, October 21, the first basketball game will take place. Following is the schedule to December 16:

Wednesday, October 21, Omaha vs. Wawayanda, Sioux vs. Iroquois; October 28, Omaha vs. Sioux, Wawayanda vs. Iroquois; November 4, Omaha vs. Iroquois, Wawayanda vs. Sioux; November 11, Omaha vs. Wawayanda, Sioux vs. Iroquois; November 18, Omaha vs. Sioux, Wawayanda vs. Iroquois; November 25, Omaha vs. Iroquois, Wawayanda vs. Sioux; December 2, Omaha vs. Wawayanda, Sioux vs. Iroquois; December 9, Omaha vs. Sioux, Wawayanda vs. Iroquois; December 16, Omaha vs. Iroquois; Wawayanda vs. Sioux.

BOROUGH BASKETBALL TEAM TAKES SAENGERBUND HALL

The first practice of the North Plainfield High School basketball team will be held in Saengerbund Hall this afternoon, and many candidates are expected to report for the initial workout. It is still early in the season for basketball, but the borough boys have only a little work [illegible] weeks and [illegible] will get into shape for the hard season [illegible] is before them which includes the city series.

The first team is practically picked, the captain having had a fine second bunch last year that will step into the grad[illegible] shoes. Another strong second team will be worked up to give [illegible] sity practice. The team [illegible] probably lineup as follows for the opening: VanMater and Conroy, forwards; Love, center; Abrams and Townley, guards.

RESIGNATION RECEIVED.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Gen. Carranza's resignation has been received by the convention at Aguas Calientes but will not be acted upon before October 20, according to advices received at the White House.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE WILL ENTER STATE LEAGUE

Circuit to Be Composed of Four Teams the Schedule Starting in Summit.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team has been asked to enter a State basketball league that is being formed and it was announced this morning that the local association would be represented. The league will be composed of four teams, in the agitaiton being started by the Summit authorities. A prize, either a banner or a cup, will be competed for.

The associations that will probably complete the circuit are Montclair, Summit, Madison and Plainfield, and as soon as all four have formally entered final arrangements will be made and play started. All of the local officials are well pleased with the idea and are more than willing to enter the Plainfield team in such an organization. Such leagues were run years ago and always proved popular. Each team will play the other teams twice, which makes three games on the home court and three on opponents' court. The matter of expenses has been arranged so that every team pays every other team that visits them the same amount regardless of the distance they have to travel.

The league will take the local team away from home on three Saturday nights as the games can only be played on these nights.

HARD PRACTICE FOR LOCAL TEAM TONIGHT

The Holy Cross football team will hold a practice on Marshall Field, tonight. The Michelin Tire Co. team of Milltown, will appear at the Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon. The Franklins, of Newark, the team that tied Holy Cross, beat the Milltown eleven by a score of 40 to 0 last Saturday.

It is rumored that there will be a general shakeup in the lineup of the team, tonight, and some new tactics will be used.

WAR NEWS

in the neighborhood of Warsaw, according to a despatch to the Messagero from Petrograd. The Kaiser's forces are declared to have suffered enormous losses, including thousands of prisoners taken by the Russians.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Italy will not be drawn into the war in Europe unless the temper of the people changes greatly. This was the announcement made today by Count Cellere, the Italian ambassador.

London, Oct. 15—A news agency despatch from Amsterdam says that the following official statement was issued in Vienna at noon yesterday: "The general staff says that the Russians have occupied fortified positions on the line of Stry, Sambor and Midyra. In Galicia the Austrians are now attacking the positions. In the Carpanthians the Austrians occupied Toronya, after four days of fighting and pursued the enemy in the direction of Wykskow. Smaller successful skirmishes have taken place in the Visso Valley."

A despatch from Petrograd to the Times says: "I hear that the enemy approached to within ten miles of Warsaw, but were thrown back to a distance of 30 miles. The fall of Prsemysèl is imminent. The garrison there is being decimated by cholera. Private advices received here say that the main forts already have been taken by the Russians. There is no change in the situation in East Prussia."

A despatch from The Hague says: "The concentric movement of German troops in Belgium toward Ostend is progressing. The vanguards are believed to be at Bruges, Thourout and Dixmude. Train service between Roosendaal and Antwerp has been discontinued."

It is asserted in Athens newspapers that the Russian fleet in the Black Sea has seized two German steamers loaded with cereals bound from Galatz for Kustendje, Roumania.

The Montenegrin consul general in London annouces that the Montenegrins, assisted by the Servians, have completely defeated the Austrians in the neighborhood of Sarajevo, and have captured large numbers of prisoners and guns. The fighting lasted two days. The Montenegrins lost heavily in killed and wounded.

A despatch from Nish says that Servia has anounced that Belgrade, being no longer in danger, the pensions of retired officials are being paid at the State Department in Belgrade instead of at Nish. The supply of cattle and foodstuffs in Servia is declared to be so abundant that the exports of such products is permitted.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE UP.

Washington, Oct. 15—The dispute between North Carolina and Tennessee over the exact location of the boundary line between these commonwealths was up for consideration before the Supreme Court after five years' preliminary proceedings.

APPOINTMENT FOR WILLIAM T. GRIER

Local Railroad Man Gets Lehigh Valley Promotion Today.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad today announced the appointment of William T. Grier, of 725 Hobart avenue, as general coal and freight agent, as general traffic manager of the system.

Mr. Grier will be in charge of the company's freight and passenger business, reporting to T. N. Jarvis, vice president, in charge of traffic. He will have his headquarters at 143 Liberty street, New York city, the general offices of the company.

The newly created position, it is announced, is for the purpose of relieving the vice president in charge of traffic of many details of the work, and is intended to bring about greater efficiency in the handling of the business of the department.

Mr. Grier has been with the Lehigh Valley since 1906. His first duties had to do entirely with the coal traffic of the railroad, but two years ago his authority was extended to include various general freight matters under the title of general coal and freight agent. Previous to going with the Lehigh Valley, Mr. Grier had experience with the Philadelphia and Reading and New York Central Railroads

BOY HELD FOR GRAND JURY FOR STEALING FORTY CENTS

George Caldwell, a fourteen-year-old colored youth, of Fanwood, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert L. Eaton in Elizabeth, this morning, to plead to a complaint charging him with the theft of forty cents from a bank owned by Mrs. Emma Spriggs, of this city. The youth was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The youth, who lives in Fanwood, was [illegible] some unknown reason taken to Elizabeth for trial before the justice of the peace and will now have to face a hearing on a charge of larceny before the Grand Jury.

SOME CLASSES ARE CROWDED IN P. H. S. NIGHT SCHOOL

Several classes in the night school are very full and no more pupils can be accommodated. There were many who wished to take mechanical drawing and the classes are so full that no more can be handled. Because of the large attendance in the woodwork department classes will be held on all four nights instead of only two nights, as was originally planned.

The classes for elementary subjects and for foreign born pupils still have room for a few more pupils.

ENGINEERING FEATS.

Clever Tricks With Which Emergencies Have Been Met.

Engineering is filled with so many tricks to meet emergencies that most of them pass unnoticed, but two have recently attracted the attention of engineers because of their real oddity.

One was a scheme for stopping a blazing leak in a big high pressure gas main in San Francisco. Some unknown men who wanted to make trouble set off a chemical preparation on the gas main, with the result that in a few seconds a hole had been melted in the main, the gas poured out and a great flame shot twenty-five feet in the air. It was then after midnight, and it was very inadvisable to shut the big main off, so it was decided to make an attempt to stop the leak without shutting off the gas.

An oil well trick was used. An iron pipe six inches in diameter and twenty feet long was stood on end beside the gas main and then by careful manipulation placed directly over the leak. This sent the leaking gas shooting through the pipe and flaming out at the top twenty feet in the air. Some gas leaked out at the bottom of the pipe, but this was easily stopped, so the only flame was that at the top of the pipe.

Ropes had been attached to the pipe, and finally at a given signal the ropes were yanked and the pipe was thrown many feet away from the gas main. The pipe carried the flame with it. The leaking gas then shot directly into the air from the main, but as there was no flame near it did not burn. It was then a comparatively simple task to plug the hole until permanent repairs could be made.

The other scheme was to get to the top of a high chimney without using scaffolding or other expensive methods. The chimney rose two hundred feet beside a Missouri power plant, and it was proposed to attach a sign running up and down its side. A little parachute with a stout cord attached was pushed into the chimney at the bottom, the flue gases carried it to the top and then out into the air. It fell on one side, dragging the cord after it. Then by means of the cord a rope was passed up outside of the chimney and down the inside and the chimney top was accessible.—Saturday Evening Post.

DEVILED SHIRTS.

When Dumas Really Thought He Had Started a New Fashion.

Alexandre Dumas, the famous French romancist, was as recklessly extravagant as he was abnormally stout, and more than once found himself in awkward straits. Indeed, he was often enough without the commonest necessities, even of dress, as when anxious to attend an ambassador's reception he discovered he was without a single clean shirt among his linen. A friend who chanced to be with him at the time volunteered to go and buy one, only to find that none of the shops had in stock a garment sufficiently large to encircle the novelist's generous girth of neck and chest.

At last, when on the point of relinquishing his search, Dumas' friend came upon a shop where a shirt called "the hercules" was advertised. The name struck him as being one of good omen, and he entered. But, alas, they had nothing approaching the size required, unless, indeed, their customer would care to take one made to order of a very corpulent Quartier Latin student, by whom it had been left on their hands. Although covered with little red devils careering about in red flames, it was a case of Hobson's choice, so the shirt was purchased and taken home to Dumas, who, doubtless entering into the humor of the situation, resolved to wear it at the reception.

"You would hardly believe it," he said afterward, "but my costume was an immense success, and I really think I have started a fashion of deviled shirts for evening wear."—London Tit-Bits.

Kick of the Mule.

A wise man, in his own estimation, announces that a mule kicks because it doesn't know any better. This will greatly surprise many students of contemporaneous mule life. If ever there was an animal with low cunning expressed in its eye and its twitching nostril, that animal is the mule. Its ability to place a kick where it will give the greatest offense to its victim is something marvelous.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Spanish Flag.

The red and yellow of the Spanish flag is said to be derived from this occurrence: In 1378 Charles the Bold dipped his fingers in the blood of Geoffrey, count of Barcelona, and drew them down the count's golden shield in token of his appreciation of the latter's bravery. The shield, so marked, became the arms of Barcelona, which became part of Aragon, and its arms were taken by that kingdom.

"Senator Wombat is considerable of an orator, I take it?"

"Oh, yes. He waxes eloquent in borrowing a match."—Pittsburgh Post.

NEW ZEALAND EELS.

Big Enough and Daring Enough to Kill a Man or a Salmon.

Eels can cause the death of a salmon of considerable weight by the use of strategy. One will obtain the grip between the dorsal fin and the tail and then hold on like a bulldog, while the unfortunate victim in vain throws itself backward and forward, endeavoring to shake off its captor, until at length its strength is exhausted and the eel proceeds to make a meal at leisure.

Worse crimes than these are laid to their charge in New Zealand. A great number of bathing fatalities had taken place at a certain spot, where the current ran with such strength that a powerful swimmer could only just stem it. It was a favorite pastime to have a tussle with the stream, but several times a bather disappeared before help could reach him, and when his body was found it had been eaten by eels.

The cause of the fatalities remained unknown for a long time, but at last it was discovered that while the swimmer was almost stationary in the rapid stream a huge eel would seize him by the foot or leg and drag him beneath the surface. Eels attain an immense size in those waters, twenty to thirty pounds being no uncommon weight.—Pittsburgh Press.

HOLES IN POTS AND PANS.

Quick and Easy Method of Repairing Them at Home.

Pots and pans, whether of iron or tin (which is only iron tinned over), get holes in their bottoms all too soon to please the economical housekeeper. Then it becomes necessary to call in the tinsmith, who puts a lump of solder in the hole. This soon melts, and the hole is there again.

But nothing is easier than to repair such holes at home and without the aid of a tinsmith. First of all make the hole round by inserting the point of a knife and twisting it back and forth. Place the pot or pan upon any firm, flat piece of metal, such as an anvil, a bar of iron or an inverted flatiron, so that the hole is immediately over and touching the latter. In the middle of the hole place a shot of about the size of the hole. Any piece of lead will serve if the shot is not handy. Now a few sharp blows with a hammer will flatten the shot and spread it out, filling the hole tightly and overlapping enough to hold it in place. A few strokes with a file and a rub with sandpaper complete the operation. The repair is permanent.

It is said that a hole as large as a quarter of an inch in diameter can be mended in this way.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"Read the Eternities."

The only large values are those in which our ancestors participated. The oldest of wonders is the greatest—life. An ironclad, as such, is a commonplace beside a ship, and society merely as society is a more stupendous fact than Rome or England. The Iliad is less remarkable than speech, and the aeroplane is only a mote in the sky. Landscape, the family, the nation, religion—their origins are lost in the silence of a gray antiquity. The now—the present—is indeed sacred; but its sacredness is inappreciable to those who are circumscribed by its limits; it is reserved for minds that escape its bounds. "Do not read the times!" said Thoreau, in words that become the more memorable the less they are remembered; "read the eternities."—O. W. Firkins in Atlantic Monthly.

Comparative Values.

A German peasant had just lost his faithful cow. His wife became so grieved over the loss that her heart was broken and she, too, died. Scarcely was she buried when one of the neighbors came and offered his daughter, another his sister, and a third his niece, for a wife, whereupon the farmer remarked:

"Well, I can easily see that it is better to lose a wife than a cow in this town. As soon as my wife is dead a choice of half a dozen wives is offered me, but when my cow died they didn't offer me a single one."—Youth's Companion.

The Lord's Prayer and Druidism.

A curious proof of how tenaciously paganism held its ground for some generations after the majority of the people had become Christians is found in a Gaelic version of the Lord's Prayer, which up to a very recent period existed in parts of Cork and Kerry. Instead of "Lead us not into temptation," "Na Leig sinn a ndraoidheach" was said, meaning "Allow us not into Druidism."—London Times.

Hard Luck.

Husband comes in to find his wife turning everything topsy turvy.

"Gracious, Isabel! What are you doing?"

"I just received a telegram from Aunt Jane saying she'll be here at 6:20, and I can't find her photograph anywhere."—Chicago News.

At the Concert.

"Why do so many people yawn all at once just now?"

"Didn't you notice that the critic over there in the front row yawned first? Everybody else wants to show that he, too, is a musical sharp."—New York Post.

Child Study for Parents; Its Bearing on Child Welfare.

By Elizabeth Birney.

We speak lightly of Child-Welfare often without realizing that it is world-welfare—that every line of human endeavor, every effort for social betterment is embraced in it. We grasp the importance of this better if we state it conversely. All social problems would be solved if ideal training could be given every child in his own home.

It is to women chiefly that this training is intrusted.

As teachers and mothers we do the great nature-work of the world. It is given to us to guard and brood over growing life. We who go down into the dark with God to create life must travail in pain with that child over and over again before he is born into his full possibility as a human soul. We are co-creators with Almighty power and we must be co-workers with all the powers of good to make of that child the well-rounded man or woman. He is part of us, but he is far more; he is part of the world, part of all that is to be in ages after us.

More parents fail through a trivial conception of their task than through too high a one. If we really believe that the training of children was the most important work of the world we would undertake to fit ourselves for it; moreover, society would see to it that such training was not left so largely to the inexperienced and the unfit. Whatever we may say with our lips we do not now practically believe that the care and training of the young is the most tremendous task which can be intrusted to any human being.

Two factors are largely operative in producing this belief. 1st, The stubborn self-satisfaction with which average men and women believe that they can manage their own children and have them turn out about as well as other people's children. 2nd, A deep-seated and rapidly growing feeling that wifehood and motherhood offer no scope for the powers of a woman of real talent or great energy. She must have special training for a career while the woman of mediocre ability can without training undertake to marry, run a house, bear, train, feed and largely educate a family of future citizens on whom the welfare of the world depends.

The modern young woman who speaks with curling lip of being relegated to the kitchen and nursery has no true conception of the dignity of either, of the need for all her powers of mind, heart and body, all her knowledge and culture if she is to wisely order a home and rear a family of children.

Like all professions, it requires breadth of vision, that she may view her own task in its relation to human life and human progress, and then the most careful and painstaking knowledge, for child-culture is the biggest business of life and should be learned as any other business. A woman, no matter what her previous education may be, must go to school again, to physician and psychologist and educator to learn the laws which control the wonderful organism to which she has given life. If we have no right to undertake the building of strong and efficient bodies which shall stand the tests of modern living, without study of the laws of growth, of food values, of hygiene and sanitation, how much less have we the right to undertake character-building without studying the laws of a child's development, his recapitulation of the life of the race, his need for passing through these strange and soon outgrown stages, of the characteristics of adolescence and their relation to his whole future growth.

Love and patience and insight, combined with commonsense, have enabled the men and women of the past to do much without special knowledge, but we can every one of us recall numerous instances of tragic failure of the old method or lack of method. Let the parents of the future keep their love, their insight, their sympathy; they will need them all, but let them add to these—knowledge—a study of modern educational problems, a vision of the goal for which they are striving—the kind of human product they want to develop. Our old ideas have been all negative. We have kept looking at the faults of a child and thinking how we must uproot them, tear them out of his system. If the average parent were asked what kind of a child he was trying to develop he would probably give you a negative ideal, a person who did not possess this, that or the other fault.

The faults of childhood are of two kinds: first, those which are in their nature temporary and belong to the period through which the child is passing, for instance, those faults of manners for which children are so often blamed or punished—noisiness, rudeness, untidiness, thoughtlessness—are inevitable if the child is to have actual contact with life, is to grow from an unfinished to a finished product. The child who is always quiet, gentle, polite and thoughtful is finished too soon; his development will cease before manhood or womanhood.

The second kind of faults are much more serious, but they too are inevitable to the growing, incomplete creature struggling with a complex civilization. His character is still in the making and his ideas of truth, of honor, of property rights are still chaotic. In all education we think too much of uprooting faults and too little of developing virtues. We must keep a child from lying or punish him for lying, we say, but we do not work enough to develop in him a love of truth, a realization of what truth and honor mean in human life and social relations.

As I rode past miles of young oak forest on my way here, I noticed last year's leaves still hanging to the brown branches. Many of our educational methods, I thought, are as if some well-meaning person should spend days in plucking off these dead leaves instead of waiting until the life forces of a new spring had quickened the sap, when the dead leaves would fall unnoticed and in the divine economy of Nature even nourish the new growth pulsing through the tree. So will faults drop away from the human plant with the deepening of the life forces, with the development of character, with the growth of positive virtues.

Child-study is as well the most important, the most interesting of studies. History, biography, fiction, become contributing, adjunct-reading. We read them to find what developed the hero, the genius, the tyrant, the artist, the general.

The facts of heredity and early training take on a new significance, as we wonder if the children about the evening lamp may be turned into some of the paths that lead to greatness of our influence. And child-study has such wonderful human documents, such living material! Let us never fear that it is a narrow or belittling study. Culture through the vocation is a modern phrase, and we need never fear that true culture will not come to the men and women who give their time and thought and effort to the study of the myriad problems of childhood.

With all our love and all our study we may fail. In any task we can but do our best. Many forces mold human life and character. But we must never cease to love, never cease to travail, never cease to hope and believe until we see the point of our labors. "Train up your children," says Lyman Abbott, "not merely govern them, but train them in the way they should go and when they are old they will not depart from it, and if for a little time they may seem to do so, the mother love, the father fidelity, the magnetism of never-forgotten home, will bring them back to life and to God again."

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The Paul J. Rainey African Hunt picture series of 1914 coming to the Plainfield Theatre, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening, for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange, are the best which that hunter has yet produced, and to those who have seen the Rainey hunt pictures before nothing more need be said. In addition to a splendid variety of all kinds of wild animals the production includes one of the most dramatic and exciting scenes ever taken by a "movie man." This is nothing less than a lion charging straight at the camera and coming within twenty feet of Mr. Rainey operating the camera before a shot finally drops him. The camera records his dying struggles. One hunter had fired at the animal and missed. Then, with its jaws distended and head swaying angrily from side to side, the lion makes its charge and to the spectators it seems as if the beast would fairly leap from the screen out into the audience. This was the climax of the lion hunt. The first views show the beginning of the trail and the hounds attacking and arousing the beast. The horsemen finally come up, and the closing pictures show the lion making its final charge. These scenes are repeated, so that the spectator gets every detail. Another particularly interesting picture is the cheetah hunt. Mr. Rainey finally captures the cheetah alive with a lasso, a feat that is full of danger even to an experienced hunter. Other views show every kind of tropical animal from the gazelle to the elephant, including the wart hogs, gnus, deer, zebra and giraffe, while among the birds are flocks of flamingoes and maribou, storks, English storks, eagles, golden-crested cranes, vultures and ring-necked crows. There is also a series of pictures of various tribes of the African interior. The Rainey pictures were taken at tremendous risk, Mr. Rainey himself having a narrow escape when a lion charged him after killing Fritz Schnifler, a camera operator and explorer of the party. Six weeks were required to obtain some of the scenes wool, and among the new silks are a great many handsome ones with a variety of poplin weaves.

An interesting feature of the model is found in the Russian effect of the plaited tunic and the suggestion of the Turkish trousers produced by the narrow skirt beneath.

The present is an exceptionally interesting season. Its styles have been developed from many sources, and curious combinations are to be met.

For the medium size the tunic will require four and a half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8351-a, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

QUINCE DESSERTS.

DINNER MENU.
Clear Tomato Soup.
Broiled Lamb Chops.
Rice Croquettes.
Green Corn.
Quince Pie.
Coffee.

QUINCES in the shape of jam or jelly are especially useful in the making of winter desserts.

When the fruit is fresh it may also be used in the concoction of many pleasing and popular dishes.

In the Form of Pastry.

Quince Roly Poly.—Take a half pound of flour, a half teaspoonful of salt, five ounces of suet and a pint of the quince jam or jelly. Chop the suet, free it from skin and fiber, then add to it the flour and salt. Mix well and then stir in gradually enough water to make a paste. Roll it out on a floured baking board and when about an inch thick, spread thickly with jam. Roll up, tie in a floured cloth, leaving plenty of room for it to swell. It may be put into a pot of boiling water and boiled for two hours, or it may be placed in steamer and steamed for two hours. Serve with sauce.

Quince Pie.—Line a deep earthen pie plate with puff paste, prick with a fork and bake a golden brown. When cool fill with a layer of quince marmalade and cover with a layer of whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with pineapple. Decorate top with preserved or candied cherries.

Stewed In Sirup.

Quince Compote.—Take the quinces, cut into quarters, remove the cores, put them into a stewing pan with some water. Set over the fire. When the fruit is quite soft, take them out and lay on a clean cloth. Take another preserving pan, with some clarified sugar in it, then put in the quinces and allow them to stew gently over a slow, clear fire until quite done. If required to be of a red color the pan must be kept covered while cooking.

Quince Whip.—Whip a cup of cream to a stiff froth, add gradually a third of a cupful of quince honey and sugar to sweeten if needed. Flavor with a few drops of vanilla and bitter almond extract and chill. Serve with wafers.

Meringue of Quinces.—Make puff paste; roll it into a sheet and cut out an eighth inch square. Then cut eight strips three-quarters of an inch wide and ten inches long; bake square and strips separately. Spread strips lightly with quince honey, lay it on the square, letting the ends cross, log cabin fashion, and cover the bottom of the square with quince honey also; then sprinkle well with finely chopped nuts. Beat the whites of five eggs until very stiff, add half a cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of lemon extract and pile irregularly into the paste shell. Bake in a moderate oven until firm.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Story Told of the Nickel Indian.

"Look at this buffalo nickel, kiddies."

"LOOK at this buffalo nickel, kiddies," said daddy, "and observe very carefully the picture of the Indian, because I am going to tell you a story about him."

"Was he a real Indian, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Oh, yes, and his name is Iron Tail, for, you see, he is still alive and travels now with a wild west show.

"When he was a little boy his name was Funny Boy, but when he grew older and went to fight the Crows, a nation of Indians who were hostile to the Sioux, the nation to which Iron Tail belongs, he killed a Crow warrior, and then his father named him his warrior name, Iron Tail.

"Well, you remember that the United States in 1876 sent General Custer and the Seventh cavalry out west to quell the uprising of the Sioux Indians.

"Long Hair the Indians named Custer, and when he arrived on the Little Big Horn with his company of soldiers all the Indians were having a big sun dance.

"Sitting Bull, a big medicine man—that is their name for their doctor—was in his tepee brewing medicine when some Indian boys strayed into camp and told Sitting Bull that they had seen in the mud on the banks of the creek tracks of horses' feet with iron shoes.

"While they were talking they heard the sound of a bugle, and then they stopped dancing and feasting and prepared to fight.

"At that time Iron Tail had a warrior name, but he was not yet a chief. He had been on the war trail many times, however, and was sent with 100 braves to help find the enemy.

"Now, the Indian has no scruples about shooting his foe in the back, so these warriors sent out by Sitting Bull under command of Iron Tail tried to get in the rear of Custer's soldiers.

"Custer's soldiers formed a ring to try and protect themselves from their savage foes, but there was a terrible battle in which General Custer, after one of the most gallant fights of history, was killed with all his men.

"Iron Tail, it appears, did not assist in what proved to be a massacre. He and his braves were sent to the other end of the valley before the real fighting began, and when he returned he found the gallant Long Hair dead.

"Iron Tail says that the Indians speak of Long Hair always as a very brave chief and envy him his great opportunity to distinguish himself.

"Iron Tail afterward became a chief of one of the Sioux tribes and became peaceable enough out there on his reservation.

"When the United States treasury department wished a typical Indian model for its new nickel Iron Tail was selected for that distinction."

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which irritates and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Adv.

LARGER CARS IN SERVICE ON FOURTH STREET LINE

Cars of a larger type were put in commission on the Fourth street line of the Public Service Railway today. They are an improvement over the vehicles they superseded both as to accommodation and appearance, being longer and roomier and having greater seating capacity.

The cars displaced were twenty-two feet long and would seat twenty-seven persons while the type now in use is a 25½ foot car and seats thirty-one persons.

POSSESSES HOME-MADE VIOLIN OF GREAT VALUE

Andrew B. Drake, son of Thompson B. Drake, of 36 Duer street, arrived in Plainfield, this morning, from his home in Belmar for a short visit with relatives and friends before leaving with his wife for Florida. Mr. Drake has contracted a job about ten miles from Tampa, which will keep him busy for about a year. He and Mrs. Drake have been residing in Belmar for the past three years.

Mr. Drake brought to Plainfield a violin made by his father on Duer street. He was presented with the violin last summer and says that he would not take a thousand dollars cash for the instrument, which he alleges to be the finest in the State.

The violin is a masterpiece in construction and when played by an expert gives a quality of tone unsurpassed. In design the instrument is perfect. The violin has been left in the natural color of the wood with the exception of a light coat of varnish. Thompson Drake, who is a cabinet maker, has made several musical instruments, among them being a zither of wonderful workmanship. The violin which he presented to his son is his first attempt in this direction.

P. H. S. MINSTREL MEN ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

Arrangements for the Plainfield High School minstrel show, which will be given in the new auditorium November 7, are progressing rapidly.

Sewall Ulrich is coaching the play and will act as interlocuter. The chorus consists of sixty-two voices and the end men are Monroe O'Donnell, Randolph, Hylan, Fleming, Linke and Daniel McNamee.

SURPRISED MISS OLSEN.

Miss Ethel Olsen, of Somerset street, was tendered a surprise party last evening, the occasion being arranged by W. H. Hayes, of Harrisburg, who has been visiting in this city for the past two weeks. A number of friends were in attendance among whom were the Misses Florence Chatham, Helen Mills, Helen Thorp, Thomas and Raymond McConnell and Raymond Thorpe. Games were played and refreshments were served.

SOCIETY WOMEN TO AID HOSPITAL

Unique Organization Formed to Provide Linen Supplies for Institution.

TO MEET BI-MONTHLY

"The Twigs of the Muhlenberg Hospital Board," Novel Name Chosen, the Branches of Which Will Meet at Members' Homes.

"The Twigs of the Muhlenberg Hospital Board" is the name of a new organization which has been formed among the public spirited women of the city, who are always ready to assist in the work of that worthy local institution. The idea is similar to one which originated in Rochester about twenty-six years ago, and all who have been approached locally to aid have enthusiastically responded, about 140 having already identified themselves with the work.

The plans is to have one central organization, and a number of branches, or Twigs, the members of which meet twice each month, on Fridays, in the homes of the eleven presidents of the branches. Those attending the meetings will sew on the linen supplies for the hospital, which are always provided by the Woman's Auxiliary. Any member who fails to attend, or is half hour late will have to pay a small fine, but there are no dues required for membership. The meetings are held by "Twigs" at the houses of the members.

Mrs. F. D. Warren, of Hillside avenue, is the general chairman of the whole organization, and the Twig of which she is president is composed of the following: Mrs. John P. Stevens, vice president; Mrs. Edward J. Patterson, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. M. D. Mellor, Mrs. William H. Murray, Mrs. William Cooke, Mrs. Horace N. Stevens, Mrs. Noah C. Barnhart, Mrs. H. L. DeForest, Mrs. Henry Cochran, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. John S. Zelie, Mrs. F. D. Lounsbury, Mrs. Orton G. Dale, Mrs. Frederick W. Wallace, Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch and Miss Jessie Munger.

Another Twig has for its president Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., the other members being Mrs. H. C. Irons, vice-president; Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, Mrs. H. A. McGee, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. Thomas Height Leggett, Mrs. W. T. Kaufman, Mrs. T. M. Day, Mrs. A. L. Otterson, Mrs. A. A. Tilney, Mrs. J. W. Sandford, Mrs. William E. Taliaferro, Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. Charles A. Reed and Mrs. J. M. Shellabarger. Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Heely and Mrs. Ladd form the cutting committee.

The following comprise the other "Twigs," completing the organization:

Mrs. Charles L. Hyde, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. Henry L. Hall, Mrs. Chester Lawrence, Mrs. John Tenney, Mrs. Henry E. Butler, Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard, Miss Eva Browne.

Mrs. William A. Conner, Mrs Charles W. King, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. Arthur M. Harris, Mrs. De Witt C. Ivins, Mrs. F. S. Martin, Mrs. Frederick W. Yates, Miss Ida Yerkes and Mrs. Josiah Browne.

Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. J. H. Brewster, Mrs. A. M. Collens, Mrs. J. M. Charles, Mrs. Allen Cowperthwaite, Mrs. Harvey Fisk, Mrs. C. B. Tyler, Mrs. L. E. Waring, Miss Elsie Burke and Miss Dorothy Fleming.

Miss Edith Rowland, Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mrs. William S. Tyler, Miss Mary A. Mellick, Mrs. J. A. Lane, Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. Harold Vonder Linde, Mrs. J. F. Harman, Mrs F. E. Mygatt, Miss Sarah Van-Boskerck, Mrs. William Thomas and Mrs. Annie Stewart.

Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb, Mrs. W. F. Alston, Mrs. E. T. Thomas, Mrs. William Ramspeck, Mrs. A. J. Watson, Mrs. A. F. Nathan, Mrs. Vincent Holmes, Mrs Bacon Gresham, Mrs. Charles Kinney and Mrs. William Scott.

Mrs. Frederic W. Butler, the Misses Marguerite and Edith Arnold, Edith Ogden, Edith Beers and Gertrude Butler.

Mrs. Alfred Rose, Mrs. A. W. Kleinecke, Mrs. Angus McKenzie, Miss Anne Murphy, Mrs. E. B. Shoemaker, Mrs. Osborne Halstead, Mrs. Joseph Vanderventer.

Mrs. R. W. Everest, Miss Elizabeth McGee and Mrs. Seymour Barr.

Mrs. F. C. Ard, Mrs. W. L. Righter, Mrs. William Tyler, Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, Mrs. R. S Rowland, Mrs. George L. Babcock, Mrs. Loomis Dana and Mrs. Lewis Williams.

BID WAS $133,102.00.

Due to a typographical error the amount of the bid of Edward L. Bader, of Atlantic City, for the construction of the joint sewer disposal works was published as $213,102 in this paper yesterday, when it should have been $133,102.

COLLEGE "GRADS" IN ANNUAL GOLF MATCH

Bulldog and Tiger Supporters to Meet on Country Club Links Tomorrow.

Local rivalry between graduates of Yale and Princeton Universities continues to exist and from time to time the demand for competition in one line or another crops out. Early last spring the Bulldog baseball players were put to rout by the Tigers on the Plainfield Country Club diamond by a score of 10 to 1 and now they have high hopes of evening up the count on the golf links. A large number of graduates from each of the famous institutions live in this city and borough and form factions that are of considerable strength. The contests between the leading athletes of the two clubs always give vent to a wealth of enthusiasm and the sideline supporters are always numerous when the battles begin.

Sixteen of the best wielders of the brassie and niblick in each of the local clubs are practising hard for a meeting scheduled for next Saturday afternoon at the Plainfield Country Club As fair weather is an inducement to better performances the match will probably be postponed if Jupiter Pluvius seeks to reign on that particular date and the following Saturday will be the likely choice for the conflict. It is a well-known fact that veteran golfers of no mean ability are enrolled on the rosters of the respective organizations and some keen and finished competition should result.

The "old timers" have maintained their playing ability since their college days and a majority of them claim that they are now able to show the college kid of today a thing or two along the sport line. Matched against men who are rival students in the respective universities years ago, the golfers who take part in the Saturday afternoon match will be forced to exhibit their best brand of golf and the contest should be an interesting one to a gallery of witnesses. While Princeton already has one of the year's victories to its credit, annexed in the baseball arena, the Eli supporters are not backward in saying what they will do to the opposing forces on the greens and present indications point to an evening up of the score. The men who will form the teams are:

Yale: R. S. Rowland, captain; H. E. Butler, A. M. Collens, H. L. DeForest, Harold Brown, A. W. Ransome, Murry Rushmore, W. B. Tyler, Daniel Runkle, James Brewster, F. W. Wallace, E. A. Stevenson, E. W. Jesscott, Gordon Abbott, A. W. Andrews and W. G. Cooke.

Princeton: J. W. Baker, captain; F. O. Rinehart, D. H. Barrows, O. H. Fleming, E. J. Waring, W. T. Kaufman, J. P. Murray, D. W. Taylor, Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, Brown Rolston, E. J. Patterson, H. J. Cochran, Harry Munger, Clinton Ivins, Sidney Gough and Dr. F. E. DuBois.

Several weeks hence the two clubs will select representatives to meet on the tennis court and the season of athletics will be culminated by a dinner and smoker.

MAX MORALLER WEDS LOCAL SCHOOL TEACHER

Miss Estelle Catherine Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Butler, of North Lawrence, N. Y., and Max Moraller, of this city, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday night, Father St. Jacques officiating. Miss Blanche Butler, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Marion Forbes, of North Lawrence, the bridesmaid. James J. Butler, of Carthage, N. Y., was the best man.

The bride is a graduate of the State Normal School at Potsdam, N. Y., and was a teacher in the Washington School, this city. Mr. Moraller holds a position with the Mechanics Trust Company, Bayonne. The couple will live in New York.

COLLECTS TWO BIKES.

While on his beat in the business section last night, Patrolman George Muir picked up two bicycles which had been left at the curb by careless owners. One was a man's wheel found in front of the Elks' Club and the other was a lady's bicycle found in front of Greenwood's store on East Front street.

WHEEL STOLEN.

Fred Dungey, of Westfield, reported to the police last night, that his bicycle had been stolen from the barn owned by Joseph Burke, at 718 Monroe avenue, sometime yesterday.

MISS TITUS WEDS LEO C. OSBORN

Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, Jr., Performs Ceremony at Home of Bride's Parents.

Miss May Titus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Titus, of High Bridge, and Leo C. Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Osborn, of New Market, were married at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, Jr., pastor of the New Market Baptist church.

Miss Julia Clark, of New Market, was the bridesmaid, and William Elliott, also of New Market, was the best man. The bride was gowned in white silk, trimmed with lace and she carried bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of pink silk and carried a bouquet of roses. A reception followed the ceremony. The house was attractively decorated with white cosmos and ferns. Mrs. Osborn received a large collection of gifts. The ceremony was performed beneath an archway of ferns beneath which was suspended a white floral bell. The single ring ceremony was used.

A wedding supper was served, after which the couple left for a two weeks' trip to New Hampshire. Upon their return they will live with the bridegroom's father. There were about thirty guests at the wedding and reception.

REV. M. L. STIMSON CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Officers Chosen at Annual Meeting of Union Co. Sunday School Association.

The Union County Sunday-school Association met yesterday at the Greystone Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, with many delegates from all parts of the county, representing all denominations, in attendance.

A number of addresses on various Bible school subjects were delivered by experts in the lines of work as carried on by the institutions. The morning session which opened shortly after 10 o'clock, was devoted mainly to the regular order of business, during which committees were appointed. The following names from this end of the county appear on the committees:

Nominations—Rev. E. C. Conover, of this city; Walter M. Irving, of Westfield.

Place of next meeting—A. B. Searing, Jr., of this city; Miss Harriette R. Halloway, of this city; James D. Church, of this city.

Resolutions—Rev. J. Madison Hare, of Scotch Plains.

Enrollment—George Roberts, of New Providence; Mrs. Bertha V. Mason, of New Providence.

Finance—Walter M. Irving, of Westfield; George E. Hall and Arthur M. Harris, of this city.

The following officers were elected to serve for a period of one year: President, Rev. M. L. Stimson, of Elizabeth; vice-presidents, Rev. Frank Smith, Baptist, of Elizabeth; Rev. Charles Kimball, Methodist, of Rahway; Rev. M. C. Morgan, Presbyterian, of Summit; Rev. Frederick Vergin, Episcopal, of Elizabeth, and Rev. John Y. Broek, Reformed, of this city; recording secretary, Frank Stewart, of this city; corresponding secretary and treasurer, James D. Church, of this city; field secretaries for Plainfield: first district, Robert Butler; second district, A. V. Searing; Arthur M. Harris and James D. Church, of this city, were elected to the executive committee; Rev. Evarts C. Conover, of this city, to the State association executive committee; secretary of missionary instruction, Miss Harriette Halloway, of this city.

SOME RAIN.

Weather Prophet John Neagle reports that during the twelve hours ending at 2 o'clock this afternoon, two inches of rain fell. The fall of rain during the entire month of August amounted to 2.01 inches. As the rain was still falling at the time of going to press, the total fall for the month of August will, in all probability, be exceeded during the present storm.

JR. CLUB TO MEET.

An important business session of the Jr. O. U. A. M. will be held this evening, at which time a number of matters will be discussed. The question of additional furnishings for the clubhouse is to be considered at this time.

CHANGES MADE IN FIELDER TOUR

Democrats Complete Arrangements for Closing Days of Campaign.

Completion of arrangements for several meetings during the last week of the campaign, and putting the finishing touches upon the plans for Governor Fielder's tour tomorrow, marked the weekly conference of the Union County Democratic Committee at Elizabeth. A rally will be held in the Gordon Hippodrome Hall in Elizabeth on Thursday night, October 29, when besides the candidates, addresses will be delivered by United States District Attorney J. Warren Davis and State Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy, of Bergen county.

Some changes have been announced in the Governor's trip tomorrow. The revised schedule starts with luncheon at the Elks' Club, Elizabeth, from noon until 1:30 o'clock, when, accompanied by a squadron of automobiles filled with Democrats, the Governor will set out for Roselle Park, where an address will be given fifteen minutes later, at Westfield avenue and Chestnut street.

Cranford will be reached and a stop made at Union and North avenues, instead of Cleveland School, at 2:15. For the rest of the afternoon the itinerary was left in the following form, which was as originally announced:

Leave Cranford at 2:30 o'clock, arrive at Dooling's Hotel, Garwood, at 1:45 o'clock; leave Garwood at 3 o'clock, arrive at Elm and Broad streets, Westfield, at 3:15 o'clock; leave Westfield at 3:30 o'clock, arrive at Kennedy's corner, Summit, at 4 o'clock; leave Summit at 4:15 o'clock, arrive at Sickley's Hotel, Springfield, at 4:30 o'clock.

From Springfield the party will return to the Elks' Club, Elizabeth, for dinner. At 7:30 o'clock, the Governor will appear in Lyceum Hall, Court street and Park place, Elizabeth. Fifteen minutes later he will leave for a speech from the Courthouse steps, instead of Union Square, as originally announced. After the Courthouse address, the tourists will travel to the Borough Hall, Linden, which was not on the original schedule.

Linden will likely be left at 8:30 o'clock after a fifteen-minute stay, and then the Governor will proceed to Rahway, where a speech will be delivered about 9 o'clock at Main and Monroe streets. This is a later hour and different spot than first announced for Rahway. The final stop will be Plainfield, where the Governor will talk at 9:45 o'clock at Front street and Madison avenue.

STREET CAR ROWDY IS SEVERELY DEALT WITH

In accordance with his announced plan to break up rowdyism among street car patrons, Judge DeMeza fined one offender $10 in the city court this morning, in default of which he was committed to the Union county jail for a period of forty days. The defendant, Joseph Nask, was arrested by Patrolman O'Keefe last night, and the complaint was made against him by Superintendent George Luhr, of the Elizabeth division of the Public Service Railway Corporation.

Nask was intoxicated when arrested and refused to stop smoking in the car when ordered to do so by the conductor in charge. He became abusive and after the disturbance had created a stir among the other passengers he was turned over to the police officer.

TRAINING CLASS MEETING.

The first session of the Teachers' Training Class is to be held this evening at the Y. M. C. A. parlors, and will be under the direction of William D. Murray, an expert on Bible school work. Bible class teachers, especially boys' class, are invited to attend.

NINE-POUND BOY.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldstein, of 215 Monroe avenue, are parents of a nine-pound boy born to them this morning.

G. O. P. MEETING SETS PRECEDENT

Dollar Dinner Held in Elizabeth Last Night Largest of Its Kind.

CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

Economy is the Keynote of Policies Outlined by Various Candidates for Election—Enthusiasm Prevailed Among 600 Guests.

Union county Republicans held one of the largest attended and one of the most enthusiastic gatherings ever conducted in connection with county politics, in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, last night, the affair being featured by the presence of the entire party ticket and nearly 600 guests. Unity of party spirit prevailed and the unanimous sentiment of the gathering was for the victory of the entire ticket at the November election. Representative Republicans from all parts of the county, some of whom had held office and others who were seeking it for the first time this year, were present at the event which took the form of a dollar dinner and the rumor that a break was evident in the ranks of the party, which has been in circulation recently, was put to rout. The dinner marked the formal opening of the Republican campaign in the county and from now on the race will be hotly waged.

Former City Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, in a short talk lauded the good spirit in evidence at the gathering and commented on the re-uniting of the party. He said that all of the men running for office were qualified for the work to be expected of them and each one realizes the need for good work should they be the voters' choice.

Senator Carlton B. Pierce laid special emphasis upon the necessity for economy in the administration of State affairs and remarked that each of the Republican candidates stood ready to carry out this policy.

George C. Otto, candidate for sheriff, spoke briefly and promised if elected to pursue a policy of efficiency and economy plus courtesy.

John H. Capstick commented on the evils of the present tariff and the deplorable methods of the Democratic party in this question.

Charles N. Fowler declared that the present dissention is not due to the war, but to the removal of the protective tariff on American made products. He analyzed the Democratic platform of 1912 and cited instances where the party has failed to fulfill certain pledges. In closing he said: "We do not want a low tariff or a high tariff, but a protective tariff."

In a short talk Frank H. Smith promised a business administration if re-elected, and County Clerk James C. Calvert reviewed his administration and promised a continuance of the same policy.

Among the other speakers of the evening were Mayor Victor Mravlag, of Elizabeth; Charles L. Morgan, William T. Stuchell and Arthur E. Warner. Rutherford B. Franklin, of Summit, was toastmaster.

DR. KNOWLTON SPOKE AT TBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT

Despite the threatening weather conditions another large attendance of visitors was recorded at the tuberculosis and health exhibit being held in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School, last night. A feature of the evening was an address delivered by Dr. Knowlton on "What the Individual and Organizations Can Do to Prevent Tuberculosis."

Father Vincent Sciolla, of St. Mary's church, gave an address in Italian on a subject pertinent to the proposition being dealt with by those in charge of the exhibit.

THEODORE GOTTSCHALK GIVES VIOLIN RECITAL

The pupils of the Plainfield High School were given a rare treat in music at the chapel exercises this morning, when Theodore Gottschalk, violinist, of this city, rendered several selections. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Marie Brush.

The first piece that Mr. Gottschalk played was the "Concerto," in A minor, by Acolay, responding with three encores. He played, "S. Espano," by Sarape, "Berceuse," by Alarb, and the "Sextette," from Lucia.

ILL ON STREET.

George Good, hailing from New York city, was overtaken by a sudden illness in the business section yesterday afternoon, and was removed to Muhlenberg. He was discharged from that institution this morning, having sufficiently recovered to return home.

CRUISER HAWK IS SUNK IN NORTH SEA BY A GERMAN SUBMARINE

FIFTY OF CREW REPORTED SAVED

LOCATION OF DISASTER NOT GIVEN—CRUISER THESUES ALSO FIRED AT BUT TORPEDO MISSED HER—THREE OFFICERS RESCUED.

JAPANESE AND BRITISH BOMBARD ILTIS

French War Office Reports Continued Satisfactory Conditions, Line Now Extending From Ypres to the Sea—Battle Progressing South of Przemysl—English Royal Family at Sandringham on North Sea—15,000 Austrians Defeated.

London, Oct. 16.—It was officially announced today that the British cruiser Hawk had been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Of the crew of 400 it is said only 50 were saved, three officers and fifty men having been brought ashore.

Neither the time nor the exact location of the disaster was given. She was built in 1893, had a speed of 20 knots, and her armament consisted of two 9.2 inch guns, ten 6 inch, and seventeen guns of smaller calibre.

It is learned that the British second class cruser Theseus escaped disaster. A torpedo was aimed at her but it missed.

Tokio, Oct. 16.—An official announcement says Japanese and British warships bombarded Iltis and Huiohuan Forts at Tsing Tau on Wednesday, and that an aeroplane destroyed part of the batteries of the forts. In the fighting one British seaman was killed and two seamen were injured.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Confirmation of the progress indicated in yesterday's official bulletin is contained in the statement given out by the war office at 3 o'clock this afternoon. "At our left wing," says the statement, "the action of the allied forces now extends from the region of Ypres to the Sea.

"In Russia, on the left bank of the Vistula, during the day on Tuesday, Russian troops repulsed the German attacks directed against Warsaw and Ivangorod. The battle is now going on to the south of Przemysl."

President Poincaire has signed a decree admitting fresh meat to France free of duty until further notice.

London, Oct. 16.—A Copenhagen correspondent cables that important German re-inforcements, especially artillery, have been sent to the west front. He said that his informant, who had just returned to that place, met at Bradenburg twenty-eight trains of re-inforcements in one hour, all packed with men and horses. He estimated the number of troops to be between 300,000 and 400,000.

A despatch from Berlin, via the Hague, says that in an official statement issued today the German General Staff declares the entire situation in both the eastern and western theatres of war to be excellent. It says that at no point have the Allies succeeded in making any important advances. Dr. Von Bethman Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, is now in Antwerp, arranging details for the government of the city. Among those who accompanied the Chancellor were Rudolph Von Valenti, chief of Emperor William's imperial civil cabinet, Minister Truetler and the councilor of the German Legation in Belgium.

London, Oct. 16.—King George, Queen Mary and nearly all the members of the British Royal family left here today for Sandringham, on the North Sea, nearly 100 miles north of London.

An official statement issued today announces the defeat of an army of 15,000 Austrians in a two days' battle near Sarajevo, by the combined Montenegrin and Servian armies. The statement admits severe losses among the allied forces.

According to a despatch received here the Japanese have intimated that because of new developments it has become necessary to occupy the railway works of the Tientsin-Pukow road at Tsinan. This is regarded by the Chinese as a step by the Japanese for the occupation of the northern section of this road.

New York, Oct. 16.—Two expeditionary forces of Portuguese left Lisbon, September 19, to reinforce the garrisons in Portuguese possessions in Africa adjoining those of Germany. This was made known today by C. Rangel de Sampaio, the Portuguese Consul at New York.

Petrograd, Oct. 16.—According to an official bulletin last night, the Russian War Office announces the defeat of an Austrian column south of Przemysl. Seven officers and 560 soldiers were taken prisoners.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—It is officially denied that two German submarines were sunk after the destruction of the Russian cruiser Pallada, recently, in the Baltic Sea.

Rome, Oct. 16.—It is reported from Pagil, Switzerland, that the French troops have occupied Muelhausen nand Altkirk, in Alsace. The Germans retired several days ago.

Washington, Oct. 16—Official protest against the coaling of German cruisers by American merchant ships sailing out of Manila was lodged with the State Department today by Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, the British ambassador. State Department officials have the protest under consideration.

British labor and the Labor party stand loyally behind the British Government in the existing war, the British embassy announced today, in a statement setting forth the contents of a manifesto issued by labor.

A despatch from Honolulu says that it is believed there that the German gunboat Gier, which put into port yesterday for coal, will be interned until the end of the war.

MISS JENNIE VAN NEST PASSES AWAY IN NEWARK

Miss Jennie VanNest, aged 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore B. VanNest, formerly of Plainfield, died yesterday at the home of her parents at Thirteenth avenue and Howard street, Newark, following a short illness. She was born in this city, where she has many relatives. Miss VanNest while in Plainfield attended the Methodist church.

The funeral will be held at the home of the parents tomorrow evening and the burial will take place in Evergreen cemetery, this city, Sunday morning about 10 o'clock.

TO USE FRANKLIN SCHOOL FOR MUNICIPAL DANCES

The over crowding of the municipal dance, under the supervision of the Public Recreation Committee, has made it seem advisable to open another building tomorrow evening to accommodate the steadily increasing numbers. There are always plenty of chaperones present and the dance is well supervized.

Franklin School is splendidly suited for this purpose. It is centrally located. The auditorium is large and attractive, and the floor is good. Excellent music will be provided and some of the new dances will be taught.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 60 degrees; 11 a. m., 63 degrees; 1 p. m., 65 degrees.

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

FOR LIBRARY BENEFIT.

Miss Ella H. Boice, who has done so much to assist the board of trustes of the Public Library, in its efforts to raise funds from outside sources, is planning to give another entertainment for the benefit of the library. The entertainment will be held in the Presbyterian chapel about the middle of November. It will consist of a short play in charge of Mrs. H. A. Wickham, followed by a musical and literary program including a vocal solo by Miss Beatrice Cameron, readings by Mrs. E. H. Dean and instrumental music by Mrs. Charles Day, Miss Irene Day and Martin A. Korff, the well-known Plainfield violinist.

CUT HIS HAND.

Paul Smith, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith, of Front street, cut his right hand just below the first joint of the index finger with a bread knife yesterday morning. While at breakfast he was in the act of cutting a crust off of the end that remained of a loaf of bread when the knife slipped making a nasty cut that bled profusely. Dr. Platt treated and dressed the wound.

A special meeting of Court Dunellen, I. O. F., was held at the residence of Assessor J. H. L. Peters, last evening.

Paul Ratti, of North avenue, was a business visitor in New York, yesterday.

Jerry Vidy, of Jersey City, has been spending a few days in the borough as a guest of his sister, Mrs. Vincengo Tozze, of North avenue.

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trade wil be held in the borough hall this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis M. Webber, of Prospect avenue, are entertaining Mr. Webber's parents from Ellsworth, Me.

Edwin Lewis, of Front street, has been rather indisposed the past few days.

A delegation of members of St. John's Holy Name Society will go to Plainfield on Sunday evening and attend the vesper service at St. Mary's church.

Mrs. Sophia Benson, of Columbia street, has returned from Ohio, where she has been making her daughter Mrs. Katherine Swartz, a protracted visit.

AWARD CONTRACT.

The contract of installing plumbing and heating apparatus in the new store of the Standard Investment Company on North avenue, has been awarded to Frank Broshart.

The adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Common Council will be held on Tuesday evening.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in the borough hall on Monday evening. It is urgently requested that the members keep this date in mind and try to be present.

The account of the bowling match between the Baracas and the Presbyterian "5," of Woodbridge, will be found on the sporting page.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown and two sons, Ronald and Joseph, Jr., will sail tomorrow for Glasgow, Scotland, where they will visit relatives.

RELAYING WALKS.

Contractor Goldson W. Smalley's men commenced relaying the pavements along Whittier avenue and New Market road frontages of the Whittier School property yesterday. Much favorable comment over the action of the Mayor and Common Council in ordering this improvement has already been heard, as many a pedestrian has obtained wet feet while traversing these pavements on dark nights during stormy weather.

Contractor Fred Kirchner is painting the nearly completed Clarence T. Voorhees bungalow on Lincoln avenue.

RETURNS TO WORK.

Willard N. Apgar was able to resume his carpentry duties, yesterday, after an enforced vacation of about a week as the result of an injury sustained to one of his fingers while repairing the door of the barn in the rear of the First National Bank.

The board of trustees of the Public Library will hold its monthly meeting in the library room this evening.

The young women's basketball team, of which Miss Mabel Bennett is captain, held its first practice on the Presbyterian courts last evening.

CLARK RAMSEY IMPROVED.

The condition of Clark Ramsey, who was taken ill as a result of a strained heart muscle, a week ago today, is reported as being considerably improved. He is still, however, unable to depart from his physician's initial instructions to remain quietly on his back in bed.

BOWLING TONIGHT.

The games of the women's two-team tournament will be continued on the Presbyterian alleys this evening, when it will be Miss Mabel Bennett and Mrs. W. J. Smith vs. Miss Florence Smith and Mrs. Fred Vail vs. Miss Luella Stryker and Miss B. M. Ward.

RUMMAGE SALE.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist church will hold a rummage sale in the vacant Abram G. Nelson store on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons and evening of the coming week. All persons, who have any goods to contribute, are requested to deliver them on Monday or Tuesday. For the convenience of those residing in Dunellen, who may care to contribute, Smalley Bros. have agreed to receive any goods at their hardware store on North avenue and will see that the gifts are delivered.

TOWNSHIP BOARD MEETING.

The monthly meting of the Township Board of Education will be held Tuesday evening at the district school at this place.

CYCLE VICTIM IMPROVING.

Robert Schworer, who had his leg broken a couple of weeks ago when his motorcycle, the brakes of which would not work, collided with the fence about the C. T. Reger double house, is reported as getting along well at Muhlenberg Hospital.

The improvements to the David Lawson house have been completed.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The annual bazaar conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church was more of a success than in previous years. The affair was held in Excelsior Hall and both afternoon and evening the hall was crowded. All of the booths were well patronized, especially the mystery table. Between 6 and 8 o'clock the women served a supper which was partaken of by nearly seventy-five couple.

The monthly meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M. was held in the lodge rooms in Scotch Plains, last night. Following was a meeting of the Past Councilors' Association of Union county. It comprises the former heads of the various councils throughout the county.

The girls' sewing class met at the home of the instructor, Miss Fannie Haskard, of Grand street, last evening.

Miss Caroline Doty, of the "Homestead," is spending a few weeks with Mrs. E. F. Howe, who has just returned to her home in Troy, N. Y.

Master Franklin Howe, of Martine avenue, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. E. F. Howe, of Troy, N. Y.

Whether the Parish House re-opens this season or not the fellows that composed the second basketball team last year, will organize again for the coming season with the only change being the replacing of Hall at forward by Hetfield, the star of last year's Mt. Pleasant team. It is not probable that the first team will get in action as several of the players will play with other teams and several will not take up the game this year.

Robert Howell and John Southard are tied for athletic honors in the two local Boy Scout patrols, as each were even in the meet held Columbus Day.

WILL NOT CLOSE CANAL FOR MORE THAN A WEEK

Washington, Oct. 16—Traffic in the Panama Canal will be suspended for at least one week because of the slide which was reported yesterday, as having happened in Culebra cut. This announcement was made by the Isthmian Canal Commission today, after they had received official confirmation of the press despatches from Colonel Goethals. The engineers expressed their conviction that no further slides would occur. The despatch from Colonel Goethals said that there was a break in the east bank of the canal, north of Gold Hill, about 5 o'clock yesterday evening. The channel was reported as blocked for about 1,000 feet, but there are no further movements today. The Colonel said that the slide was actually about 1,500 feet long, but that ony two-thirds of it slipped into the cut, the remainder being checked.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT GRACE CHURCH

Rev. C. C. Cain Inaugurates a Social and Evangelistic Campaign in Borough.

Under the auspices of Grace M. E. church and the direction of the pastor, Rev. C. C. Cain, a social and evangelistic campaign was inaugurated at the church this week, which is designed to touch every activity of the church and Sunday-school. There was a preparatory service on Monday night, under the auspices of the Women's Home Missionary Society. Tuesday evening there was a congregational meeting to plan for social visitation in which every member will be visited. Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Aid Society held a prayer meeting and in the evening a meeting was held under the auspices of the Sunday school, W. J. Conroy being the leader. The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society met last night at the home of Mrs. V. P. Heath, 240 Watchung avenue, and tonight the Epworth League will hold a prayer service.

The campaign will be continued all day Sunday with special services. Monday and Tuesday will be devoted to visitation among the families of the church and on Wednesday night, October 21, there will be a prayer meeting of all the societies of the church and it is urged that every member be present. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will speak on Thursday evening and on Friday evening, Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent, will both speak and sing. The services will be continued for two weeks at least, leading up to "Decision Day," Sunday, November 1. A committee on special music has been named and the program throughout the special services will comprise solos, quartet and choir selections.

MISS ELSIE T. PERRINE BRIDE OF FRANK PARRETTI

Miss Elsie Perrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perrine, of Harmon street, and Frank Parretti of Westfield, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Temple Baptist church. Rev. E. C. Conver, the pastor, officiated. Miss Tryphena Mattox was the bridesmaid and George Simons was the best man. Among the guests was a delegation of members from the Women's Relief Corps, of which the bride is a member.

A reception followed at the new home of the couple in Westfield. After a trip the couple will reside there. Mr. Parretti is employed at the Levgar Structural Iron Works, Dunellen. The bride received a number of gifts.

ENTERTAINS MEMBERS OF TONALUKA COUNCIL

Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., received two propositions for membership at the regular meeting, last night, and also entertained a number of visitors from Tonaluka Council, of Cranford. There were about forty members and guests present.

Arrangements were made to attend the annual meeting of the State Council, Degree of Pocahontas, to be held at Asbury Park, October 27. Seventeen members of Iona Council will be present at the convention. Mrs. C. L. Holstein, keeper of records of Iona Council, will enter the race for office of great keeper of records for the State Council.

Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

F. E. SERRELL CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF BIBLE CLASS

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Probasco Bible Class was held at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Carlton Smith, last year's president, presided at the meeting and the election of officers for the year was the first business. Fred E. Serrell was chosen president, D. F. Randolph vice-president, E. B. Pierson secretary, and Benjamin Harris treasurer. There were about forty-five members present at the meeting. Dr. Probasco, teacher of the class, was present and made a short speech.

The report of the year's work, which was made by the secretary, Fred Serrell, was very interesting and showed progress in every department of the work. There are now one hundred and eighty-seven members enrolled in the class, which is an increase of thiry-eight during the year, of which number eleven members of the class united with the church. The annual play was postponed till this winter when it will be given. After the business meeting a general social time was held and refreshments were served.

CARRANZA WILL ABIDE BY CONVENTION DECISION

Washington, Oct. 16—General Carranza will abide by any decision reached by the Aguas Calienties convention. This assurance reached the Constitutionalist agency here today from Ysidro Fabelo, minister of foreign affairs, and was hailed with satisfaction in administration circles.

SAN GIULIANO DEAD AND ITALY MAY ENTER THE WAR

New York, Oct. 16.—A press despatch from Rome reports the death of Marquis Antonio di San Giuliano, the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs. He was born in Catania on December 9, 1852. It has been said that he was responsible for Italy remaining neutral in the war abroad, and the expectation is that Italy will soon enter the conflict.

TWO MEN LET GO.

Although the Philadelphia police requested the detention of two men arrested on a charge of illegal train riding here, Wednesday night, the representative of that force failed to show up here yesterday, and the men were liberated by Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning. They gave their names as James Collins and Joseph Crawford, of New York city.

LONG BASEBALL GAMES.

One That Ran For Thirty Innings With a 4 to 1 Score.

The longest major league game was played on Sept. 1, 1906, between the Boston and Philadelphia American league clubs in Boston, when the Athletics won by a score of 4 to 1 in twenty-four innings. Jack Coombs, then a recruit from Colby college, and "Jumbo" Harris, a young pitcher from the New England league, were the respective boxmen used by the Philadelphia and Boston teams. The game lasted four hours and forty-seven minutes.

The previous longest games in the National league were played at Cincinnati on June 30, 1892, and at Philadelphia on Aug. 24, 1905. Both ran twenty innings. The game at Cincinnati was between the Reds and Cubs and resulted in a tie score of 7 to 7. At Philadelphia the Cubs defeated the Quakers by a score of 2 to 1.

On May 31, 1909, the longest professional game on record was played between the Bloomington and Decatur teams of the Illinois-Iowa-Indiana league, Decatur winning in the twenty-sixth inning by a score of 2 to 1. Fargo and Grand Forks engaged in a contest which lasted twenty-five innings at Devils Lake, N. D., in 1905. Later Hartford and New Haven, in the Eastern association, played twenty-three innings, the former winning 2 to 1. Geist, for the winning team, and Jansen, for New Haven, pitched the entire contest.

Amateurs are credited with playing the longest game, the East End All-Stars and the Brooklyn Athletic club teams of Cleveland contesting for thirty innings on July 4, 1907, the latter winning 4 to 1.—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

THE WORLD'S GREAT BANKS.

Only Sixty-one Have Deposits Over a Hundred Million Dollars.

For years the mere name of the Bank of England has been a synonym for financial strength and greatness. In a list of the great banks of the world the Bank of England is sixth. There are three banks in Germany with a greater volume of deposits. The greater banks are London City and Midland, Lloyd's bank and London County and Westminster. London City and Lloyd's each has deposits above $500,000,000. The London County has deposits of $440,000,000. The great Bank of England has a little more than $350,000,000.

The leading bank of the world, from the standpoint of deposits, is the Imperial Bank of Russia, with deposits and current accounts aggregating $630,000,000, a sum big enough to stagger the mind.

The National Bank of Argentine and the National City bank of New York are sixteen and seventeen in rank, with deposits close to $230,000,000 each. The Bank of Spain is greater than the Bank of France, much greater in deposits. But Spain cuts no figure in the finances of the world. That is hard to explain. In this world list there are only sixty-one banks mentioned with deposits in excess of $100,000,000. In this list the United States has eight banks, a good showing, as none of them depends on the deposits of the United States to help it out. — Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

In Doubt.

The Blanks' maid of all work was a practical young woman of about twenty-seven years. One day when her mistress was making some plans for the future the matter of fact Serelda said:

"I don't know, ma'am. It might be that I won't be with you much longer, an' then mebbe I will. I ain't sure yet."

Knowing that a young man had called a good many times to see Serelda, her mistress said:

"Are you thinking of getting married, Serelda?"

Without the least show of embarrassment or enthusiasm Serelda said:

"Well, yes, to tell the truth, I am. Then again I don't know if I will. I've got a good place here with good pay, and he's such a fool, mebbe I'll stay on with you!"—New York Post.

Complimentary.

Gebhard von Blucher, the famous Prussian general field marshal, had as surgeon major of his army a man who was very homely, but extremely proud and vain.

One day, says Novellen-Schatz, Blucher entered the surgeon's tent and found him standing before a looking glass, arranging his toilet and admiring himself generally. "Doctor," said Blucher, laughing, "I suppose that you are the luckiest man in the world."

"How's that, sir, may I ask?"

"Why, here you are quite in love with yourself, and you haven't a single rival!"

A Blanket Injunction.

"Say, you're a lawyer. Can you tell me how to get out a blanket injunction?"

"A blanket injunction?"

"Yes. My wife will insist on buying cheap ones at bargain sales."—Baltimore American.

An Eye Opener.

"Eight o'clock," exclaimed a guest at a hotel, yawning, "and I'm so sleepy I can scarcely open my eyes!"

"Shall I bring your bill, sir?" inquired a waiter.

AN INDIAN MARATHON.

Remarkable Speed and Endurance of a Noted Mohave Runner.

In the early days of Ehrenberg, Ariz., a man was frightfully burned by kerosene. There was no physician and no drug store in the town, and so a noted Mohave runner who lived near by was hastily engaged to run to Fort Yuma, a government post directly across the Colorado river from the present town of Yuma.

The distance from Ehrenberg to Fort Yuma, as the crow flies, is sixty miles. By the shortest trail that the Indian could take it was at least seventy-five miles, and he had to swim the river once each way. The Indian was to get $10 for the trip and $10 additional if he returned in twenty-four hours. He prepared quickly for the undertaking and disappeared down the trail.

Within twenty-four hours he was back in Ehrenberg, bringing with him the packages of medicine for which he had been sent. Each package bore the labels of the Yuma dispensary. There was no living being along the trail between the two places from whom he could have obtained any assistance whatever. That Indian ran 150 miles in less than twenty-four hours over a barren, stony desert, interspersed with deep, dry gulches and ravines, in and out of which he was forced to climb, and in addition he swam the Colorado river twice.

When he got his $20 he bought some of his favorite food, crawled into the shelter of some mesquite trees, ate and slept alternately for two days and then reappeared in perfect condition.—From A. M. Welles' "Reminiscent Ramblings."

A TRAGIC EXPERIMENT.

How a Husband Tried to Cure His Wife's Fear of Pythons.

Concerning pythons, the following is a true story: A young lady in England for a long time resisted her lover's entreaties to go out to India with him as his wife. She had a horror of the wild animals she believed she might encounter there, especially serpents. At length, however, after he had issued a sort of ultimatum, she consented to accompany him. She did not, however, leave her fears behind her and lived in constant terror of some day meeting what she so intensely feared. Her husband did his best to laugh her fears away, but without avail. Then he resolved to try more drastic means.

A huge python was killed in the neighborhood of his bungalow. Without telling his wife anything about it he ordered the reptile to be brought into the drawing room and coiled up as if asleep on the hearth rug. Then he went out and called his wife, telling her to go into the drawing room and that he would join her in a few minutes. Soon after he heard a dreadful scream. "That will cure her of her fear of serpents," he smiled to himself and purposely delayed his entry. When at last he went into the drawing room he saw his wife lying dead on the floor, and coiled around her was another huge python, the mate to the one that lay dead on the hearth rug.—St. James' Gazette.

Jewish Flags.

The Zionists adopted a flag made up of a white ground with a blue horizontal stripe on each side and the shield of David in the center.

In reference to the direction from the book of Numbers, "Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard, with the ensign of their father's house," the Midrash explains that the emblems and colors corresponded to the twelve precious stones set in the breast plate of the high priest. The colors for the different tribes were as follows: Reuben, red; Simeon, green; Levi, tricolor—white, black and red; Judah, sky blue; Issachar, black; Zebulyn, white; Dan, blue; Gad, gray; Naphtali, wine color; Asher, pearl color; Ephraim and Manasseh, jet black; Benjamin, all the above colors combined.—Philadelphia Press.

The Pipe of War.

There is hardly a country in the world where the pipe is not smoked in one form or another. In many villages of the northwest provinces of India are to be found public hookahs for the use and comfort of travelers. Every one has heard of the North American's pipe of peace. General Blucher's pipe smoking was of a very different character. He appointed a man to the post of "pipe master," whose duty it was to fill a long clay pipe and hand it to the general before every engagement. Blucher would then enjoy a few puffs, give back the pipe and gallop into the firing line.

The Cleverest.

Willy—You see, it was this way. They were all three so dead in love with her and all so eligible that to settle the matter she agreed to marry the one who should guess the nearest to her age. Arthur—And did she? Willy—I don't know. I know that she married the one who guessed the lowest.

Two Views.

"I put my reliance in the wisdom of the plain people," said Senator Sorghum.

"But suppose the plain people do not happen to agree with you?"

"Then I refuse to be influenced by the clamor of the thoughtless crowd."—Washington Star.

Poor Papa!

"I am not at all certain," said the father, "that my daughter loves you sufficiently to warrant me in intrusting her to your keeping for life."

"Well," replied the young man, "perhaps you haven't had the same advantages for observing things that I have."

MUNICIPAL MOVIES.

When the Public Recreation Committee started giving moving picture shows in the Washington School, there were murmurings from some people about town that it was interference with legitimate business. It was pointed out that no criticism has been offered concerning the conduct of the places where pictures were previously shown. We do not believe that the members of the Committee have the slightest desire to compete with the established moving picture shows. The films selected are of an educational or municipal character, and are meant, to a large extent, to inculcate principles of better citizenship, or to enlarge the scope of the intelligence of those who attend them. Because of the expense in securing them, the Recreation Committee will be unable to show any of the so-called feature films until long after they have gone the rounds of the city's high class houses.

Municipal movies have been tried in some of the big cities with great success, and at times with the endorsement of co-operation of the owners of local theatres. Pittsburgh and St. Louis, during the past summer, gave municipal shows in the parks and playgrounds, treating their citizens to movies along lines of education and civic progress, as well as entertainment. In St. Louis the Park Commissioner was given an appropriation of $2,000 for the work. As an example of the way the pictures were used in Pittsburgh, for instance, at one of the first shows given, the Board of Health had a doctor and nurse present to demonstrate health rules which everyone should know.

When a city has something to tell its people, there is no more effective manner to tell it than by scenes thrown upon the canvas. Commercial and civic organizations and social and welfare societies who have a mission among their citizens, have used the moving picture cameras to enforce their arguments time without number. An example of this is seen at the Plainfield High School this week, in the pictures being shown to illustrate the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

It must be admitted that the general public first accepts such entertainments as those started by the Recreation Committee, purely for their entertaining qualities. But when they see something of an educational value, they will talk about it, and thus involuntarily start what may result in campaigns for municipal promotion. As other cities adopt the use of the moving picture in their recreation and social centers, there will be a multiplication of suitable subjects for municipal use, and the future of the "citizens' movies" will be unlimited as an aid to American life, recreation and development.

Never before in the history of Plainfield have the citizens been given such an opportunity of studying the causes and effects of tuberculosis as is being presented now at the exhibit being conducted at the Plainfield High School. Parents who have children old enough to understand what this exhibit means should insist that they attend to have instilled in their minds the things which everyone should know in helping in the fight to down the dreaded disease. That, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," was never found more applicable than in this campaign against the "white plague." This educational exhibit at the Plainfield High School is one of the most commendable ever held in the interest of public welfare. Give up at least one evening this week or next, attend the exhibit and learn from men who know, and from the various objects used in demonstrating clean and unclean conditions, how to assist in making the fight a success. We heartily endorse this worthy campaign and urge upon citizens who have the welfare of their fellow beings at heart to visit the exhibition.

It seems to us that it is about time for some one to put a bomb under the Public Utility Commission in New Jersey. Only a short time ago the price of mileage books was raised without so much as a hearing being given on the subject at which protest could be made. Everyone knows that all the railroads in New Jersey, with the possible exception of the Erie, have been making money, and a raise in rates is unwarranted by any rule of reason. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is paying dividends above thirty per cent. on the capital stock, and yet they are permitted to raise rates.

The contributed editorial for tomorrow's paper has been prepared by A. R. Parkhurst, Jr., and in it he will present for the consideration of our readers some of the arguments being used by the Democrats in the campaign which closes with the election on Tuesday, November 3. As the Daily Press wishes to maintain its independent atitude in the election, we have asked the Republicans to furnish the editorial for the issue of Saturday, October 24, and they have consented to do so.

Another one of those weak women who need man's protection, as the anti-suffragists say, has had her name on the front page. Over in Belleville a bully insulted a woman who was walking alone on the streets. She drew a revolver and compelled him to walk ahead of her until she got to a place where she could telephone for the police.

Forget all about the candidates for office, if you want to, but be sure to go to the polls on election day to cast your ballot in favor of civil service for county employes. Every man working for the public is entitled to the same protection that he would receive in any private business.

Who said that the campaign was lacking in interest? They say that T. R. himself is going to tour New Jersey on October 30, and he can stir up enough trouble in one day to make up for any apparent inertia on the part of the people during the rest of the campaign.

RECREATION NOTES

MAINE MAY CAPTURE THE SARDINE TRADE

Bangor, Me., Oct. 16—That the sardine canneries of Maine now have the greatest opportunity of their history before them is the opinion of Dr. Hugh M. Smith, United States commissioner of fisheries, who has been connected with a Federal demonstration to sardine packers of methods of improving the Maine sardine output. He says:

"In 1913, France exported to the United States sardines valued at $1,000,000, Norway sent 400,000 cases, and thousands of cases came here from England, Spain and Portugal. But it was left for the State of Maine to hold the foremost place in supplying the United States. Is output in 1913 was 800,000 cases, valued at more than $2,000,000, which is double the value of the French importations.

"This year all imported sardines will be among the missing luxuries on account of the great war. Norway has officially forbidden the export of them, believing there will be a shortage of food at home; France can get neither fishermen, packers nor transportation on account of the war, so now Maine has the opportunity to step in and claim the right of way over all other nations. The United States Bureau of Fisheries is convinced that if the State appreciates the opening and looks to quality rather than to quantity, it can win out. There is an abundance of material within easy reach. The condition of the sardine fishery in Europe resulting from the war has given the sardine canners of Maine a chance that may never come again to occupy the market that has been largely given over to foreign goods. But if American sardines are to be raised to the French standard the Maine fisheries must resort to great care and precaution, but in catching and canning."

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16.—Delegates in large numbers assembled in Boston today and took part in the annual conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Plans for health education were discussed at the morning session and representatives of numerous colleges reported on experiences in various phases of community service. These reports showed that during the past year 1,052 students, representing eighteen educational institutions, were engaged in various forms of social service. Two hundred and fifty-seven were active in promoting programs of service with men in the industries, especially those unable to speak English. The immigrant department carried on work with thirty-five nationalities and 213 classes were held, enrolling 6,652 students, taught by 507 teachers.

SANTA FE PLANS NEW ROUTE.

Austin, Texas, Oct. 16.—Arrangements are being made by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad for establishing through passenger train services between Galveston and California points at the beginning of next month. While the new "cut-off" line between Coleman, Texas, and Mexico, on the Texas-New Mexico border, a distance of about 325 miles, has been finished and opened to local traffic the putting on of the heavy passenger and freight equipment for through service was delayed until the roadbed could become fully settled. The "cut-off" is really a link in a new transcontinental road, as it gives the Santa Fe a direct line between the Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico, with a prospective extension from a point on the system in Louisiana to New Orleans.

OLDER BOYS MEET.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 16.—A State-wide conference of "older boys" assembled in this city today, under the auspices of the Alabama Sunday-school Association. The purpose of the conference, which will continue in session over Sunday, is to enlist the youths from 15 to 21 years of age in the work of the Sunday-school, and to train them for Christian leadership. The three days' program of the conference provides for every phase of the boy's life—physical, mental, spiritual and social. A "Grand Indian Council" will be held, led by John L. Alexander, of Chicago. Addresses on boys' work will be made by boys themselves, and a "Forward Step" meeting for deeper personal consecration will be held on the closing afternoon of the conference.

WAR AIDS GLASS MAKERS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 16.—The war in Europe has brought many orders for window and plate glass to the manufacturers of the United States, of which industries Pittsburgh is the largest centre of manufacture and has the largest business of any city in the world at the present time. The executive head of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, the largest concern of its kind, states that his company has received a large number of orders for window and plate glass since the European war shut off importations, and that his company has been asked by European manufacturers to assume several big contracts they had taken before war developed.

DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 16—Robert Collier, a negro convicted at Evansville of the murder of John Cain, a policeman of that city, was electrocuted at the State Prison here today. An interesting feature of the case was the fact that Collier helped to build the chair in which he was put to death. When the chair was built some three years ago Collier was serving a term in the prison for assault and battery with intent to kill. He was a helper of the electricians at the prison and in tha capacity essisted in building the chair and installing the electrical apparatus.

REPORT IS CORRECT.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Secretary McAdoo said today the report that the Federal Reserve Board has expressed doubt of its power to help administer the proposed $150,000,000 cotton fund if it should be raised, is entirely correct. The Federal Reserve Board, said the Secretary, are doing everything possible to help raise this fund and will lend every possible assistance in its administration if the effort to secure it is successful. It cannot be stated too emphatically that the disposition of everybody here is to do everything within the limits of human power to help the cotton situation.

RESCUE MISSION NOTES.

The service of the Rescue Mission this evening will be in charge of F. H. Andrews, of Central avenue. John Blower will be the speaker Sunday evening, at which time Miss Jennie Sears, of the borough, will be the soloists.

Edward Morgan, of this city, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the hospital, is improving.

CHURCH MEN'S CLUB TO HEAR OF THE WAR ABROAD

Rev. Frederick Lynch, secretary of the Church Peace Union, will talk on "Through Europe on the Eve of War," and Henry L. DeForest will tell of some of his personal experiences while abroad last summer, at the get-together dinner of the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, which will be held on Tuesday, October 27. The dinner will be held in the church parlors. Dr. Lynch was in Europe just before the present war broke out, and Mr. DeForest was one of the active members of the American Citizens Committee at Munich.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The following editorial comment from the Perth Amboy News on the subject of "Patronizing the Theatre," may be applied to conditions in Plainfield at the present time:

PATRONIZING THE THEATRE.

"Perth Amboy has been enjoying a feast of good plays of late, due to the enterprise, of Counihan & Shannon, proprietors of the Majestic Theatre. For a time after the Majestic was built the best attractions of Broadway were shown here, but when the management of the theatre changed hands these plays ceased and much regret was expressed. The convenience of going to the theatre to see a real play by a Broadway company and being within walking distance of home when the theatre was out was greatly missed.

"Now the original management has returned and Broadway shows are to be seen once more. If the people of this vicinity want these plays to continue they must encourage them by their patronage. Some of the best productions of the stage are being booked for Perth Amboy. We have just had a run of them during the past week and there are more to follow. It depends upon the kind of support the management gets whether these plays will continue or not.

"It is to be regretted that the present business depression makes money scarce and naturally this has its effect on places of amusement, but as long as there are those who will pay carfare to go to New York to see a show there certainly ought to be sufficient local trade to patronize the home theatre and at the same time save the price of a dinner in New York as well as the carfare, and also be rid of the inconvenience of the midnight ride home on the train.

"Counihan & Shannon are giving the people of this vicinity first class plays. It is up to Perth Amboy to show that we are able to support such productions."

TRY ARCHDUKE'S MURDERERS.

Vienna, Oct. 16.—At the trial of the assassins of the Archduke of Austria at Sarajevo, yesterday, Cobrindvic admitted that the plot was hatched in Belgrade. Maj. Tankosic supplied the pistols, he said. Prinzip, who did the shooting, said that the hitting of the Duchess was unintentional. They were unrepentant.

NEW JERSEY BRANCH TO MEET IN THIS CITY

The New Jersey Branch of the Prince of Wales Fund, which was organized last week at the home of Mrs. C. D. Freeman at Colonia, will meet Friday afternoon, October 23, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., on Belvidere avenue, to further perfect plans of work. This society does not intend to interfere in any way with the efforts of the Red Cross or local charity. All Plainfield women interested in the movement are cordially invited to join.

The members plan to knit and crochet socks and mufflers, and make bandages and other useful articles for the British soldiers to be used during the winter months while they are engaged in war. Already 200 mufflers knit by Plainfielders have been forwarded to England. At the meeting next Friday definite plans of work will be decided upon by the branch.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

MAC SAYS

WELCOME TO OUR CITY, EDDIE.

Ralph Smalley, captain of the 1915 North Plainfield High School baseball team, has corralled one Eddie Stallings to aid Tommy Mullin in whipping the Canadians into playing condition next spring. Eddie knows a thing or two about the big pastime and will undoubtedly prove of considerable value to the boroughites as an advisory master. Tommy did nobly with the material allotted him last year and it would be far from fair to yank him from his present position at the helm of baseball in the North Plainfield institution. Eddie will be sort of an assistant and will double the coaching staff now at hand. He is planning to move his worldly belongings to the Queen City during the next couple of days and will lead a daily existence here in the future. The Great White Way has no charms for Stallings and he has long been partial to the advantages offered in Plainfield for sports and living.

Wonder how Tommy Mullin and Eddie Stallings will pull when training in the same camp? Tommy and Eddie have never been the best of friends, but that old North Plainfield spirit may seek to bind broken ties and harmony will undoubtedly reign in the borough baseball circles in the future as it has in the past.

Christy Mathewson has announced his intention of entering the political game, thereby demonstrating that he is among the few baseball players who lead a human existence. Christy will take the stump for Frank Smith and William N. Runyon, two Plainfield candidates for office at the November election, and with the aid of "Big Six" they should be pushed into office with colors flying. Matty has demonstrated his oratorical ability on previous occasions and when he mounts the Union county rostrums in the near future to make speeches concerning the great work of his friends in the past and to vouch for their future promises he will be minus that knee quaking that so many stars undergo when they face the poloitical fans point blank.

Those Yale and Princeton supporters in Plainfield have had their little meetings on the baseball diamonds in this city and they now propose to relegate their activity to the golfing green. Saturday has been set as the date for the meeting of the Eli and Bulldog old guard on the Plainfield Country Club's links and the matches will undoubtedly excite more than a passing interest from sportsmen locally.

When the Michelin eleven appears on Cricket Field Saturday afternoon the Holy Cross footballists will be given an opportunity to try out some of the plays they have been holding under cover to date. Information in advance of the appearance of the team indicates that the New Brunswick warriors have not as strong an aggregation as the other teams that have played here this year and the contest will probably be one in which the red and blue can afford to take some chances.

EAGLES WILL CONVENE TO COMPLETE THEIR PLANS

Final plans for the Fraternal Order of Eagles' Bowling League are to be made at a meeting in the Newark Aerie of Eagles rooms next Sunday afternoon. The schedule will be adopted and the opening games will be rolled during the week of November 12. New Brunswick has dropped out of the league and its place will be taken by a Newark lodge. The circuit will include two teams from Newark and one from Elizabeth, Rahway, Somerville and Plainfield.

The schedule committee, composed of William Neafsey, of Elizabeth, Claude Reed, of Rahway; Frank Wittenbert, of Somerville, and James Mahoney, of this city, will meet in Rahway tomorrow night and complete work on the schedule. Each team will play forty-five games, meeting each opponent nine times.

FIRST FOR NEWARK ELKS.

The Newark Elks, champions of the Elks' Bowling League, will open the season tonight at home, rolling against the team representing the Hoboken lodge of Elks. The Newark team will be made up of the same bowlers that won the championship last season. Williams will roll first, followed by Hinton, Clark, Erler and Billy Weingarth, who will roll as anchor.

RAHWAY ELKS TOOK TWO GAMES ON HOME ALLEYS

In the match on the Rahway Elks' alleys, last night, the home team succeeded in capturing two games out of three from their Elizabeth rivals. In the opening contest Rahway was there for the moderate total of 763, but this was sufficient, for Elizabeth only accounted for 733.

The next game saw the visitors account for 885, while Rahway fell a shade below their work in the initial contest with 760. The final game saw the Rahway five jump to 902, McCartney leading with 226, while Albright turned in 203; Elizabeth went all the way back to 806.

LOCAL GOLFER AGAIN WINS "MET" TOURNEY

Mrs. H. R. Stockton Took Prize for Low Gross Score at Arcola.

A field of over seventy played in the one day tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, at the Arcola Country Club, yesterday. The prize for the lowest gross score was won by Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of the Plainfield Country Club, who made the round in 92.

There was a tie for the net prize between Mrs. W. J. Faith, Wykagyl, with 95, 3-92, and Mrs. C. J. Fraser, Baltusrol, with 99, 7-92. A handicap of three gave Mrs. Stockton a net score of 89, but the association rule does not permit one player to win more than one prize.

The scores that local golfers turned in follow: Mrs. H. R. Stockton, 92, 3-89; Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, 122, 23-96; Miss Beatrice Hedges, 116, 10-106.

HOLY CROSS OUT FOR THIS VERDICT

Have Not Scored Yet But Claim They Will in Tomorrow's Game.

Acording to reports the Holy Cross football team is going to shake off the losing jinx tomorrow afternoon, on the Cricket Field, and score for the first time this season against the Michelin Tire Company team, of Milltown. The borough boys have lost two games and tied one this season, but not yet have they really annexed a battle. The team that is to appear here tomorrow was licked by the Franklins by a score of 40 to 0. The visitors are coming here with a different set of men than were used against the Newark bunch.

The local team has been playing listless football so far this season and an injection of spirit would go a long way toward getting them back into last year's form. The Milltown aggregation will be no cinch and will push the local team to the limit for the victory. They have practiced hard all week and are confident of taking home the larger end of the score and to aid them in this work they will bring about two hundred rooters in a special car.

Holy Cross practice was postponed last night because of weather conditions and will be held tonight instead if the weather permits. Coach Martin will be present and there will be a number of important changes in the lineup when the team takes the field tomorrow. The field has been roped off which will enable the assistants and policemen to handle the crowds better than heretofore. The two teams will lineup as follows.

HOLY CROSS		MICHELIN
Howarth, Glover	left guard	Meyers, Feaster
Carty	center	Snedeker, Smith
Smith	right guard	Heitzenroeder
Mair, Rutledge	right tackle	VanNuis, Kuhlthau
Webster	right end	Rodgers
Manning	quarterback	Disbrow
Coyle	left halfback	Hayes
Ricketts, Stiglitz	right halfbock	Hudson
J. Manning	fullback	Grabiel

BORO GIRLS PREPARE FOR BASKETBALL TRIALS

The girls' basketball team of the North Plainfield High School will start practice next week and Captain Marjorie Burtis expects a large number to respond to the first call. All of last year's players are back in school and there are bright prospects for a record season.

Manager Lillian Spencer is busy arranging a schedule and already has several games booked with Plainfield, Westfield and some new teams. Flemington will be dropped from the schedule this season because of the poor facilities for traveling.

WILL TAKE ROOTERS.

Manager Updike, of the Plainfield High School football team, is making arrangements to secure an autobus to carry a number of rooters from the High School to Morristown, when the local eleven lines up against Randolph Military Academy team next Saturday afternoon.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON TO CAMPAIGN FOR LOCAL CANDIDATES.

Now that the baseball season is over and he has been relieved of his duties as correspondent for the New York Journal in covering the world series, Christy Mathewson, the premier Giant twirler, has turned his attention to politics. He is a close personal friend of Frank H. Smith, of Madison avenue, the Republican candidate for re-election as county registrar, and, in addition, is acquainted with State Senator Carlton B. Pierce, who is also a candidate for re-election, and former Judge William N. Runyon, also of this city, one of the Assembly candidates.

Owing to the interest in these men and the fact that he has a lot of friends in the county, the Mighty Christy is going to spend some time campaigning in the county with and for these men. He will spend Saturday with Mr. Smith as guest of Mr. Pierce at Cranford. While off the diamond, Christy spends his time on the golf links whenever possible, and now that he has taken up politics as a diversion, it is hoped he will be as successful as he has been as a diamond star.

EDDIE STALLINGS TO MOVE TO PLAINFIELD

Well Known Ball Player Will Coach N. P. H. S. Squad Next Spring.

Captain Ralph Smalley, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, is already working in the interests of the team for next season and has secured the services of one of the best semi-professional baseball players in this section of the country to assist in the coaching of the squad next spring. This person is Eddie Stallings, formerly a member of the Plainfield Pets and one of the best outfielders that has ever played ball here.

Stallings, who was also one of the most popular players in this city while he was playing, will move to Plainfield some time this week and stated to the borough captain, who is a good friend of his, that he would have at least four afternoons every week off next spring and the borough leader immediately took advantage of a good thing and asked him if he would help in the coaching of the team. He agreed and together with Tommy Mullin, the North Plainfield team will have two of the best coaches available and should put out another good team.

Stallings, who has always had an interest in Plainfield, followed the city scholastic series last summer and liked the playing of the borough boys after they had lost the first game of the series to the city team. He expressed a willingness to help them to turn the trick again in 1915 and can undoubtedly show the borough players some good things to help them.

Tommy Mullin will also be on the job again next year at the first call and he will be the chief coach. Stallings played in the field for the local team for a number of seasons and is now out of the game because of an injured leg.

GOOD ATTRACTIONS BOOKED ON Y. M. C. A. SCHEDULE

The management of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team has arranged to have the first home game played on Saturday, November 7, when the strong Summit Chapel Club five will appear here. The first game of the season will be the Wednesday before that date, when the team will go to New Brunswick and play the Knights of St. Peter.

The Newark Public Service A. C. will send their strongest delegation out here on November 14. Games with Hope Chapel has been settled and the N. Y. U. Law School team, that proved such an attraction last year, will appear here on Thanksgiving and New Year's Day, the same as last year.

HOWE ONLY ONE TO BOOST HIS AVERAGE

George Took Four Out of Six Games Last Night at Expense of his Opponents.

There was some close competition in last night's play on the Knights of Columbus alleys and not one of the four players could get a clean sweep from an opponent. George Howe was the only one to increase his average, winning four out of the six while McInerney and Pasch broke even, and E. Taylor but two. Many double centuries were rolled, Pasch making three in the first match with McInerney, two of which he won. In the first game he made a 220 that stood for high score, although Howe came near this mark with a 218. In the first game McInerney made a 210 and in the second he dropped to 193, while Pasch hit for 201, giving him two games. Both went after the third game which was won by McInerney after a hard fight, the scores being 212 to 202.

Howe easily took the first two games from Taylor with scores of 213 and 218 against his opponent's 147 and 171. Howe dropped way down in his last game and lost it by a wide margin. Howe then hooked up with Pasch and took the first and third games, dropping the middle one by four points. He won the first by five but had an easy time in annexing the deciding roll. After dropping the first to Taylor, McInerney hit the wood for two double century scores and took the match. He also came near the high score mark in the second game with a 216. Taylor's best was 194, when he won the first setto.

The scores of last night's play follow:

McInerney	210	193	212
Pasch	220	201	202
E. Taylor	147	171	192
Howe	213	218	168
Pasch	167	172	156
Howe	172	168	182

BARACAS TAKE TRIO FROM WOODBRIDGE

They Outclassed Their Opponents on Dunellen Alleys Last Night.

The Baraca bowling team, of Dunellen, outclassed the Woodbridge five on the Dunellen alleys, last night, and took all three games with ease. All of the home team were in fine condition and hit the pins with accuracy, while the visitors kept most of their marks below the 159 mark.

Voorhees and Braun were the mainstays for the home team and each chalked up a 200 score, the latter getting high score mark for the match when he pinned for a 223 in the last game of the series. The first contest was the hardest of the three, although the scores were not very close at the end. The final counts for the first encounter were 834 to 749. The visitors slid away down in the second game and counted a total of 65 while the Baracas went 809. In this game Voorhees scored a 208. The last game was a complete walkaway, the finals being 845 to 738.

After the match the Woodbridge players were the guests of their opponents and a general social hour was enjoyed at which light refreshments were served. The scores of the games follow:

CUBS GET BRESNAHAN.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Roger Bresnahan will manage the Chicago Cubs next season. The scheme of supplanting Hank O'Day, often spoken of during the season, is going through, and the former New York Giant and ex-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals has been selected definitely for the place. This news comes from an agent of Charles P. Taft, who has the absolute confidence of the Cincinnati owner of the West Side team.

MUCH LEFT TO BE DESIRED AFTER ELKS DROP TWO IN FIRST SERIES

Plainfield Pinners Outclassed by Jersey City Antlered Wood Splitters in Opening Trio of Contests in League Schedule—New Players Fail to Exhibit Any Remarkable Talent—Stout Sadly Missed—Captain Nash Does Some Phenomenal Bowling in First Appearance, Setting up an Individual Record of 247.

Rolling in their first series of the State Bowling League, the Plainfield Elks dropped two of the trio of contests pinned against the Jersey City "Bills" on the Watchung avenue chutes last night. High scores on the part of the visitors, who accounted for a pair of exceptional tallies during the evening, and a 247 credited to Captain Nash, of the locals, featured the evening's play. Nash was leading the antlered tribe for the first time and gave evidence of being a capable general of the men as well as a top-notcher in the actual pinning.

The first game of the evening went to Jersey City by a count of 977 to 828, the wide divergence in the two tallies being due to consistent bowling of the invaders and the numerous missed spares in the Plainfielders' side of the tally sheet. The Jersey City bowlers missed but two spares while the locals missed a total of nine. Bunching strikes appeared to be a specialty with the winners and they gave a rare exhibition of this art in the send-off setto. The ability to get strikes when they were needed was a conspicuous feature of the visitors' work and the punch appeared to be always forthcoming. In the Plainfield lineup Blatz, Campbell and Waldorf got poor starts and not one of this trio could gain his stride, although pinning on chutes that should be familiar to them.

The mid-contest was much closer than the first, the Skeetertown woodsplitters forging to the lead at the finish by an even dozen pins. Not as an excuse for the defeat but in justice to the pinners who took part under the "885" colors it must be said at this juncture that some unsportsmanlike and personal remarks from the side lines were directly responsible for the second reverse. This regrettable performance was charged up against the Plainfield brothers and were in no way instigated by the visiting delegation. In this encounter Captain Nash sprang into the limelight with the high score mark of the evening, a 247. Incidently this is the highest tally rolled in the three league series played to date and gives promise of standing a while. Corydon and Mahlenbrock, of Jersey City, rolled high in this session, getting scores of 226 and 204 respectively.

Plainfield wound up the evening with a victory when Chief Kiely came back with a 213 after some of the annoyers of the chief had made themselves scarce. Blatz dropped out in the final contest in order to give Walter Vail, a new aspirant to team honors, a chance to display his ability on the drives. Jersey City dropped out considerably in its work in the last match while the Plainfielders appeared to be gaining strength as they went along.

Chauncey Stout's bowling was missed by the team last night, he having been one of the consistent pinners in past years. He resigned at the beginning of the season to take up the captaincy of the juniors. Two men are trying for the vacancy, Vail and Waldorf, but neither exhibited the calibre of pinning that sets the world on fire. What they will do with more practise and continued experience in the league remains to be seen, but indications are that strange alleys will cause even a bigger decrease in these two aspirants' records. The opening tilt on the home drives gave Captain Nash a good chance to see just what the new men could turn out, but when seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning, he did not appear to be over optimistic concerning the strength of the aggregation as a whole.

"POP" MARTIN LEADS THE SAURER BALLISTS IN SEASON'S RECORDS

Bris Martin, manager and oldest player on the Saurer baseball team, that made such a fine record this season and also copped the city title, leads the Saurer boys in most all respects and has made an enviable record. Martin has played in 24 of the 28 games and accepted 93 chances at second base without a single slip. One other regular man on the team had a perfect fielding average, but he was an outfielder and in almost every case had fly balls to deal with instead of hot grounders that travel through second base. Martin also led the team in the batting department with an average of .330, Garretson being the nearest to this mark with .227.

The complete averages of the entire team are good and prove that the team was composed of the best ball players in this city and vicinity. In all there were fourteen players who took part in Saurer games and Mullin took part in the last nine. Garretson has a great fielding record, although he made eight errors during the season that pulled his average down to .969. He took part in 25 games and had a total of 241 putouts and eight assists beside his misplays. Harriman and Jaeger at third and short respectively made a total of 138 assists and 24 errors, Harriman getting credit for 10 of these. Jaeger was the only player who took part in every game and batted .229. Warry MacLaughlin pitched nine games and the rest of the work fell on Conshay, Miller and J. Dixon.

Martin again came to the front in the base stealing department and proved to be the fleetest man on the team, taking 114 bases. Harriman was second with 11. Only two members of the team made home runs, Martin and Alberts being credited with circuit clouts. MacLaughlin and Harriman each hit two or three sacks, while Garretson had nine doubles.

The team scored 176 runs against their opponents' 95 and had a batting average of .287. Twenty-three games were victories and five defeats.

MANY REPORT FOR INITIAL PRACTICE

Largest Squad That Ever Turned Out Was at Saengerbund Hall Yesterday.

Twenty-three candidates reported for the first basketball practice of the North Plainfield High School team yesterday, in Saengerbund Hall. Cajtain Hyman Abrams had charge of the squad and shooting practice took up the majority of the time. There were many good players present. One of the most promising candidates for a substitute position on the first team is Appleton VanMater, who was given a chance yesterday. Although only in the eighth grade, VanMater is a fine player and a good guard.

Abrams has changed his players around, putting Duke VanMater in the guard position left vacant by Burner and Warren Townley was put in his place at forward. Conroy played the other forward and Love was stationed in the pivot position. The plan worked very well. This will put two new men in the shooting positions and the centre and guard places will be filled by last year's men. Several new plays are under consideration. Claude Jeffries, the new coach, witnessed the practice for a short time. He will take full charge of the squad in a few days.

Practice will be held regularly from now on and the team should be in fine shape for the first game next month. Those who reported for the initial practice are Thomas Ball, Vincent LaPorte, LeRoy Adams, Oscar Dilts, Roy Force, Edson Day, Harry Kirch, William Seidel, Martin McDonough, Roscoe VanCamp, John Dawe, Alfred Willett, Daniel Denny, Pete VanMater, Roy Love, Warren Townley, Augustus Vandeventer, Linwood Marsh, Jack Cannon and Hyman Abrams.

CITY LEAGUE MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the City Bowling League tomorrow night, in the offices of V. W. Nash, Jr., on Park avenue, for the purpose of completing arrangements for the league and to get it started as soon as possible. All of the representatives are requested to be present as this is an important meeting. There are six teams in the league.

STALLINGS WON'T GO ON STAGE.

Boston, Oct. 16—George Stallings, manager of the Braves, refused yesterday an offer from a theatrical syndicate of $15,000 for a brief stage engagement.

DEXTERS CLAIM HOLY CROSS HAS A "YELLOW STREAK"

The Dexter football team will open its season Sunday afternoon against the Sons of Rest of New Brunswick, and the team has five hard games on the following Sundays. The manager of the team is forming one of the hardest schedules that it has ever faced and games will be played on Saturdays and Sundays.

The manager has offered November 22 to Manager Doyle, of the Holy Cross team, but nothing has been settled. The game is to be played at Perth Amboy and the borough team never goes out of town. The Dexters claim the State title and will not come to this city unless their terms in regards to a guarantee are fully accepted. The Perth Amboy team is spreading the report that the local team is afraid of them and will not play.

OUIMET'S NEW MARK.

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 16—Of the 136 golfers who played in the qualifying round of the open tournament at the Country Club, yesterday, only two did better than 80. One was Francis Ouimet, the national amateur champion, who had a 71, establishing a new amateur record for the course.

SOMERVILLE EAGLES HERE.

The second game of the triple match between the Plainfield and Somerville Eagles will be rolled on the Olympia alleys tonight, and the locals need to win this match in order to have a chance for the series as their opponents already have one to their credit. This will probably be the last game between these two teams before the State League starts and then they will meet again as both will compete in that organization.

MARATHON MEETING.

At a meeting of the Marathon Club, of the borough, held at the home of Harold Bach, of Somerset street, the resignation of George Hummel was read and accepted. It was decided to send a member of the club to New York to purchase jerseys, balls, monograms and other necessities for the starting of the basketball year. The manager already has a fine list of games arranged and the team will open about the first week of next month.

GOOD TO PLAY AGAINST ARMY.

Monroe Good, of this city, will play on the line of the Colgate football team against the Army at West Point, tomorrow. Colgate counts on winning this game as it had the Army beaten until the last few minutes of play last year. Good will be placed at guard.

POLO GROUNDS CHANGES.

A new entrance and exit will be part of a two-story office building for the New York National League Club to be erected at the Polo Grounds in New York. The building, which will be of concrete, will be located at the northwest corner of Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street. It will have a frontage of 82 feet and a depth of 253 feet and will be fireproof. The cost of the building will be about $20,000.

LOCAL Y. M. H. A. WANTED.

The New Brunswick Y. M. H. A. basketball team will play its first game of the season tonight, with the St. John's of that place. The former team is looking for games with outside teams and would like to hear from the local Y. M. H. A.

WALTER CAMP RESIGNS.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16—After holding the position for twenty-one years, Walter Camp has resigned as treasurer of the Yale athletic department. Henry Hodson has been elected to fill the position temporarily.

GAVE A HOME-COMING AND BIRTHDAY PARTY

A home-coming and birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, of East Ninth street, Wednesday evening, at which there were about forty guests. The affair was arranged as a welcome for Mrs. Manley, who recently arrived home from Albany, and also as a birthday surprise to Dr. Frank Miller, of this city. Dr. Miller was presented with a large birthday cake and a bouquet of flowers.

Good music and games were enjoyed until a late hour, when a collation was served. Those present were Samuel Koch, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, Dr. Frank Miller, Mrs. E. J. Henry, Mrs. Wood and daughter, Iona; Mrs. W. Lowry, Miss Florence Hawkins, the Misses Edna Graff, Marjorie Robinson, Betty Mills, Cora and Edith Bush, Martha Casner, and Evelyn Manley, the Messrs. Karl Wilson, Howard Mellick, Elwood Waller, Fred Mills, Walter Weber, Raymond Manley and Mr. and Mrs. John Manley.

LYDIA CHAPTER O. E. S., TO GIVE CARD PARTY

Lydia Chapter, No. 41, O. E. S., will hold another social event tonight to be given in the form of a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S.B. Joseph, 29 Willow avenue. Members and friends are invited to attend. For the benefit of the chapter an admission of thirty-five cents will be charged. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

The chapter is also planning for a dance to be held early next month. It will be an elaborate event, and the date and place will be announced within a few days.

TELEPHONING PRESCRIPTIONS.

When the dispatching of trains by telephone was first introduced it met with great opposition on the grounds that there was no written record between the dispatcher who gave the orders and the agents or trainmen who received them, and that it would be dangerous. In practice, however, it was soon discovered that the dispatching of trains by telephone was more expeditious and safe than the old way, because the dispatcher was able to talk personally with the one who received his orders, an original record was made at both ends of the line, and all misunderstandings of orders were avoided by the recipient being able to ask any questions that were necessary.

This same opposition was met with when the telephone began to be used by physicians in ordering prescriptions from druggists, but the practice has grown just as the dispatching of trains by telephone has grown, and for the same reasons—namely, that it is both more expeditious and safe. An article in The New York Telephone Review gives the opinions of a number of druggists on this subject. Only one druggist disapproved of the practice, and his reason was that he "had got along for thirty years or more in the old way and so would stick to it."

Several other druggists, both wholesale and retail, however, are quoted as being strongly in favor of the practice of physicians telephoning their prescriptions. The point was made that frequently written prescriptions are illegible, and it is not at all uncommon for them to contain mistakes in dosage. Even the druggist who objected to prescriptions being telephoned admitted that he occasionally gets one that he cannot read, or in which the amounts of the ingredients appear to be wrong, and then he holds up the prescription until he can communicate with the doctor by telephone. No such trouble is experienced, however, when the physician telephones his prescription. Both he and the druggist are experts, and the druggist is more apt to detect a mistake, if one should be made, than a trainman is if a train dispatcher makes a mistake. Neither physicians nor train dispatchers are accustomed to make mistakes, but to err is human, and it is better to have one caught immediately if it is made, and this can best be done by telephone.

Another advantage the druggists claim for telephoning prescriptions is that it frequently saves a patient having to come to the drug store at all, or if he wishes to come he can find his prescription waiting for him when he arrives instead of having to make a return visit. This is especially convenient for patients who have trains to catch, engagements to meet, or who are in a hurry on account of the administration of the medicine and time is an element of importance. One druggist says: "My prescription desk would be a pretty quiet spot in my store were it not for the telephone on it". Another druggist says: "The telephone has indeed demonstrated itself to be without any doubt the best way for the physician to give us his prescriptions. The reasons are numerous. It saves time. It is more accurate than writing them. The written prescription is very often illegible and contains mistakes in dosage. Both of these difficulties are obviated when telephoned, for we always repeat the prescription back to the sender, then mark the date, the physician's name, and directions on it, and file it in numerical order in our prescription books".

An illustration of the benefit of the long distance telephone is embodied in the following statement by a druggist. He says that when a patient in one city is taking a course of treatment from a physician in another city a trip is avoided by the physician simply calling up the druggist and saying, "You are treating Mr. —— with such and such a course of treatment. I want you to change it as follows." He then dictates the new prescription This druggist says, "I have had ten years experience in taking prescriptions over the telephone and I cannot recall a single mistake resulting therefrom."

TELEPHONE RATES COMPARED UNDER PRIVATE AND GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

In an address on government ownership of the telephone before the North Board of Trade, Newark, N. J., and printed in the Telephone Review, F. H. Bethell, Vice-President of the New York Telephone Company, gives facts and figures showing that telephone rates are less in this country than abroad. He says:

"To begin with, our chartered companies not only build better than do governments, but we build much more economically. As witness the investment per telephone in the countries we have considered is:

Great Britain	$178
German empire	178
France	257
United States	125

"In Great Britain the revenue per telephone is greater than the same revenue here by $5.90 per annum. In the German Empire, it is greater by $2.80 per annum, and in France it is greater by $9.20 per annum.

"At the rates prevailing in Great Britain, the American public would have paid last year for its telephone service $54,000,000 more than was paid. At the German rates the increase would have been in excess of $25,000,000, while at the French rates it would have amounted to an increase of $83,000,000.

"These figures, astounding as they may seem, were deduced from official records. It is merely a matching of our country against those other great nations without regard to ownership."

BEGIN PROBE OF ROCK ISLAND.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—With Commissioner Clements presiding, the Interstate Commerce Commission today began an investigation of the financial operations of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad. Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk, who has been working on the preliminary inquiry, is representing the commission at the hearings.

J. A. Fass

THE PARIS STORE

Salmagundi

By George I. Sill.

It's a pretty poor specimen of humanity who can't take a good-natured "jolly."

It is estimated that the annual catch of lobsters in the world is 125,000,000, which doesn't seem enough to supply the soubrettes on Broadway. Still, there are a good many "lobsters" yet uncaught.

We told our friend Bob Cynicus, that according to estimate there is only one sudden death among women to eight among men. "Sure!" said he, "that's because women linger on so, hoping to have the last word."

One result of a little more than two months warfare in Europe, are over three million refugees without homes or money. About 1,000,000 of these are in France, at least this number in England and Holland, and perhaps as many or more from the border towns of East Prussia and Germany, besides those fleeing from the Polish territory occupied by the Germans.

The Paterson Press has a terse, sententious article of three lines, headed, "The Butter Record," which is devoted entirely to the efforts and accomplishments of the placidly ruminating cow—as if she were the only animal interested or concerned in the record aforesaid. On a careful perusal of it we looked in vain for the merest mention of another animal who in all ages has borne a most unenviable reputation as a butter. Is this omission the result of carelessness, or is it the outpouring of petty spite due to some untoward exhibition of the animal's marvellous ability directed toward the editor personally, in days gone by?

We are sorry to learn from a despatch to the War Department, that the situation at the besieged Mexican town of Naco, is unchanged. The report among other things says: "It is impossible to prevent bullets from Naco falling on the American side as long as firing is continued. "This gives us a little hope, as we have every reason to believe if the combatants can be persuaded to cease discharging their firearms, no more bullets will fall on United States territory. It now only remains for someone with the glad hand and joyous smile to go to Naco, and act as persuader.

According to a United Press despatch, Germany is preparing a surprise for the world in the siege guns now being manufactured. It is claimed these guns will have a range of twenty-five miles and do vastly more damage than those already proven so effective. She is also said to be making a monster cannon firing a projectile capable of piercing the armor of any battleship afloat. If Germany wins out in this contest she will owe a debt of gratitude to those master builders of ordnance, the Krupps. Lately we have not heard anything more concerning the bomb the French are said to have invented, the fumes of which would asphyxiate whole companies of the enemy.

Lord Curson, former Viceroy of India, in a speech concerning the war, recently, advised his audience to study and take to heart a few don'ts. We imagine some of these don'ts would be rather delusive and hard to capture. For instance, the following:

"Don't be overjoyed at victory."

"Don't be downhearted at defeat."

"Don't be unnerved by personal or family bereavement."

"Don't be frightened at the casualty list, so long and sometimes so distressing."

Among the rest, however, this "don't" seems to be a pretty good one:

"Don't begin to divide up the German Empire before you've got hold of it."

Herman Ridder's assertion that next to the throne, the army is the most popular institution in Germany, gives us pause. While the army must be particularly popular at this time, we always thought the brewery (and with good reason!) in that country stood first, second and third in public estimation. Yet, when we stop to consider the hundreds of thousands among our good German and German extraction citizens who at present are just yearning to get over on the other side to join the army and help William accomplish his ambitious purposes (and perhaps themselves incidentally, to lose an arm, a leg, a head or some such matter) we don't know but what there may be something in the Staats Zeitung editor's contention. Possibly when the Teuton in large quantities, left the Fatherland, he didn't realize the advantages he would have now enjoyed following some band tootin' The Watch on the Rhine to a sanguinary battlefield. They say a battle generally braces a man up (if not unhurt) and gives him nerve, in other words acts as a tonic—one can never tell; perhaps the poor fellow might have thought a battlefield would be Teutonic a place for him. But be that as it may.

We believe the saying, "A fool and his money is soon parted," originated with Dr. Franklin and was published in his "Poor Richard's Almanac." It has a sound of the doctor, anyway. Like the story we told the other day about Thomas Jefferson, we cannot vouch for its authenticity—it runs something as follows. Franklin, when a boy had a friend whose money was always "burning a hole in his pocket," and thinking to teach him a useful lesson of careful thrift, one day suggested that they match pennies. As his friend was entirely unacquainted with the rules of the game, the suspicion may be pardonably entertained that the young philosopher looked upon him as a Soft Snap. "Now," said Benjamin, "we'll toss up—heads I win, tails you lose." He said this pleasantly, even enthusiastically, but rapidly. After Benjamin, who was at least three generations ahead of his time, had acquired a pile of pennies the size of a haystack, his friend suddenly stopped and began peeling off his coat with great deliberation.

"What are you doing that for?" innocently inquired the future diplomat; "it isn't hot."

"No," said his adversary, "but it soon will be."

"Put it on, put it on!" said Benjaman, "as sure as William Penn ate Quaker Oats you'll catch your death of cold."

"Cut out the sympathy for me and have pity on yourself. I have just had a hunch and been put wise," returned his friend.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The wonderful sense of hearing which nature has provided for many animals of the forest, who are not of the predatory type, is shown by a remarkable illustration in the Paul Rainey African Hunt pictures, which are to appear at the Plainfield Theatre, today and tomorrow, afternoon and evening. Here two elephants are shown taking care of their young, washing them and protecting them from the other animals that crowd about the water-hole. Suddenly the ears of the female elephant flap forward. She has become conscious that something strange is near. Her male companion becomes alarmed and he too thrusts out his great ears. They have evidently heard the click of the camera in the distance, but as the camera was hidden behind a screen of underbrush, and their eyes failed to corroborate the evidence of their ears, they returned to the care of their young, much to the relief of Mr. Rainey. It is such intimate pictures of the animal life of the African jungle as these that so fascinate and instruct.

It isn't often that the editor of this department has a chance to recommend any attraction in advance from first-hand knowledge, and hence there is especial pleasure in declaring for the enjoyment of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Monday evening, October 26. This play ran all last season at the Astor and Gaiety Theatre in New York, the writer seeing it at the former playhouse, spending an evening of combined fun, thrills and absolute astonishment. It is difficult to describe "Seven Keys to Baldpate," without betraying some of the surprises which constitute its greatest enjoyment to the playgoer. The action all takes place in a summer hotel in the dead of winter, a fact which in itself is sufficiently unusual. Hither comes one Billy Magee, a novelist, who wants a place of absolute quiet in order to write a novel in record time, and who has been furnished with "the only key to Baldpate," by the owner of said inn. Of course, as the title informs you, it turns out that there are six other keys to Baldpate, and there is no quiet in that inn. You may be sure of that, for George M. Cohan wrote the piece. The first company, the one seen by the writer in New York, was not made up of famous people. Wallace Eddinger, who had the lead, was the only one of much reputation, but they were good players, and they were well rehearsed. The company we will see here contains rather more names of importance than the New York company. William Wagner, a young comedian of fine reputation, plays the author. Altogether this company promises as well as the first. And the play itself is great fun.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Combining noble sentiment and subtle humor to a greater degree than any play seen on the stage of a New York theatre in years, George M. Cohan's "The Miracle Man," at the Astor Theatre, is providing mental nourishment and moral uplift to that great army of pleasure seekers who are just matter-of-fact enough to desire that the story of a play be carried to a definite conclusion, and its benefiment not left as is too often the case—to the imagination of the audience. Mr. Cohan has often been referred to as "America's foremost playwright;" but it remained for "The Miracle Man" to furnish proof of his positive genius.

Laughter is the human expression for keen enjoyment, and thousands of the family are being provided with that healthful exercise while viewing "It Pays to Advertise," that screamingly funny play now at the George M. Cohan Theatre. The piece is called a farce, in that it furnishes an extravagant amount of fun in a clean way, the classification is correct; but the story around which Messrs. Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett have woven their plot is so natural and true to life that its playing, at the hands of the admirable company who visualize its several characters, provide a series of everyday happenings all the more enjoyable because of their genuineness.

New Providence.

Mis Blanca DeVitalis, of Madison, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Condon, of Springfield avenue, West End.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Richter, of Brooklyn, are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Shaffer, of Berkeley Heights.

Miss Helen Moore, of Brooklyn, has returned after visiting Miss Olive M. Bogart, of Gillette.

C. O. S. MEETING.

The Charity Organization Society will hold its annual meeting Monday evening, October 26, at 8 o'clock, at its rooms in the Babcock building. At that time reports will be read and officers elected.

300 Smart Suits for Young Women $16.50, $23.50 and $25.00

Brand new, fresh from the tailor's hands, each one embodying the last word in simple youthful styles for young women who wear sizes 14, 16, 18, 20.

A French suit copied at $23.50 for the girl who likes her suit just a little trimmed.

This in crepe gabardine has flat banding and military collar of black caracal cloth, pretty side panels to the coat from which hang chic silk braid balls. Navy, tete de negre, black and Russian green.

Suits at $16.50 and $25 have wide belted coats and velvet collars which may button up close to the throat, if desired.

Pleated coats aren't lacking at these prices—neither are the new yoke skirts. Crepe poplin, gabardine and cheviot.

A Regiment of Coats

Priced all the way from $6.75 to $47.50.

Overcoats of tweeds and novelty mixtures. Dressier coats of broadcloth, zibeline, fur cloths, velours, corduroy, velveteen, etc.

"You have gathered all the good-looking coats in New York here in your little coat salon," one young woman exclaimed in admiration. Hardly two alike. Sizes for juniors and young women.

Please note particularly a zibeline coat with panel back, pleated sides and velvet collar. Its excellent at $12.50. Sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years.

Second floor, Old Building.

Six-Dollar Day for BOYS

Suits at $6

Two pairs of knickers with each coat.

Choice of two models—knife-pleat or yoke Norfolk.

Pretty gray and brown effects in cheviots and cassimeres; checks, plaids, mixtures.

Extra strong waistband in knickers, which are full lined.

Sizes 7 to 18 years.

Overcoats at $6

Like dad's.

Sizes 8 to 18 years.

Cut on the Balmacaan model, with deep armholes and full skirts.

The patterns are smart mixtures in gray and brown effects; quarter-lined.

Collars are convertible.

Very exceptional coats for $6.

Boys' English overcoats, $20 and $25.

Boys' first long-trouser suits, $10.50.

Boys' flannel blouses, light and dark, 75c.

Boys' Hats of velvet or cloth, three styles, $1.50.

Second floor, Old Building.

Women's Suits Fur-Trimmed or of Fine Broadcloth, $16.75

Some people call any broadcloth "fine." But every woman who sees the fine lustre and feels the soft, silky texture of the broadcloth in these $16.75 suits will surely say herself, "wonderfully fine."

Navy, black, Russian green and seal brown. Medium length coat, yoke skirt, beautifully lined.

Every suit is so much good fortune to its purchaser.

The suits with cuffs and wide collars of skunk dyed opossum are nothing short of remarkable for the same little cost, $16.75.

Nearly 135 special suits at this one price, tomorrow, Saturday.

Second floor, Old Building.

Women's Dresses at $16.75

Satin, Serge, Silk and Drap d'Ete

More than half the women in New York are today thinking about the sort of dresses to get this Autumn.

Some Cookery Suggestions

PREPARING PICKLES.

AFTER all even the most expensive store pickles cannot compare with the carefully prepared homemade pickles. None but the best vinegar should be used in pickling. Always prepare pickles in porcelain lined or granite kettles, using wooden spoons.

For General Table Use.

Toledo Pickle.—Wipe one peck of green tomatoes and slice thinly. Peel four onions and slice thinly. Sprinkle alternate layers of tomatoes and onions with salt, using one cupful, cover and let stand overnight. In the morning drain, put in a preserving kettle. Add one-half of an ounce each of cloves, allspice berries and peppercorns, one-half cupful of brown mustard seed, one pound of brown sugar and four chopped green peppers. Cover with vinegar, heat gradually to the boiling point and let simmer one and one-half hours. Put away in a stone jar.

Mixed Mustard Pickles.—Take one head cauliflower, two dozen dill pickles, one quart small onions, one quart string beans, three large green peppers; cook separately until tender in salted water. For the dressing take three cupfuls sugar, one large tablespoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls tumeric, one-fourth teaspoonful red pepper, three tablespoonfuls flour, three tablespoonfuls mustard, two quarts vinegar. Boil together and pour over pickles.

Easily Made.

Chopped Pickle.—Take one peck of green tomatoes, one-half peck of ripe tomatoes, one dozen each of large red peppers, green peppers and cucumbers, one-half dozen onions, four heads of cabbage and chop them. Sprinkle with salt and let stand overnight. Drain as dry as possible in the morning; add spices and celery seed to taste with four pounds of sugar and one gallon of vinegar. Boil one-half hour or a little less.

Sweet Pickles.—Take two quarts of small cucumbers to one quart of vinegar, one-half cupful of brown sugar, one teaspoonful salt, a pinch of cinnamon, cloves and allspice and two bay leaves. Scald the cucumbers in the vinegar and spices and bottle hot. They will fill two quart jars.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How Our Little Foreign Sisters Play

"OF course you know, kiddies, that a lot of foreigners come to the United States every year to live," said daddy one night as the children ran to him for the evening story.

"Why, yes; immigrants, aren't they?" asked Evelyn.

"Many of them are, but one thing you will always notice that, though they come to a new country, they bring the customs of the old country with them.

"They set up their little foreign homes much the same as we would set up our own if we were suddenly transported to India or Japan or China."

"Wouldn't it be fun to go to Japan and wear the same kind of clothes the Jap children wear?" said Evelyn. "I think their kimonos are the cutest things."

"Yes, or to go to China and wear mandarin coats!" cried Jack.

"One of the greatest delights of our little Japanese sister is the growing of plants. From the time she is old enough to understand her aesthetic education begins, and all through her childhood her playmates are flowers, and she learns to arrange them very artistically.

"They also are very fond of water plants, and a little Japanese girl will exhibit her water garden with as much pride and enjoyment as a little American girl will exhibit her weird assortment of dolls and toys.

"The Assyrian girls begin very young to weave rugs, and one night soon I will tell you the story a girl wove into one of them.

"The little Chinese girl finds her greatest delight in taking care of babies. The boys of the Chinese quarter may spin tops, jingle marbles and even play baseball, but the 'little mother' of the Chinese quarter has no time for unimportant things, and the Chinese babies are so immaculately kept that one can quite see the reason why.

"Then the Italian girl has her own particular amusement. It is modeling in wax. You know the Italians are very fond and appreciative of the fine arts—painting, architecture, music and sculpture. You see, they live in that aesthetic atmosphere from the time they are born.

"So the little Italian girl learns to model in wax, and as she is just as fond of dollies as the little girl of any other nationality she naturally models, after several failures, what do you think, Evelyn?"

"Why, a dolly, of course!" said Evelyn triumphantly.

"Yes; that is just what she does."

"Daddy, I'd like to try it. Will you buy me some modeling wax?" asked Evelyn.

Hats Trimmed with Fur and Ostrich At $6.75, $8.75, $10---Think of It!

As this advertisement is being written, nearly a hundred artist Milliners are making these hats up in our workrooms on the Tenth Floor—and they are continuing this pleasant task today and will do so tomorrow, so that there will be

Several Hundred Hats from Which to Select

The $6.75 model, which is illustrated, is of black velvet, trimmed with sand-color brule ostrich plumes, intermingled with black brule feathers. Such a hat would usually be considered a good value at $15. This is just one example—and there are scores of others which are equally as beautiful.

Sale of Cawston Ostrich Feathers at 50c to $10

Not only the first sale of "Cawston" Feathers, but also the largest sale of Ostrich Feathers ever held in New York. And it is exclusive with GIMBELS. The feathers are in all the newest colors and styles—demi-plumes and bands dominating.

$2.50 to $7.50 Untrimmed Hats, at $1.45 to $5

Black velvet hats at $1.45 to $2.75—copies of imported models.
The hats at $4.65 have just arrived at Paris. They also are of black velvet.
The hats at $5 are in black silk panne velvet, which is the newest note in millinery.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish and let uric acid and poisons stay in the blood. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. Adv.

HE URGES RIGID SCHOOL ECONOMY

Mayoralty Candidate Calkins Discusses Expenditures of City Funds.

A PRACTICAL QUESTION

Does Not Criticize Board of Education but Blames the State School System—Other Candidates Appeal to Voters for Support of Ticket.

Fifty men of the Fourth ward gathered last evening at the clubrooms of the Plainfield Association Football Club and listened to addresses made by various candidates for local offices on the Republican ticket. John J. Carroll, chairman of the Republican city executive committee, presided, and opened the meeting with a short address explaining the nature of the neighborhood meetings as they were being conducted by the central party organization. Francis J. Blatz, candidate for re-election for councilman, was among the speakers, as were Councilmen Leighton Calkins and Charles Graves, the former being the party candidate for Mayor. Mr. Calkins, who made the principal address, spoke as follows:

"The city department which spends the most money is the department having the management of the schools. It is right that more money should be spent on schools than on any other department, because it is the largest and most important department. We expect to spend more money on schools than on any other department. But we are right in expecting the same rigid economy with respect to these expenditures as in the case of the departments of public health and safety or any other departments. I think there is a great deal of lack of information among our people with regard to the schools; and this results in a great deal of unjustifiable criticism of the Board of Education. On the other hand, the natural tendency under our school system is for the Board of Education, as an outside body not closely connected with the city government in its management of the other departments, to aim to make a record for itself in producting results without due regard to cost. What I mean is that if the Board of Education were also responsible for the cost of running the other city departments there would be a check on their appropriations for schools, which it is not in human nature to expect when they are responsible only for the results produced in one department.

"Approximately 40% of all moneys raised by local taxation goes to the support of our schools, the cost of which has increased in the last six or seven years 66%, as against an increase of 51% in the cost of all other city departments. Since 1906 our bonded debt has increased more than 150%, as against an increase of about 22% in population, 33% in ratables, and 39% in the tax rate. The Board of Education has stated that it estimates that a new schoolhouse will be required at least every three years; and they state that a good school cannot be built for less than $100,000. If our bonded debt goes on increasing by leaps and bounds, where are we finally to come out? It is a condition, not a theory, which confronts us, and I am somewhat in doubt as to whether the Board of Education (to the same extent as the Council in managing the other city departments) are alive to the fact that in our public affairs as much as in our private affairs it is not entirely a question of what we want, but also, in a very practical way, a question of what we really can afford.

"I say this with no wish to criticise unfairly the Board of Education. They are a hard working, able set of men, thoroughly familiar with school requirements and no doubt painstaking and entirely sincere in their desire to give Plainfield as good schools as can be found anywhere. I think the trouble, to a large extent, is not with the Board of Education but with the State system. Nobody in his private business would turn over to an outside committee of gentlemen the running of his most important department. It may be desirable to separate education from politics as much as possible, and yet it may be true that there is something very unbusiness-like in our whole system of overlapping councils, committees, boards and departments. With our schools the Council is responsible for the cost, and yet under the law has no opportunity to determine in a business-like way upon the school budget. It seems to me that there should be a far greater degree of co-operation between the Common Council and the outside departments such as the Board of Education, the Health Department, and the Library Board. Our finance committee and Common Council spent weeks last spring in trying to apportion the appropriations for the various city departments; and yet we were unable to

DECISION FAVORS PUBLIC SERVICE

State Utilities Commission Denies Petition for Trolley Extension.

DISMISSES COMPLAINT

Unable to Conclude That Extension to South Plainfield "is Reasonable and Practical" and Will Furnish Sufficient Business.

Trenton, Oct. 16.—The State Board of Public Utility Commissioners today dismissed the complaint of Mrs. William E. Smith and others against the Public Service Railway Company, in which the petitioners sought to compel the Public Service Company to extend its trolley line in Plainfield from Fourth street along Plainfield avenue to South Plainfield. The decision against the petitioners is based upon the finding of the Public Utility Commission as follows:

"Upon the most liberal assumption, both as to cost of the proposed extension and probable income, we are unable to conclude that the extension petitioned for 'is reasonable and practicable, and will furnish sufficient business to justify the construction and maintenance of the same.'

"This conclusion reached is, of course, based wholly on the conditions disclosed by the testimony adduced before the Board in this proceeding. Changes in these conditions may occur. The present disposition of this proceeding will not, in the event of such changes, preclude bringing the questions involved before the Board for a determination upon the conditions then existing."

The Public Service Company raised the legal objection that as it had no franchise for the proposed route, it could not be compelled to construct this line. The State Board finds that the petition must be dismissed upon the facts presented, this legal question is not decided.

At the hearing on the complaint there was wide divergence between the estimates of the cost of constructing the proposed line and the probable income from it. For the petitioners, Lemuel W. Serrell estimated the cost of the Fourth street route at $64,500 and the annual cost of operation at $3,500. His estimate of annual gross income was $14,400.

The company's estimate of the cost of the new line was $164,881, and the annual cost of maintenance and operation, $33,141, including interest on the investment. The company's estimate of the probable gross income was $8,800.

In reaching its decision, the Utility Board assumed a cost of construction of $100,000, and a cost of maintenance and operation of $14,400.

SECOND VIOLATION OF THE BOTTLE ACT

Defendant in City Court Told That Another Appearance Will Mean Jail Sentence.

As superintendent of the Valley Brook Farms, Charles W. Squire was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, and the farm was found guilty of a violation of the New Jersey Bottle Act, the charges being preferred by Elijah Dufford, a representative of the Welsh Farms Dairy. According to the complainant, who was represented in court by Martin Stutsman, as counsel, a driver in the employ of the Valley Brook Farms appropriated bottles belonging to the Welsh Farms and had them in his possession when the contents of a delivery wagon were examined by Dufford and Patrolman John Nevlon. The police officer corroborated this testimony.

This is the second time Squires has appeared before the city court for such a violation and at the previous hearing he entered a plea of guilty and was let go because of his good record. This time, however, the circumstances duplicated themselves and Squires was severely reprimanded by the court for allowing such action on the part of his drivers to go unnoticed. He was let go with a suspended sentence but was told that a reoccurrence of the offense would mean imprisonment in the county jail.

SUDDEN DEATH OF H. A. M'GEE

Prominent Borough Citizen Succumbs to a Cerebral Hemorrhage.

ILL BUT A FEW HOURS

Was a Director of Standard Oil Companies, a Member of the Produce and Consolidated Exchanges and Several Clubs.

Henry A. McGee, aged 64 years, one of the best known residents of North Plainfield, died at his home, "Orchard Place," early this morning, after an illness of a few hours. He retired at 10 o'clock last night, in his usual health and good spirits, but was seized with a cerebral hemorrhage a few minutes later and soon lost consciousness. He passed away about 3 o'clock this morning.

Mr. McGee was the eldest son of the late James McGee, one of the borough's most useful citizens. He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., December 27, 1850, and educated in the public schools. In early manhood he entered the petroleum business, then in its infancy. After a thorough experience as an oil broker in New York and Philadelphia he formed a connection about twenty-five years ago with the Standard Oil Company.

At the time of his death, Mr. McGee was a director of the Standard Oil Company of New York, the New York Produce Exchange Safe Deposit Company and The Plainfield Trust Company. He held membership in the New York Produce Exchange and the Consolidated Exchange and New York Chamber of Commerce. Mr. McGee was a member of the First M. E. church and of its board of trustees, for years he was its treasurer. He was a member of the Board of Governors of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital in Brooklyn and of the Muhlenberg Hospital. He became a resident of North Plainfield in 1874 and was identified with its progress, serving in its local governing bodies, and allying himself with its most public spirited citizens.

Though a member of the local clubs and of the Lotus Club and the Downtown Association in New York, Mr. McGee found his highest social joys in his home. He was married November 14, 1872, to Miss Emma Louise Whiting, who survives him with their four sons, Clifford W., Harry L. and Donald A. McGee, of Plainfield, and Raymond A. McGee, of Babylon, Long Island. Walter M. McGee is his brother, Mrs. Charles E. Horne and Mrs. James R. Joy, of Plainfield; Mrs. E. G. Ashbrook, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Herbert Welch, of Delaware, Ohio, are sisters of the deceased.

The funeral service will be held at the late home, 1 Orchard avenue, North Plainfield, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO MEET GOVERNOR WITH A PARADE

Members of the Jefferson Democratic Club are requested to meet at their headquarters on West Third street tonight at 8 o'clock when the T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps will assemble at that place to form a line of march for the Governor Fielder celebration, the State executive being slated to speak at the Columbus Club Auditorium on West Front street at 9 o'clock tonight.

The corps will head a line that will march to the Democratic headquarters at Park and North avenues and from there through the business section to the place for the mass meeting.

RULING UPHOLDS DREIER BROTHERS

Vice Chancellor Backes Renders Decision Vindicating Local Men.

ENDS LONG LITIGATION

Culmination of Family Quarrel That Was Carried to Courts Results in Wiping Out of All Charges Against Harry and Garret Dreier.

Trenton, Oct. 17.—A family quarrel of three years' standing involving the accounting of an estate of $100,000, in which Mrs. Charles Senger, of Plainfield, brought suit against her brothers, Garret and Harry Dreiers, executors under the will of their father, the late Samuel Dreier, probably has ended so far as the courts are concerned.

Vice Chancellor Backes has handed down a decision reversing the appeal taken by Mrs. Senger from the action of the Orphans' Court of Union County in dismissing the exceptions she took to the handling of the estate by her brothers. The daughter's exceptions were mainly to expenditures made by the executors for repairs to the property bequeathed by her father's will. Mrs. Senger must pay the costs.

The vice chancellor holds that if for no other reason it is fair to presume that the executors, being beneficiaries, would seek to protect their own inheritance. He finds no mismanagement as charged, except one expenditure of $75, and refers to the "litigious temperament" of the appellant.

The opinion says that the outlays for repairs "were judiciously made in the conservation of the estate, as is satisfactorily shown by the proofs, and the exceptions were properly overruled in the lower court. The trustees furnished vouchers for each item excepted to, swore that they were contracted by them, and that the expenditures were necessary in preserving the property. They also produced some of the parties with whom they contracted to do the work, who gave corroborating testimony. In the absence of fraud involving the disputed items, and upon proof that the work was done, that it was necessary, and that the price paid was according to the regular course of trade, the presumption of fairness of value arises. The fact that the trustees are two of the beneficiaries of the estate, adds to the presumption, because of the natural tendency to protect their own inheritance.

"In disposing of the exceptions which charge that the rental values of the properties decreased by reason of the trustees' mismanagement; and because of their carelessness the cost of repairs on the properties equalled fifty per cent. of the rents collected, and that these repairs were not always necessary; and that owing to the negligence of the trustees, legal expenses were contracted, which were not necessary; that the trustees failed to account for silverware, diamonds, jewelry, a certificate of stock in land company, and rent of a barn, all that need be said is that they are not supported by the proofs, except in a single instance of $75 mentioned.

"Appeal is also taken from so much of the decree as allows a counsel fee of $200 to the trustees and $50 to the exceptant. The amounts are not assailed. The allowance of counsel fee to the trustees was proper. The appeal from the allowance to the exceptant is sustained. The exceptant was defeated in her efforts in the court below, and no allowance for counsel fee should have been made to her.

"The Orphans' Court imposed the cost of the transcript of the evidence filed with the surrogate, and the witness fees of the trustees, upon the exceptant, from which an appeal is also taken. The obviously litigious temperament of the exceptant was in a large measure responsible for the voluminous record of some 400 pages, and the judgment of the lower court in imposing upon her these disbursements will not be disturbed.

"In their account the trustees charge themselves with $302.92 recovered on a judgment against the exceptant, and pray allowance for the same as against the exceptant's proportionate share of the funds in their hands. No exception to this allowance was filed in the court below, and had there been it could not have been upheld. The sum and more was awarded to the trustees by the solemn judgment of a legal tribunal, and is not open to collateral attack."

CONDITION IS FAVORABLE.

Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, of Grant avenue, who was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital, Wednesday, was reported today as being quite comfortable, everything being favorable for recovery. The trouble for which the operation was performed was found to be far more serious than anticipated.

SEEK RELIEF FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Trades Council Invites a Conference With Merchants and Officials.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Question of Finding Work for Plainfield Men During the Winter to Be Discussed in a Practical Way at An Early Date.

The question of unemployment which has become so pertinent in this city during the past month or two, was discussed at length at the session of the Building Trades Council, last evening, at which time all the trades enrolled in the body were well represented. The subject of unemployment was discussed from all angles, and the prevailing opinion appeared to be that steps for immediate relief should be taken.

The possibility of the Common Council supplying work by employing the local men who are idle, on the repairing of the streets or the extension of streets, or by building and opening up new thoroughfares, came in for a lengthy discussion, as did other ways and means of securing some line of employment in the near future. The discussion of this matter was brought about by the conditions now prevalent throughout the city, many men having been out of employment for several weeks, and some for months. The local shops, as a whole, are not employing their full force, and many of those still on the pay-rolls are working on short time. A number of the building trades craftsmen are out of work entirely, and with the building season practically over, very little work is in sight for the winter months.

That the problem might be properly solved, and the conditions somewhat eased during the coming three or four months, it was thought wise to have a committee from that body appointed to confer with similar committees from the Common Council and the merchants of the city and arrive at a conclusion as to what may be the proper steps to take in this matter.

The following committee has been appointed from the Trades Council. William H. Harding, Ernest R. Rhodes, William Lunget, H. H. Corey and L. C. Martinis. The following have agreed to act for the merchants in conjunction with the working men: A. E. Force, Morris C. VanArsdale, George Ballentine and Leslie R. Fort. The following will be approached by the labor committee to represent the government of the city in an unofficial manner: Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Councilmen John H. Cose, Theodore A. Martin and Charles C. Graves. It is expected that these committees will meet one evening next week to go over the ground, agree on what course would be the most practical to meet the local situation.

CASE AGAINST BOY AUTO DRIVER AGAIN POSTPONED

Samuel Mann, eighteen years old, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, charged with driving an automobile on South avenue at an excessive rate of speed and with knocking down a little girl walking on the thoroughfare. The case came up for hearing last week but was postponed until today at the request of Mann's counsel.

Counsel for the defense failed to appear in court this morning, and the case was once more set off for a week. Mann was released this morning in $100 bail for future appearance.

CARBONA GETS THREE MONTHS FOR STEALING WHEEL

EXPECT DISASTROUS CONFLICT AS HOSTILE LINES EXTEND; GERMANS REMAIN AT OSTEND

FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORTS COMPARATIVE QUIET ALL ALONG FRONT—GERMANS ON DEFENSIVE AT THE VISTULA.

RESIDENTS RETURN TO WARSAW, AGAIN QUIET

Sea Captain Says He Saw Fleet of Cruisers and Transports in North Sea—Germany Reported to Have Sent $5,000,000 to Turkey—British Aviator Brought Down—German Spy Caught in England in a Belgian Uniform.

London, Oct. 17.—With the wings of both Germans and Allies stretching north to the sea, the possibility of further flanking movements is past and a conflict which will result in disaster may be expected any day, if it is not raging now.

The Germans have retired from Lille after the pitched battle which raged when the two armies came in conflict there, and in the region north of that city. The Germans have occupied Ostend and the forces in Belgium have affected a union with their main army near the North Sea. It is believed the Germans will try to capture the railway from Calais to Paris, through Hazebrouck and Arras.

Reports from Amsterdam are that the Germans are now fired by the prospect of occupying the territory opposite England.

Paris, Oct. 17.—"In Belgium, the German troops occupying Western Belgium have not passed the line from Ostend, to Thourout, to Roules to Menin," says the official dispatch given out by the French war office this afternoon. "Comparative quiet exists on the greater part of the front.

"On our left wing there is no change in the situation in the region of Ypres. On the right bank of the Lys, the Allied troops have occupied Flerubaix, as well as the immediate vicinity of Armentieres. In the region of Arras and in that of St. Mihiel, we have continued to gain ground.

"In Russia no notable change has occurred in the situation on the East Prussian front. Along the course of the middle Vistula, the Austro-German armies have been forced to take the defensive along the whole front. To the south of Przemysl the conflict continues. The Russians have taken 500 prisoners.

Petrograd, Oct. 17.—People are returning to Warsaw and the banks are resuming business. The Germans attempted to take the heights seven miles from the city, but were repulsed.

Because of German submarines and mines in the Gulf of Finland the Russian government has issued an order that the Gulf of Finland and Riga, and the waters of the Littoral Archipelago be closed to navigation as dangerous.

London, Oct. 17.—A despatch from Copenhagen to the Daily Mail says that a Norwegian sea captain who has arrived there from Stavenger, Norway, declares that while he was crossing the North Sea in a trawler he observed a fleet of about 20 cruisers and some transports. Information also has been received during the past week that German cruisers and torpedo boats stationed south of Falbster, stopped eighteen Scandinavian steamers and searched them for contraband. None was found. The vessels were on their way to Russia, England and France.

A news agency despatch from Athens says that it has been learned on trustworthy authority that about $5,000,000 gold has reached Constantinople from Germany.

There has been heavy fighting from 12 to 25 miles from Warsaw. The latest reports show that Grojec, south of Warsaw, has been captured by the enemy.

The Germans brought down a British aeroplane near Peronne and captured the aviator and his passenger, says a new agency despatch from Amsterdam.

As a war contribution, the German demand on Antwerp is that Antwerp pay their officers and soldiers' pay, amounting to $10,000 daily, besides contributing 300 hundredweight of potatoes daily; 2,000 bottles of wine, bread for the whole garrison, 85,000 cigars, 3,500 kilograms of meat and numerous other minor articles.

Dover, via London, Oct. 17.—A German spy in a Belgian uniform and with a Red Cross badge in his possession, was arrested among the Belgian refugees. He was taken to Dover Castle, followed by a hostile crowd.

Berlin, Oct. 17.—An official war bulletin issued last night, says German troops occupied Bruges on October 14 and Ostend, October 15. An attempt by the Russians at Lyck, in East Prussia, failed with a loss of their artillery and 800 prisoners were taken.

Rome, Central News, Oct. 17.—The Nish correspondent of the Tribuna says that Montenegrins have annihilated a battalion of Austrians in a defile of the Romaniu Mountains, near Sarajevo, and that other Austrian troops are fleeing, having lost their artillery.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Ordnance officers of the army and navy were of the unanimous opinion today that it would be impossible to mount sixteen inch guns on battleships, or that the Germans had such guns with a range of 28 miles. Reports published today that Germany had manufactured this type of guns for use on ships were regarded as fiction. An army ordnance officer said today that such guns mounted on ships would tear them to pieces in firing. "We have two guns of this size, one at the Panama Canal and one at Montauk Point," he said. "Though they are mounted in foundations of solid concrete, they shake the entire fortifications when discharged. Germany has a limited number of these guns. We know how many, and all of them are being used in coast defense work."

"If the European war lasts a year it will cost the United States more than it would have cost to build up and subsidize the greatest merchant marine in the world," declared Representative Humphrey, of Washington, in a speech on the floor of the House.

Emphatic denial of German charges that the Cathedral at Rheims was being used as a signal station was made by Ambassador Jusserand, of France, today. An official telegram received this morning at the French Embassy states that there is no truth in the report, from German sources, that close to Rheims Cathedral two French heavy batteries have been located and light signals from one tower of the Cathedral has been observed.

A call for a quantity of warm clothing for destitute women and children in Europe was sent out from the American Red Cross headquarters today. The need for blankets will be overpowering, it is declared, and any sort of garments of wool are in great demand.

ALLEGED KNIFE WIELDER BEFORE BOROUGH JUSTICE

Charged by John Hill, proprietor of the Park Stables, Dunellen, with attempted assault, Michael Kivity, aged 28, of Neshanic, was arrested yesterday by Marshal I. V. Smalley, and when arraigned before Recorder Campbell in the borough court, last night, was given a suspended sentence. According to the accuser, Kivity hired a rig early in the afternoon which he used to drive to New Market with. When he returned the rig he is said to have paid his bill without dispute.

Hill claims that the man had imbibed too freely and was making himself obnoxious about the premises. When ordered out of the stables he ejected. After being thrown out several times he pulled a penknife and is said to have threatened Hill with bodily harm. Smalley arrived on the scene and placed the offender under arrest.

MISS KLINE ENTERTAINS.

ALLEGED "FLIM-FLAM" COP TO BE TRIED IN NEW YORK

Arested on suspicion of having "flim-flammed" local men who do business in New York, out of large sums of money, a man describing himself as James Butler, of Camden, will be arraigned in the First Precinct police station, New York, next Friday morning. The man is said to have represented himself as Patrolman Butler, of the Plainfield police force, and under this pretense is alleged to have collected subscriptions for the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

He is said to have circulated among local men who are acquainted with the Plainfield police force and in requesting donations presented a list showing the names of forty or more prominent Plainfield business men whom he claimed were subscribers. Charges will be made by several of those who were "flim-flammed" and by a representative of the P. B. A.

DESPERATE ITALIAN DREW KNIFE ON COP

Dominic Vanze Was Fined $50 in the City Court This Morning.

For carrying concealed weapons and insulting two American women on the street, yesterday afternoon, Dominic Vanze, an Italian living in the Netherwood section, was fined $50 by Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, with the option of spending ninety days in the county jail. The man resisted arrest and led Patrolman George Muir a chase that led nearly a mile. When the police officer finally got within reach of his quarry the man pulled a razor and threatened to cut up the minion of the law.

The man passed insulting remarks at the women, neither of whom had ever seen him before and when they notified the policeman the offender took to his heels. In court, this morning, the man claimed that someone had put the razor in his pocket and he was not carrying it for any definite purpose.

DEATH SUMMONS MRS. W. T. PELLETIER

Succumbs to a Three-Weeks' Illness at Her Home Today.

Mrs. Annie R. Johnston Pelletier, wife of William T. Pelletier, a well-known resident of this city for many years, died this morning at her home, 907 Hillside avenue. She had been ill three weeks with complications. Mrs. Pelletier was born at Newburg, N. Y., and came here many years ago. She was very active in the work of Grace Episcopal church, at one time being president of the Altar Guild. She was also interested in other departments of the parish, and for some time devoted much of her time to the work of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Hrs. Pelletier gave much of her time and means to local charity and there are many who will learn with deep regret of her death. She was a regular attendant at the services in Grace church until ill health prevented. She is survived by her husband, two brothers, one sister and a niece, Mrs. Darling, of Westfield, who lived with her for some time. The notice of funeral wil be announced later.

DECISION RESERVED IN DORWARD CASE

Complainant Claims Permanent Injury as Result of Accident.

Elizabeth, Oct. 17.— Edwin A. Dorward, a Plainfield carpenter, testified in Common Pleas Court yesterday afternoon, that he would be permanently injured as a result of being struck by a piece of falling timber, while he was working for Ira N. West, of Plainfield.

Dorward said he had been unable to work steady because of the nature of his injuries. The weight of the lumber had cause a strain, he said. The accident happened about a year ago. Judge Connolly reserved decision.

In his answer Mr. West denies the extent of the injury and says that instead of getting $24.75 per week, Dorward was getting $22. Dorward demands fifty per cent. of the former wages for 300 weeks.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 17, 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is A. R. Parkhurst, Jr. His topic being a political one, and the Press wishing to maintain its independent attitude, we have arranged to have the Republican viewpoint presented in this column next Saturday.

DEMOCRACY'S OPPORTUNITY.

The approaching legislative session at Trenton will be the most important and epoch making in the State's history. The eyes of the nation are focused on the upper and lower houses of our General Assembly, for New Jersey must be the national pacemaker in upholding the hands of President Woodrow Wilson in the many and far reaching reforms he inaugurated and carried through to fruition since his elevation to the Presidency.

Democracy is on its mettle this Fall. Every voter who thinks twice before casting his ballot must realize that the selection of Woodrow Wilson as President was essentially providential, inasmuch as many national and international problems have arisen that only a man of his profound knowledge, infinite tact and masterful statesmanship could have grappled and so happily solved. In order that he may continue along the lines he has laid out it is imperative for Congress to lend its support. To a large extent the official policy of our Representatives in Congress is shaped by "home sentiment." Congressmen, nowadays, do not dare to fly too fearlessly in the faces of their constituents. Therefore the approaching sessions of legislatures throughout the entire country this winter have it in their power to make or mar the closing years of President Wilson's term, and none more so than New Jersey. Unless all signs fail Democracy will continue to triumph.

Congressman William E. Tuttle comes before the voters again next month for re-election. No man in the present Congress has done more to uphold the hands of President Wilson than he. Sacrificing his personal interests for those of national import he was one of the men who constantly "stuck on the job," and made it possible for the President to put through his administrative program. Mr. Tuttle not only will poll a solid Democratic vote, but he will make heavy inroads on the Republican fold, inasmuch as many of the most influential Republicans living hereabouts have frankly admitted that they "believe in him" and intend to vote for him in November.

Union county is to be congratulated upon having among her sons one who so thoroughly typifies all that is best and highest in citizenship and statesmanship. Percy H. Stewart, now mayor of Plainfield, and candidate for the State Senate, only consented to enter the race when it was impressed upon him that only men of his calibre could bring about results at Trenton which every Democrat, with the good of the party at heart, hopes to see achieved. His earnestness of purpose, integrity and natural ability elevate him to that sphere where none dares to even insinuate that any motive other than a sincere desire to serve the best interests of his community prompted his acceptance of the honor thrust upon him.

Mr. Stewart is essentially a product of Union county. Here he was reared and educated, and here he continues to live. In tracing his ancestry one finds it intimately associated with the most illustrious traditions of the State. Two of his national ancestors, Aaron and Moses Edwards, both officers of the Continental Army, fought and fell mortally wounded at the battle of Springfield. Still another ancestor, a Mrs. Miner, history tells us, adopted and reared the child of the minister's wife who was so ruthlessly slain by Hessian soldiers as she stood at one of the windows of the rectory in Elizabeth. Mr. Stewart passed his boyhood in Plainfield, attended its public schools and entered with a zest into all of their sports. He was a baseball pitcher of renown, and played a dashing game of football. He prepared for college at Mr. Leal's school and entered Yale University, there graduating four years later. While in Yale Mr. Stewart was a member of many of its clubs and societies, among the latter "Skull and Bones." Later he entered Columbia University and there took his degree in law, establishing himself in New York City, where he built up a fine and lucrative practice.

At a personal sacrifice Mr. Stewart accepted the mayoralty nomination for Plainfield two years ago and overcoming seemingly unsurmountable barriers won by a comfortable majority. Since assuming that office, working in harmony with the City Council, he has brought about many radical and much needed reforms. Today Plainfield enjoys far better lighted streets than it ever had; its roadbeds are in much better shape and this at reduced cost to the taxpayers; its sewerage system has been overhauled, augmented and is to be so reconstructed that the city's drainage will be accomplished in a thoroughly practical and sanitary manner; the city fire apparatus is rapidly being motorized and this innovation raises this department to a standard that compares favorably to those of municipalities twice the size of Plainfield. It is the consensus of opinion that since Mr. Stewart became mayor the police department is far more efficient than it ever was, and the personnel of the department materially elevated.

Mr. Stewart was the first of Plainfield's mayors to recognize and urge the importance of opening the city's school buildings to the public during evening hours for social, civic and educational purposes. As a result of this wise innovation the schools are now the mecca for joyous throngs of young folk who there dance and arrange other entertainment of a social nature; for mothers who meet to discuss economic and domestic problems, and for more serious minded men who gather to discuss needed reforms and improvements which through their civic associations, they bring to the attention of the Mayor and Council. The opening of the school buildings has done much to calm the fears of many an anxious wife and mother, for with the men and young folk of the household at such gatherings many places where baneful influences exist have been robbed of scores of their habitues.

Mr. Stewart comes before the voters of Union county unfettered and untrammelled by pre-election pledges. "To do my duty as I see it," is his watchword. His life is an open book and he stands on his record. He has always stood for the best and loftiest ideals of statesmanship and Democracy. If chosen to go to the State Senate he will bend every effort to carry on the great work Woodrow Wilson inaugurated during his term as Governor of New Jersey. He is conducting his campaign along sane, modest and dignified lines, abhorring blatant spell binding and brass band methods. He told Plainfield voters that if they saw fit to elect him mayor he would give them the best there was in him. This he has done. His message to Union county voters is identical. And if chosen to represent this constituency in the Senate his supporters can rest assured that not only will their interests be safeguarded but, further more, the county will be represented by one who values his word, his honor and any stewardship he takes into his keeping above all else.

The candidates for the lower house of the Assembly are all worthy of the undivided support of the Democrats of Union county. Each comes before the voters with a clean bill of health, and each is honest and sincere in his desire to lend his support to those measures most vital to the residents of the State and county. Unless all signs fail Democracy is on the eve of registering one of its most sweeping victories, and Union county must be reckoned with before the vain glorious boasting of a rent and torn Republican party will be given serious heed by the man who thinks before he votes.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The tuberculosis exhibit is attracting much attention to the inroads of this disease on public health and prosperity. It is a preventable disease and curable. If so, why is it spreading and baffling all efforts to be eradicated? How many have noticed that a healthy person seems to escape sickness?

Our dyspeptics, who have an intestinal tract filled with gases from undigested food, which weakens nature's barriers against disease, are the ones readily affected by adverse conditions. Take away our food and we die. Shut out fresh air and we die. Until the American people begin a wholesided fight against these preventable diseases not much will be accomplished. Our life is in our food and one of the inconsistencies of the housekeeper is the indifference to the quality, freshness and nutritive value of foods.

The sanitariums have fed eggs and milk till inmates hate it (the diet). On the other hand chemicalized canned goods, denatured wheat flour and sugar and the awful condition of foods we are consuming is attracting no attention. Why the craving for sweets, ice cream soda, narcotics and liquor? No such craving is exhibited by those who are eating natural foods and whose bodies have been cleared of lessions which interfere with free circulation. Our people are starving on account of the minerals, which we need to make strong, firm muscles and bones, being stolen from our food and we are also being poisoned drop by drop by the bleached foods we are eating. If the men and women who have taken an interest in the tuberculosis exhibit will concentrate in going to the bottom of one very important matter and investigate the kind and quality of foods we are serving from our pantries, trace it back to the manufacturers, the source of supply if from a farm. Study to understand the brands on canned goods.

We are under a slow system of murder which is annihilating us as a race. We are watching with horror the carnage going on in Europe; the same is going on in this country in a secret manner and we do not seem to care. If I gave, in one dose, the amount of preservatives, coloring matter and bleaching chemicals, we swallow in the course of one week, my victim would die and I would be electrocuted for murder. This we call "Civilization!" Our foods are "Civilized?"

I have had an opportunity to live among people who are not living on "Civilized" food and their children are not having epidemics of tonsilitis, scarlet fever, diphtheria and numerous other diseases which we call "contagious." Housewives' Leagues should be organized and members be instructed to understand how to buy, what to feed and how to combine the foods in the proper way for a nutritious meal.

Why are we working to rush school children lunches down our children, hurry them back into a school-room and cram a brain to do proper work while blood and digestive and juices are endeavoring vainly to assimilate the hastily swallowed meal.

Child—"How my head aches!"

Mother—"I wonder what is the matter with that child?"

After a while signs of incipient tuberculosis develops. "Oh, no, the trouble was not started by a hastily eaten lunch and only half an hour's nooning!"

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The more sincerely one enjoys the thrills of genuine, "honest to God" melodramas, the more surely and keenly will one relish the frankly fearless and hilarous fun of George M. Cohan's delightful mystery farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which will be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday evening, October 26. In this, the latest output from the pen of wizard Cohan, he fools his audiences to the top of his bent. At the opening of the play the auditor learns that William Hallowell Magee, a novelist of the lurid type, has made a wager of $5,000 that he can write a ten thousand word story in twenty-four hours, the only stipulation being that the work must be done in the lonesomest spot on earth. In the prologue Magee is discovered arriving at the aforesaid spot, Baldpate Inn, a summer hotel closed to the winter, and the prologue ends to the accompanying click of a typewriter as Magee begins his task. At once he is accompanied by a cyclonic circle of sensational incidents, and for two gripping acts the audience sees Magee the centre of a gang of political plotters, ex-convicts, adventuresses, not forgetting the Hermit of Baldpate, who has become a decluse because his wife ran away with a drummer. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is a most unusual play. It will lift you right out of your seat, it is that full of thrills and surprises. In it Mr. Cohan runs the gamut of human emotion, beginning with the wierd manner of introducing his characters, who, one after another, let themselves in on the scene, each under the impression that theirs is the only key to Baldpate Inn.

The GIMBEL "Bon Marche" Sale of Gloves

Begins Monday—Exactly as Planned—Low Prices and All With 30,600 Pairs of Fashionable Gloves for Men and Women

4,500 pairs of women's fine Kid Gloves came in for this Sale on the last trip of the French liner "Chicago," two weeks ago, from Grenoble, France. We shall sell them at 95c a pair—we sell them for more than that AT WHOLESALE.

That's only one instance of the Sale's economies, in the face of upset conditions the like of which the Glove market has never seen.

It is a wonderful merchandising feat—impossible unless we had gone about it, as we did, months ago, and worked hard to carry out our plans as we made them. Excepting for two or three small lots, which failed us, all the Gloves we intended to have in the Sale are here, and priced just as though there were no war.

It's a time when men and women will buy Gloves by the dozen pairs—as far ahead of their actual needs as they can. Retailers, too—there's a good profit above our prices. Fourteen splendid lots, all new and fashionable, ready Monday.

Women's $1.25 French Kid Gloves, 95c
The last Gloves to reach us from Grenoble. White, tan, gray, black, self-embroidered; also white with black, and black with white. 2-clasp, overseam.

Men's $1.50 Washable Cape Gloves, 95c
Wash them with soap and water as though they were fabric. Three shades of tan, one-clasp. P. X. M. sewn.

Women's Glace Gloves at 85c
White, black, tan, gray; pique or overseam; heavy or single embroidered backs. Our regular $1 grade.

Women's $1.25 Mocha Gloves, 95c
One-clasp, gray, half pique sewn.

Women's 75c White Duplex Fabric Gloves, 55c
From the world's best known maker of fabric gloves, whose name is on the clasps. 2-clasp, Fall and Winter weight.

Women's 16-Button French Kid Gloves, $2.15
$3 quality, made in Grenoble. White or black, overseam sewn, regular or wide arms. 3 Cleopatra buttons.

Women's Tan Cape Gloves, 85c
Also $1 quality. Selected skin, one-clasp. P. X. M. sewn.

Women's Washable Cape Gloves, 95c
Tan or white, one-clasp, P. X. M. sewn. Guaranteed to wash perfectly. Gloves of this leather usually sell for $1.50.

Women's 16-Button Glace Gloves, $1.85
$2.50 is our regular price. White, overseam sewn. 3 clasps or Cleopatra buttons. Soft, firm skins.

Women's Kayser Chamoisette Gloves, 38c
Two-clasp, in white, black, tan, gray and yellow.

Women's $1.25 Washable White Doeskin Gloves, 85c
One-clasp, full pique sewn, English thumbs, soft, firm skin.

Women's 20-Button White Glace Gloves, $2.25
Splendid party Gloves, overseam sewn, 3 clasps at wrist, $3.25 quality.

Women's 12-Button French Kid Gloves, $1.75
$2.75 quality, white or black, overseam sewn. Made for GIMBELS in Grenoble.

Men's $1.50 Yellow Chamois Gloves, 95c
For Autumn wear, with heavy black stitching on backs.

Another International Sale of Silks

At Prices That Average 1/3 to 1/2 Less Than Those That Prevailed Regularly Before the War Began

The Sale is an EVENT and one that distinctly emphasizes anew the absolute supremacy of the GIMBEL Silk Salon.

Its interest is increased by the arrival of belated shipments from France, Germany and England. These shipments, devious enough in their wanderings, and so long delayed as to have been regarded as hopelessly lost, are here in all their original freshness and magnificent beauty.

A tardy shipment from the Bon Marche, Paris, will be one of the features of the Sale Monday.

Because of the growing scarcity of the supply of desirable imported silks, satins and velvets, and because the American silk production is still within certain limitations due to restricted factory facilities, GIMBEL customers are urged to take fullest advantage of this fine opportunity.

$10 to $30 Rich Brocades, $6 Yard.
Part of the original purchase from the Bon Marche, Paris, that was delayed in shipment because of war conditions. Handsome gold and silver effects on grounds of satin, voile and chiffon. Rich Velvet Brocades on taffeta grounds, as well as on chiffon, failles and satins. Materials that were made expressly for the great dressmakers of Paris. Exquisite colors and designs.

$6 to $8 Imported Velvets, $3.75 Yard.
Finest quality chiffon velvets in exquisite plain two-tone and chameleon effects. Most desirable colors.

$3.50 Double Width Crepe Meteor, $1.85 Yard
Forty of the choicest Autumn colorings. Plenty of white and black. A superb satin-faced fabric not to be confounded with the cheap offerings now so aburdant.

$1.75 Dress Satin, $1.25 Yard
35 inches wide; firm, full-bodied, lustrous satin. Complete color range as well as white and black.

$2 Satin Charmeuse, $1.50 Yard
In ivory, tete de negre, dark navy, pigeon, myrtle and other colors; also black. Double width.

$1.75 Imported Crepe Georgette, $1.25 Yard
Double width, in white, flesh, navy and black.

$3.75 Black Suiting Velvet, Imported, $2.25 Yard
Special shipment from Germany before the war began, and this will be good news to those who want a fine fabric at an economical price.

$1.35 Imported Velveteen, 95c Yard
All desirable shades; also black.

$1.10 Messaline Satin, 85c Yard
Street and evening shades; also black and white.

$3.50 Imported Satin Brocades, $1.85 Yard
Ideal for fur and coat lining; soft yet strong and warranted to give superior wear. Handsome designs; fine color assortment.

$4 Imported Ivory Bridal Satin, $2.95 Yard
Double width; superior quality.

$2 Double Width Crepe de Chine, $1.35 Yard
All the desirable colors; also black and white.

$3.50 to $5.50 French Novelty Silks, $2.50 Yard
Roman stripes, plaids, embroidered flowers in such color assortments as only the French dyers know how to combine. Wide widths.

$3.50 to $5 Imported Bengalines, $1.75 Yard
For coats, military jackets, trimmings, etc. In plain two-tone and double-faced color combinations.

$4.50 Imported Broche Satin, $2.50 Yard
Self-colored flowers on a rich, heavy satin. Tailors and furriers who reline garments will be specially interested.

The Subway Silk Store

$1 Black Satin Messaline, 75c Yard
35 inches wide; good, serviceable quality, with handsome finish.

$1.50 Double Width Crepe de Chine, 95c Yard
Black, white and every other desirable shade.

BUSINESS METHODS ARE ESSENTIAL

Frank Smith Said to Possess Every Qualification for Register's Office.

Through declining to again head the G. O. P. county committee, Register Frank H. Smith was relieved of numerous duties which would prevent him from spending considerable time in his campaign for re-election. By reason of this he has been making an active canvass of the county in company with other candidates and will continue to do so right up to election day, November 3. When seen the other day after a partial swing around the circle, he expressed confidence as to the result for the entire ticket.

"The ticket is one of the best that could possibly be offered," he said. "and it is in keeping with the kind the Republican party has a record for running each year. The men selected for the legislative offices are familiar with the needs of the county and have made a study of industrial conditions. They know what is required to restore business confidence." The office Mr. Smith holds is not a legislative one, however, but has executive functions. In it he enforces the laws enacted by the Legislature as they concern the handling of real estate and other property.

For this reason, the office requires a man with a thorough knowledge of practical business methods and ability to apply them. During Mr. Smith's present administration he has demonstrated that he is such a man. This is apparent in the unsolicited endorsements which have been extended by lawyers and real estate men who have daily dealings with him and his office. They are business men and therefore qualified to judge.

Their aim is for efficiency and economy in handling their private affairs and they are quick to recognize those qualities in public offices. Mr. Smith, also being a business man, recognized the desirability of these things from a public as well as a personal standpoint, and has established the register's office on sound principles and practical fundamentals.

URGES RIGID ECONOMY

determine how much we could afford to the departments of public safety and public health until we knew how much the Department of Education would require, a matter which could not be determined until about the first of June. The Board of School Estimate, which nominally gives the city the balance of power with regard to school estimates, is unable to act intelligently because the State law does not require that the estimates of expenditures by the Board of Education shall be prepared in conference with the Board of School Estimate. The law merely requires the Board of Education to submit its estimate for the approval or non-approval of the Board of Estimate.

"The solution of the difficulty is not to sit back and take it out on the Board of Education with any wholesale unfair criticism. The remedy is for the Council and the Board of Education to get together voluntarily for the purpose of working out as rigid economy in the management of the schools as is worked out in the management of the other city departments. I believe that the Board of Education, if properly approached, will be only too glad to recognize the wish of the Mayor and the Council to get at the bottom of this school question. It is easy to go off half-cocked. On the other hand, it is a mistake to hold back from public discussion a matter which is agitating the people of Plainfield to a far greater degree perhaps than some may think. Most people probably are entirely unaware that approximately 75% of the cost of the school goes to the payment of salaries and is largely beyond the control of the Board of Education, owing to the State laws with regard to pensions and increase of salaries. It is also true that the State law obliges the city to afford accommodations for all children; and the enrollment of children in the schools is increasing at the rate of nearly 200 a year. This demand is met by the Board of Education with a notice that we shall be obliged to build a new schoolhouse every three years. It is a question whether we should not try to devise some other way of meeting the demand. If a school session is four hours, we might be able to accommodate twice as many pupils by having two sessions, keeping our school plants in operation eight hours a day instead of four. I believe in more home rule in our city affairs, because I believe that the people who pay the money should have a good deal to say as to how it shall be spent—even in matters of education, although this may be contrary to ancient belief. In any event it is clear that there should be the same kind of economy as to schools that we are obliged to practise in other departments. Instead of finding fault with existing conditions, it should be the duty and the privilege of the city government and the Board of Education to get together and make an earnest effort to solve the problem."

Y. W. C. A. AT HOME.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

A committee appointed by Miss Irma Good, president of the Girls' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School, has chosen "A Case for Sherlock Holmes," by Miss Gladys Duth Brigham, as the play to be presented by that organization this year. The event will be given on December 5 in the High School Auditorium.

Daniel McNamee, president of the seinor class, has appointed the following committee to choose the play to be presented by the senior class this year: Harold Davis, chairman; Miss Dorothy Simons, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Roger Cockburn, Randolph Stelle and Miss Clair Britton. Mr. Biddle wil have charge of the play and under his instruction the committee will meet next week to choose the subject.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

MAC SAYS

1907—Exit Britt Martin, dean of baseball players, his best days on the ball diamond have come to an end. He puts aside his bat and glove this fall to devote his time in the future to pastimes better suited to a man of his age and ability. For twenty years he has graced Queen City ball lots and won an enviable place among the baseball elect. Managers are ready to let him go now and he passes out of the baseball world in a cloud of glory. Fans will remember him as "The Grand Old Man" of Plainfield baseball circles. He played, batted and led his fellow players in a manner that is fitting for any would-be star to emulate. Let him rest in peace.

1914—Britt Martin, manager of the Saurer baseball team during the past season, leads the team in hitting, base running and fielding, according to statistics just made public. He has been playing baseball in whirlwind style and has been one of the most valuable performers on the team which won the city title. Martin will be with the aggregation again next year and once more expects to hold down the keystone sack. He is still as young and frisky as he was a score of years ago and the thought of retirement from baseball finds no resting place in his cranium.

Now we wonder what the baseball scribes will have to say about "Pop" a quarter of a century from now when Plainfield holds a franchise in the National League and Parker Field has been graced by its first world's series crowd. Think of a player slated to retire because of old age seven years ago coming back and leading a team of young blood in stealing bases. Yougottabandit to him.

Captain Abrams has fired the Interscholastic Basketball League call to arms. The chubby little borough general had a team of "vets" and "rookies" working out in the German battle ground on Somerset street the other afternoon and evidently counts on getting the jump on old P. H. S. along the practise line. If coaches make basketball teams the borough institution should have a world beater this year for Collier and Jeffries are a pair of cognomens that signify basketball knowledge.

Captain Bill Nash's individaul tally of 247 in the bowling match between the local and Jersey City "Bills" Thursday night set up a league record. Leaping into the limelight at the starting pistol is a commendable feat and we look forward to seeing Bill get a slice of the individual money melon when it is cut next spring.

Disciples of the Dexter spirit in Perth Amboy claim that the Holy Cross eleven is afflicted with a yellow streak. Although we played the part of a casual observer in the two opening tilts at Cricket Field we are still of the opinion that Manager Doyle will have to provide his patrons with magnifying glasses in order to enable them to get their money's worth out of the exhibitions. If we're missing anything that resembles a yellow streak we certainly want to know about it and the Dexter constituents can jot down a vote of thanks among their liabilities on their ledger this month.

On the contrary we are forced to believe that meeting two such aggregations as the Franklins and Cupids would leave a streak of far more brilliant hue on the spinal columns of the Amboyites than it is alleged to have inflicted on the local warriors.

Manager Dunning has engaged some pretty formidable combinations to appear on the Y. M. C. A. court this season if the names of the few opponents already mentioned are to be taken as a criterion. "June" is showing up strong as a game booker and the coming season promises to eclipse those of the past by a wide margin.

Announcement has been made that the Plainfield High School court stars will not be called out until the minstrel show is disposed of. The black face show is being given rather early this year and the athletes are contemplating getting every thing off their minds before they enter into the court pastime.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pitcher Kiefer, formerly of the Southern Michigan League, made a fine showing in his trial with the Indianapolis Federal League champions.

The annual report of President Tearney, of the Three-I League, showed a deficit of $2,500, largely in money due each club for mileage equalization.

In the opening game of the Southern Michigan and Michigan State League post-season series, Robbins, the Saginaw pitcher, fanned 15 of the Muskegon batsmen.

Joseph Kilian, who has won three successive pennants as manager of the Oshkosh Wisconsin-Illinois League team, will probably pilot a team in faster company next season.

George Burns, of the Giants, is the 1914 champion run-getter and base-stealer of the National League. In the American League, Eddie Collins, of the Athletics, leads the run-getters, while Fritz Maisel, of the Yankees, tops the base-stealers.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Russell Nourse, Harvard's 1908 centre rush, is working out with the Harvard varsity squad.

Brown, one of the best tackles on the Williams College eleven, is out of the game with a side injury.

Coach "Hurry Up" Yost has started his training table at the University of Michigan with 26 men.

Pennsylvania has gone into behind-the-gate practice in anticipation of the big games to come.

Mahan, Soucy, Logan and Smith form the largest squad of first-string cripples Harvard has had in several years.

Higginbotham, the old University of Texas end, is making a good showing at left end on the Yale varsity team.

Sol Metzgar, Penn's 1903 football captain, is coaching West Virginia University and not West Virginia Wesleyan, as was reported.

Walter Elcock, who is coaching Washington and Lee University, has made a great hit with his players, who have made big scores this fall.

CHIEF KIELY AGAIN DOES THE HONORS

Repeats His Performance of Last Week and Makes High Score Mark.

Hitting the pins for three two hundred scores in the last match on the Knights of Columbus alleys, last night, Chief Kiely made a record average for three games of 210.1, which is above all other three-game averages in the tourney. The chief bowled against Moynihan and took two out of the three games played. In the first game he went up to 210 and in the second went that score ten points better, while his opponent appeared to be way off his game. The chief made 214 in the third, but his rival scored 206 and took the match. In his games with Wilson, Kiely also took two out of three and made high score of the night in the last game, when he rolled a 246.

Shannon took Moynihan into camp in two of their games, while he did the same with Wilson. Shannon's high score was 215. Those who will bowl next Monday night are Hollman vs. Cannon, Strappe vs. Wilson, Hillman vs. Strappe and Wilson vs. Cannon. The scores of last night's ply follow:

Shannon	193	174	162
Moynihan	150	165	172
Kiely	194	172	246
Wilson	155	201	196
Shannon	215	193	141
Wilson	173	118	161
Kiely	210	220	201
Moynihan	165	191	206

BOSTON STAR COACH FOR LOCAL PLAYERS

Stine, Townley, Nash and Sminck Will Come Under Mann's Supervision.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 17.—Leslie Mann, of the Boston Braves, returned to this city Thursday. Mann has forsaken baseball for the class room. Yesterday morning he got on his textbooks and wended his way with other students of Springfield Training School to the recitation room.

Mann is very popular with his fellow students, and would be even though he were not a member of the world's champions. He was honored with the football captaincy two years ago, because of his popularity, in spite of the fact that there was little chance he would play football the next season, and he did not play football that season. It is understood that the college boys are planning a formal welcome home for their hero. Next week Mann, with that other brilliant Springfield contribution to the sensational ball club, Walter J. Maranville, will be honored at a banquet by the fans of this city.

Mann is a brilliant football player, but will not go out for the varsity. Last year he wanted to play the game, but Coach Dr. J. H. McCurdy saw there was too much at stake for the athlete to risk in a football game, and discouraged him from playing. This is his third year at the college.

Mann will probably coach the baseball squad and will have charge of some of the work of the four Plainfield athletes that are now at that institution trying for places on the team. Mann is not the first big leaguer that has gone from Springfield, as Kingman, of the Yankees, is a product of that school and is at present coaching the squad in their fall workout. Donald Sminck, Herbert Stine, George Townley and James Nash, of Plainfield, are trying for the Springfield team.

OLDRING MARRIES.

Despite a suit filed against him for desertion and non-support by a woman who claims to be his wife, Rube Oldring, formerly of this city, and left fielder of the Athletics, obtained a marriage license yesterday to wed Hannah H. Thomas, of Bridgeton. He got the license shortly after leaving the domestic relations court, where he appeared to answer charges of Helen I. Girth, of Wilkesbarre, Pa. Oldring told the license clerk he never had been married. The non-support suit was continued for two weeks.

TENNIS INSTEAD OF FOOTBALL.

Annapolis, Oct. 17.—F. B. Alexander, Walter M. Hall, Dean Mathey, of Cranford, and George M. Church, Princeton champion, tennis players of national reputation, will play an exhibition match against the Midshipmen here this afternoon. The event will take the place of the usual Saturday football game, as the eleven plays the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

MANY NEW FACES ON N. P. H. S. COURT

Miss Marjorie Burtis Issues First Call for Basketball Material.

The initial practice of the girls' basketball team of North Plainfield High School was held at Saengerbund Hall, yesterday afternoon. The squad was in charge of Miss Barnard, the new coach.

Many new faces were seen on the floor, as only three of last year's team are left. Margaret Ewart showed up well in center and Adelaide Ricketts at forward.

Those who responded to the first call of Captain Miss Burtis, were the following: Margaret Ewart, Adelaide Ricketts, Rose Cooper, Lillian Spencer, Grace VanDemburgh, Elsie Debele, Lucy Douglas, Bertha Keller and Marjorie Burtis.

NEWARK CHAMPS TOOK TWO FROM HOBOKEN ELKS

Newark bowlers, present champions, opened their Elks' League season last night, on their own alleys by taking two games out of three from the representatives of the Hoboken lodge. The match was marked by much clever pinning and extremely close and interesting competition. The Newarks opened with 899 and won from the visitors by just seven pins. Billy Weingarth, reliable as usual in the pinch, finished with three strikes and made a Newark victory possible. He had five holes in this game, which served to keep his score down to 148. In the second game the Newark quintet fell off in its work and a score of 835 was inadequate, the visitors, with 874, finishing thirty-nine pins ahead. The final and deciding contest saw a hot battle, but the Green street pin knights, totaling 887, were able to finish fourteen pins ahead of their rivals. Howard Williams led the Newarkers with 201. Branda rolled 224 for Hoboken, and Earle was there for an even 200.

The scores:

FEDS MAY PLACE BALL TEAM IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The placing of a Federal League ball team in this city next year was last night announced as a certainty by Paul V. Connolly, an attorney, who has represented that league in this city since its inception.

Connolly said that he has options on two sites for a ball field, and that ample financial backing had been obtained. He also claimed to have a number of organized ball players under contract for the club.

Cincinnati is likely to take the place of St. Louis in the circuit.

WITH THE BOXERS

The Kenosha (Wis.) promoter announces that he will give no more big percentages nor will he offer guarantees.

Sam Robideau, the Philadelphia lightweight, has been making a nice showing in the six round game in the Quaker City.

If Stanley Yoakum, the Denver lightweight, carried a knockout punch he would be a world-beater. He is undoubtedly one of the toughest 133-pounders to be found anywhere in the country.

WANTS FINES REMITTED.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Heinie Zimmerman had his fighting clothes on yesterday. He was one of the Chicago Cubs who met at headquarters to obtain his share of the exhibition money and city series. While there he conferred with President Thomas and demanded that the fines which were taken away from him this summer be returned. Thomas refused to give him a definite answer and referred him to Manager Hank O'Day. If the latter recommended that the fines be returned, they will be.

HIGHLANDERS VS. ARIONS.

The Highlanders, of Netherwood, will lineup against the fast Arion F. C. tomorrow afternoon, on the Highlanders' grounds. Denny and Mullin will form the battery for the Highlanders and J. Dixon and Martz will be the points for the Arions. A close battle is expected.

NEW YORK "BILLS" TAKE THREE FROM RUTHERFORD

New York and Rutherford bowling teams met in a postponed Elks' League match last night, in New York, and the home five succeeded in making a clean sweep over the Jerseymen, thus tieing the Paterson five for first place at the end of the first round in the competition. The New York five had three totals well over the 900 mark and showed excellent form throughout. Lee Johns, formerly of Newark, was a star performer with marks of 212 and 200, while Louis Westphal came through with 235 and 214, having an average of 215. A. Westphal rolled 224. Clark led the Rutherford team with 203.

BENEFIT CONCERT GREATLY ENJOYED

Affair Given at Y. M. C. A. for the Benefit of Netherwood Reformed Church.

Members of the New York School of Music and Art gave a musical entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, last night, under the auspices of the Netherwood Reformed church. The affair was under the direction of the Phi-Chi-Rho Bible Class of the Sunday-school. The company rendered about a dozen selections, which consisted of vocal and instrumental solos and duets. It is very probable that they will appear here again. They came to this city free of charge, but on account of the bad weather conditions there was only a small audience present.

After the concert the musicians were the guests of the class in the parlors of the association building and were served with refreshments. The program is as follows: Baritone solo, La Donen E Mobile, from Rigaletto, by Rocco Parchione; duet, "Lovely Maid in the Moonlight," from La Boheme, by Ramee Ribas and Frederick Maroc; piano solo, "Caprice Espagnol," from Moszkowski, played by Miss Eleanor Lois Fields; soprano solo, "Waiting," from Millard, by Miss Blanche Mabelle Kelley; solo, "Your Tiny Hand Is Frozen," from La Boheme, by Raymond W. Walsh; soprano solo, "Romance di Santuzza," from Cavalleria Russticana, sung by Miss Marguerite Claghorn; solo, "Love In Springtime," Arditi, sung by Rampe Itivas; violin solo, Rigoletto Faulasie, by Verdi, played by Louis Ferraro; solo, Cavantina-Salut, by Gounod, by Frederick Maroc; solo, "Lorraine," Sanderson, sung by Miss Emma Mae Hamilton; solo, "I Know a Lovely Garden," by D'Harelot, by Florence Brusche; solo, "I Hear You Calling Me," Marshall, sung by Andrew Martin; solo, "Ever Since the Day," by Jenness Jones; solo, "For Love's Sweet Sake," Wood, by Marguerite Zacharias; solo, "The Mad Song," sung by Rocco Carvione; piano solo, "The Blue Danube," Strausse, played by Eleanor Lois Fields.

K. OF C. VESPER SERVICE.

Watchung Councitl, Knights of Columbus, will attend service at St. Mary's R. C. church, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, at which time special vespers will be held. Father James Chadwick, president of the Dunwoodie Seminary, New York, will deliver the address. Father Chadwick was the chaplain of the ill-fated Maine, which was blown up in the Havana harbor in 1893. He is renowned throughout Catholic circles as a forceful speaker. The fourth degree members of the fraternity will be in attendance in full regalia.

ARNOLD E. FINKLE'S FUNERAL.

A large number of relatives and friends, among whom were officers and members of the Christian Endeavor Union, of which he was president, attended the funeral services of Arnold E. Finkle, of Emerson avenue, this morning at 11 o'clock, at his late residence. Rev. Edward Ralston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, of which Mr. Finkle was a member officiated. Interment was made at Pottersville, this State.

NASH LEADS IN FIRST OFFICIAL AVERAGES OF SENIOR LEAGUERS

Plainfield Captain Occupies First Place in Individual High Score Record—Plainfield in Tie for Third Place in Team Standing—All Teams Have Played Their Initial Series of Contests—Paterson and New York Tied for First Place—Larry Westphal Jumped Into Individual Average Lead Last Night—Nash Fourth in Average Column.

Plainfield Elks' pinners, thanks to Captain Nash, occupy a conspicuous place in the initial compilation of team and individual averages in the State Elks' Senior Bowling League. The individual high score mark is credited to the local leader who piled up a 247 in the second contest against Jersey City the other night. Larry Westphal, of New York, who tops the league in the average race, is second to Nash in this department, with a mark of 235 made last night. All of the ten teams in the league have now bowled three contests and Paterson and New York are tied for the first place stand in the first official averages. Paterson, however, leads the New York team in high team score by one pin, the Silk City-ites having tallied 936 in one contest. The New Yorkers have a higher average, however, being credited with a mark of 926 against their opponents, 918.1.

Plainfield is in third place in the team standing, there being two tie for first and three for second and the same number for third. New Brunswick and Rutherford were both beaten in all of their first trio of matches. Jersey City holds the record for high team score, totaling 977, in one of its contests.

Until last night Taylor, of Paterson, topped the individual average race with a mark of 241.1, but was displaced by Westphal on that occasion. Nash stands in fourth place in the individual race with a record of 196. He is the first Plainfield man in the list. Chief Kiely is the second local in the list, his 171.2 earning him a fourth place in the ladder. Vail and Walldorf, Queen City substitutes, are third and thirty-sixth respectively. Johnny Campbell is thirty-eighth and last year's captain, is forty-first in the list.

HIGH SCHOOL BIBLE CLASS MEETS AT Y. M. C. A.

Thirty-eight members, old and new, attended the first meeting of the year of the High School Bible Class at the Y. M. C. A., last night. The study is preceded every Friday night by a supper which is prepared by the boys' work committee of the Woman's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Hugh Pierce is chairman. This class proved very successful last year and there was an enrollment of forty-five from the city and borough schools.

Last night's meeting consisted of the dinner and speeches and regular class work will begin next Friday at 6 o'clock. William Peacock, president of the class, made an address of welcome, which was followed by speeches from Charles McClymont, William D. Murray, John Leal and C. William Bingeman. The last named spoke about the extent of this work and said that such classes were organized all over this country and Canada. The world wide purpose of this organization is to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community the standard of Christian character.

Last year different teachers were present at the meetings every week and a very interesting course of study was followed.

FIRST BIBLE CLASS SUPPER.

The first Bible class supper of the Y. W. C. A., will be held next Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock which will be followed by the regular Bible study at 7:30. After an hour of class work there will be a frolic in the gymnasium for all members of the class.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Trenton, Oct. 16.—The schedule of dates for eight teachers' institute were announced today by Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, State Commissioner of Education. The schedule includes November 9 and 10, for Somerset county, at Somerville. No institute will be held in Union county this year.

TEACHERS TRAINING CLASS ORGANIZED AT Y. M. C. A.

Notwithstanding the bad weather conditions last night, thirteen men teachers attended the organization meeting of the Teachers Training Class which was formed under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at the association building. The class is for all men teachers of men's and boys' Bible classes in this city and is under the instruction of William D. Murray.

At the meeting last night, there were eight Sunday schools represented and a larger attendance is expected at the following meetings. It was decided to hold the session every Friday night from 8:00 to 8:45 o'clock. Mr. Murray led a very interesting discussion last night on the topic, "What Is Teaching?" Next week the topic will be "The Teacher's Qualifications," and all teachers are cordially invited to attend.

RECREATION NOTES

The Franklin School is to be used for municipal dances. The overcrowding of the municipal dance at the Washington School under the supervision of the Public Recreation Committee, has made it seem advisable to open another building Saturday evenings to accommodate the steadily increasing numbers. There are always plenty of chaperons present and the dance is well supervised. The Franklin School is splendidly suited for this purpose. It is centrally located. The auditorium is large and attractive and the floor is good. Excellent music will be provided and some of the new dances will be taught.

The municipal dance will be held at the Washington School tonight at 8:15.

The Italian Social Club will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School. Music and dancing will be the features of the evening.

The Municipal Orchestra will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Franklin School.

News of Interest in Building World

F. W. Yates' New Home Is One of Plainfield's Show Places

As it Looks from Cedarbrook Road.

The House From Watchung Avenue.

Among the handsome homes in Plainfield that which has recently been completed at the corner of Watchung avenue and Cedarbrook road for Frederick W. Yates must be included with the foremost. The style of architecture is distinctly different from anything that has before been erected in Plainfield, and its pleasing character makes the place one of the beauty spots of the city.

In the suburbs surrounding Philadelphia are to be found many houses of the same type. The building is constructed of sand stone, imported from Pennsylvania, cut in irregular sizes, and the cracks are pointed up with white cement, giving the place an unusually bright appearance. The roof is of slate. Set well back from the road, and surrounded by beautiful lawns, with planting which is particularly harmonious, and with an attractive sunken garden, partially concealed by a wall built of the same material as the house, there is nothing left to be desired in the surroundings. In the rear of the house is an attractive garage, large enough for three cars, and constructed of the same material as the house.

The house contains about fifteen rooms, most of which are attractively finished with white wood work. On the ground floor there is a large living room, a sun parlor, a big entrance hall with wide staircase, the dining-room, a very large butler's pantry, kitchen and maid's dining-room. The second floor has three bedrooms, a sitting room, three tiled bathrooms, in addition to a large hall. The house is particularly well supplied with closets. There is an elevator for trunks, etc.

On the third floor are an attractive studio and a large bedroom fitted up in the style of an old New England bedroom, all of the furniture being of the colonial period. There is also a large bathroom on this floor, and plenty of storage room, including a large cedar closet.

In every way the house has the finest appointments, and nothing is lacking for an ideal residence. A. L. C. Marsh was the architect. Of five residences on Cedarbrook road, aside from the old Martine homestead, Mr. Marsh has designed four, and he has the plans drawn for a fifth.

TELLS WHY HE FAVORS MERGER

William Harding Explains Why Building Trades Are for Consolidation.

WOULD HELP CRAFTS

Argues That With the Two Municipalities Joined There Would be More Work for All Trades—At Present Boro Loses Much Growth.

The following article is contributed to this page by William H. Harding, the representative of the Carpenter's Union in the local Building Trades Council, which recently endorsed consolidation. The article is in answer to several inquiries as to why that organization took that course.

"It must be evident to those interested to the question of the consolidation of the city of Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield, that this step a realized fact would afford the laboring class of both communities a large opportunity which is unavailable with two separate municipalities. From the viewpoint which I hold as a working man, I realize that consolidation would mean to the laboring class of Plainfield a great deal of work. This work would not only employ the skilled mechanic, but the un-skilled laborer as well—and the result of the employment of these two great subdivisions of the working classes of men is well-known to the average merchant of this city. The strain of un-employment is already upon us. Some people are of the opinion that consoldation is a political issue or question, but with the working people it is a question of dollars and cents.

"A large number of buildings in North Plainfield at present are not up to the standard of the sanitary code of the State Board of Health, owing to the conditions brought about by the lack of a sewerage system in that community. The installation of such system would, of itself, bring work to the plumber, carpenter, mason, painter, as well as the unskilled laborer. In my opinion, the work so created, would employ all building crafts for a period of six month or more, not to mention the improvement and the new buildings which would naturally follow because of the presence of a modern sewer system.

"Consolidation would also give to North Plainfield a strict building code which they cannot enjoy under borough government. Neither will the laws governing the borough permit them to have a building inspector. In my estimation, the vast tract of land, now unimproved, laying on the north and western ends of the borough would be developed, improved and built upon after existing conditions along these lines are changed following the consummation of the greater city, with a large number of handsome residences through those sections of the borough as one of the most direct results of favorable action by the city. This dream, however, will remain unrealized under the present trend of conditions. When a man wanting to purchase a home or home site in the tract mentioned above realized that they are in a small borough under such conditions, they prefer to look elsewhere for the site. For that reason, Plainfield and North Plainfield lose more or less of their natural growth, and people seek in other towns for their building sites. It is to the benefit of the mechanics and the merchants of our community to try to enlarge this beautiful city, and by consolidation. I believe it would be the first step toward the growth, development and greater prosperity of the Queen City of New Jersey.

"We all take pride in a city laid out like a park as is the case with Plainfield and the borough of North Plainfield. Few cities are found today where there are fences. This condition as found in both city and borough, creates a most favorable impression when they come to our place of habitation, where men are not compelled to fence their neighbors out.

"As for the laboring class of our city and borough, I maintain that we have the most upright and honorable set of men to be found in the State, mechanics and laboring men who have a certain amount of pride which is not found in any other city of similar size. I realize that the laboring men are not only working for their own interests, but for the interests of the community at large.

"When the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield becomes an accomplished fact, the people will say, 'I don't know how we ever got along without it.' Under the new system, we can have streets and avenues, not as mixed-up as we are today, with one street name on the south side of Green Brook, and another name for the same street on the north side of the stream.

"In conclusion, I will say that the men who spent their time talking and working for consolidation of city and borough deserve a great deal of credit for the time and labor invested in so worthy a cause, and I trust that they will not have been spent in vain. I hope to see the day when Plainfield and North Plainfield will be one, not only for my benefit, but for the benefit of the merchants as well as the laboring classes of both city and borough."

MONEY MARKET REFLECTED IN BUILDING CONDITIONS

The disturbance in the money market as a result of the conflict in Europe was reflected to a marked degree in the building conditions of the country at large during the month of September, according to the reports of seventy-seven leading cities compiled by Dunn's Review. The reports indicate a falling off in construction lines to the extent of 22.5 per cent. for September over the same month of last year.

New York city, which is often looked to as a criterion, makes an extremely favorable report, considering the trend of the times. Among the cities making reports to that publication, are a number of extensive projects being held up by the tightness of the money market, and with any considerable improvement in this respect, there will probably be a rapid return to normal activity. Only one New Jersey city turned in a report. Newark shows a falling off during September over the same month of a year ago to the extent of 58.8 per cent.

FANWOOD ENJOYS A REALTY BOOM

Greater Activity is Reported in One of Plainfield's Hustling Suburbs.

Fanwood, one of the residential suburbs of Plainfield, has experienced an off season in construction lines, although the approach of the end of the period ordinarily set aside for building saw more activity than all of the rest of the year. The real estate field has also experienced a greater activity during the past two or three weeks, when many building sites were disposed of by the H. C. Lockwood Realty Company, the majority of the lots going to New York and Brooklyn parties. This would indicate that Fanwood will be busy with construction work next spring.

Several buildings are in the course of construction at Fanwood at present, with a number of them being about completed. F. C. Mankin has had a two and a half story frame dwelling erected on Martine avenue at a cost of $5,000. Mr. Mankin is caring for the contract work himself.

Mary C. Maguire is having a $5,500 dwelling erected on Forest road. This structure is of frame construction. Anthony Alberts is the contractor.

H. C. Lockood Co. is having a terra cotta hollow tile dwelling erected on Hunter avenue, together with a frame house at North and Farley avenues, both of which have been already sold to New York purchasers.

Frank B. Corriel, of this city, expects to have erected on Martine avenue, a dwelling, the work of which is expected to be started before the real cold weather sets in.

Reid Holiday has already had plans for an $18,000 dwelling drawn, and bids are being received on the work. The structure will be erected on North avenue near the Westfield line. It will be of cement, and of Spanish architecture.

The two and a half story stucco dwelling of James Mennezick, on Midway avenue, being erected at a cost of $14,000, is about completed. A miniature park about the dwelling has been planned, and the work has already been started by a landscape gardener. I. S. Ostlin, of New York, is the general contractor.

Among the interesting announcements coming from Fanwood, is that the Moore estate, of 100 acres of wooded lands of the Willow Grove section, is to be cleared in the spring, and cut up into building lots, and generally improved. Should this work be realized, this section of the State would have another beautiful residential section.

Irving W. Betts, of Westfield, has signed a contract with Contractor Frank Austin, of Fanwood, for the erection of a new residence at Fanwood, to cost $3,500. The structure is to be finished before February 1.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following realty transfers from the surrounding towns have been recorded at the Middlesex county seat at New Brunswick.

Peter C. Thompson bought of R. & C. Hamilton Co., lot on Lake View Terrace, Piscataway township.

Peter Fucsko bought of Plainfield Suburban Realty Co., two lots, Washington Heights, Piscataway township.

Julia C. Thorne and husband sold to Robert A. Ritter and others, property in South Plainfield.

Walter J. Titus has sold a property on the south side of the New Market pond, Piscataway township, to Truman Bilyeu.

Frederick Berg, Jr., has sold four acres at the terminus of Fourth street, in Washington avenue, Piscataway, to Alberne H. Burdick.

ALTERNATIVE PLANS TO BE CONSIDERED

New Providence School Board Undecided as to New Improvements.

New Providence, Oct. 17.—The division of opinion which was developed in the Borough Board of Education at its last meeting over the question of school enlargement indicates that alternative plans will be laid before the citizens for their choice. One plan will be to enlarge the Lincoln School by erecting a duplicate building adjoining the present one and connecting the two with a corridor. The other will be to erect an entirely new and separate building, containing probably eight rooms and a large auditorium. The first plan would cost probably $22,000, and the second $40,000.

Under this first plan there would be no auditorium in the school, but the old "academy" building could easily be transformed into a borough hall and a fine auditorium could be built at its rear.

Under the second plan the present Lincoln School would be left vacant and useless until if ever it was wanted for High School purposes; or unless only a part of the new building was used and the school was divided between the two buildings.

Of course, the moving of the Lincoln School and the erection of a new building alongside it would very seriously interfere with the conduct of the school; unless the work was postponed until next year and was done during the summer vacation.

BOROUGH OF MIDDLESEX TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL

With New Providence added to our list of prospective builders of school, the thriving Borough of Middlesex has come forth with the announcement that, they too, are desirous of having further school facilities. Sites for a new school building will be discussed at a public meeting to be held at the East Bound Brook schoolhouse, Monday night, and the citizens will have the privilege of voting upon the various sites which are under consideration.

The population of the borough has increased beyond expectations since it was organized under its present form of government but a short time ago. The place has experienced a great building and real estate boom during the past season, and is looking forward to a still greater one next year, thus making the erection of a new school building essential.

BUILDING SEASON CONTINUES GOOD

Nine Permits Issued by Inspector Doane the Past Week.

AGGREGATE OF $12,725

Dwellings, Garages, Barn and Alterations Included in the Work Now Underway—Several Permits Are Still Under Consideration.

The building season in this city has come back to life again during the past week, when nine permits, calling for the expenditure of amounts ranging from $50 to $3,300 have been issued from the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane. These permits provide for the erection of five dwellings, two garages, one barn, and one for alterations. As has been the case practically all season, the First ward is leading, with four out of the five dwellings.

The permits as issued this week will undoubtedly be pushed along rapidly before the cold weather arrives so that the mechanics on the work may be kept busy on inside work after that time. The amounts to be spent on this work will aggregate a total of $12,725. A number of permits are still pending Inspector Doane's return from New Orleans, where he is attending the fire chief's convention. The work created by these permits are encouraging at this time, as employment along building lines had become somewhat slack. The permits as issued are as noted below:

First Ward.

Henry H. Apgar is to erect a two-story and attic frame dwelling at 131-133 Jackson avenue at a cost of $3,300. The structure is to have a frontage of twenty-four feet and a depth of thirty-two feet. The base course will be of stone and concrete with a brick foundation. The frame work will be of hemlock and spruce. Mr. Apgar is the architect, while the masonry work has been awarded to Frank T. McInerney, and the carpenter work to Robert W. Wright.

Carl Peterson has been granted a permit for the erection of a two and half story dwelling at 209 Johnston avenue at a cost of $3,200. The base course and foundation will be of concrete, with iron column interior supports. The superstructure will be of concrete with hemlock frame work and a shingled roof. A modern steam heating system is to be installed. The building will be 22x28 feet. Mr. Peterson will care for the contract work himself.

Fortunato Ventuglio has started work on a hollow terra cotta block dwelling on George street at a cost of $2,500. This house, which is to have two stories and attic, is to have a frontage of nineteen feet, and a depth of twenty-five feet. The structure will be modern in every detail. George H. Fisher, Jr., is the architect; Alfonso Cioci, the mason contractor, and S. M. Titus, of Dunellen, the carpenter contractor.

Nicholas DiCunzo has been granted a permit for the construction of a three-story frame dwelling on North avenue east of Hill street, the cost of which has been placed at $1,875. The frontage of the structure will be eighteen feet, with a depth of thirty feet. George H. Fisher, Jr., is the architect; Frank Ciriffi, the mason contractor, and Equiccnini I. Otranto, of Scotch Plains, the carpenter contractor.

Jennie Schroefer and Frank Schroefer are to erect a 12x10 foot frame barn at 136 Johnston avenue, at a cost of $50. The structure will be one story high. Mr. Schroefer will accomplish the work.

The four dwellings in this ward is in keeping with the movement of the past four or five years, during which this section has attracted many builders of homes. Possibly no section of the city has seen more moderate priced dwellings during the past decade than the East End.

Second Ward.

The Second ward has the corner on the garages for which permits have been issued during the week. Charles F. Hopewell is to erect a 12x18 foot garage at 518 East Seventh street at a cost of $200. David R. Conover, of the borough, is the contractor. E. S. Alpaugh is to erect a frame garage of equal floor space at 825 Second place. The cost has been placed at $200. Walter Mundy is the mason contractor, and Ralph Bullman the carpenter contractor.

Orra Balser is to erect a 14x24 foot, two-story frame dwelling at 75 Everett place at a cost of $500. Mr. Balser is caring for the contract work.

As indicated through these columns of last Saturday, Jacob Sachar has been granted a permit to extensively alter the frame structure at 311 Plainfield avenue, raising the 22x32 foot building which has stood on that property for some time. An extension is to be built to the front of the building, with a frontage of twenty-two feet and an equal depth, which is to be utilized as a store. The building is to be remodeled throughout, and provisions will be made on the second and third floors for apartments. The walls of the first floor will be of concrete, while the second and third floors will have frame walls. When completed, the building will be modern throughout. The estimated cost has been placed at $900. George H. Fisher, Jr., is the architect of the improvements. William Richard has been awarded the mason contract, while the carpenter work will be cared for by Peter Johnson.

BUILDING SEASON ON THE WANE

However, Dunellen Has Enjoyed a Year of Unusual Prosperity.

The building season at Dunellen is on the wane after a most successful season. A large number of dwellings have been erected, this type of buildings has been the predominating feature of the season in the lively borough, while other buildings were noticeable. The two story garage of Michael Gallagher at North avenue, and the new Lincoln School was the means of keeping a large percentage of the local craftsmen busy. Many of the dwellings constructed were put up by contractors for speculative purposes, and all appeared to find ready tenants or buyers.

While the activities have slackened considerably during the past two or three weeks, the real estate world still appears to show considerable strength, and plans for another busy season in the building lines are well under way. A number of dwellings started earlier in the season are now nearing completion, with little or no new work being started. Among the buildings about to be started is a dwelling on Third street by H. B. Eckert, on a plot adjoining property where the owner has just completed a dwelling.

Real estate has been a great feature during the summer months, and has continued strong up until the present time. Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Stephens, of Portland, Pa., have recently purchased the former residence of Mr. and Mrs. Vliet.

One of the most important realty deals which has been consummated lately is the sale of two acres of ground fronting on Washington avenue, between Walnut and Fourth streets, to Alberne and Frank Burdick. Frederick Berg, Jr., has owned this property for some time and made the sale through the agency of John Fedderman. It has been announced that the Burdicks will cut the tract into building lots and generally improve the property in the spring.

John P. Fenner has purchased from Winfield R. Hetfield the house and lot at Walnut street and Whittier avenue. It is understood that a lot owned by Mr. Fenner at Washington avenue and Fourth street figured in the deal, which was made through the agency of Willard N. Apgar.

Peter Kelly of this city, has purchased the Hinckner property on Front street, west of Madison avenue, through the agency of C. E. Tinsman. Possession was taken this week.

The house on North avenue, owned by Gustav Winters and recently vacated by Mrs. Mary Murphy and family, has been sold through the real estate agency of John Fedderman to John Hurensky, who will make the place his permanent home.

The Alvah Gray flats at the junction of North and Washington avenues are being renovated quite extensively and all the modern improvements are being installed. The contract for the plumbing and heating has been awarded to Contractor Otis M. Webber.

The Dial property near New Market, facing the lake and situated east of Washington avenue, is being surveyed this week by Township Engineer Lewis E. Churchill, of Dunellen. The owner has some thought of building a house on the property in the near future.

The old house near the township border off Centre street, owned by the Levgar Structural Iron Company and occupied for a number of years by Theodore Zeller and family, is to be thoroughly remodelled. The contract for the work has been secured by Contractor Charles Wrage, of Dunellen.

JUST NOTES

The action taken by the Board of Trade in again reopening the subject of a guarantee fund for new industries in this city is held by many to be one of the best moves the Board could have made. The guarantee fund is a feature of all of the more progressive cities, where it is felt that an inducement is necessary to bring factories to town. The proposition, as placed before the Board by Leo Schwed does not involve the spending of money by merchants in town, but merely the guaranteeing of commercial paper for which a mortgage is taken as security. The banks loan the money and they are secured by the guarantors of the notes. Thus all parties are secured, and if the scheme is conducted properly it can hardly result in losses to the guarantors. The sentiment of the Board of Trade meeting Thursday was very much in favor of the scheme, and it is hoped that some definite result may be obtained this time.—Elizabeth exchange.

It might be well for members of the local civic bodies to give this item the once over, and act accordingly.

The tea room and superintendent's quarters at Washington Rock have been practically completed, the finishing touches now being accomplished. With the addition of the tea room the grounds about the Rock will add much to the attractiveness of the spot for picnickers who visit the historic grounds.

Chatham Hotel, the borough, has been undergoing several improvements during the past week, among which was an entire new porch.

A report has been in circulation to the effect that one man who desired to construct a $5,000 double house in the West End of the city could not secure $2,000 with which to carry on the work. Another sad incident which goes to prove that the money market is holding up the construction market in this city. How far the effect of the money situation is interfering with local construction can only be surmised.

There's not much evidence of race suicide in Union county. Plainfield is building an $80,000 schoolhouse; Mt Mora one to cost $51,000; Linden one to cost $50,000 and Elizabeth's Board of Education wants $700,000 for sites and buildings during the next five years. Summit, Roselle Park and Scotch Plains all have new school buildings under consideration. This truly must be a county after T. R.'s own heart.—The Plainfield Press.

But why omit New Providence?—Passaic Valley News.

The old wooden office building of the Giants at the entrance to the Polo Grounds on Eighth avenue, New York, will be torn down in the near future and a new two-story building of concrete will be erected in its place. A new entrance and exit will be built in the ground floor of the building.

UNION COUNTY HOLDS ITS OWN

Fourteen Building Permits Were Isssued During Past Week.

Union county is holding its own in the construction lines with practically all sections of the county fairly represented in the latest reports available. During the week ending last Saturday, fourteen building contracts were filed with the county clerk calling for the expenditure of $95,802. A contract between the Elizabeth Board of Education and Edward M. Waldron calls for the construction of a new school building in that place at a cost of $72,412.

This county throughout the entire building season has made a most creditable showing, and with a fair chance of the activity continuing for some little time as yet. During the past week work on the new Methodist church at Kenilworth has been progressing rapidly, while the new school building at Westfield has been the means of giving many of the craftsmen of both Westfield and this city employment.

Contracts from this end of the county which have been recently filed with the county clerk are as noted below:

Oro Home Realty Company with Arthur M. Madden, entire work new building, North avenue, Westfield, $3,500; Irving W. Betts with Frank Austin, entire work new building, Fanwood, $2,330; Nicola Di Conza with N. Squicciarini, entire work new building, North avenue, Plainfield, $1,800.

APARTMENTS POPULAR.

Apartment and tenement houses apparently are still popular in New Jersey, if the reports of the State Board of Tenement House Supervision is to be taken into consideration. Among the plans for this type of structure, which have been approved recently by that Board, are four covering alterations to cost $9,000, while five plans for new buildings were approved, the approximate cost of which has been placed at $41,000.

AUXILIARY BODY IN G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

Fifty-nine Plainfielders Are Among Those Appointed by Chairman Newcorn.

Fifty-nine Plainfield names were among those announced this morning by Chairman William E. Newcorn, of the County Republican Committee, as selections to serve on the auxiliary committee of the organization. This body will meet in Elizabeth tonight for the purpose of organization and to discuss plans for the campaign to be waged by the G. O. P. prior to the November election. The Plainfielders on the committee are:

Ernest R. Ackerman, H. Adelberg, Amos Andrews, Dr. Ard, William Arnold, E. T. Barrows, W. G. Besler, James Buckle, William Starr Bullock, Leighton Calkins, H. J. Case, W. R. Causbrook, George S. Monday Morning Good News

75 Serge Dresses for Young Women at $10

Good practical frocks, well and fashionably made.

They are serge,—navy, green or brown, with black satin sleeves, under drops and sashes.

The loose coatee-like waist is short in the front and long in the back and prettily bound with black braid and finished with braid buttons.

Surely an unusual dress for $10—and suitable for school, street and business wear. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

Topcoats at $19.50

Just what young women want—not too tailored, or too dressy.

Made of diagonal cheviot with deep velvet cuffs and becoming collar bound in braid. Navy and black. Half-lined. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

Second floor, Old Building.

Very Special

Women's Suits and Dresses at $15.00 and Coats at $19.75

Coats with the new flare are made of fine silk plush built like real sealskin.

Satin lined, warmly interlined, and the coats snugly button up to the chin. Nearly full length. They will be offered for the first time Monday at the low price of $19.75.

Suits in four smart styles: two of soft ribbed cloth with fur collars and cuffs, and two in fine serge with wide braid trimming and velvet collars. All have the much wanted long coats. The skirts are wider. Specially priced $15—and $15 never bought so much in well cut suits before.

Dresses in five styles—serge, satin and satin with chiffon tunic. Four have the new long lines found so very becoming by most women. The fifth model is conservative. Touches of self colored soutache embroidery, the new kind of sashes, sleeves of black satin, under dresses of satin — all the fashion features which make dresses this autumn look like charming pictures. On Monday each of these attractive styles will be $15.

Women's Grey Salons, Second floor, Old Building.

Some Cookery Suggestions

DAINTY CHICKEN DISHES.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Fruit.
Jellied Chicken.
Cream Cheese and Olive Salad.
Baked Pears.
Cocoa.

WHEN there is cold chicken it may be used in making many light dishes for luncheon or tea. Odds and ends of dark meat may thus be used to advantage.

Cold Ham and Chicken.—Take cold boiled ham and chicken. Cut these into small pieces; place alternately on a dish and garnish with parsley or green pepper in long, thin slices.

If preferred the ham and chicken may be minced in a chopping bowl, seasoned with green peppers and served by spreading on bread in sandwich form.

With Cream Sauce.

Deviled Chicken.—Take one tablespoonful of butter, one gill of stock and two tablespoonfuls of stale bread crumbs and put into a saucepan. Stir until boiling. Then add one pint of cold chicken chopped fine, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Remove from the fire and add two well beaten eggs. Put into small greased mold, stand in hot water and cook in the oven fifteen minutes. Serve hot with a cream sauce.

Served Sliced Cold.

Jellied Chicken.—Take cold chickens and chop fine. Have a tablespoonful of gelatin softened in one pint of cold water. Dissolve it in one pint of the chicken broth. The broth must be boiling. Add one-half grated onion, pinch of paprika and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Pour over the chopped chicken and put in bread pan which has been lined with oiled paper. Serve sliced cold.

Baked Cold Chicken.

Chicken With Celery.—Take sufficient celery to make one cupful when cut into pieces. Boil in slightly salted water until quite tender. Take from range, keeping the water to make sauce. Next slice two cupfuls of cold chicken, discarding all skin; season with salt and pepper and moisten with left over gravy. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, stirring in two cups of flour, and when bubbling add slowly the cup of celery water, one-half cupful of milk, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper. When this has thickened and is quite smooth stir in the cooked celery. Using a baking dish, put in a few buttered crumbs, arranging the chicken and sauce in alternate layers, covering the top with the buttered crumbs. Bake in a hot oven.

CHEVER.

"O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave," sang Jack and Evelyn.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Birthday Of a National Anthem.

"DON'T you think that the fires of genius must burn pretty brightly, kiddies, when a man can write a great national anthem while a terrible fight is in progress?" asked daddy as the children climbed up on the sofa for the evening story.

"What are 'fires of genius,' daddy?" asked Jack.

"Something that makes men and women do things that are great and out of the ordinary," replied daddy, "like writing a great book or painting a great picture or singing wonderfully—oh, any of the things done by persons who just have to do them, do you see? Most of us work because we have to. Genius works because it likes to. I think that explains it pretty well, doesn't it, Jack?"

"Oh, I see!" said Jack thoughtfully. "Work for genius is like my play is for me, isn't it?"

"Something like that," said daddy. "But about this national anthem. It is all mixed up with war—our war for American independence.

"One hundred years ago Baltimore was attacked by a powerful British force. In the British army were men trained in the art of killing. Opposed to them were men—our men—who wished to be at peace, but just had to fight to preserve their independence and who had had no special training in war. They made a line of trenches at the gates of the city, which the British soldiers dared not assail.

"In the meantime Fort McHenry was bombarded by the naval force for twenty-four hours. But when the smoke of battle had floated away 'our flag was still there' and the British had weighed anchor and sailed away.

"It was during this battle that a young patriot whose name was Francis Scott Key, detained upon board the flag of truce ship Minden, was unable to fight for his country, so instead watched the battle and was inspired to write what has since become our national anthem, 'The Star Spangled Banner.' It really was almost born in battle."

"Long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave," sang Jack and Evelyn.

"Daddy, we sang that song the day our school opened, and I had funny shivers all up and down my back bone," said Jack.

Daddy laughed. "I think those are patriotic thrills, honey boy, and they are pretty good kind of thrills to have.

"Good night, kiddies, and pleasant dreams."

3COOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THIS WAS FOR THE GOOD OF HUMANITY — BY "HOP"

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-know authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

The difference between a House and a Home is often only a matter of a judicious planting of Shrubbery, Trees, etc., to soften lines and cover up bare spots and corners. CAMPAIGN ISSUES ARE DISCUSSED

Democratic Candidates Address Large Gathering at Columbus Auditorium.

GOVERNOR ALSO SPEAKS

Congressman Tuttle Tells of Tariff Revision, Currency Reform and Preservation of Peace—Howard Lapsley Chairman.

Columbus Auditorium was crowded to the doors and its seating capacity taxed, Saturday evening, when the various local, county and Congressional candidates of the Democratic party presented their version of the campaign issues. LeRoy J. Ellis, chairman of the city executive committee, called the meeting to order at 9:30, and introduced Howard Lapsley, president of the Plainfield Democratic Club, as chairman. Mr. Lapsley addressed the gathering for a few minutes, discussing the program of the organization of which he is head.

Seymour Perkins, candidate for Common Council from the Second ward, was the first speaker of the evening. He discussed the question of keeping the tax rates of municipalities within bounds, explaining how this end was being accomplished in other cities, citing Cleveland as a case where officials and civic bodies, together with the people, work hand in hand to accomplish this end.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart, candidate for State Senator, the next speaker, made plain why the approval or disapproval of the State and National policies as they now exist were the big issue of the present campaign. The Mayor repeated the promises he had made in 1912 as a candidate for Mayor, and appealed for the votes of the local citizens on the grounds that those promises of an impartial and fair administration had been kept, as had his promise to devote the time necessary to fill the office in a fair way.

Mayor Stewart was followed by the county candidates, William A. Leonard for county clerk, James P. Kelly for register, and Michael Devine for sheriff, as well as Councilman Theodore A. Martin, candidate for Mayor. During his address, Mr. Leonard pointed out that the county clerk of Union was showing a deficit, while the same office of Middlesex county a second class county was turning a revenue into the county. A similar revenue, he thought, ought to be possible in this county. Francis V. Dobbins, of Rahway, also spoke, and briefly reviewed his record of last year in the Legislature.

Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, candidate for reelection, and Governor Fielder, who had spent most of the day in campaigning throughout the county, arrived at the hall after 10 o'clock. Mr. Tuttle was the first to speak, and referred especially to what had been accomplished during the past seventeen months, during which time the entire national administration has been entirely Democratic. Mr. Tuttle told briefly what had been done in that time in tariff revision, banking and currency reform, and the preservation of peace between this county and the neighboring country of Mexico, as well as keeping out of any trouble with the countries now at war in Europe.

Governor Fielder received a great ovation from the audience as he entered the hall shortly before 11 o'clock. He severely condemned those Republicans who had claimed that the Democratic administration had a legacy of $2,500,000 from the Republican administrations. The legacy, he claimed, really amounted to about $210,000, and quoted figures from the State Comptroller's reports to uphold his contention. He showed to the satisfaction of his hearers that while $1,750,009 was in the treasury at the time the Democrats came into full power in 1913 aside from the $210,000 referred to above, this money was taxes derived from the railroads for school purposes.

He discussed in brief the financial difficulties of the Republican administrations from Governor Stokes in 1904, through Governor Fort's administration, just prior to the election of Woodrow Wilson to the head of the State. He also explained the methods of raising funds for State purposes, and how the expenses of the State were gradually on the increase, indicating that the running expenses of the State government for the next fiscal year would see an increase of five per cent. over the past year. He said that while he thought a State tax would be advisable, it was not necessary at the present time.

PERCY L. PHILLIPS WEDS MISS M'KAY

Ceremony is Performed at Home of Bride's Parents, Southbridge, Mass.

Miss Isabel McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McKay, of Southbridge, Mass., and Percy L. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Phillips, of Madison avenue, were married Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Mr. Murray, an Episcopal clergyman of Southbridge.

Miss Blanche Hindeman, of New Brunswick, was the bridesmand, and Arthur Bingaman, of this city, was the best man. Among the guests at the wedding, which was a quiet affair, were Mr. and Mrs. James Mauger, of this city, Mrs. Mauger being a sister of the bridegroom. The couple immediately went to housekeeping in their new home. The bride received a large collection of gifts from relatives and friends.

Mr. Phillips has been living at Southbridge for some time. He is assistant manager of a large woolen mill at Saundersdale, Mass., of which C. A. Rice, of this city, is the head. Mr. Phillips is well known here, where he has many friends. The bride is also well known at her home, where she has a large circle of acquaintances.

MRS. C. C. WESTON SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES

Death the Result of Recent Accident at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Mrs. Catherine C. Weston died at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in Muhlenberg Hospital, her death being the result of an accident which she sustained some time ago in the Park Avenue Baptist church, while attending the farewell services to the Rev. G. R. Maguire.

Mrs. Weston was born in Birmingham, England, and was the wife of the late Rev. James F. Weston, who at the time of his death was a very successful local preacher in the Methodist church. Mrs. Weston had been a resident of this city for about fifteen years, with the exception of two years which she spent in Jersey City. She was a most loyal and consistent member of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, in which she will be greatly missed. She leaves one daughter, Grace, besides a host of friends to mourn her loss.

Funeral services will be held in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, in charge, assisted by the Rev. C. S. Kemble, and Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent, both former pastors, and to which services all her many friends are cordially invited.

SURPRISE "SHOWER" GIVEN TO MISS ALICE FENNER

Miss Alice Fenner, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Fenner, of Somerset street, was given a surprise "shower" at the home of Miss Martha Klein, of East Second street, Saturday night. There were about twenty guests present and Miss Fenner was completely surprised, having been invited to the home of Miss Klein for dinner to avoid suspicion. The "shower" was in charge of the social committee of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, of the First Presbyterian church, of which Miss Fenner is a member. The guests met in front of the church and surprised their host in a body. She received a variety of useful gifts and to each was attached a verse, which caused no end of merriment when read. Games were played and refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Miss Fenner will be married next Friday to Merwin Fagely, of Dunellen.

Those who were present are Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr., Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Herring, Mrs. Snyder, the Misses Clara Karner, Jean Reid, Martha Reid, Mary Bicknell, Ariadna Bicknell, Martha Klein, Leah Hammond, Georgia Ricker, Isabel Scarborough, Soila Rodugues, Elizabeth Manning, Ruth Kline, Alice Fenner and Newell Karner, president of the society, Leland Gillette, Charles Doty, James Fenner and Sam Harper.

HENRY J. HEINZ TO BE A SPEAKER

Accepts Invitation to Attend "South America" Meeting Tomorrow Night.

TRAVELOGUE PICTURES

Purpose is to Educate the American Public in Its Neighborly Opportunity and Obligation—Campaign to be Continued Throughout State.

The group of men who are arranging for the South America meeting to be held in the First M. E. church, tomorrow night, has received word from H. J. Heinz, of Pittsburgh, the man who made "57" famous, accepting an invitation to attend and speak. This will be his first visit to Plainfield, and he with the other excellent speakers, including Bishop Oldham, should attract a large audience.

Bishop W. F. J. Oldham.

South America has leaped into prominence this year. The successful intervention of the "A. B. C. Powers" in the Mexican imbroglio was the first thing; the opening of the Panama Canal gateway to the West Coast republics was another, and the sudden revelation of a new field of trade, as the result of the European War, was the third. Everywhere among merchants and carriers there are keen inquiries into the opportunities for profitable extension of business to the southward. At the same time the great missionary societies of the United States have turned their spotlights on this neglected continent.

Their investigators report that it is above all the continent of immediate opportunity for Christian effort; that the mass of the population has no religion, but a glossed-over paganism, and that illiteracy, ignorance and superstition are the rule. As the relations of the two continents are bound much closer in the near future, every consideration prompts us to lend a hand in aiding the Latin Americans to advance to a higher plane. The World's Sunday-school Association is deeply interested in this phase and is now sending teams of speakers through the United States to report upon conditions and opportunities, just as the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the American Express Company and other enterprising concerns are touring the country with an exhibit of this new commercial field, in the endeavor to stimulate trade with Latin America.

Plainfield is one of the first places to see and hear this plea. Tomorrow night, in the First Methodist Episcopal church, at a meeting arranged by the association under a local committee, including W. C. Hubbard, W. D. Murray, George E. Hall A. M. Harris, J. W. Gavett, Fred E. Smith and Florence Hawkins. The travelogue by Herbert S. Harris will display the scenery and life of the people, and Bishop W F. Oldham, one of the most entertaining and eloquent of speakers, will put the whole case before the public. It is understood that the object of this meeting is not so much to raise funds as to educate the American public to its neighborly opportunity and obligation.

DENLINGER WAS CLEARED.

Owing to a misunderstanding, it was stated in this paper Wednesday that Martin Denlinger, of Westervelt avenue, one of the four young men arraigned in the city court following a trolley car fracas in the East End the early part of last week, was given a suspended sentence by City Judge DeMeza, when in reality the complaint against him was dismissed. The evidence failed to show that he had any part in the affair and was merely a passenger on the trolley car who sought to secure police protection for the rest of the patrons. He was unfortunately brought into the affair but was cleared by the court.

TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT with MOTION PICTURES and LOCAL HEALTH EXHIBIT at the HIGH SCHOOL.

Public invited to attend this free educational project to continue until October 23.

Speakers tonight will be Dr. J. F. Runnells and Dr. Millard Knowlton, of the State Board of Health.

"For your better health in home and municipality."

FINAL HEARING IN HARDY CASE

Long Standing Litigation Over Will up for Settlement Before Vice-Chancellor.

SECURITIES INVOLVED

Between Two and Three Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of Stock and Bonds Tied up—Husband Alleges Undue Influence by Son.

Final hearing in the Hardy will case, involving bequests made by the late Hannah H. Hardy, of this city, which has been before the courts for nearly a year, was started before Vice Chancellor Howell, in Newark, this morning. The action is brought by Colonel James M. Hardy, her second husband, in an endeavor to secure between two and three hundred thousand dollars' worth of securities left to a son by a former marriage, Henry Purcell being the beneficiary Clarence D. Vail, of this city, administrator of the will, appeared in behalf of the son. Colonel Hardy was represented in court by Alton B. Parker, W. A. Coddington and Charles A. Reed, as attorneys.

The securities include a quantity of Pullman, Adams Express Company and Home Insurance Company stock, and bonds placed in a receiving vault in The Plainfield Trust Company in the joint name of Colonel Hardy and the testator. The couple were married June 21, 1905, and until the fall of 1912 lived at Oak Tree. In October of that year she left her husband and went to live with her son and died at his home December 7, 1913.

The deceased made a will leaving the securities in bulk to her son, although they were at that time in deposit in The Plainfield Trust Company in joint right with her second husband. They are at present tied up pending the decision of the vice-chancellor.

Up to the time of the death of Mrs. Hardy one-half of the dividends were paid to Mrs. Hardy and one-half to Colonel Hardy. The petitioner for a reversal of the terms of the will alleges undue influence on the part of relatives when the will was made.

In court, this morning, one witness was examined for the defending party, Mrs. Sarah King, wife of William King, well-known banker. The witness testified to being a visitor at the Hardy farm in Oak Tree in 1911 and told of the marital grievances of the couple. She described Colonel Hardy as having a tyrannical disposition and being a man of remarkable strong will power. Mrs. King claimed that Mrs. Hardy's nature was a great contrast to that of her husband. This testimony was assailed by Mr. Coddington, who cited instances which he declared had prejudiced the defending witness against Colonel Hardy. One was an action brought by Mrs. Krug against Colonel Hardy. One was an action brought by Mrs. Krug against Colonel Hardy for alleged assault and battery in which she demanded $25,000 remuneration.

Mrs. Krug described a scene in the Hardy home when the husband and wife engaged in a quarrel over the advisability of disposing of the farm. Mrs. Hardy claimed to have bought the property with her own money and is said to have shown vouchers to substantiate this fact, but Colonel Hardy's indominable will prevented him from accepting her arguments, according to Mrs. Krug, and he instigated a fracas over the incident.

BURIAL OF MISS VAN NEST.

The burial of Miss Jennie VanNest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore VanNest, who died at her home in Newark, last week, took place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, conducted a committal service in Evergreen cemetery. There were many beautiful floral tributes, among which were two gates ajar bearing the inscriptions, "Our Friend" and "Sister," a standing wreath with the inscription, "Dear Niece," a pillow with the word "Daughter," and an anchor with the words, "At Rest."

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main stret newsdealer and stationer.

FATHER CHIDWICK DELIVERS SERMON

Well Known Catholic Prelate Speaks at K. of C. Vespers at St. Mary's Church.

EDIFICE WAS THRONGED

Impressive Ceremonies Feature Annual Demonstration of Watchung Council—Special Program of Music Rendered.

Members of the Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, and their friends, packed St. Mary's church to its limit capacity, last night, when the annual vesper services for the organization were celebrated. The membership of the council attended in a body and occupied the pews in the center aisle of the edifice. The vesper service was featured by a program of special music under the direction of Miss Mary Smith, the church organist, and the ceremony was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Zimmer, of Raritan, with the following assistants: Father John Dunphy, of Dunellen, deacon; Father Richard Ryan, of Somerville, sub-deacon, and Father John Baldwin, of Mt. St. Mary College, master of ceremonies. Preceding the service, a processional, leading through the church, was conducted, a cross-bearer and group of altar boys leading. The boys sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" as they made their way through the congregation. During the recessional "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name" was rendered.

The special sermon in honor of the occasion was delivered by Rev. Father Chidwick, chaplain of the ill-fated battleship Maine, which was destroyed in Havanna harbor seventeen years ago, and at present the head of Dunwood Seminary. He took his text from the book of John, "They will put you out of the synagogues, yea and the hour will come when whomsoever may kill you will think he has rendered a service to God." He said in part:

"The all-wise Creator has made women naturally religious and a woman who is not religious is an unnatural woman. Man is endowed with strength and goes forth into the battle of the world and is constantly on the firing line. The temptations and seductions that appeal to his strength of character are numerous. But when an organization such as you comprise is founded for the furtherance of religion it is a hopeful sign and it gives your priests cause to rejoice because you will reflect your religion in your lives and you will be judged by the life you lead.

"In 1907, when the French Government submitted to the Holy Father the alternative of surrendering the spiritual control which he exercised over the faithful of that nation or that the church property would be confiscated by the government a waiting world stood silently by to hear what answer would be made. Those who assail our faith and claim that we covet material and civil power said that the Holy Father, before losing to the wealth represented in church property, would yield to the demand, but we know the history of our church knew what the answer would be.

"It was a refusal to yield to the request, and priests, bishops and nuns were banished from France. Today when the French nation is sorely tried and when she is in the throes of warfare, those priests and nuns, who were exiled, have returned and are fighting in the trenches beside those who exiled them, simply because it is the life of their country that is at stake and their religion which prevents them from defending the nation they love, even though they were prohibited from practising and were banished from its soil a few years ago."

WEEKLY DANCES.

Under the direction of William H. Brown, of this city, weekly dances will begin at Columbus Auditorium, this evening. Mr. Brown is assistant instructor with J. R. Francisco, master of dancing in Newark, and will be assirted by Mrs. Francisco. Later he will open a private studio here. Prof. Dunn, of Jersey City, will furnish the music.

COLLIER TOOK THE PICTURES.

Two excellent pictures of the home of Frederick W. Yates, which appeared on the building page of the Daily Press, on Saturday, were taken by Paul R. Collier, the East Front street photographer. The credit was inadvertently omitted at the time of publication.

JAPANESE CRUISER IS SUNK BY FLOATING MINE; AUSTRAINS CLAIM GAINS NEAR PRZEMYSL

ONLY TEN MEN KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN SAVED FROM MIKADO'S SHIP, SAYS OFFICIAL STATEMENT ABOUT ACCIDENT.

GERMAN MINE LAYER IS CAPTURED BY ENGLISH

Austrian Submarine Reported Sunk—Russians Expect to Have 4,000,000 Men Soon in the Field—French War Office Reports Little Change Along Allies Front, With Position Advantageous to Combined Troops.

Tokio Oct. 19.—The Japanese cruiser Takachino was sunk by a German floating mine in Kiaochow Bay Saturday night, according to an official statement. One officer and nine of the crew are known to have been saved.

London, Oct. 19.—A despatch from Vienna, via Amsterdam, to a news agency says that the Austrian general staff yesterday issued the following statement:

"Our attack in the battle on both flanks of the Straiz river, south of Przemysl, was continued yesterday and our troops succeeded in gettting close to the enemy. At several points our troops were advancing as against a fortress. Last night several attacks of the Russians were repulsed with heavy losses for the enemy. Our heavy artillery is now in action. The pursuit of the enemy north of Wyszkow, near the Carpathian passes has continued. In other parts our troops have already advanced over the Carpathians.

A despatch from Rome says that the Messagero has received word from Petrograd that heavy reinforcements are being sent by the Russians to the front. It is estimated that the forces now arrayed against the Germans in extensive battle line from the Baltic to the Carpathians aggregate 3,000,000. This number, it is said, will be increased shortly to 4,000,000 men. The forward movement of the Germans has been checked according to the message and the Czar's troops have taken the offensive. The positions held by the Russians are declared to be strong.

A Central News despatch from Harwich says that the correspondent there has learned on good authority that the British cruiser Undaunted, accompanied by two torpedo boat destroyers, captured a German mine layer in the North Sea. The mine layer, the despatch says, was disguised as a hospital ship. The Undaunted is bringing her prize into Harwich.

A despatch from Cetteinje reports the sinking in the Adriatic Sea today of an Austrian submarine by a French cruiser.

A news agency despatch from Amsterdam says that German newspapers received there says that the Prussian Diet on Friday will accept an emergency bill asking for a credit of $375,000,000 of which $100,000,000 will be allotted to the provisional assistance of East Prussia.

Paris, Oct. 19.—"The enemy's heavy artillery has cannonaded without result the front of Nieuport-Bladsloo, at the east of Bixmude," says the statement issued this afternoon by the French war office. "The Allied forces and notably the Belgian army have not only repulsed the few German attacks, but have themselves advanced to Roulers.

"On our left wing between the Lys and the Canal of Bassee, we have advanced in the direction of Lille. Extremely obstinate conflicts are taking place on the front of LaBasses, Ablain, St. Nazaire.. We are advancing house by house in these localities.

"To the north and south of Arras our troops have been fighting without respite for more than ten days, with a perseverance and a courage which have not been given at any time. In the region of Chaulnes we have repulsed a strong counter attack by the enemy and gained some ground.

"At the centre there is nothing to report. On our right wing in Alsace, and to the west of Colmar our advance guards are on the line of Bonhomme, Pairis and Sulzern. Further to the south we still hold Thann."

Bucharest, Oct. 19, (Central News Cable)—A German train composed of 150 wagons containing munitions and war materials destined for Turkey, were stopped at the border line between Roumania and Bulgaria near Giurgevo, south of Bucharest. Germany is said to have presented a protest to the Roumanian government which has been of no avail.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 19.—The Government after consultation with its military advisers announced today its intention of keeping continuously in training in Canada from now on until the end of the war a force of 30,000 men, and to despatch contingents of 10,000 each at regular intervals. The first installment of 10,000 is to be sent forward in December and thereafter similar forces will be continuously despatched until the war offices advises that further expeditions are not necessary.

LOCAL MAN EXTRADITED.

Charles E. Grabel, of this city, and Edwin G. Ward, of 4 St. Francis place, Brooklyn, were brought to Newark yesterday, from Huntington, L. I., where they were arrested as suspects. The men are alleged to have been engaged in horse stealing and will be arraigned in Newark on that charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fowler, of Washington avenue, entertained Mr. Fowler's parents from the Bronx, New York city, over the week-end.

WILL MOVE TO THREE BRIDGES.

A. E. Paulison, a former resident, was a visitor in the borough on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Paulison and his family are going to move to Three Bridges and he was here to see about the moving of his household effects which have been in the I. V. Smalley storage. For the past couple of months Mr. Paulison has had temporary employment on a farm at Liberty, N. Y.

Miss Florence Gray, of First street, accepted a position last week in the law office of Chester W. Fairlie, at Newark. She is making her home for the present with her brother Daniel Gray, of Arlington.

Former Postmaster Peter C. Staats leave shortly for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will spend the winter with relatives.

W. S. Frederick, of Philadelphia, was a week-end visitor in the borough.

Earl Haver and Edward Gray were visitors at Newark, on Saturday.

OFFERED FINE POSITION.

Karl VanDerveer, of Syracuse, N. Y., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. VanDerveer, of Prospect avenue. Mr. VanDerveer has been made an offer of a lucrative position by a large fire insurance brokerage concern of New York city and he came down from Syracuse in that connection. His many local friends hope that he will give the offer favorable consideration and move back here.

ATTENDING SYNOD MEETING.

Rev. E. R. Brown and Theodore W. Day, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Brown, are attending the 42nd annual meeting of the New Jersey Synod of the Presbyterian church at Atlantic City, as delegates from the local Presbyterian church. Commencing with today the Synod will be in session three days.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in the borough hall this evening. The important question of whether to hold any banquet this year or not will have to be decided at this meeting. A number of other matters pertaining to the fall and winter work of the organization will also be brought up for discussion. A full attendance of the members is urged.

ATTEND COUNTY MEETING.

Local Democratic Committeemen Thomas Reynolds and Willard N. Apgar attended the meeting of the Democratic committeemen of the county at Elks' Hall, New Brunswick, on Saturday afternoon, and they report the meeting as being a most enthusiastic one. While there the committeemen took advantage of the opportunity and interviewed the various Democratic candidates of the county, all of whom were present from Congressman Scully down, in connection with being present at a smoker to be given under the auspices of the local Democratic organization sometime between now and the end of the month in the W. G. Holton Hall. It had been hoped that the date of this smoker could be announced by today at the latest, but Congressman Scully, whom the committeemen are very anxious to have present at this smoker, was unable when tendered the invitation to name any positive open dates that he had. The Congressman, however, assured Messrs. Apgar and Reynolds that it would be a pleasure for him to be present at the smoker and that he would consult his calendar upon his return home and let them know as soon as possible what open dates he had.

"PHYSICAL LIGHT" SUBJECT OF INTERESTING DISCOURSE

Special Sunday evening services were held last night at Temple Sholem, on Grove street, at which time a large congregation greeted Dr. H. L. Martin of the Eighty-sixth street Temple, of New York. Mr. Martin during the course of the evening, delivered a powerful sermon on the subject, "Light and Darkness."

"Physical light," said Dr. Martin, "is most generally recognized as an essential feature to both animal and vegetable life and growth. Progress depends largely upon the possession of light. The same principle holds good in relation to the spiritual life. Without spiritual life the inner man becomes lifeless and a failure in every sense. With this light the man developes in many ways, and progresses in ways which oftentimes are overlooked during the seige of spiritual darkness."

ORGANIZE YOUNG MEN'S HEBREW ASS'N AT SOMERVILLE

The organization of the Somerville Young Men's Hebrew Association was completed last evening, at that place, at which time officers were installed and fraternal addresses featured the gathering. The officers as installed by Faulkes Younkers, field secretary of the National Y. M. H. A., and kindred organizations were as follows: President, Joseph Parker; vice president, Barney Devine; secretary, Mr. Brenn; treasurer, Max Schwed; sergeant at arms, Isaac Sobel. Among the speakers were Samuel Rothberg, of this city, and Henry Landsman, of Passaic.

As an outcome of the remarks by Mr. Rothberg, immediate steps were taken aiming toward a Y. W. C. A., Miss Bessie Shaparo being appointed as the chairman of a committee to look after such an organization. Fifteen young women were enrolled during the course of the evening.

During the social hour which followed, the Misses Helen and Edith Baumgart played and sang several selections, while Miss Helen Kline rendered several selections on the piano. Among the Plainfielders in attendance were Irving Kunzman, Abe Schwartz, Louis Rothberg and Herman Shrager.

MADE TOO MUCH NOISE.

James Columbia, James McNee, Dennis Gleason, George Martial and Edward McNee, small boys, were arrested by Patrolman Martin Welsh, Saturday night, for creating a disturbance on Madison avenue. The boys claimed they were playing "hide and seek" and evidence showed that the disturbance was mere thoughtlessness on the part of the youths, when they were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

WHEEL STOLEN.

Miss Frederica Quentin, a student in the Plainfield High School, reported to the police Saturday night that her bicycle had been stolen from the cellar of the institution.

Fifty-nine Plainfielders On Organization That Met in Elizabeth.

Chairman William Newcorn, of the Union County Republican Committee, met with his newly appointed citizens' committee in the Republican headquarters, at Elizabeth, Saturday night, for the purpose of organization. Arthur E. Warner was elected chairman of the new department, which includes fifty-nine Plainfielders and was instructed to appoint a vice-chairman for every political district in the county. A committee on resolutions was named to include J. Winter Davis, of Westfield; Timothy L. Kelley, of Elizabeth, and John Hardy, of New Providence. The Republican county candidates were endorsed at the meeting and another meeting of the committee will be held Wednesday night in Elizabeth.

An enthusiastic Republican mass meeting was held in Rahway, Saturday night, 150 being present at the event. The G. O. P. county and State candidates were present and made speeches.

Regarding an attack made on one of his statements by Governor Fielder, in Columbus Hall, Saturday night, Arthur N. Pierson, candidate for Assembly, in an interview with a Daily Press reporter, this morning, refuted the Governor's statements. The incident was based on a claim made by Pierson that the Democratic party had been left two and a half million dollars by the Republican party for ready use when it came into power. According to Governor Fielder, all but $210,000 of this amount was tied up in school tax and therefore was not available for party use. Pierson contends that President Woodrow Wilson, at that time Governor of New Jersey, was authority for the information.

The keynote of Pierson's speech at Rahway, Saturday night, was economy and efficiency. He cited the promises made by the Democratic party and assailed the character of some of these.

NO FIGHT REPORTED AT NACO, MEXICO, TODAY

Washington, Oct. 19.—Seventy-nine of the 123 wounded soldiers of General Benjamin Hill's Mexican command, who crossed to the American side of the border for treatment following the fight at Naco yesterday, have been returned to the Mexican town, the War Department was informed today. Those who were returned were only slightly wounded. It was necessary to authorize the return of the wounded, it was announced, as the only building available for this work in Naco, Arizona, is in constant use as a refuge for unprotected Mexican women and children, and others, and in emergencies for other wounded Mexicans. The space in the building is limited. No word has been received of farther fighting at Naco.

CONTRIBUTES $1 MORE

Another $1 contribution for the Belgian Relief Fund was received this morning from Mrs. E. F. DeForest. This will be added to that which has formerly been received by the Daily Press, and forwarded to the central committee having the matter in charge, for transmission to Belgium. All funds thus received are applied to the relief of the women and the children of the stricken country, and the Press will be pleased to receive further sums.

Church Bell to Be Used in Case of a Big Conflagration.

Partial arrangements have been made with the officers of Trinity Reformed church for the use of its bell for fire purposes when the city abolishes its present fire alarm whistle. The bell is to be used only in case of an unusually large conflagration, one threatening the destruction of the city. The fire committee has decided that while it will not be necessary to have any public alarm, as there will be no call-men to summon, but as an emergency measure it has been thought best to have some means of sounding an alarm in case of a big fire.

The members of the Exempt Firemen's Association have offered the city their services at any time they may be needed and while it is probable that the city may never have to call on the veteran firemen there is a possibility of such a thing.

Some one in authority will have a key to Trinity church and access to the place where the bell is sounded, but as stated this means will not be resorted to only in case of extreme need.

ELIZABETH TO CELEBRATE ITS 250TH ANNIVERSARY

The 250th anniversary of the founding of the city of Elizabeth will be observed at that place with appropriate exercises, beginning next Sunday morning at sunrise, at which time the church bells will be rung. Services of a religious and patriotic nature is to mark the day in all places of worship, with an open air mass meeting in the afternoon to be addressed by Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

Civic exercises, a reception to Governor Fielder, the unveiling of a commemorative tablet, the placing of wreaths on the various monuments throughout the city by school children, and band concerts will constitute the program of Tuesday of next week. A historical pageant and a display of fireworks will be held Wednesday.

BIG CROWD AT OPENING OF MRS. CARMAN'S TRIAL

Mineola, L. I., Oct. 19.—Before a crowd that packed the court room, with scores surrounding the building and fighting to be admitted to the small enclosure, the trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, on June 30, in the Carman home, was begun today before Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Kelby and a jury in the Mineola Court House. Seven jurymen had been selected at 2:30.

OPENING HEARING ON RAILROAD RATE RAISE

Washington, Oct. 19—Stating that the needs of the carriers are pressing and immediate, and that actual situation has become extremely critical, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, opened today for the Interstate Commerce Commission the case of the Eastern railroads for higher rates. This statement summarizes the general facts upon the basis of which the railroads maintain that the Commission should now allow the general increase of 5 per cent. in freight rates.

Mr. Willard called attention to the decision of the Commission in the former case, wherein was stated that the net operating income of the railroads in official classification territory is smaller than is demanded in the interest of both the general public and the railroads, and to the fact that the railroads had already taken action to secure additional revenues through various advances and changes of practice, but, added Mr. Willard, "the measures of relief proposed by the Commission will not in our opinion adequately meet the existing situation."

The specific differences in the financial situation of the 38 Eastern carriers now as compared to one year ago, when the 5 per cent. advance case was heard, were presented to the Commission by George M. Shriver, vice-president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mr. Shriver's figures covered the period of June 30, 1914. A feature of the 1914 returns is the complete disappearance of surplus of margin. The figures showed that the roads in this territory paid in 1914 average dividends of 4.58 per cent., but that they fell short by $8,200,000 of earning that dividend itself, the lowest rate of dividend paid in ten years. The year 1914 was the first year in 15 years, in which thesee roads earned no surplus over dividends.

Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, left today for a visit to his home in Grand Rapids, Mich. He will be gone about ten days.

HIS LOYALTY TO JOHN BULL RESULTED IN HIS CAPTURE

As a sequel to the turmoil now brewing in Europe, two natives of the British Isles met in fistic warfare on the main street in Dunellen, Saturday night, and the fracas resulted in the capture of one soldier by Marshal Tarpey and his imprisonment in the Dunellen dungeon. The men, Thomas Taylor and Duncan Munn, engaged in an argument over war conditions in the Park Hotel while indulging in some of "Munn's Extra Dry," and carried their controversy to the street.

Once in the open air the fight took on a more heated aspect and the thoroughfare was soon converted into a battle-field. The men were unable to peaceably decide whether or not John Bull had sufficient cause for entering the present struggle and fist blows soon began to cloud the atmosphere.

Just when the battle was at its heighth Marshal Tarpey happened along with a mediation proposal. Taylor, who by this time was pretty nearly ready to haul up the flag of truce, condescended to mediate on the spot, but his opponent was reluctant to give up the struggle. Taylor took advantage of the opportunity offered him by Marshal Tarpey to make a getaway, but Munn stuck around for a while and endeavored to draw the marshal, who is a product of the Emerald Isle, into another controversy with a view to ascertaining the policeman's views on the probability of Ireland getting into the fray. He became so abusive that Tarpey finally took him in tow and when arraigned before Recorder Campbell his loyalty to his native land cost him the liquidation of a $5 fine.

FUNERAL OF HENRY A. M'GEE HELD

Impressive Obsequies at Late Home Are Largely Attended.

The funeral service of Henry A. McGee, who died on Saturday, was held at his late residence, 1 Orchard avenue, North Plainfield, this afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives, friends and business associates from this city and New York. Many organizations in which he was a valued member expressed their appreciation by floral tributes and by formal resolutions.

The service was that of the Methodist Episcopal ritual and was conducted by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. Herbert Welch, president of Ohio Wesleyan University.

The quartet from the First M. E. church, accompanied by Clifford A. Braider, sang "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult of this Life's Wild, Restless Sea." The honorary pall-bearers were:

Herbert L. Pratt, W. R. King, R C. Veit and R. P. Tinsley, officers of the Standard Oil Company, of New York; O. T Waring and A. V. Heely, of The Plainfield Trust Company, and Elliot T. Barrows, Ernest R. Ackerman, Samuel Townsend, J. H. Howell, George P. Mellick, Charles W. McCutchen, James W. Jackson and E. H. Ladd. The interment was in the family plot in Hillside cemetery.

"UNREST OF MEN" SERMON THEME

Rev. F. L. Greene Preaches First of a Series of Practical Discourses.

"The Unrest of Men," was the subject of the first of a series of sermons on "The Workingman and the Church," given in Hope chapel, last night, by Rev. Frederic L. Greene. The question was discussed in an open manner and from all angles. "There are many reasons," said Mr. Greene, "to be advanced explaining the modern unrest of men. Those there are who daily cast the blame on the professional agitator or anarchist. While they may have their part in this unrest, the entire blame is not to be laid at their doors.

"Men are awakened to the fact that they must do their own thinking and this they are doing. Education, too, is doing much to create unrest among the masses and where education exists there is a searching for the truth. Social conditions in the tenements, the increased demand for Sabbath labor, salaries of heads of insurance companies aggregating thousands of dollars, while the average yearly wage is below $500, the repeated mis-carriage of justice in favor of the rich, all tend to create this unrest.

"Labor has for years been classed as a comedy, while the men pouring out of the factories have been referred to as 'so many hands.' This is entirely a wrong attitude, for it is a case of 'souls' and not 'hands' alone. Labor is the commodity plus the man. Unrest means progress. The thoughtfulness, the education of men, their investigation into truth means that the human race will move forward. The present war in Europe will create a still greater number of thinkers among men, thus creating greater unrest and a greater progress will follow."

These sermons will be continued every Sunday night at Hope chapel for the present.

TWENTY-ONE DEFENDANTS IN RECORD COURT SESSION

City Judge DeMeza was confronted by a record number of cases for disposition in the police court, this morning, twenty-one defendants appearing on the docket. The prisoners ranged in age from twelve to fifty-four years and several different nationalities were represented. Nineteen men and two women comprised the list. The charges included disorderly conduct, drunkenness, vagrancy, infractions of the State automobile regulations and minor allegations.

With the exception of one case all were disposed of, the twenty-first defendant having been taken suddenly ill in court and carried from the room. Four of the prisoners were sentenced to pay fines of $20 each or go to jail for sixty days, one was given $15 or sixty days and another $5 or twenty days. Two charges were dismissed and twelve suspended sentences were dealt out. Two men took pledges and one was placed on the black-list. Up to noon none of those sentenced had paid their fines and if they are unable to by tonight they will be removed to the county jail for an aggregate of 240 days.

Their Majesties--the Babies--Hold Full Sway!

—Mothers!—be sure to bring the children—baby days will be happy days for them—and their mothers, too. The care of the baby is a problem more or less worrying to every mother until she learns the best way. A trained nurse in uniform will give advice to mothers on the care of their children—the proper method of feeding—the right manner of dressing. She will show how to dress baby without a pin or a button!

Vanta Baby Garments

—Do away with every pin in the fastening of baby clothes—it's the most improved way of dressing the child. It is safe, simple, sane and enables mothers to dress the liveliest little chap without once turning him over. Vanta Twistless Tape is the invention that has done away with the troublesome safety pin. A free pattern will be given to every mother of the Vanta Pinless Diaper, with full instructions for making.

—A great Better Babies' wave has swept around the world and our whole country is delightfully engulfed in this great work of building Better Babies, for the betterment of family, town and nation.

—Do you know that about 300,000 babies under one year die annually in the United States? A great work is being done by the United States Government Children's Bureau and by the Society for the Prevention of Infant Mortality to reduce these terrible figures and give every baby his chance in the world. In New Zealand in one city of 60,000, the deaths of infants were reduced 50 per cent. in five years, as the result of similar work done there.

—Uncle Sam is printing special Books to Mothers about how to prepare for Baby and how to take care of him after he comes. These books are written by the leading authorities on the subject and give valuable information, in several languages, on the Care of Babies. Uncle Sam has found that Government Bulletins could do wonders for crops and livestock—now for better Babies, which will mean a stronger, better People and Nation. Visit our Infant Department during Baby Days and learn how you may get these books absolutely FREE.

REGISTER TOMORROW.

Our men readers should bear in mind that if they did not vote at the primary in September, they cannot vote at the election to be held on November 3, unless they register tomorrow, the last registry day of the present year. There are several important offices to be filled this year, and every good citizen owes it to himself and the county, State and nation to do his share in the selection of those who govern him. A Congressman, State Senator, members of the Assembly and a number of county officers are to be chosen. There are many issues of importance before the people, including the question of whether or not county employes shall be put under civil service.

Since the passage of the Geran act it has been impossible for a citizen to be registered by appearing before the county judge, and every name must be on the list by the time the election officers finish their work tomorrow night. The registration has not been great in Union county up to the present time. Numerous reasons have contributed to this showing, but during the last few days interest in the campaign has become greater, and it is hoped that the names added tomorrow will bring the registration up to normal. The registry boards will sit from one to nine p. m., in the various polling places in the city and borough.

LIVING WAGE FOR WOMEN.

Acts providing for minimum wages for women continue to become laws. Two states lately have fixed lowest legitimate rates of pay for which certain classes of girls and women may work in those states, Washington having fixed $9 as a minimum wage per week for telephone girls excepting a few working in small country offices, and Massachusetts deciding that $8 71 a week is the minimum for brush makers "without which no girl can supply the necessary cost of living and maintain herself in health."

It is the New England state's first effort at fixing a living wage for its workers and it began with its lowest paid industry. In Washington, it is the fourth class of workers to be the object of regulation, minimum wages already having been fixed for Washington girls in mercantile work at $10, in factories at $8.90 and in laundries and dye works at $9 per week.

Minimum wage regulation for women and minors in the United States is less than two years old, being adopted first by Utah in May, 1913. During that year, nine states—California, Colorado, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Oregon, Nebraska, Washington, Wisconsin and Utah—adopted the practice. Others are investigating the principle, many states are clamoring for it and a few have put it into law this year. With convening of legislatures all over the country next January, it is forecasted that every state will be a battleground of living wage agitation, for it is a movement which concerns labor organizations and social workers.

In other countries, the movement is much older. New Zealand adopted it twenty years ago and Victoria in 1896. Later it spread to the entire Australian commonwealth. It has been in force in Great Britain since 1910. Slow to take it up, this country has grasped it eagerly and found it a good companion for child labor legislation. Entrance of women into larger spheres of responsibility and opportunity, promises further rapid stride of the movement.

The principle of the minimum wage recognizes the right of women and children to a living wage and develops the question of what is such a wage. It has naturally given rise to valuable investigations into home and working conditions and not unwisely has dealt with moral statistics and sought to show the need for legislation which will give the worker a chance to make an honest living, the first right of American citizens. The result of legislation on business and on the employes will be watched with interest.

"Democrat Party Fails in Nation and State," says a headline quoting former Governor Edward C. Stokes, in the Camden Post-Telegram. It might be incidentally mentioned that no one has intimated that there was any failure on the part of the Democrats when they put Mr. Stokes out of the running a year ago, when he wanted to be Governor. If all its "failures" are as successful as that one, the people will surely have to hand the medal to the party he attacked.

According to an exchange a Republican editor in New Hampshire tried to tell his party that it needed a Moses, and the compositor made the article read Moose. Now we suppose that he is having the time of his life trying to explain that he isn't guilty of treason, or a victim of paresis.

Our linotype operators say that once in a while they used to slip ETAOIN and SHRDLU past the proof readers and were criticised by thoughtless readers as ignoramuses, but that since Przemysl came into the newspapers, almost anything gets by in the war news.

MRS. A. F. JAMIESON CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Succeeds Mrs. E. Y. Breese as Head of Anti-Suffrage Association.

Reports of interest and achievement were presented at the meeting of the board of managers of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage held at Trenton, last week. Those reporting included Mrs. Alexander F. Jamieson, chairman of organization; Mrs. R. A. Lawrence, chairman press committee; Miss Clara Vezin, chairman of legislative committee, and Mrs. R. C. Maxwell, who had charge of the association booth at the Inter-State Fair in Trenton.

The resignation of Mrs. E. Yardley Breese, formerly Miss Georgiana Smith, of Plainfield, as president of the organization, was received. She expressed deep regret at her enforced resignation, but has been ordered by her physician to abandon all public work, as a result of her severe attack during the past summer of rheumatic fever. Her resignation was accepted with regret and a committee appointed to draw up and send to her resolutions to that effect. Mrs. Alexander F. Jamieson, of Lawrenceville, who for some months has been acting president, is now president of the association.

A report was read of the progress in the plans for the play and operetta to be given in November in Trenton, by the association, a large percentage of the proceeds of which are to be contributed to the work of the Red Cross Society. The various branches of the association were well represented at the meeting.

BISHOP M'FAUL OBSERVED CONSECRATION ANNIVERSARY

Trenton, Oct. 17—The twentieth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop James A. McFaul of the Diocese of Trenton, was observed in St. Mary's cathedral here, yesterday.

The celebration will be in the form of a solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock in the presence of the bishop. Monsignor John H. Fox, vicargeneral of the diocese, who is rector of the cathedral, will preach the anniversary sermon.

Women's Shoes

THE SHOE DEPARTMENT'S SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Children's Shoes

When we inaugurated this department two years ago some of the wise ones shook their head and said it won't go. I see its finish, there's shoe stores a plenty in town. The department is just two years old and on Saturday you never saw a livelier youngster in your life. Not only was it the busiest department in the store, but it also done the largest single day's business in its history, and this without the blowing of horns or a brass band.

There's a reason for the success of this department, and that reason is, we handle only the most reliable shoes we can find. Made in most instances to our special order from some of the largest and best factories in the country, and in buying as we do in such large quantities for our three stores, we are in a position to offer you better shoes for less money than you can get at ordinary shoe stores.

Now as to the New Styles for Fall and Winter

Those for women include: The garter top dress boot in black or grey cloth top, with patent leather or demi-calf foxings, vici kid button or lace dress shoes. Combination lace shoes with extra toe measurement for enlarged joints and arch supportering shoes in black or tan. High cut shoes in black demi-calf and tan calf in button or lace. The prices range from $3.00 to $6.00.

The Shoes for children embrace those that are especially adapted to growing feet; all made on the orthopedic broad toe last; the only sensible kind to buy. We are showing complete lines in tan or black Russian calf, patent leather with kid or cloth tops, white buck and new buck in hand turned or welts. Priced according to size from $1.25 to $4.00.

Deliveries in Westfield, Fanwood, Scotch Plains and vicinity Wednesday and Saturday.

NEW CHARGE TENDERED DR. MAGUIRE A RECEPTION

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, for five years pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church of this city, but at present pastor of the Ruggles Street Baptist church, Roxbury, Mass., a suburb of Boson, was tendered a reception at his new charge last Thursday evening. All departments of church work took part in the affair, as well as several local preachers. During the evening, Rev. Dr. Charles Aubrey Eaton, of Watchung, and pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York city, delivered an address on the subject, "Christian Stewardship."

Dr. Maguire resigned his charge in this city early in the summer before leaving on his vacation, and preached his farewell sermon on September 6. He preached his first sermon at his new charge the following Sunday.

RECREATION NOTES

Moving pictures will be shown tonight at 7:30 and 9:00 o'clock, in the Washington School.

The Symphony Orchestra, directed by S. Frederick Smith, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Franklin School Auditorium.

The Italian Social Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School. Music and dancing will be the features of the evening.

The Choral Society, directed by S. Frederick Smith, will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Franklin School Auditorium.

The Needlecraft Club will meet at the Franklin School on Tuesday evening. This is a very profitable club to join. The girls will be taught to make an embroidered collar in two lessons, or an embroidered shirt waist in four lessons. Come and try it.

A gymnastic and athletic club for girls will be organized on Wednesday night, October 21 at 8:15 in the High School gymnasium. There will be free gymnastics, drills, athletic games such as basketball, relays, indoor baseball, etc. It is hoped that a good crowd of girls will be out for this, as the best kind of a good time is expected.

WORK AMONG INDIANS.

The October meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church will be held in the parish house tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Representatives from the First Baptist, Crescent Avenue, Grace Episcopal, First Methodist and Congregational churches will be present and give glimpses of denominational work among the Indians. There will be special music. All ladies are cordially invited to attend.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

Mrs. W. O. Taylor, secretary of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association, has called a special meeting of the association to be held in the assembly room of the Somerset School, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members are urged to be present to hear Miss Mabelle C. Phillips, secretary of the Charity Organization Society, tell how the borough association can co-operate with her in work this winter.

RALLY DAY OBSERVED AT MONROE AVENUE CHURCH

Rally Day was observed at the Sunday-school services of the Monroe Avenue church, yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance. E. H. Beekman, assistant superintendent, presided in the absence of Superintendent Walter M. McGee. There was a program of special music and recitations by the kindergarten and primary grades. Emil Closs rendered a bell solo, entitled "Gospel Bells." The pastor, Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, made an address to the school.

Promotions were made from the kindergarten to the primary and the primary to the junior departments. The following promoted: Kindergarten to primary, Carolyn Saums, Earl Giraud, Ruth Nelson, Francis Nicholson, Ray Dorflinger, Viola Matthews, Walter Baird, Mildred McComb, William and Sidney McComb, Alice Green, Bertha Tallman, Grace Martin, Hazel Smith, Robert Smith and Elmer Kerkell; primary to junior, Louis Alpaugh, Clarence Mowen, Leslie Gilbert, Kenneth Houseman, Alice Lindabury, Jennie Robertson and Walter Eager.

BIBLE CLASSES TO BE GUESTS OF A. M. HARRIS

Mrs. Lewis Matlack's Bible class, of the First Baptist church, composed of young women, has elected these officers for the coming year: President, Miss Caroline Coombs; vice president, Miss Marie Moore; secretary, Miss Marguerite Dodge; treasurer, Miss Nellie Lake. The members of this class, together with the members of Dr. Norman H. Probasco's class of young men, will be guests of Athur M. Harris, superintendent of the Bible school, at a banquet in the church, Thursday night.

Mr. Harris will be the toastmaster and there will be several excellent addresses together with a special program of music. These classes are among the largest in the school, their membership being over one hundred each, and are constantly growing.

TO FORM JUNIOR S. P. C. A. HERE SOME TIME SOON

A League of Mercy, which is a junior branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, will soon be formed in this city, under the auspices of the older organization. All young people under the age of 18 will be eligible for membership. It was announced when horse tag day was held on June 1, that all persons under 18 buying the buttons which were sold at that time would be eligible for membership in the junior organization. As there are undoubtedly a number of young persons who did not get buttons at that time, Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, agent for the society, has arranged to supply all who want them, if they will make application in writing to her at Fanwood. The annual meeting of the S. P. C. A. will be held next Monday at 4:30 at the Y. M. C. A., at which time a number of matters of importance will be brought up.

Opening the Wanamaker Fur Market

A Display and Sale of True-to-Name Furs in the Wanamaker Auditorium

Tomorrow (Tuesday), Wednesday, Thursday and Friday

Formal Presentation of the Splendid Winter, 1914, Fashions

TOGETHER WITH

Special Offerings of Upwards of $100,000 Worth of Personally Selected Moderately-Priced Furs—20 Per Cent. Below This Season's Prices

America has always grown marketable furs.

New York's oldest industry is furs.

The fur trade has been carried on in this city continuously since 1621.

John Jacob Astor was New York's leading furrier many years ago, before the A. T. Stewart store was founded.

Astor Place Station, within the Wanamaker Store has on its walls pictures of the "beaver," a compliment to Astor and to the city's original industry.

Yet even New York, since 1844, has been compelled to send American skins abroad — to the Leipsig market or to the London market, where they were resold to American furriers, who brought them back to New York and converted them into manufactured furs for American women.

Now a change is coming.

It is proposed to make New York the new fur market of the world.

The Wanamaker Fur Market Opening in the Auditorium tomorrow is the first public crystalization of that thought.

The collection to be shown there embraces a wide variety of small furs and fur garments—made of American, South American and Russian skins.

There are two groups in the exhibit—

1. New fashions, original, picturesque. Chosen especially for our regular stocks and now formally exhibited in the artistic surroundings of the Wanamaker Auditorium.

2. Furs also in new fashions chosen from representative furriers of New York and offered by us at 20 per cent. less than the prevailing prices.

So far as we know there never has been offered at the very beginning of the fur season, such beautiful qualities, at moderate prices as may be had now in mink, black wolf, skunk, civet cat, muskrat (Hudson seal) beaver, squirrel, fisher, gray fox, raccoon, and the Alaska fox—all American furs.

Each one of these furs has been newly made for the winter of 1914.

Each fur has been personally and individually selected by our fur expert.

Each fur is labeled true to its name.

Each fur is sold with the guarantee of the Wanamaker Store.

In them is all the inspiration of Paris and London.

Picturesque and beautiful to a degree they include practically every wanted fur from a little neck piece at a few dollars to the cape of Kolinsky, and ermine at $700.

These are some of the pieces at 20 per cent. less than our regular prices.

Women's Fur Coats

Caracal, $35 to $425.
Hudson seal (dyed muskrat), $85 to $325.
Moleskin, $98 to $315.
Dyed coney, $39.50 to $160.
Mink, $600 and $1,250.
Broadtail, $385 and $500.
Natural beaver, $200.

The Fur Muffs and Scarfs

MUFFS

Cross fox set, $78 and $110.
Pointed fox, $20 to $77.
Black fox, $15.50 to $60.
Skunk muffs, $25 to $82.50.
Skunk raccoon, $21 to $31.50
Skunk wolf, $8.25.
Blue wolf, $8.25.
Pointed wolf, $16.50.
Russian fitch, $25 to $39.50.
Lynx cat, $17.50 to $35.
Lynx muff, barrel shape, $35
Lynx, pillow shape, $28 to $66.50.
Civet cat, $14 to $47.50.

SCARFS

Pointed fox, $20 to $77.
Black fox, $11.25 to $67.50.
Skunk, $10 to $75.
Skunk raccoon, $7 to $31.50.
Black and Blue wolf, $8.25.
Pointed wolf, $16.50
Russian fitch, $9.50 to $28.
Lynx cat, $17.50 to $35.
Civet cat, $9.25 to $47.50.

The exhibition will also present mounted fur animals, fur skins to be made into garments to order, and a collection of fur coats, fur coatees, and fur sets ready for service.

French Brocaded Crepes $3.50 to $8.50 Grades, $1.35 Yd.

A Silk Importer's Imperative Sale

Brocaded crepes in white and all afternoon and evening shades and plenty of black—35,000 yards. A Lyons silk maker wove these silks for the Paris market. The war interfered with their sale.

Then he shipped the silks to his New York agent, expecting a large price. Unfortunately the New York stores were already stocked with his Autumn designs. And the silk maker needed immediate funds.

He could not wait for impending higher prices on all French merchandise. Last week he cabled his agent here.

"Sell My Silks"

The agent came to us. Inside half an hour we bought the entire lot at less than the custom's duty paid on the silks to enter America.

Yesterday these same qualities were in our stocks at $3.50, $4, $4.50, $5 and up to $8.50 yard.

Tomorrow all will be $1.35 by the yard.

Plenty of the $5 and $8.50 qualities at the beginning of the sale but we cannot promise that they will last many days at the price.

To facilitate the sale of these beautiful silks there will be a hundred expert salespeople available and the Silk Rotunda will have an overflow section taking in the entire Main Aisle.

MISS MARTHA BOWERS WEDS EX-PRESIDENT'S SON

Washington, Oct. 19.—The wedding of Robert Taft, son of ex-President William H. Taft, and Miss Marthat Bowers, daughter of the late Solicitor General Lloyd W. Bowers, which event took place Saturday at St. John's church, in Washington, was the most notable event of the capital city. The occasion brought together many notables in government circles, as well as college men and social leaders from many cities.

Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the ex-President, was maid of honor for Miss Bowers, and the bridesmaids were Miss Louise Hellen, Miss Frances Noyes, Miss Marjory Edgar, of Indianapolis, and Miss Julia Thompson, of Chicago.

George Harrison, of Washington, was best man for young Mr. Taft, and the ushers were Charles Taft, Stephen Philbin, of Houston, Tex.; Stanhope Bayne Jones, of Baltimore; John Herron, of Pittsburgh; Carl Lohman, of Akron; Walter Logan, of New York; Adrian VanSinderen, of New York, and Harry Bingham, of New York, all classmates of the groom at Yale.

The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D. D., rector of St. John's, performed the ceremony.

Following the wedding at the church, a small reception and breakfast took place at the home of the bride's parents in Rhode Island avenue.

Ex-President Taft and Mrs. Taft came from New Haven for the wedding, and were prominent figures at the church.

Robert Taft, the groom, made a brilliant record at Yale and later at Harvard, where he completed his law studies and received his degree with honors. He is at present practising law in Cincinnati, and will take his bride to a new home at 1,812 Dexter street, that city, where they will be at home after November 15.

CHANCELLOR CONGRATULATED.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Congratulations poured in on Chancellor James R. Day, yesterday, the occasion being his sixty-ninth birthday. Although well along in years, Chancellor Day retains his vigor and his deep interest in college work and humanitarian measures.

RATE HEARINGS WERE REOPENED TODAY

Washington, Oct. 19.—Rehearing of the application by railroads for a five per cent. horizontal increase in freight rates will begin today, before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the railroad presidents and shippers are lined up for a bitter battle.

While it is impossible to forecast that action will be taken by the Commission, the railroad heads are hopeful of success, in view of the stand taken by President Wilson when the "true statement of facts" were presented to him by the delegation representing the carriers.

The order for the rehearing provides that the railroad officials will be limited to the presentation of facts disclosed and occurrences originating subsequently to the date upon which the records previously made were closed.

It is the contention of the railroads that revenue conditions have become so acute as a result of the European war that additional revenue from freight traffic is imperative. Although the feeling of the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission is said to be that the demand of the railroads for a general increase in freight rates is not justified, there is a strong sentiment in Washington in favor of the railroads.

Financial authorities, not only in America, but in Europe, have declared for many months, long before the war broke out in Europe, that the revival of business enterprise in America depended on the granting of the railroad's demands.

In the hearings which will begin next Monday, the shippers will have equal opportunity to present their protests, and it is expected that they will present a large volume of evidence against the propriety and justice of increasing freight rates at the present time.

The principal opposition so far has come from the cattle men of the South and West.

ALL WORK SUSPENDED.

WATER HOLLAND'S BIG WAR WEAPON

Against It Siege Guns and Bombs Will Avail Little.

CANALS AFFORD DEFENSE.

Dutch Method of Flooding the Country Is Famous In History—System Developed Through Three Centuries and Now Ranked by Experts as the Most Ingenious In Existence.

Great siege guns, exploding bombs and other instruments of death will avail Germany little in an invasion of Holland should she become involved in a war with that country, says the New York Herald. For Holland, retiring behind a wall of water, will bid defiance to great howitzers which have reduced supposedly impregnable fortifications.

Holland's canals and her method of flooding the country when an enemy threatens to invade it are equally famous in the lore of history and war. But it is not generally known that the scheme of defense has been developed carefully through three centuries by engineers, until today it is ranked by military experts as the most ingenious known.

If the sluice gates to the canals which dot the fertile country are opened the water that covers the lowlands will be between three and four inches deep, but that depth will be sufficient to hide the parent canals, with their depths of seven and eight feet and the treacherous lines of barbed wire, spurting high electrical voltage.

Almost Wholly Below Sea.

Holland is almost entirely below sea level, and the coast line is kept from inundation by sand dunes. The water, which seeps through the earth everywhere, is pumped into the canals by windmills and motors. The center of the country south from the Zuyder Zee is deeply depressed, rising in a gentle slope toward the east and west. To the west are the great places of Holland and its sea coast; to the east the grazing country and the German frontier line.

Like a snail retiring into its shell, Holland will go to the western country if the Germans attempt to enter. The canals which wend their intricate ways through that central, depressed strip of the country will be released from their binding sluices, and the water will be permitted to cover the land until it reaches the higher land toward the east and west. This will divide the country into two distinct territories, bisected by a strip of water several miles wide and three or four inches deep.

An army might march gayly through this shallow lake were it not for the concealed canals and the concealed barbed wire which dot the submerged country. Bridge roads reach from the eastern highlands to the western highlands, so that the communication is not cut off, but if the enemy takes these roads, protected by forts, they will be blown up.

HOW TO BUY YOUR MEAT.

Hints on Economy Given by a Municipal Food Supply Committee.

George W. Perkins, as chairman of Mayor Mitchel's New York food supply committee, has issued bulletins instructing the public how it may cut a lot from the high cost of living by careful marketing.

The bulletin on "How to Buy" contains the following advice:

Go to the store yourself.

Select for yourself the article you desire to purchase.

Inquire its price.

If quality and price please you be sure that you get in weight or measure the amount you buy. Watch the scale. Watch the measure.

You are entitled to all the bone and the trimmings of the piece of meat that you buy. You should take home and make use of such bone and trimmings. The fat can be rendered and used for cooking purposes; the bone and trimmings used for soup or stew.

In buying meat don't go in and ask for 25 cents' worth of meat and leave the butcher to decide how much meat you should have for a quarter. Select your piece of meat; ask the price per pound. Say how many pounds you want; have it weighed; see that you get your weight and that the butcher's calculation as to how much meat you have at a certain price per pound is correct. Many a penny is lost to the customer by neglecting the above simple precautions.

WILL ENRICHES A "KIND BOY."

But Document Warns Lad Generosity Will Tax His Prudence.

Julian S. Thomas will inherit the bulk of a fortune of $75,000 left by his granduncle, R. S. Thomas of Smithfield, Va., according to a will filed for probate in the Isle of Wight county court. Small bequests were made to other relatives.

The testator in speaking of his nephew says, "He is the most generous and kindhearted boy I have ever seen, and these noble qualities will require the safeguard of all the prudence he can possibly command."

The deceased requests his principal heir not to drink whisky, use tobacco in any form or gamble.

PATROLMEN BROKE UP "BOOZE CAMP"

Three Get Jail Sentences and Two Are Let Go by Judge DeMeza.

Five men were taken into custody by Patrolmen Martin Welsh and Thomas Flatley yesterday afternoon in a "booze camp" on South Second street following a disorder that aroused the neighborhood. In the city court this morning Judge DeMeza sentenced George Hansen, the keeper of the place, to serve a term of sixty days in the county jail or pay a $20 fine; James Barry was instructed to pay $5 or serve twenty days; John Lyons was given a sentence of $15 or sixty days and Austin Gulick and Michael Pedro got suspended sentences. Gulick's previous good record in the court gained his suspension and Pedro was found to have had no active part in the fracas.

According to residents of the section where the raid was made, Sunday beer parties have been a regular occurrence in the Hansen house and the defendants admitted this. The police produced a keg of the amber fluid confiscated in the raid as evidence.

When the men began to feel good yesterday afternoon they indulged in annoying Pedro, who lives nearby, and the latter assailed Lyons with "Irish confetti." A general scuffle followed and the wholesale arrest followed.

MISS TRAVIS NASH GIVEN SURPRISE ON SATURDAY

Miss T[illegible], daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Nash, of Valley road, was given a surprise at her home by about thirty of her schoolmates and friends, Saturday night. The party went to their destination in three large wagons. The young hostess was completely surprised when the large party demanded entrance. The evening was spent in playing all kinds of games and dancing was the main feature of the evening. Miss Elsie VanDemburg rendered several pleasing selections on the piano.

Shortly before midnight refreshments were served and festivities came to an end. The Misses Edna Titus and Agnes Griffett arranged the party. Included among those present were Helen MacDonald, Daisy Schmidt, Helen Schmidt, Carol Hughes, Lucy Hughes, Edna, Olive, May and Grace Titus, Agnes Griffett, Katherine Bartel, Grace VanDemburg, Elsie VanDemburg, Helen Hand and Travis Nash, and Roy Herrmann Charles Nash, Frank Fetherston, Hippolyte Texier, Lemuel Woolston, Max Underhill, Clifford Kellogg, Clifford Causbrook, Norman Conover, Russell Lee, Elston Wakefield, Almon Doty, Roy Force, Kenneth Bennett and Arthur Nash.

BRIDE AND GROOM GIVEN SURPRISE RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ernest Conover, who were married a week ago returned Saturday evening, from Washington, where they spent their honeymoon. When they reached the home of Mr. Conover's parents, Mr and Mrs. Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, they were greeted by a large company of relatives who were waiting for them.

All sat down to a fine "spread" after which the evening was spent in an informal social way. Mr. and Mrs. Conover have taken possession of their new home on Elmwood place.

Flemington.

The continued downpour of rain in this section of the State, Friday, broke the drought which had continued since early in August. Hundreds of farmers were compelled to cart water for their stock and household use. The supply of milk was greatly reduced because of the parched condition of the fields. Growing crops as well as friut were seriously affected by the dry weather.

The Presbyterian Brotherhood will hold its October meeting Thursday evening. The devotional exercises will be led by Elias Vosseller. The Woman's Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. M. M. Holcombe and Mrs. Clarence O. Johnson, will serve the dinner. Asa Jones will act as toastmaster for the occasion.

Mrs. Edward N. Danley was tendered a surprise Thursday evening, by a large number of her friends at her home in honor of her birthday.

Professor Norman Landis will give an organ recital in the Presbyterian church, tomorrow afternoon, before the Hunterdon county school teachers, who will be in attendance at the annual institute.

William McEwen, Elias Vosseller and Rev. A. W. Sonne will represent the Flemington Presbyterian church at the meeting of the synod which opens in the First Presbyterian church, Atlantic City, today.

POLICE MAKE RAID ON COLORED RESORT

Two Inmates Sent to Jail When One Turns City Evidence and is Released.

Arraigned on a charge of keeping a disorderly house on South Second street, Stella Green, colored, was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 with the option of spending sixty days in the county jail by Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning. George Johnston and Joshua Diggs, colored men taken in the raid, were given similar sentences, and Vanni Brown, white, another frequenter of the place, will be arraigned tomorrow. The latter was taken ill in court and had to be carried out before his case was disposed of. Mrs. Gertrude Johnston, colored, gave evidence that incriminated the other defendants and in view of this fact she was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

Patrolmen Martin and Thomas Flatley, doing duty in the West End at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, were attracted by the terrified cries of a woman and hastened to the scene of the disorder. Screaming at the top of her lungs, Mrs. Johnston was battling with her husband on the porch of the Green woman's house. Johnston, who is employed by TenEyck & Harris, South Plainfield coal dealers, took his employer's horse and rig without permission, Saturday night, and drove to Plainfield, compelling his wife, who went to South Plainfield to collect $3 alimony, to make the trip with him. When the couple arrived in Plainfield, according to the woman, her husband drove directly to the home of Stella Green. Mrs. Johnston claims that the Green woman ran out to meet Johnston and hugged and kissed him in her presence. This aggravated Mrs. Johnston and she remonstrated with her husband, who in turn attempted to drag her into the house. She said she refused to accompany him and that he became enraged and hit her on the back and shoulders. This caused her to scream, attracting the attention of the policemen.

The arrival of the bluecoats was the signal for a wild scramble. Men of both colors leaped out of first and second story windows in the Green woman's house and fled in all directions. The police drag net snared five of the culprits before they had a chance to get away, but in court this morning Patrolman Martin Flatley declared that there was at least a dozen others in the place when the raid was made.

They were bustled in the patrol wagon and hurried to headquarters, occupying cells until this morning. An investigation of the premises later in the night revealed a big supply of beer and when asked in court this morning where it came from Mrs. Green claimed that she did not know it was there.

Mrs. Johnston revealed some stirring circumstances in her testimony. She said her husband had been a frequent visitor there and she knew that the character of the place was questionable. It has been under police surveillance for some time past and the raid Saturday night was the culmination of a long and watchful vigil on the part of the Flatleys.

"ELIZABETH DRY ON SUNDAY," NOT YESTERDAY, SAYS JONES

Thost who are proudly floating the slogan "Elizabeth dry on Sunday," will be treated to a rude jolt if they happen to "get wind" of a case tried in the Plainfield police court, this morning. Sheridan Jones, appearing before the bar of justice for the twenty-first time, on a drunk and disorderly charge, was asked where he got his liquor and replied "In Elizabeth."

Jones is blacklisted in Plainfield and said he took a special Sunday excursion to the county seat to get "teed up." This is the seventh time he has been arraigned before the present magistrate and Judge DeMeza, once more moved by the man's pleadings, let him go.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. William B. Mundy, of Lyman place, returned home Saturday after having been in the hospital for three weeks.

Harry Newcomb, of Portland, Me., arrived in Plainfield, Friday, to spend several weeks with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Ryder, of Grant avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith, Jr., of Watchung avenue, are the parents of a boy, born to them a few days ago.

Mrs. M. A. Bolan, of Dover, is spending two weeks with friends in this city and Dunellen.

Friends in this city have received word of the death of Mrs. Elmer Lynch, which occurred yesterday at Baltimore, Md., where Mr. Lynch is engaged in superintending construction work. Mrs. Lynch is well-known locally through having visited here regularly for years.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

F. O. E. LEAGUE WILL START NOVEMBER 5

Queen City Birds Will Meet Progress Aerie, of Newark, on Local Alleys.

The Eagles' Bowling League will get under way on November 5 with the Rahway bowlers performing on the alleys of Newark, and Progress stacking up aginst the Plainfield birds in the Queen City. The first game for the Elizabeth five will be on Friday, November 6, when they journey to Somerville for a tussle with the "yeas" of that municipality. The first home session of the Betsytowners will be on November 10, when the Newark members appear there. The schedule which will wind up on February 5, is as follows:

November—5, Rahway at Newark, Progress at Plainfield; 6, Elizabeth at Somerville; 10, Newark at Elizabeth; 12, Somerville at Progress; 13, Rahway at Plainfield; 19, Elizabeth at Rahway, Plainfield at Somerville; 24, Somervile at Plainfield; 27, Progress at Rahway.

December—3, Rahway at Somerville, Progress at Elizabeth; Plainfield at Newark; 9, Rahway at Elizabeth; 10, Newark at Progress; 16, Plainfield at Rahway; 17, Elizabeth at Progress.

January—6, Newark at Rahway; 7, Plainfield at Elizabeth; 13, Progress at Somerville; 14, Rahway at Progress; 15, Newark at Plainfield; 20, Elizabeth at Newark; 21, Somerville at Rahway; 27, Elizabeth at Plainfield; 29, Progress at Newark.

February—4, Elizabeth at Newark; 5, Newark at Somerville.

PLAINFIELD Y. M. H. A. MAY ENTER BASKETBALL LEAGUE

There is a possibility that the Plainfield Y. M. H. A. basketball team may enter the South Jersey State League that is now under consideration. If formed, the league will consist of eight teams representing Trenton, Camden, Asbury Park, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Morristown, Atlantic and Plainfield. The locals are willing to enter such a circuit and will undoubtedly give a good account of themselves as there are a few basketball players in this city.

There is also some talk of forming a North Jersey circuit, but this city was not mentioned in this list. There will be seven teams in that league including Passaic, Paterson, Elizabeth, Bayonne, Hoboken, Jersey City and Hudson City. Both leagues will probably be formed.

ARMY AND NAVY WILL PLAY AT PHILADELPHIA

Washington, Oct. 19—Secretary Daniels of the Navy, announced Saturday that he and Secretary of War Garrison had approved a plan whereby the Army-Navy football game would be played this year at Philadelphia, probably November 28.

An agreement to this effect between the Annapolic and West Point officials, Secretary Daniels said, had been practically assured.

The plan contemplates a five-year agreement. The Navy is given the choice of Philadelphia as its selection for this year's game. The Army will be permitted to decide upon next year's site. Selections will follow alternately, under the agreement, for a period of five years.

TWO PRACTICES NOW.

Captain "Al" Brynairski, of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team, announces that there will be two practices for the association squad this week, in order to get the team into shape for the opening game which will be played two weeks from next Wednesday. The regular Wednesday night workout will be held and the first team will engage in a secret practice Saturday night for a short time. Some of the new plays will be tried. The Chatham Club, champion heavyweight team of Brooklyn, has been scheduled for Saturday, November 28, on the local court.

HOPE CHAMPIONS TO BE GUESTS OF HONOR

Sunday School Flag Winners Will Be Tendered Chicken Dinner Tomorrow.

Although the baseball season of 1914 is now fast fading away the members of the Hope chapel championship baseball team have not yet been forgotten and they will be honored at a chicken dinner given by half a dozen mothers of the players at the chapel tomorrow night. The Hope team was the winner of the Sunday-school Baseball League this season and will have the trophy, that went with the title, presented to them at this gathering by the donor, Leo Slonim, the local jeweler, who has offered the cup for the past two years. The league this season proved to be somewhat of a farce, but the Fourth street ballists deserve all the honor that they get as they fairly won the title under the rules of the organization.

All of the members of the baseball team and the Young Men's Association of the chapel will be present and also a few special guests. The dinner will be an informal affair with speeches by the baseball captain and manager, the president of the club and also Jack Martin, coach of the basketball team. The dinner will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

The team was also honored in like manner last season, although it did not win the championship and had to be contented with second position in the standing.

The mothers that are responsible for the spread are Mrs. James Heron, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. Aaron Snyder, Mrs. George T. Leighs, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. James Penny.

HOLY CROSS WARRIORS IDLE; WILL PLAY SAILORS NEXT

Because of the bad weather conditions last Saturday morning, Manager Doyle, of the Holy Cross football team, decided not to take any chances on the game and therefore canceled the game with the Michelin Tire Company team that was to have been played on the Cricket Field. A hard practice was held on Marshall Field instead and the local players will not have to wait for next Saturday, when they will have their hands full with Uncle Sam's middies.

Next Saturday will be a big day at the Cricket Field, as the boroughites will play the part of actors as well as footballists. They will be the hosts of the team representing the battleship Wyoming and the "movie" man will be there to take pictures of the interesting plays. The sailors have always been hard opponents of the Holy Cross team and will undoubtedly give them a strong run for the game Saturday. The team will probably practice twice this week to get them into shape to win their initial battle.

WESTFIELD WILL HOLD ONE DAY TOURNAMENT

Three one day tournaments on three successive days are on the schedule of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association this week. The women golfers will play at Hackensack tomorrow, at Ardsley on Wednesday and at Westfield on Thursday.

The tournament on Wednesday at Ardsley will be the first that the W. M.G. A. has held on the course beside the Hudson. Play will begin at 10 o'clock, and it is expected that a large number of women golfers will play.

Plainfield will probably be represented by several good golfers in all of these tournaments.

Y. M. H. A. OPENER.

The local Y. M. H. A. basketball team will play its first game of the season against the Elizabeth team at that place on Thursday, October 29. This will also be an opener for the boys down the road and a good game is expected. The Elizabeth team practice twice every week and is going to try hard for the first game of the season.

YALE WALLOPED IN GOLF MATCH

Princeton Defeats Rivals in Ancient Game by Score of 22 to 8.

The members of the Plainfield Princeton and Yale Clubs, who are also members of the Plainfield Country Club, played a foursome golf match on the local club course, Saturday afternoon, Princeton winning by the overwhelming score of 22 to 8. During the summer Princeton beat the Yale team in baseball by a score of 10 to 1, and the latter thought it could "get even" in golf. Later on the members will have a tennis match and then wind up with a smoker. E. A. Stevenson and F. W. Wallace did all the scoring for Yale on Saturday, making eight points. The summary:

Princeton—F. O. Reinhart and E. J. Waring, 1; W. T. Kaufman and J. Whitney Baker, 2; D. H. Barrows and O. H. Fleming, 5; DeWitt C. Ivins, Jr., and Brown Rolston, 3; D. W. Taylor and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, 3; J. P. Murray and E. J. Patterson, 8; H. J. Cochran and Samuel Cochran, 0; total 22.

Yale—A. M. Collens and H. L. DeForest, 0; R S. Rowland and H. S. Brown, 0; H. E. Butler and A. W. Andrews, 0; Gordon Abbott and Murray Rushmore, 0; A. W. Ransome and E. W. Jesscott, 0; Daniel Runkle and W. B. Tyler, 0; E. A. Stevenson and F. W. Wallace, 8; total 8.

D. O. Rogers was the winner of the Golf Committee Cup, scoring 11½ points. Others among the leaders in points were: Burnett C. Kenyon, 7½; L. G. Carman, 7; W. Lester Glenney and H. T. Eaton, 5½ each.

These cards were returned in the weekly sweepstakes event:

A. M. Collens, 82, 9-73; C. E. Lipscomb, 94, 21-73; D. O. Rogers, 82, 8-74; S. D. Lounsbery, 83, 8-75; H. E. Butler, 90, 10-80.

PLAINFIELD WILL MEET NEW BRUNSWICK QUINTET

The Plainfield Senior Elks' bowling team, headed by Captain V. W. Nash, Jr., will go to New Brunswick tomorrow night, and meet the "Bills" of that place in the second match of the State League. The Middlesex pinners dropped all three games to the Paterson Elks last week, while the locals could only get one game from Jersey City here in their first match.

There are at present six men trying for the Queen City team and two may split up in tomorrow's play. The local pinners are looking for three straight in this match. The New York team will also be the guest of the Elizabeth lodge.

RANDOLPH M. A. EASY FOR P. H. S. ELEVEN

Locals Went to Morristown and Defeated Soldiers by Score of 44 to 0.

The Plainfield High School football team journeyed to Morristown, Saturday afternoon, to play its first out of town game against Randolph Military Academy. The local football warriors had little difficulty in downing their opponents and came home with the large end of a score of 44 to 0.

Plainfield High School received the kick-off and immediately carried the ball to Randolph's one yard line on five plays. W. Peacock then carried the ball over and Rosenson kicked the goal. Rosenson had his "kicking eye" with him, for he kicked all six goals and two of them were from very difficult angles. Randolph chose to receive the ball and were downed on the forty yard line. After two plays the ball was fumbled and Plainfield recovered it on the forty yard line. The right side of Randolph's line was very weak and after several plays through tackle and guard Greene carried the ball over for the second touchdown. Plainfield again kicked off, but Randolph was forced to punt and Greene was tackled on the twenty yard line. Smith then caught a short forward and made a pretty run of sixty yards, being caught by the last man between himself and a touchdown. Plainfield again carried the ball over the line, but as Peacock was crossing the line he fumbled the ball and Semer fell on it for a touchdown. Rosenson kicked the goal as time was called for the first quarter. Score, P. H. S. 21, R. M. A. 0.

Plainfield scored two more touchdowns in the second quarter, one of them being a pretty twenty yard run by Rosenson. The third quarter most of the second team was put in and another touchdown was scored, after Semer received a forward pass from H. Peacock and ran for forty yards.

No touchdown was made in the fourth quarter, but Plainfield marched down to Randolph's four yard line when the ball was fumbled and a Randolph player fell on it. Randolph then attempted a kick, but it was blocked and fell in a big mud-puddle. Miller made a dive for the ball, but it slipped from under him and Robertson picked it up. Daniels caught him before he crossed the line and scored a safety. The ball was put in play on the twenty yard line when time was called.

The lineups:

P. H. S.		R. M. A.
Smith	right end	Webster
Berrien	right tackle	Kurdson
Chamberlain	right guard	VanMater
Wheelan	centre	Fitch
Pennock	left guard	Chalfir

PARK GOLFERS TIE FOR HONORS

J. A. Wilson and Frank Thompson Divide Points for Trophy.

J. A. Wilson and Frank Thompson divided first honors for the President's and Oakmount Cups at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, each returning a net score of 81, while H. E. Blazier scored three points for the Oakmount trophy, scratch competition, returning a gross score of 92. These cards were returned for the two cups:

J. A. Wilson, 94, 13-81; Frank Thompson, 103, 22-81; W. E. Lough, 98, 14-84; Oliver B. Hill, 103, 18-85; H. E. Blazier, 92, 6-86; Rovle T. Phillips, 93, 7-86; W. P. P. H. S. AND RAHWAY WILL BATTLE NEXT

State Football Champs Will Appear at Parker Field Saturday Afternoon.

The Plainfield High School football team has yet to be scored upon, but if Captain Peacock and his gridiron squad can say that after next Saturday's game they will also be able to claim a chance for the State scholastic title. The next game for the local team is with the New Jersey champions at Parker Field, Saturday, the Rahway H. S. team.

Rahway has always had the better end of most arguments with school teams in this vicinity, but the Plainfield boys know what this game will mean to them if it is won and will go into the scrimmage determined to win. The local eleven is working better than it has for the last few years and may spring a big surprise in the coming game. In the three games already played, all of which were victories, the Ninth street team has displayed remarkable ball and many were greatly surprised when the Westfield aggregation was routed. Last Saturday's performance is not to be overlooked, but the real test will come this week. If they should win or even tie the game, the local management could force the other big High Schools of the State to recognize them as title aspirants.

There will be several days of hard practice this week and no Wednesday game has been booked.

GOOD AND STINE PLAYED FULL GAMES SATURDAY

Two local athletes played in the college football games, Saturday, and both were on the losing side. Monroe Good played the entire four quarters at left guard for Colgate and his team was defeated by the Army at West Point by the score of 21 to 7. At the end of the first half the score was 7 to 7, but the soldiers ran away from their opponents in the end.

"Hub" Stine also played a whole game at right guard on the Springfield Training School eleven which was defeated by Williams 17 to 13. Next Saturday he will play against Norwich University at Springfield.

FORTY SIX HOMERS OFF N. Y. PITCHERS

Boston Twirlers Give 39, Rudolph Being Hit for Nine of This Total.

The Giants pitchers, last season, cracked more under the strain when it came to being located for home runs than the Braves hurlers, Mathewson & Co. being dented for 46 four-baggers and Rudolph and his associates for 38. The surprising thing about the homers gleaned off the two staffs is that no less than sixteen were made off Christy Mathewson, whose work was just as able in 1914 as it was in certain of the preceding campaigns. Vic Saier, Cub first baseman, reached "Big Six" for a quartet of circuit clouts and Ivy Wingo and "Chief" Wilson, of the Cards, each got next to the Old Master for two. Nine homers are charged up against "Rube" Marquard, holder of the National League winning and losing streak records, Sherwood Magee and Gavvy Cravath, of the Phils, each nicking Richard Le Marquis for a brace of four-ply wallops in one controversy. Art Fromme permitted eight four-bag blows, Jeff Tesreau seven, Al Demaree three (two obtained by Frank Schulte, 1911 National League Chalmers car winner), George Wiltse two and "Rube" Schauer one.

Of the Boston pitchers, Dick Rudolph was stung for homers the oftenest. He has nine four-baggers marked up against his record, Cravath being the lone athlete to get two off the little Bronxonian. George Tyler's record in yielding homers is peculiar. He allowed seven, a batsman from each club making one. Bill James, who received more votes from the Chalmers Trophy jury than any other hurler, was, like Tyler, dented for seven four-ply smashes, the Phillies getting two and each of the other clubs except St. Louis one. Perdue yielded five homers during his brief Boston career, which may have been one of the reasons Miracle Man Stallings traded him to the Cards.

The players who got homers last season off the Giant and Brave pitchers are named below:

Off Mathewson, 16—By Saier, Chicago, 4; Wilson, St. Louis, 2; Wingo, St. Louis, 2; Dolan, St. Louis, 1; Kontechy, Pittsburgh, 1; Wagner, Pittsburgh, 1; Cruise, St. Louis, 1; Connolly, Boston, 1; Wheat, Brooklyn, 1; Luderus, Philadelphia, 1; Daubert, Brooklyn, 1.

Off Marquard, 9—By Magee, Philadelphia, 2 (both in same game); Cravath, Philadelphia, 2 (both in same game); Adams, Pittsburgh, 1; Mann, Boston, 1; Smith, Brooklyn, 1; Leach, Chicago, 1; Corriden, Chicago, 1.

Off Fromme, 8—By Beck, St. Louis, 1; McCarthy, Pittsburgh, 1; Schmidt, Boston, 1; Connolly, Boston, 1; Stengel, Brooklyn, 1; Corriden, Chicago, 1; Saier, Chicago, 1; Schneider, Cincinnati, 1.

Off Tesreau, 7—By Mann, Boston, 1; Connolly, Boston, 1; Wheat, Brooklyn, 1; Saier, Chicago, 1; Good, Chicago, 1; Clarke, Cincinnati, 1; Groh, Cincinnati, 1.

P. C. C. GOLF EVENTS.

Two ladies golf events have been arranged at the Plainfield Country Club, the first for Tuesday, October 27, and the other for Friday, Nov. 6. The one next week will be a match play. Prizes will be awarded for the first six teams and also to the beaten eight. The prizes will be presented by Williams Rogers. On November 6 there will be a handicap medal play and a prize will be donated by Clifton Wharton, Jr.

CONTESTS FOR BOY SCOUTS POSTPONED

Patrol Championship Will Be Held at Parker Field Saturday Morning.

The patrol championship contest between the Boy Scout troops was not held on Saturday, as scheduled, owing to wet grounds. The competition will be held next Saturday morning at Parker Field at 10 o'clock. There will be a parade preceding the competition, starting from the First Presbyterian church at 9 o'clock, halting under the railroad bridge in Park avenue to await the arrival of distinguished guests from New York on the 9:00 o'clock express from Liberty street, due here at 9:39.

A number of out of town troops came to Plainfield, believing that the exhibition of scout work would be held. An attempt was made to reach scout headquarters in all surrounding cities by telephone but some troops had started before word of postponement reached them. The reason the demonstration will be held next Saturday morning is because the field is engaged for every Saturday afternoon until later in November.

A new troop of Boy Scouts is to be formed tonight at the First Baptist church and on Thursday evening at Hope chapel. Boys enlisting in these new troops this week will be permitted to have places in the scout parade next Saturday morning.

ARTHUR MURPHY MAKES BEST INDIVIDUAL SCORE

Arthur Murphy, of this city, playing with C. E. Lipscomb, over the Plainfield Country Club course last Saturday, set a new club record for this year when he returned a card of 74 for the eighteen holes. Going out Mr. Murphy made a 38 and on the return went this score two strokes better.

He started out with two fours and then a five, after which came a three, that averaged him four for the first four holes. Two fives and three fours was the remainder of his card, which totalled 38. On the return Mr. Murphy started off and also ended good, making the first hole in three and the last in two. Four holes that took four strokes and three that took five made up his thirty-six for the last nines holes. His card is as follows:

Out ..4 4 5 3 5 4 5 4 4—38
In ...3 4 4 5 5 4 4 5 2—36—74

SOME PLAINFIELD TEAMS ASKED TO JOIN LEAGUE

Here is a chance for a junior baseball team to enter a New Jersey Boys' Baseball League that is now being formed for the season of 1915. One William McCarthy, of Elizabeth, is at the head of this organization and has invited a Plainfield team averaging 15 to 17 years, to enter. A trophy has been secured and will be given to the winner of the league.

There are several local teams that could enter the compact and any manager who has his team ready for next season can obtain full particulars by communicating with Manager McCarthy, of 218 Third street, Elizabeth. The Elizabeth man would like to hear from a local team as soon as possible.

The pier at Midland Beach is the scene of some fishing these fine fall days. Weakfish, croakers, tomcods and flounders can be caught there. One angler caught several three-pound weakfish there Saturday.

This is the time of the year to go crabbing, as they are fat as butter and there are thousands of them to be had. Cheesequake Creek is a wonderfully good stream to fish, as it is safe for the smallest rowboat and handy to reach. The Shrewsbury River teems with big, fat crabs, as does famous old Shark River and the Manasquan.

A six-pound bluefish was landed on the Taurus one day last week. One man caught two monster blackfish, one weighing six and a half and the other eight pounds. Still another had a nine-pounder among his catch of ten blackfish, while many on board caught as high as eleven fish.

With a light west wind blowing yesterday, and all of the ebb tide to fish in the morning, conditions were ideal for fishing in the bays. Quite a few launches were to be seen off Morgan's Station. Catches of a dozen weakfish were made off Money Island and the boundary beacon, and some croakers were among the fish caught between East Point and Keansburg.

VAIL-SMITH TEAM IS NOW IN LEAD

Took All Four Games in Dunellen Tourney Saturday and Goes to the Front.

Mrs. Fred Vail and Miss Florence Smith, playing in the Dunellen Women's bowling tournament, which is being rolled on the Presbyterian alleys, made a clean sweep last Saturday afternoon and now top the team list with four victories and no defeats. Both pinned in fine style and had no trouble defeating the opposing teams. Mrs. W. J. Smith and Miss Mabel Bennett secured an even break in their games, while Miss Luella Stryker and Miss B. M. Ward lost all four games.

The first game of the afternoon's play was the hardest of all and it was only after some fine playing that the Vail-Smith duo outpointed the Bennett-Smith combination. The scores were 179 to 169. The second game was easy for the former team and its 225 could not be touched by the opponents. A 212 and a 254, which was high score of the day, won the next two games for Mrs. Vail and Miss Smith from the Stryker-Ward couplet.

The two defeated teams then met in their match and the one composed of the Misses Bennett and Smith had no trouble in disposing of their opponents. The scores were 202 to 130 and 182 to 103. This puts the winners of Saturday's play on the top rung of the standings of the teams with a perfect percentage and the Dealaman-Smalley team is second with three wins and one defeat. Miss Florence Smith took the lead in the individual standings with an average of 114, which is considered good. Her teammate, Mrs. Fred Vail, holds second place with an average of 102, and Miss Mabel Bennett is third. The results:

Mrs. Fred Vail	90	122
Miss Florence Smith	89	103

ALL-AMERICAN FOOTBALL PLAYER FOR HOLY CROSS

Rumors have been passed around in football circles that Clarence Woodman, teacher of science in the Plainfield High School, and a good football player, will play halfback on the Holy Cross team. Mr. Woodman is a product of Colgate College and was intercollegiate All-American halfback while at that institution.

If he does play with the borough team the backfield will be greatly strengthened. Mr. Woodman has been coaching the High School eleven and if he can find the time will be seen with Holy Cross soon.

PROCTOR'S BILL.

The vaudeville for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Proctor's consists of the following acts: Sager Midgley & Co., in a comedy sketch, "Taking His Temperature;" Hetty Urma, singing comedienne; "The Three Singers," who introduce some new popular songs; W. S. Harvey & Company, in his original offering, "A Room Upside Down," conceded to be the most unique juggling and balancing act on the stage, and Kelly & Williams, comedians. "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown on Wednesday.

MANY GAMES FOR PLAINFIELD GIRLS

Miss Sadie Rothberg Books Twenty-one Contests for City School Team.

Miss Sadie Rothberg, manager of the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team, has completed her schedule for the season of 1914-15. Many new teams will appear on the local court this year, such as Hackensack, Montclair and Bloomfield.

The first game of the season will be with the Alumni. This will probably be the first played in the new gym of the High School and should be a star attraction for the opener. Last year's team had a short schedule and played but six games, although they defeated the Alumni and North Plainfield. Plenty of material is available and Captain Irma Good expects to turn out a winning team this year.

The schedule:

Nov. 27—Alumni.
Dec. 4.—South Orange, at Plainfield.
Dec. 5—G. A. A. Play.
Dec. 11—Battin, at Plainfield.
Dec. 12—Plainfield, at Roselle.
Dec. 19—Plainfield, at Hackensack.
Jan. 8—Plainfield, at Bloomfield.
Jan. 9—Cranford, at Plainfield.
Jan. 15—North Plainfield, at Plainfield.
Jan. 16—Roselle, at Plainfield.
Jan. 22—Plainfield, at Westfield.
Jan. 29—Plainfield, at Roselle Park.
Feb. 5—Hackensack, at Plainfield.
Feb. 6—Plainfield, at Montclair.
Feb. 11—Roselle Park, at Plainfield.
Feb. 19—Montclair, at Plainfield.
Feb. 22—Plainfield, at North Plainfield.
Feb. 27—Bloomfield, at Plainfield.
Mar. 5—Plainfield, at Cranford.
Mar. 12—Westfield, at Plainfield.
Mar. 19—North Plainfield, neutral court.
Mar. 24.—Battin, at Plainfield.

WILL TOUR SOMERSET COUNTY.

Governor Fielder will tour Somerset county Thursday of this week, according to announcements made by the County Executive Democratic Committee. The tour will start at North Plainfield at 8:30 in the morning, when the voters of the borough will be addressed by county and congressional candidates. The last scheduled meeting of the day will be held at the Somerville armory in the evening. The tour will be made in automobiles. The speakers will include Allan B. Walsh, candidate for Congress from the Fourth district; Azariah M. Beekman, candidate for State Senator, and Francis E. Bodin, candidate for the House of Assembly.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED.

Mrs. Archibald Larmour, of 119 Madison avenue, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on a complaint made by Thomas Burke, of 434 East Third street, charging her with driving an automobile recklessly. Mrs. Larmour's car struck Burke at Park avenue and Front street, yesterday afternoon, slightly bruising him. The evidence offered by Patrolman Muir and other witnesses failed to reveal any recklessness on the part of the autoist and the complaint was dismissed.

PROGRESSIVE MEETING.

The Union County Progressive Committee will hold a ratification meeting in the Progressive headquarters, 55 Schwed building, 208 Broad street, Elizabeth, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The speakers will be Everett Colby, G. W. V. Moy, Congressional candidate, Assemblyman and county candidates. The committee will also hold a meeting Tuesday night, October 27.

JONES-COLE.

Miss E. B. Jones, of West Third street, and Edward F. Cole, of Plainfield avenue, were married last week at the parsonage of the Shiloh Baptist church, Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of that church, officiating. A few friends were in attendance. The couple wil continue to reside in this city.

MORLEY-FANTOM.

Miss Lillian Russell Morley, of West Third street, became the bride of Harold Fantom, of Monroe avenue, Saturday afternoon, at the residence of Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, of which the bride was a member. Mr. and Mrs. Fantom will reside at Bridgeport, Conn.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PELLETIER.

The funeral services of Mrs. William T. Pelletier, of Hillside avenue, who died Saturday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon at Grace Episcopal church at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

POSTPONE CREDIT MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Business Men's Credit Association, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until one week from tonight, when the session will be held in the Frost building.

RASORES TO MEET.

The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning, with Mrs. B. O. Bowers, of Franklin place.

GRAPHIC CHAPTERS IN NEWS OF GREATEST WAR DRAMA IN HISTORY

Pitiful Scenes Mark the Flight of Belgians to Foreign Soil.

Frenchman Lauds German Discipline—Army One Great Machine.

DESCRIBING the suffering of Belgians fleeing their country, a London Daily News writer gives a graphic picture of the horrors of war. His story comes from Bergen-op-Zoom. Extracts are here given:

The fitful flames of little campfires throw a curious light on the haggard faces of the refugees who are crowding around to warm their bodies, the fires in which are running very low from absence of food.

It is but one of many such scenes here, down on the edge of the earthly hades from which these silent people were driven. You cannot escape them once you enter this vortex of human misery in which I have been caught.

Yonder in the clearing the refugees have fashioned with their sheets tents fearfully and wonderfully made. Some other city dwellers with an odd sense of country life reawakened by their plight have cunningly erected huts like schoolboys make when they wish to be particularly realistic in the desire to play gypsies.

Ever hospitable, Holland cannot at a moment's notice provide homes and shelter for nearly half a million people

Clutch Madly at Food.

Nearly 10,000 thick meat sandwiches which our party prepared were given away to people, in many cases positively ravenous. Eager hands grabbed for food, women with children in their arms appealed loudly, from the edge of crowds old men and women almost crying for joy accepted the aid.

At Wouw we found the military and Red Cross people without loaves for the multitude. In the schoolrooms tired women were sleeping on straw, but their children were crying for food and drink. We left them big baskets, which soon were wrenched open, and at the request of the commandant went to Heerlen.

"They are starving there," he said, and when we arrived we found it was only too true. Sisters of Mercy had done their utmost, but the people were still unfed. They conducted us to a barn filled with refugees. When they learned the nature of our mission they dashed out from the dark recess in a mass. Soldiers helped us to see that women with children received the first aid.

Kaiser's Iron Discipline.

A distinguished French artist who was sent to the front to get inspiration for war pictures was captured by the Germans at St. Gerard, near Namur. He gives the following accounts of his experiences:

"I was placed in the middle of a marching column, and as I was loaded with my knapsack and coat (a soldier near to me carrying my papers) I could take part in the sensations of the men under the iron discipline of the officers.

"Never were we allowed to open out as I had seen the marching Belgians do and let the air circulate. We plodded on the whole day, the only rest being when there was an occasional block on the road. The march was as if on parade. Should one fall out of step the shouts of his superior soon brought him up.

"Now and then men were waiting with buckets, and as the column swung by the soldiers dipped in their aluminium cups. Another man would be holding a biscuit tin full of sweets, or it might be handfuls of prunes, but still the march went on.

Postmen Stand by Marchers.

"It was remarkable to see the field postoffice at work. The armed, blue coated postmen stood by the marching column receiving the postcards handed to them. Sometimes an officer would hand over a fowling piece or antique with the address hanging from it.

"At noon I was handed over to officers, and I left the regiment. I was on the box seat of a char-a-banc full of officers and could observe the marvelous organization of the column. The pace was at a walk, but continuous.

"Ammunition wagons, fieldpieces, carts filled with flour, whole trains of enormous pontoons pulled by heavy horses and great traction engines pulling siege guns, landaus and motorcars filled with doctors and officers whose only distinguishing mark is a strip of color at the neck—all advanced at the same pace.

All Advance at Same Pace.

"Should a slight block occur the whole column would stop as one train, the drivers passing the message back by a pumping movement made with the fist on high. The warning of a declivity or bend in the road passed backward like musketry fire. All vehicles belonged to the army. Some had chalked on their gray sides, 'Berlin-Paris.'

"Sometimes the column would let an enormous gray motor omnibus dash by, and through the glass sides I saw staff officers bending over maps. Every driver and service man carried his weapons, the great wagons simply bristling with rifles.

"At last, at a village near the French frontier, I was set down in the lit tered mairie, where, at a long table lighted by the unshaded light of lamps, staff officers were quickly writing, giving out orders between the puffs of cigarettes. At a word the aids-de-camp stood at attention, clicking their boots, their hands at the side like a statue.

"After sleeping in the open hall the next morning I was given papers to return, one staff officer kindly giving me the used half of his military map."

A Shocking Revelation.

"I have just heard a story poignant in its misery," says a Bordeaux correspondent of the London Times.

"A mother went to see her son at a hospital. He was lying comfortably tucked in bed, his head wrapped in a bandage.

"'You do not suffer much?' she asked anxiously.

"'Non, petite mere,' replied the soldier, 'pas trop.'

"'The day is fine,' she continued. 'Let us go for a little turn in the garden. Your head will be all the better for it,' and she pointed to his bandaged brow.

"'Excuse me, mother, dear,' he said, 'I am a little fatigued.'

"'Well, tomorrow?'

"'Yes; perhaps tomorrow,' and she departed, happy in the thought of seeing him the next day. When it came and the invitation was renewed it was again declined. With a little less assurance the maternal heart became suspicious.

"'But you must be wounded more seriously than you said,' she said anxiously.

"'Bend near, mother, and I will tell you.'

She bent her head.

"'My two legs and my left arm have gone.'

"The shock was terrible; her beloved boy, so handsome, so charming in his nature! No, no; it could not be true. When the truth could no longer be denied on evidence of a frightened glance, she rushed a demented creature from the ward, crying out her misery."

Amid Whistling Shells.

Arthur Ruhl, a correspondent, arriving in London told of some thrilling experiences during the bombardment of Antwerp. He was under fire several times, especially when he accompanied a British surgeon into the zone between the inner and middle forts where they were caught between cross fires.

"I've seen all the war I want to witness," said Mr. Ruhl. "Like most other people, I've read the backneyed expression that shells whistle through the air, but I know now that they whistle louder than they do in any book.

"Through the courtesy of a British surgeon I was given the opportunity to enter the zone of combat in his automobile. We could see no Germans nor could we see shells, but we could hear them coming through the air after the distant boom of guns. My head began to feel hot, and I took off my hat. A moment after I had uncovered my head a badly timed shrapnel shell from the Belgian forts at our backs broke above our heads like a terrific thunderclap, and a piece of the shell shot past two yards from our heads. I then put on my hat, which, of course, wouldn't have helped much if any shrapnel came closer, but I felt more comfortable after that with it on.

"We had gone only a short distance when a German shell hit the road fifty feet in front of us and burst. Then one landed closer. It hit the ground so near to us that the sand was thrown into our faces. Even the surgeon decided it was getting unpleasant. When he took me back to town and we were about to separate a German shell came screaming through the air. I darted into another street just about the time it crashed into some houses."

Oddities In the War News.

Frank Diedmeyer has resigned as United States consul at Chemnitz, Germany, because it made the Germans mad to hear his wife speak English, the only language she knows.

One way German air men indicate the position of the enemy is by dropping long strips of tinsel, which glitter in the sun as they writhe toward the ground.

A German machine gun that greatly annoyed the French was inaccessible, so a corps recruited in a coal mining district drove a mine gallery fifty-five yards long up to and under the emplacement and blew up the gun.

Won a Coffin on the Braves.

D. J. Coffey, an engineer of the Winsted (Conn.) fire department, won a coffin as the result of the Braves defeating the Athletics in the world's series. So confident was C. O. Huggins, an undertaker of Collinsville, that the Athletics would win that he wagered a coffin against a new hat with Coffey. As the Braves clinched the championship Huggins packed a coffin large enough to hold Coffey, who weighs about 230 pounds, for shipment to Winsted in payment of his bet.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Among the "fans" who saw the Army defeat Colgate Saturday afternoon were Instructors Beers and Woodman, both Colgate graduates, and Principal Lindsey Best and H. R. Hubbard.

Miss Gifford chaperoned a party of girls to the Randolph game Saturday afternoon. The young ladies who went were the Misses Elsa Palmer, Elizabeth Mumford and Marion Archer.

Roscoe Blanchard gave an informal dance at his home Saturday night. The following young people were present: Edward Ryder, Edward Crone, David Blanchard, Philip Schuyler, Rollman Parvin, and the Misses Dorothy Simons, Mary Simons, Ruth Moorhees, Marion Blanchard and Hildegarde Hamilton.

Miss Jeanette Neighbor, secretary to Mr. Best, has just returned after a week's absence. During her absence Miss Neva Waldorf, '13, substituted.

Walter C. Conhill, of Colgate University, has been the guest of Arthur McKay for the past two days. He visited the High School this morning.

Thomas R. Randolph, of West Front street, has resigned his position as representative for the local branch of the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

ORGANIZE MUSICIANS' UNION.

A preliminary meeting of musicians of this city and vicinity was held yesterday afternoon, at the Building Trades Council rooms. A large number attended the gathering among whom were several of the local men who are members of the Elizabeth Local Union. An application for a charter has been made, and fifty applications for membership in the new union have already been received.

TO RECEIVE DONATIONS.

The Plainfield Flower and Fruit Guild will receive donations of apples, oranges, grapes, grape juice, jellies, delicacies and flowers to be distributed among the "shut-ins" of the city, at the usual hours this afternoon and tomorrow morning.

INSANE SAVED FROM ASYLUMS

A State Law Which Provides For Home Treatment.

EARLY CASES ARE PAROLED.

Under the Hospital Out Patient Department System Convalescents Are Permitted to Return to Their Families, Where They Are Subject to Professional Observation.

A bill was passed, practically unnoticed, in the closing days of the last session of the New York legislature which, says Dr. Thomas W. Salmon in the Survey, marked as important a step in the care of the insane as has been taken in a generation. The bill, which is now a law and in effect, permits each state hospital for the insane to establish an outpatient department.

This opens a way for efficient treatment in the earliest stages of persons ill with mental diseases and at the same time makes it possible to discharge convalescing patients who previously had to be kept from friends and families because it was impossible to provide skilled observation and advice after they had left the hospitals.

The records of 5,000 patients admitted for the first time to New York state hospitals for the insane in 1911 show that in nearly a third of all cases the mental diseases had existed at least a year before admission.

Minor Mental Ailments.

The treatment of mental diseases in out patient departments is not an untried experiment. There are already three such clinics in New York and a very few widely scattered in other states.

To these clinics come cases rarely seen by physicians in institutions for the insane—a child brought by a mother whose quick intuition has told her that he is "different" from the others; a man who has found his accustomed work grown suddenly difficult and is conscious of loss of memory and rapidly rising irritability; a depressed old lady who realizes that some small misfortunes cannot be wholly responsible for the new anxiety which is dominating her life; the anxious wife of a man who "was always a good husband, although he drank a bit," but lately has become morose and suspicious and has lost four jobs in quick succession because "people are all against him;" the brother of a patient in a state hospital who anxiously inquires if it is "absolutely sure" that he will become insane because his brother did and who has worried so much about it that he can think of nothing else.

It would be unfortunate, however, to give the impression that early diagnosis and early treatment insure recovery in all cases of mental diseases or even in the greater proportion of them. There are several large groups of mental diseases in which early diagnosis and treatment are quite powerless to influence in any way an inevitably unfavorable outcome.

Under Physicians' Watchful Care.

With out patient departments able to extend into the communities the skilled observation and care now possible only in hospitals, many patients can be safely paroled, and at the expiration of six months or a year a large proportion of them permanently discharged.

The out patient departments can be operated as integral parts of the hospitals to which they are attached and the physicians, being supplied with all the clinical notes of patients during their hospital residence, can make treatment absolutely continuous. Under such circumstances many hundreds of patients can be paroled annually, with the understanding that regular visits, at first frequent—even daily—and later less frequent, will be made to the out patient departments where the physicians can advise both patients and relatives and closely observe the progress of the mental disease.

These are some of the immediate needs which out patient departments of the state hospitals will meet. It is difficult to predict just what the future development of the clinic for mental diseases will be and yet, so Dr. Salmon believes, it seems not too visionary to conceive of their growth into mental hygiene institutes in our larger centers of population in which many cases of mental disease will be successfully treated without the necessity of removal from their homes.

GRANDEST OF ALL AVENUES.

Sequoia Lane, In Yellowstone Park, to Surpass Any In World.

Sequoia lane in Yellowstone National park is destined to be the most beautiful avenue in the world, according to the annual report of the superintendent of the park to Secretary of the Interior Lane.

"On Oct. 30, 1913," the report reads, "there was planted on both sides of the road extending from the Sentinel bridge to Kennyville, on the north side of the Merced river, a row of sequoia seedlings. The rows were placed 104 feet apart, the trees in each row eighty feet apart. Oct. 30 has been designated as 'Arbor day' for the park, and the avenue has been named Sequoia lane. A future generation will there observe the most beautiful avenue in the world."

Queer Things That Turn Up In the News

The town of Sabetha, Kan., possesses as citizens H. Rider Haggard and Robert Louis Stevenson.

At the Greene (Me.) fair William Haley, aged eight, exhibited a pair of young steers which he had brought up and broken.

A man from abroad registered at a New York hotel recently as Raymond de Bulow, "Russian, from London," because he thought it dangerous to be mistaken for a German.

In 1868 an employee of Nelson Negus of Marquette, Mich., lost a watch on the latter's farm. While drawing sand from a hill recently Negus found the watch. It still keeps time.

When lawyers tendered a "farewell" dinner to Joseph Lemkuhl his fiancee, Miss Margaret Reilly, seated at her home in Brooklyn, heard toasts offered to her health over the long distance telephone.

OUR MERRY CHRISTMAS TO THE POOR KIDDIES ABROAD.

A Noble Work In Which an Army of American Women Is Engaged.

Not a day passes without news of more killings in the frightful strife in which Europe is engaged and some men have calculated that by next Christmas 1,000,000 children will be fatherless because of the war.

It is to bring at least a little Christmas joy to these orphans that almost 2,000,000 American women have started a fund to send Yuletide remembrances abroad early in December. Contributions are being received by one newspaper in all the principal cities of the United States.

The Red Cross society is interested in the work and will help in the distribution of gifts. The latter will be sent in holiday boxes and will include a doll, a stocking full of candy, a bag of nuts, a Christmas card and a few pennies for each girl recipient and the same for the boys, with the exception that for them a toy will take the place of a doll.

The Christmas packages are to go to all the nations at war, the offering being strictly impartial.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond, wife of the eminent mining engineer, is chairman of the advisory board of the Christmas fund committee. Mrs. Eva MacDonald Valesh, an editor, is the treasurer.

The state presidents of the Woman's club movement are acting as a national committee with Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Valesh. There are 1,700,000 members enrolled in the various organizations working actively for the success of this laudable enterprise.

COTTON BALL IS NEXT.

Women of Washington to Set Country Wide Example to Aid the South.

At a recent meeting of the officials and other leading spirits of the Southern society of Washington it was decided to devote the October and November meetings of the society to the furtherance of the great southern and national movement in the interest of the south's leading product—cotton. The November meeting will resolve itself into a grand cotton ball, which is expected to set the pace for similar balls all over the United States.

The officers of the society, who are entering into hearty co-operation toward the perfection of the plans proposed, include Claude N. Bennett, president, and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, general vice president. Aiding them and really directing the affair and co-ordinating the many details necessary to success are committees of prominent social leaders.

HAS SLEPT TEN MONTHS.

Man In Massachusetts Hospital Gets Food Through Tube.

In the State hospital at East Gardner, Mass., is a man twenty-seven years old who has been asleep ten months and, in the opinion of Dr. Charles Thompson, is probably good for a year more. The authorities refuse to divulge his name.

"This man was brought here suffering mentally," said Dr. Thompson. "He is fed twice a day by tube, receiving milk, eggs and prepared cereals. His weight has remained practically the same."

TO THE MOTHER ALL CROWS ARE WHITE.

A neighbor told Mrs. Joseph C. Deal that her son, Chuck Deal, third baseman of the Boston Braves, had hit into three double plays.

"Of course," replied Mrs. Deal proudly. "Charlie always does right."

When it was explained to her that to hit into a double play is not considered just the thing in a world's series she was still unconvinced.

"That may be so," she said, "but Charlie will have to say it was not right. He knows best."

LOVERS of fruit salads find the fall a particularly favorable time for the enjoyment of these foods. The autumn fruits, like the apple and the grape, are essentials in the making of these salad dainties. Oranges, pears, peaches, grapefruit and the various nuts are useful salad ingredients.

Novel Salad.

Melon Salad.—Take a ripe melon and peel, removing the hard part of the flesh. Cut the edible part into fairly thick slices. Spread these on a dish and season them ten minutes before serving with salt, pepper and lemon juice or vinegar. Then arrange them neatly on a deep oval dish and send to table.

Mandarin Salad.—Take a dozen mandarin oranges, peel and quarter them and take out the pips. Put the fruit into a bowl, with sufficient powdered sugar to sweeten and cognac to flavor. Let them steep in this for an hour and serve in a salad bowl or fruit dish. In the latter case they should be decorated with glace or candied cherries.

Dainty and Delicious.

Orange and Apple Salad.—Peel three sound, tart apples and the same number of juicy oranges. Cut them into slices of the same thickness. Take out the orange pips and core the apples. Pour into a bowl half a pint of syrup flavored with grape juice or kirsch and add about an ounce and a half of powdered sugar. Place in the sliced fruit and let it steep for about half an hour. Then arrange it in a deep fruit dish, placing a glace cherry in the center of each slice of apple.

Put Up For Winter Use.

Apple Salad a la Russe.—Take two dozen peppercorns, three bay leaves, a dozen cloves, some honey and boil in vinegar. When this is cold arrange small russet apples in layers in a small cask, separating the layers with rye straw. When the cask is full pour in the prepared liquor, which should entirely cover the apples. Close the cask so as to be air tight and put into a cool place. Apples are served this way in winter in place of salad. Pears, apricots, peaches and plums may be prepared in the same way, replacing the straw by grape, cherry or fig leaves.

Just Then the Little Glass Bottle Fell Out of Jack's Hand.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Life Story Of the Little Glass Bottle.

JACK was whistling into a bottle as he and Evelyn ran to daddy.

"Want to hear the story of the little glass bottle?" asked daddy.

"Can you tell a story about a bottle, daddy?" inquired Evelyn, surprise in her round blue eyes.

"Why, yes!" replied daddy. "Things so seemingly commonplace even as a bottle can have charming romances woven about them.

"Now, that little bottle that Jack has. What was in it, Jack, when you first saw it?"

"Tablets, daddy. I had to take them when I had tonsilitis," explained Jack.

"Well, don't you think that little bottle must have been in a great many different places before it got into our medicine chest in the upper hall?"

"Yes, I s'pose so," said Jack, "but I never thought about it."

"We got it from Dr. Richards, and it came to the doctor done up in a box with heaps of other bottles of the same size, and they were wrapped up so carefully in cotton so they wouldn't get their little sides cracked.

"They were sent from the bottle factory, possibly from Millville, N. J. There is a big glass factory there, and very likely this little glass bottle was blown there."

"Blown there," inquired Jack, "by the wind, do you mean?"

"Well, yes; you might call it 'by the wind,'" said daddy, "but it really is blown by a man with a blow pipe or by a machine into forms made just the right size.

"But before you can blow a bottle you have to have material with which to blow. This is a thick fluid made by mixing bicarbonate of soda—the sort mamma uses in the kitchen—with pure sand, lime and another material, refined nitrate of soda.

Just then the little glass bottle fell out of Jack's hand and fell with a crash upon the brick hearth.

"There," said daddy, "that little bottle's future is not difficult to tell. It will soon find a resting place in the garbage can."

"But what will become of the pieces after they are taken away?" asked Evelyn.

"They will go to a reduction plant along with other refuse and come away from there perhaps as a fertilizer.

"You put the fertilizer on your garden, and perhaps the particles of that same little glass bottle may help to nourish a beautiful flower."

"Well," said Evelyn, "that all sounds like a fairy tale."

CONCERT NETTED $40 FOR SWEDISH LUTHERAN CHURCH

The concert and entertainment at the Swedish Lutheran church on East Seventh street, Saturday, was a great success for the little congregation. The church was filled with members and friends and a pleasant time was had by all present. The affair netted about $40. The program was as follows:

Reading of Scripture and prayer, Rev. K. A. Martin; words of welcome, Dr. Martin; song, quartet from Upsala College; declamation, Miss Helen Lundblad; violin solo, Mr. Lindstrom, of Upsala College; recitation, Rector Peter Froeberg; song, students of Upsala College; recitation, Water Peterson; vocal solo, Harry Kunkohn; address, Rector Peter Froeberg; song by students; remarks, Rev. Karl A. Martin. At the conclusion of the entertainment refreshments were served.

SOCIAL AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Workingmen's Circle, Branch No. 84, of this city, an entertainment and social was held in Knights of Pythias Hall, last night. Isaac Goldberg was chairman of the affair. Music was furnished by Prof. Kogan, accompanied by his pupils. There were recitations by Mrs. Goldberg and Harold Goldberg; also violin selections by Harold Goldberg and songs by William Walter. There were about 250 people present.

PATROLMAN SHOT HORSE.

A horse belonging to Samuel Pedd, of 933 West Second street, was shot by Patrolman Hendershott yesterday afternoon. The animal was down and out.

PAY TRIBUTE TO HERMAN SCHWED

Friends Give Surprise Dinner in Honor of Returned European Traveler.

EULOGIZED BY MANY

Mayor Stewart, Dr. Saunders, William Starr Bullock and Others Express High Regard for Guest, Who Replies Modestly.

Tribute to Herman Schwed as a citizen and business man was paid, last night, by about one hundred of his friends, who gathered at The Ritz for a dinner at which the guest of honor was felicitated on his safe return from a trip abroad. It was probably the most successful gathering of the kind that has ever been held in the city, and was arranged to be a complete surprise to the guest of the evening, by members of the Business Men's Association.

Speeches eulogizing Mr. Schwed in the highest terms were made by Charles S. Sminck, who acted as toastmaster; Mayor Percy H. Stewart, former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield; former Councilman William Starr Bullock, Frederick G. Thomas, of Somerville; William Quick, president of the Somerville Business Men's Association, and Councilmen Leighton Calkins and Theodore Martin. Mr. Schwed replied in a few words, expressing his deep appreciation of the honor done him.

President A. E. Force, of the Business Men's Association, introduced Mr. Sminck as toastmaster in a few words, and the latter expressed his pleasure at being called for the task at such a time, when all joined with joy and thanksgiving for the return of Mr. Schwed, whose success had been well merited. "It gives me great pleasure to propose a toast to Herman Schwed," said the speaker and it was drunk by the gathering amid applause.

Prior to introducing Mayor Stewart, Mr. Sminck said that the Plainfield Business Men's Association was doing much good because of the high personnel of its members, and the belief in co-operation. He said that for the twenty-two years that he had lived in this city he had received full value for every dollar spent here. He praised the city, and said that residents are fortunate in that they can count among their blessings a lofty civic pride, high standards of citizenship, and a splendid city with splendid citizens, ideally situated. He then told of the advantages gained by living in New Jersey, after which he told of the high honor accorded him in introducing Mayor Stewart.

The Mayor was received with heartily applause, which frequently interrupted his remarks in reference to the guest of the evening. He said that it was an honor for him to be one to welcome one whom all delight to honor and whom he termed a broad-minded citizen. He said that the old world which Mr. Schwed had just left had been a revelation to us, and that things are happening over there now which it is hard to believe is possible in these days. The speaker then took up the pressing matters which have been brought about by the industrial depression in this city. "What are we going to do for the large number of skilled mechanics and men out of employment?" said the speaker. "It must be something that will not lessen their self-respect, and yet at the same time help the city. It is a matter that must be given serious consideration, for it is not a theory, but a hard condition which we are facing. We must take the matter under careful consideration, and find out how many have families, and how many are single; the class of employment needed, and many other necessary things, before we can intelligently solve the problem."

Saunders "Great Consolidator."

Dr. Saunders was introduced as the "great consolidator," and he opened his remarks with humorous stories applicable to the occasion. He referred to the consolidation fight as the "war across the brook," and said that when he asked why Mr. Schwed

NEWARK AUTHORITIES HOLD LOCAL SUSPECT

Plainfielder Charged With Stealing Horse Will Face Grand Jury.

Charles E. Graber, of Clinton avenue, was held under bonds of $1,000, yesterday, by Judge Hahn, in Newark, to await the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of horse stealing. Graber, in company with Edwin J. Ward, of Brooklyn, was arrested in Huntington, L. I., at the request of the Newark authorities and his extradition to this State resulted. The man was charged with stealing a horse and rig which he is said to have hired Thursday from the stable of Clayton & Huff, 221 Halsey street, Newark. When Graber failed to return with the outfit the stable managers notified the police.

Graber is said to have met Ward in New York and the two drove to Long Island. At Huntington, it is said, Graber tried to sell the outfit to a saloonkeeper for $25. The latter became suspicious, however, and would buy only the harness. Without the harness Graber was unable to proceed. The police arrived shortly afterward and arrested him and Ward and then notified the Newark police. The two were brought to Newark, yesterday, by Detectives Horter and Jakes.

Ward proved to the court that he had met Graber in New York and was in no way concerned in the alleged theft of the horse and rig. He was discharged.

CHIEF KIELY SPEAKS AT STATE GATHERING

Local Police Head a Delegate to New Jersey Motor Vehicle Meeting.

Appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart as a delegate to the State Motor Vehicle Commission's meeting in Trenton, yesterday, Chief of Police Kiely was one of the speakers at the session, advocating more stringent and thorough examinations for license applicants. Chief Kiely suggested that the applicant's moral, as well as physical ability be taken into consideration by the examiners, declaring that individuals who knew how to run cars, but whose character was not up to the standard, were a menace to the community as chauffeurs. In taking this interesting stand the Plainfield delegate cited instances that have occurred here in which supposedly honest chauffeurs have sought employment from local residents and after a short period of service had robbed or committed some other crime at the expense of the employer. He said that an individual holding a State license to drive automobiles, or any other motor driven vehicle, should be thoroughly acquainted with what the law demands and should be a person of high moral standing in the community. He suggested that the motor vehicle commissioners inquire into the character and previous reputation of applicants before granting certificates.

Chief Kiely also commented on the manner in which various State judiciaries are dealing with violators of the motor laws. He advocated a stringent enforcement of the regulations and said that without the cooperaion of the magistrates of the communities the police were practically rendered helpless. Chief Kiely's remarks met with decided favor from the many delegates at the meeting and it is probable that some definite action will be taken on his suggestion at the next gathering.

The question as to which automobile is entitled to the right of way when two approach each other at a street juncture was one of the subjects discussed at the meeting in the State House. Morris R. Sherrerd, chief engineer of Newark, suggested that a plan now in force in Germany be adopted. This provides that when two machines approach the right of way be given to the vehicle approaching from the driver's right. It was agreed that such a plan would be all right.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Lippincott suggested that all of the traffic officers in the State be given instructions which would be practical if a uniform system of traffic laws be put in operation. It was agreed that George S. LaBarre, director of public safety in Trenton, and a member of the Commission, had used good judgment in issuing an order in his home city preventing cars from parking in front of fire hydrants.

FIRST WARDERS MEET.

The First Ward Republican Club met last night at the headquarters in the Frost building, at which time business of a routine nature was transacted. Another session is to be held next Monday evening.

ACCIDENTLY INJURED IN CLEANING WEAPON

Nineteen Year Old Girl Badly Hurt When Revolver Went Off.

While cleaning a revolver on the second floor of her parents' home on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, Miss Belle Murray, aged 19 year, had the misfortune to touch the trigger and the weapon was discharged, a bullet being sent into her body. The bullet was of the .32 calibre variety and entered the body near the heart passing between the lower portion of the stomach and the left lung. The missile passed within one-half inch of the heart. Although apparently mortally wounded the girl had presence of mind enough to crawl to a window and scream for aid, there being no one in the house at the time. Her terrified shouts were heard by a neighbor who rushed to her assistance. First aid remedies were applied, but when the victim acquainted the neighbor with the true nature of her injury a doctor was hastily summoned.

Dr. Carl Gesswein was the first to arrive and removed the bullet after a probe. The girl lingered between life and death last night, but the physician in charge of the case stated this morning that hopes are now entertained for her recovery. The position of the wound makes the case a particularly critical one.

In an endeavor to find something to occupy her time after her parents left the house yesterday afternoon, the girl went to the room of her father, where she found the revolver on the dresser. With the intention of cleaning the weapon she was taking it apart when it went off. The victim did not know that it contained a bullet and accidentally pulled the trigger.

The girl is well-known in the West End of town, although her parents moved to this city less than a year ago. She has a particularly jovial disposition and makes friends readily. The victim is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Murray.

MISS GRACE P. KARR WEDS W. H. GIESE

Announcement was received here today of the marriage of Miss Grace Powell Karr, of this city, to William Harrington Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Giese, of Westervelt avenue, last Saturday. The ceremony took place at the Church of Transfiguration, New York, Dr. Houghton, rector of the church, officiating. The coupe was attended by the groom's parents and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Karr, of Forest Hill, Newark, relatives of the bride.

The groom is a graduate of North Plainfield High School in the class of 1910 and is now in business in New York as a draughtsman. The bride is well-known in this city where she has been a music teacher.

DISCHARGED FROM HOSPITAL AND ARRESTED AS A SPEEDER

Lewis Copperage, of 154 West 90th street, New York, was arrested at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon, by Patrolman John Kelley following a ten-day confinement due to injuries sustained in a motorcycle crash on East Seventh street. Copperage was charged with exceeding the speed limit when arraigned in court before Judge DeMeza, this morning, and through his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, entered a plea of non vult.

The man admitted his culpability and his counsel made a strong plea for leniency inasmuch as the offender had been punished by injuries received. He was driving a motorcycle which crashed into a car owned by Robert Rushmore. The latter was in court this morning, but did not press the charge against the youth, who formerly lived in this city. In disposing of the case, Judge DeMeza took into consideration the offender's punishment by injuries sustained and his long lay-off from employment together with the fact that he has borne an excellent reputation in the community. Sentence was suspended with a warning that a second infraction would mean a severe penalty being levied.

SUMMER HOME DESTROYED.

"Sunnhut," the handsome summer residence of E. E. Barney, of New York, located on Raccoon Island, Lake Hopatcong, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night. The origin of the blaze is a mystery, as the place has not been occupied for several weeks. Mr. Barney is well known in Plainfield and many of his friends from this city have been entertained at Sunnyhut." The loss is placed at $10,000, partially covered by isurance.

HERBERT S. ROGERS TO WED MISS INMAN

Ceremony to Be Performed at Florence Villa, Florida, November 9.

Mrs. Lillian Jewett Inman has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Eleanor Virginia Inman, and Herbert Stevens Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers, of North Plainfield, Monday afternoon, November 9, at 4 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Florence E. Inman, Florence Villa, Florida.

The engagement of Miss Inman and Mr. Rogers was announced on February 27 last. The former is a niece of the late Dr. F. W. Inman, who developed a large citrus territory in Florida. The announcement of the engagement was made at a reception and dance given by Miss Inman's mother, at which there were several Plainfielders.

At the same time that Mr. Rogers announced his engagement, he also announced that he had purchased an orange grove at Florence Villa and he has since been engaged in that business in the south. He also represents the Lake Region Fruit & Grove Company. He originally went to Florida at the suggestion of Duncan Bruce, formerly of New York, who is well known in this city and is now conducting a large grove in Florida. At that time Dr. Bruce announced his engagement to Miss Keyser, of Baltimore.

EDWARD C. STOKES TO SPEAK AT BOROUGH RALLY

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes has been announced as the chief speaker of the Republican rally to be held at Saengerbund Hall, the borough, next Monday evening, for which the Republican Club, of North Plainfield, has completed arrangements. This meeting will probably be the largest gathering of a political nature to be held in the borough during the present campaign.

Monday afternoon will be "campaign day" in the borough, as a number of the county candidates will spend the major portion of the day there in meeting with the leaders of the party and the voters. The speakers of the evening will include, aside from Mr. Stokes, Senator Leavitt, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Elijah C. Hutchinson, of Mercer county, candidate for Congressional honors in the Fourth district; Senator W. W. Smalley, candidate for re-election, and Ogden Hammond, candidate for the Assembly from Somerset county.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the meeting, which will include a parade, is as follows: First district, J. V. E. Vanderhoef and Fred Armstrong; Second district, Edmund Rushmore and Andrew Lutkins; Third district, Henry DeMott and Frank Kesselring; Fourth district, Robert Clark, Jr., and W. C. Smith; Fifth district, Allen Cowperthwait and S. C. Mundy.

GRANTED AN ABSOLUTE DIVORCE IN VIRGINIA COURTS

Mrs. Ida Caroline Pittis has been granted an absolute divorce from her husband, Dr. Albert Pittis, on the grounds of desertion, by the Circuit Court, of Alexandria county, Virginia, Judge Thornton presiding, she having taken up her residence for one year in Alexandria. In the decree given she is to receive no alimony nor have any rights in the doctor's property. William N. Runyon and Charles A. Reed, of the firm of Reed & Hetfield, represented Dr. Pittis.

FEED WIRE BROKE.

Considerable excitement was caused at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, on East Fourth street, between Watchung avenue and Sycamore street, when one of the trolley feed wires broke. The "live" wire dangled in the air for sometime burning other wires and parts of trees with which it came in contact.

LOCAL WOMAN SUES FOR $5,000 DAMAGES

Mrs. Annie Jones Brings Action Against Public Service Railway Corporation.

In a suit to recover $5,000 remuneration for injuries said to have been sustained in alighting from a Board Street car in Elizabeth, October 10, 1913, Mrs. Annie Jones, of 1325 Evergreen avenue, appeared as plaintiff before Judge William H. Speer, in Elizabeth, this morning. The Public Service Railway Corporation is made defendant in the suit.

According to information brought out at the trial, this morning, Mrs. Jones was coming to her home in this city when the accident happened. She was hurrying under the arch of the New Jersey Central an Broad street, Elizabeth, to catch a train when she was struck by the car. Her left leg was broken and she was confined to her home for a number of weeks as a result of her hurts. The case went to the jury this afternoon.

PARTY LEADERS HOSTS FOR STATE CHAIRMAN

G. O. P. County Committee Entertained in Elizabeth Last Night.

Members of the Union County Republican Committe gave a reception at the Mattano Club in Elizabeth, last night, at which State G. O. P. Chairman Bugby was the invited guest. All of the county and State candidates were present at the affair and after the dinner the guests went to the Republican headquarters, where the party men held a rally meeting. William Newcorn, county chairman, presided at the meeting, and in a short speech impressed the importance of seeing that all Republican voters were registered today, this being the last opportunity voters will have of making themselves eligible for balloting at the November election.

Mr. Newcorn declared that next to getting the vote out at the election this was the most important proposition to be attended to by the party leaders. He announced the following schedule of events for the remainder of the week: Meetings at Hillside and Union, Wednesday night; Cranford and Elizabeth, Thursday night; Plainfield, Garwood and Kenilworth, Friday night, and two meetings at Westfield, Saturday night. The present plan is to have half of the candidates speaking at one of the designated places each night while the other half are at the other towns. At the conclusion of their speeches they will proceed immediately to the town not covered and alternate with the speaker who appeared there first. In this manner it is proposed to have all of the candidates present at each meeting.

State Chairman Bugby addressed the assemblage last night, imparting considerable valuable information and suggestions to the candidates campaigning for offices. He reviewed the present and past status of State finances and commended A. N. Pierson for his speech of last Saturday night, when he said that the Republican party had left $2,500,000 in the treasury for the incoming party. By the end of the fiscal year, October 31, 1914, this balance will have decreased to $2,300,000, according to the State chairman's estimate. He spoke of the efforts of the Democratic party to pass certain bills with a view to dodging the issue, among the latter being the Inheritance Tax, which, he declared, was substituted for the imposition of a State tax. He cautioned the committee against being fooled by the excuse holding the present war responsible for existing conditions. The speaker showed that the tariff under the present system is more to blame than the war and that the present business depression existed before the trouble in Europe broke out.

All of the county candidates and those running for State offices were present and made short addresses.

CONVOCATION MEETING.

The Convocation of New Brunswick is in session today at St. Bernard's Episcopal church, Bernardsville, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. This morning there were reports from the different parishes and this afternoon missions will be considered with an address this evening.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE TO DRIVE GERMAN-AUSTRIAN ARMY BACK GAINING LAND LOST LAST MONTH

PETROGRAD REPORTS TAKING OF PRISONERS AND FUTILE EFFORTS OF GERMANS TO DOWN CZAR'S TROOPS NEAR PRZEMYSL.

SITUATION IN FRANCE COMPARATIVELY QUIET

Belgians Hold Position on Yser River—Rome Dispatch Says Austrian Fleet Has Failed in Attempt to Escape From Cattaro—Japanese Offer to Permit Germans to Surrender With Honor—Germans Claim Gains at Verdun.

Petrograd, Oct. 20, (Central News)—The Russians continue to thrust the German and Austrian army back from the Warsaw-Ivangorod front, compelling the enemy to withdraw step by step from the territory seized in September.

The German right wing stretching into Galicia has been making determined attacks in the last few days, as have also the Austrians under German commanders on the front of Sanob Staro-Miesto, south of Przemysl. Repelling these attacks the Russians in several bayonet charges took 15 Austian officers and more than 1,000 men. The Austrians failed in an attempt to cross the river San. No essential change in the Russian-Prussian front resulted from the hostilities of the two days preceding that.

The artillery fire of the enemy continues day and night along the Vistula river, under cover of which the Germans manoeuvre, says the official Army Gazette. They frequently attempt attacks which always fail. The Russians have in this part of the battle front been successful in their efforts to repel the enemy, and have been able to deal heavy defeats, as well as to destroy the enemy's bridging material. A considerable force of Germans was located October 14, southeast from Sandomir, as far as the Dniester.

Over a 135 mile front fighting began against the Austrians on Monday and Tuesday of last week, when a group of Austrians on the line from Sanok and Lisko was defeated in advancing to Sanbor. The Russians took as prisoners, seven officers and 500 men. On Wednesday the Russians again repulsed the Austrians at Sanbor, and made prisoners of three companies, with all of their officers. In the north it is estimated that the German forces that were engaged lost forty per cent. in killed and wounded. On the Deman the Russians found and buried 18,000 German corpses.

Two German aeroplanes flew over the city of Warsaw yesterday and dropped five bombs. It is stated that quite a number of persons were either killed or injured.

Paris, Oct. 20.—Following is the French war office statement made public at 3 p. m. today: "On our left wing the Germans continue their strong advances from Lille in the direction of Armentieres, Fourness and Le Basse. On the Meuse the enemy has attempted in vain to repulse that part of our troops which debouched on the right bank in the peninsula of Camp des Romains. To sum up, on the day of the nineteenth we made some little progress at different points on the front."

The war office this afternoon also gave out the following statement: "In Belgium, in spite of violent attacks on the part of the enemy the Belgian army has held its position on the line of the river Yser. There have been other actions in the region of Ypres between the Allied forces operating in this territory and the forces of the enemy."

London, Oct. 20.—A Central News cable from Rome says the Tribuna's correspondent at San Giovanni Di Medua wires that an Austrian squadron of three cruisers, twelve destroyers and three secondary vessels sortied from Cattaro yesterday in an evident attempt to run for the Austrian naval base at Pola. Two aeroplanes of the Allied fleet, which were circling over the neighboring mountains, discovered the vessels and apprised the Franco-British fleet at once. The Austrians were met with a heavy fire and one of the cruisers was seriously damaged. The entire squadron then returned to Cattaro.

An elaborate wireless apparatus has been discovered in a private house situated near the seaport town of Kirkcaldy, on the east coast of Scotland. The discovery is all the more important as the house in which the apparatus was found had an uninterreupted view of the Firth of Forth and it is believed that frequent communication with the German war vessels in the North Sea from this point caused the destruction of the British cruiser Hawke.

A despatch from Amsterdam says that the German war office at Berlin issued the following statement today:

"After several weeks of desperate resistance our troops have captured some of the forts surrounding Verdun. This opens the way for an attack on the main fortifications, and preparations for this are now being made. In the east the Austrian and German forces are meeting with continued success against the Russians. The situation in the west shows little change. The remnant of the Belgian army is opposing our Antwerp army near the coast. The French and British troops, apparently worn out by their efforts to check our advance, are leaving the burden of the conflict on the Belgians, who are showing great bravery. The enemy in this theatre of war seems to have exhausted his reinforcements, and to have weakened his line by extending it in the effort to keep our troops from the front."

Amsterdam, Oct. 20, (Central News Cable)—The Japanese commander has offered the Germans in the garrison at Kiao Chau Bay honorable terms of surrender which have been refused, says a dispatch from Tokio published in the National moved, as they are no longer of any use since the county straightened the curve. The new stretch of road will not have any lights, which is a distance of about two hundred yards, as the Borough Council thought the lights could be more advantageously placed in a more populated section. As H. C. Lockwood gave the land over which the new road passes the old part will likely be given to him.

Warrenville.

The Mt. Bethel Social Club gave a dance at Mountain House, Saturday evening.

An old-fashioned "apple cut" was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ralph, of Mt. Bethel, Saturday evening. About four bushels of apples were cut for drying, after which a lunch was served. The remainder of the evening was spent in singing and playing games. About fifty were present.

A voting contest for the most popular young woman in Califon was held last week. PRIZE ESSAY HONORS.

The scientific branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union holds contests each year under the auspices of its local, State and national departments, awarding prizes for the best essay written on a certain subject in the different departments. It will be recalled that the prize of $5 offered to the pupils of Plainfield High School by the local department of Plainfield, under the supervision of Mrs. T. C. Bodine, was won this year by a Dunellen girl, Miss Helen Swackhamer, daughter of former Mayor Harry J. Swackhamer. After being awarded first prize in the local contest, Miss Swackhamer's essay was entered in the State department contest and word has just been received that her paper has won the State prize of $5. The essay will now be passed on to the national department, and Dunellen, which has been so honored in the splendid achievement of this young woman, sincerely hopes that Miss Swackhamer may win the national prize, which is $25.

Miss Elsie Dusel, of Brooklyn, is spending a week in the borough as the guest of her uncle, E. J. Dusel, of Walnut street.

Miss Edith Wyckoff, daughter of former Mayor and Mrs. William Wyckoff, entertained a cousin from Jersey City over the week-end.

SCHOOL NOTES.

A week from this evening, October 29, will witness the opening of night school in the Lincoln School. The session will open at 7:30 o'clock. The grading of the grounds about the new school, under the supervision of Charles Clark, has about been completed. Six new branches have been added to the manual training department, making a total of 20 fully equipped branches in all. Recent new features of work in this department are bookbinding and chair seating. A general teachers' meeting was held in the Lincoln School at 3:45 this afternoon.

TO HOLD BANQUET.

After considerable discussion as to whether the present times were opportune or not, it was finally decided by the members of the Board of Trade, at their monthly meeting, last night, to hold its annual banquet. The event will be held some time during the middle of December. The committee in charge as named by President E. J. Dusel is as follows: Joseph G. Walton, chairman; E. B. Latham, Lewis T. Churchill, Earle M. Jones, E. H. Dean, H. S. Garretson, H. J. Swackhamer, John P. Fenner, John Fedderman, J. E. Dix, A. N. Randolph and Percy R. Abbott. A communication was received from a Edward B. Jennings in which he stated that it had occurred to him that it might be possible to enlist sufficient capital in Dunellen to rehabitulate the Norton Iron Works, locating the business in Dunellen. Mr. Jennings stated that he held the position of chief engineer of the old regime and that he would agree to act as general manager at a fair salary plus a share of the profits. Mr. Jennings neglected, however, to state in what city or town the business of the company had formerly been located. John Fedderman created much laughter by suggesting that it might have been Belgium. The secretary was instructed to write Mr. Jennings advising him that the Board knew of no person or persons who might care to invest money in the enterprise.

A communication was received from Dr. E. B. Shaw, a practising physician of Albermarle, N. C., who formerly resided in this State, and evidently prefers good old Jersey to the bright and sunny South, as he wants to move back. The doctor is considering Dunellen as among the places in this State that it may pay him to pursue his profession, as in his communication he asks our population, the average house rent and the number of physicians and churches that there are here. He also wanted to know whether a Masonic lodge was located here. The communication was referred to the secretary to furnish the information desired.

A communication was received from Baker & Grover, of Newark, regarding a site for a skeen silk dye factory. The factory is to be a one story affair and is to cover 20,000 feet of floor space. It will furnish employment to 100 men. Among the municipal requisites are salt water, sewerage, drainage, etc. The communication was referred to the manufacturing committee.

The matter of a much needed storm sewerage system was broached by President Dusel, and after being discussed at length it was decided to call the Council's attention to the borough-wide need of such a system, emphasizing particularly the imperative need in that respect of the area bounded by Washington avenue, North avenue, Madison avenue and Bonegut Brook, and recommending that the cost of the improvement be assessed against the property benefitted.

The attention of the meeting was called by Edward H. Dean to the condition of the old flag pavements on the east side of Prospect avenue between Walnut street and Centre street, and on the same side of that thoroughfare between the railroad and Grove street. After being discussed at length it was moved that a communication be addressed to the Council congratulating them upon the improvements made to date in relaying the old flag walks of the borough and calling their attention to the condition of the aforesaid walks.

Other business included favorable action taken upon the application of Walter Muller for membership and the appointment of a nominating committee, composed of E. H. Dean, chairman; L. T. Churchill and Lewis Schneider, to make preparation for the approaching December election.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The October session of the Fanwood Township Board of Education will be held in School No. 1 tomorrow evening, when several matters will be brought to the attention of the Board.

Miss Edith Palmer entertained the members of the Sigma Chi Club, composed of young people from this place and Plainfield, at her home on Tillotson road, last evening. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with the club colors. The evening was spent in dancing and later a luncheon was served.

Miss Edith Lidgate, of North avenue, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Baxter, of New Canaan, Conn.

Miss Margaret Van Hoesen, of the borough, is visiting Miss Marion Volmers, of Plainfield for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sovereign, of Plainfield, have returned to their home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cecile Reinhart, of Grand street.

With the coming of fall and winter and the Parish House not yet opened, local people go to Plainfield or Westfield when they wish to bowl. During the last winter considerable interest was taken in the alleys at the Parish House and the opening of that pleasure resort is eagerly awaited by the followers of that game as well as basketball. The members of the Fanwood Fire Company agitated building alleys in the rear of the firehouse a little while ago and started a fund to be increased by entertainments, but for some reason the project fell through.

Edwin Howe, of Martine avenue, has returned from spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Howe, Sr., of Troy, N. Y.

The Ladies' Sewing Circle, of the Baptist church, is scheduled to meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Plainfield, who is pastor of the local Methodist church, has been detained at his home for the last few days by illness.

Mrs. Read Holliday is detained at her home on Martine avenue by illness.

Several cases of scarlet fever have broken out at the end of the township between Willow Grove and the Westfield line.

The recent bazaar held in Excelsior Hall, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, netted $200, which is the largest amount made from any of the sales held by the society in previous years.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant —Adv.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

DEATH OF MRS. JANET H. WILSON

Well Known Resident Passes Away at Daughter's Home, at Watchung.

Mrs. Janet Howat Wilson, widow of John Wilson, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Simon Mantz, Watchung, last night, after an illness of six weeks. Mrs. Wilson had been a resident of Plainfield and Watchung for the past sixty-two years. She was born on Burnhead Farm, Galston Muir, Scotland, and would have been ninety years old on November 14 next.

Mrs. Wilson's strength of character, combined with gentleness of disposition, endeared her to a multitude of friends. At the age of fourteen years she became a Christian and at the time of her death was a member of Trinity Reformed church, this city. Her husband, the late John Wilson, died twenty-eight years old. He was widely-known in this city, residing for many years at West Front street and Washington avenue.

There survives two sons and two daughters, James Y. Wilson, of Dunellen; Andrew H. Wilson, of North Plainfield; Mrs. Simon Mantz and Mrs. William Demler, of Watchung; also twelve grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at the late home, Valley road, Watchung, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The services will be private.

TEMPERANCE RALLY TO BE HELD AT RAHWAY

A temperance rally is being planned for Tuesday, October 27, at the First Presbyterian church, of Rahway, to be held under the auspices of the Good Citizenship Committee, of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, of which Clarence B. LaRue, of this city, is chairman. A conference supper, to which all Endeavorers of the county are invited, is to be held at 7 o'clock of that evening.

The subject for the evening has been announced as "National Prohibition for the United States by 1920, the 300th Anniversary of the Landing of the Pilgrims." Samuel S. Swackhamer, of the borough, is to be the speaker of the evening. The Good Citizenship Committee consists of C. B. LaRue and Robert Butler, of this city; Henry I. Brewer, of Elizabeth, and Rev. L. Y. Graham of Rahway.

ANOTHER INMATE SENTENCED.

Vanni Brown, white, one of the prisoners taken in a raid on a disorderly house conducted by Stella Green, colored, Saturday, was arraigned in court yesterday afternoon and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve sixty days in the county jail. He was committed today. Brown was arrested with the other four prisoners, but during the trial became suddenly ill and required medical attention.

HEADQUARTERS OPENED.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE TO DRIVE AUSTRO-GERMAN ARMY BACK

Zeitung at Berlin. The terms provide that the members of the garrison would not be considered prisoners of war and would be transferred on Japanese warships to neutral ports. The German commander refused the terms, but accepted the offer of free passage for the native population. This is considered to indicate that the last phase of the siege is approaching.

Evidence of the shortage of officers in the German army is offered by the fact that the Koelnische Zeitung publishes the obituary of a Cornet, nearly 17 years old, who acted as a company commander. It is reported from Berlin headquarters that the situation in the eastern theatre of the war is unchanged.

Trieste, Oct. 20 (Central News Cable, via Rome).—Insurrectionary bands are swarming in Bosnia, Herzegovina, Hungary, Croatia, Slavonia and Trajsylvania. Able bodied men and youths are deserting the villages and towns in order to join these bands. There are grave symptoms of a general insurrection among the Croations. The attitude of the Slav garrison of Pola and Sebenico is said to be menacing. There are also said to be symptoms of rebellion among the Slavs and Italians among the crews of the Austrian fleet.

Tokio, Oct. 20.—Twenty-eight officers, 54 non-commissioned officers and 180 seamen were lost when the Japanese cruiser Takachiho was sunk by striking a German floating mine while patrolling the coast off Kiaochow.

Rome, Oct. 20.—King Victor Emanuel is going to Taranto to review the Italian fleet, which has been secretly mobilized by the Duke of the Abruzzi.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The war will cost Canada a hundred million dollars in the first year, according to a conservattive estimate. This amount of course includes not only the cost of equipment of expeditions, but their pay when on active service at home or abroad. At the emergency session the appropriation was $50,000,000, but it is apparent that this will be inadequate. It covers seven months' supply for the first division along with naval outlays. When Parliament meets there will be a further budget, bringing the total, as it is stated, up to the hundred million mark.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The State Department has been advised that the German Government has consented to admit food supplies into Belgium.

New York, Oct. 20.—Capt. Balezeaud and five French officers arrived here today on the steamship Touraine. They are commissioned to purchase 20,000 horses. The captain said that color was a most important factor and that no gray horses were wanted.

Tokio, Oct. 20—Official announcement was made today that the German torpedo boat S90 which escaped from Tsing Tau under cover of darkness has been found aground and destroyed by the Japanese at a point 60 miles south of Kiau Chau Bay.

The Navy Department has announced the occupation for military purposes of strategically important islands in the Marianne or Ladrone, Marshall, East Caroline and West Caroline archipeligoes.

Montreal, Oct. 20—The voluntary contribution made by officers and employes of the Canadian Pacific Railway to the Canadian patriotic fund of one day's pay in the month of September has yielded the substantial total of $140,316, to which must be added the sum of $1,422 contributed in the same way from the Dominion Atlantic Railway, the line owned by the company in Nova Scotia. This contribution is entirely separate from the $100,000 voted by the directors of the Canadian Pacific to the fund and the large sums given by directors and officers in their individual capacity.

INFANT RECEIVES BAD CUT IN FALL FROM CARRIAGE

As a result of falling on the sidewalk from a baby carriage about 2 o'clock this afternoon, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Vail, of Watchung avenue, received a large gash in its forehead that required medical attention. The accident happened on Jackson avenue, the borough, and was caused by the child standing up in the carriage. In falling the baby struck it head on the edge of the pavement.

Mrs. T. L. Lyons, a sister of Mrs. Vail, who had the child at the time, took it into the home of Mrs. Angelina Moore, of Jackson avenue, and summoned Dr. Frederic J. Hughes. Upon arrival the physician treated the wound and the patient was taken to its home. The child was greatly frightened by the fall, but it is thought that there is no serious injury.

RECREATION NOTES

The Choral Society, directed by S. Frederick Smith, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Franklin School Auditorium.

The Needcraft Club will meet at the Franklin School this evening at 8 o'clock. This is a very profitable club to join. The girls will be taught to make an embroidered collar in two lessons, or an embroidered shirtwaist in four lessons. Come and try it.

A gymnastic and athletic club for girls will be organized on Wednesday evening, October 21, at 8:15, in the High School gymnasium. There will be free gymnastic drills, athletic games such as basketball, relays, indoor baseball, etc. It is hoped that a good crowd of girls will be out for this, as the best kind of a good time is expected.

Moving pictures will be shown tomorrow evening at 7:30 and 9 p. m., at the Washington School.

The Italian Club will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School.

CLASS MEETS TONIGHT.

The Tuesday night Bible class of the Y. M. C. A. will be started tonight under the direction of Miss Aller. WORLDWIDE LABOR INQUIRY.

Object of Rockefeller Foundation Is to Seek Cure For "Bitter Enmities."

A worldwide investigation of the relations of labor and capital with the object of determining the causes of "bitter enmities" and searching out the remedy is to be undertaken by the Rockefeller foundation, which John D. Rockefeller endowed with $100,000,000. The scope of the inquiry is to be without limit and the foundation trustees have chosen William Lyon Mackenzie King, former Canadian minister of labor, to direct the work.

In announcing the plan given out the trustees say that they realize that the foundation is "attempting to grapple with the most complicated question of modern times," but hope by a gradual and systematic approach to it to win "the co-operation, not alone of employers and workingmen, of the industrial organizations, of individuals and institutions interested in social reform, but also of the universities and governments throughout the world."

Cobb's Humorous Retort.

When Irvin Cobb and four other newspaper correspondents, among them John T. McCutcheon of the Chicago Tribune, had been captured by, and were under the surveillance of, the Germans, they proposed to continue with the Germans, and the officer in charge remonstrated. "But we haf no correspondents with the German army." Cobb was not at all perturbed. Rolling his cigar comfortably in the corner of his mouth and looking up to see if there were any signs of war, he affably assured the perplexed officer, "Well, you've got five now!"

FIVE ARE COMMITTED.

Four men and one woman were committed to the county jail in Elizabeth, this morning, in default of fines levied by City Judge DeMeza, yesterday. Those turned over to Warden Dodd by Patrolman John Kelly, of the local force, were Stella Green, colored, convicted of keeping a disorderly house and sentenced to serve sixty days; Vanni Brown, an inmate, sixty days; Joshua Diggs, colored, one of the inmates, committed for sixty days; James Barry, white, disorderly conduct, thirty days, and John Lyons, disorderly conduct, sixty days.

HAD FAINTING SPELL.

While waiting for a west bound train to arrive at the Elizabeth Central Railroad station, yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Cyrus S. Peterson, of 722 Kensington avenue, was attacked with a fainting spell and was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital. He recovered later in the afternoon and was able to come to his home in this city.

HEARING IS STILL ON.

The hearing in the Hardy will case is being continued before Vice-Chancellor Howell, at Newark, today, when a number of witnesses were examined. The action is brought by Col. J. M. Hardy in an effort to secure about $300,000 worth of securities left to a son, Henry Purcell. Several Plainfielders are among the witnesses subpoaened in the case.

EXTERMINATION WORK EXHIBITED IN SCHOOL

County Commission Has Charts and Other Data at Tuberculosis Show.

Among the exhibits being shown in connection with the tuberculosis and health exhibit in the Plainfield High School auditorium is one arranged by the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission, a particularly interesting feature of county work. The demonstration of work being carried on by this organization shows what progress has been made during the three years the commission has been in existence as well as outlining the life history of the pest. Methods used in the extermination process are shown and literature providing information of the department's work is available.

Last night, Dr. J. E. Runnells, superintendent of Bonne Burn, was the speaker, and Dr. Millard Knowlton gave another talk on the subject of tuberculosis prevention and cures. Dr. Runnell's talk was particularly interesting inasmuch as it gave an insight to the work being conducted by the county institution and the vast good already accomplished.

Tonight the following workers will speak: Dr. S. Adolphus Knofp, professor of pythisio-therapy at the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, visiting physician to the Riverside Hospital of the Department of Health of the City of New York, and Dr. Millard Knowlton.

EXCEPTIONS TAKEN AT CARMAN TRIAL

Lawyer for Accused Objects to Prosecutor's Statements —Witnesses Heard.

Mineola, L. I., Oct. 20.—When court opened this morning, for the Carman trial, District Attorney Smith began his opening address to the jury. Mr. Graham, counsel in chief for Mrs. Carman, was on his feet the instant District Attorney Smith completed his address to except to all remarks by the prosecutor regarding conversations between Mrs. Carman and her lawyer, Mr. bevy. "They are no indication of guilt on the part of this defendant," contended Mr. Graham. Mrs. Carman had a right to consult her attorney at any time. Justice Kelby refused to instruct the jury to disregard Mr. Smith's comment on the conversations.

Hazel Coombs, a young woman of Freeport, testified to arriving at the office of Dr. Carman about 7 o'clock on the evening of June 30. She said that a man who appeared to be a laborer came into the doctor's waiting room. Ten minutes later a woman arrived. The woman's description tallied with Mrs. Bailey's. Mrs. Carman passed through the waiting room twice, in order to answer a tap on the door of Dr. Carman's private office. Miss Coombs claimed that she was at the Carman home that night between forty and forty-five minutes. During that time a second man patient arrived, the witness added. On cross examination, Mr. Graham, counsel for Mrs. Carman, brought out that Mrs. Bailey was seated in a position where Dr. Carman would see her when she entered the waiting room, but gave no sign of recognition.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Cheer Leader Cortlandt Fleming made a speech in the auditorium, this morning, in which he made a plea for new ideas and yells.

Owing to the exhibit in the auditorium the orchestra will not hold any rehearsal this week.

The council will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon to organize and discuss the time of holding the freshman reception.

The girls of the school will meet in the old gym this afternoon to practice the school yells and songs.

OFF ON HUNTING TRIP.

Rutter, of Irvington, is spending two weeks hunting in Warren county, New York, near Baker's Mills. During Mr. Hendrickson's absence his place is being filled by Mrs. C. Frank Platts, of 310 Lyman place, this city.

"SHOWER" FOR MISS HART.

Miss Helen George, of Duer street, gave a kitchen "shower" at her home a few nights ago in honor of Miss Margery Hart, of Fairview avenue. A large number of young people were in attendance and a very enjoyable time was had. Miss Hart is to be married in December to Harold W. Hudson, son of W. J. Hudson, of Watchung avenue.

GOOD EFFECTS OF WAR.

People generally are still inclined to take a pessimistic view of the situation created in this country by the war abroad. When it first started it came as such a shock that it was hard for us, thousands of miles away, to realize what might happen to this country, and there is no disputing the fact that it had a serious effect on business. But there is certainly some consolation for this great country, and the news despatches tell from day to day of the advantages which the United States is gaining. It is true that some activity has been curtailed, but there are thousands of things which the foreign nations demand which they cannot supply themselves, because all of the working people are busy trying to blow out one another's brains. That leaves a big list of goods for the United States to supply, and we certainly are ready and willing to do so as long as the money holds out abroad to pay for it. It is interesting to note some of the prosperity brought about by the titanic struggle.

One Detroit auto plant alone has orders aggregating $500,000 on one rush demand for motor trucks. As motor trucks are rapidly destroyed other big contracts will soon be on the way.

A motor truck concern in Buffalo is working night and day on orders for their product and is employing 1,000 men on the night shifts alone, which is probably only half the total number. But as these 1,000 men are drawn as reinforcements to the regular army from the unemployed the good results from these European orders are greater than an ordinary piece of business.

The rush orders for tent material brings the information from the makers that the supply is temporarily exhausted. The market is cleaned bare of material for immediate shipment, and the armies must wait until we have gathered together the raw material needed to meet their contracts.

Two Baltimore concerns are hard at work on orders for robes and blankets by the million, and are rushing the manufacture of a million yards of material on one contract for winter shirts alone.

Indiana factories report orders for more than 100,000 saddle trees with others of equal volume for harness and leather fixings for cavalry and artillery equipment.

New York reports that there are in that city some 50 representatives of European armies placing and hurrying the completion of orders for blankets, woolen material for all sorts of army and hospital wear, uniforms and underwear by the hundreds of thousands of separate suits and by the millions of yards in raw material.

Alongside these contracts are orders for towels, sweaters, socks by the millions and material for toweling and miscellaneous use in almost unbelievable quantities.

The official reports from Atlantic shipping points tell that the movement of grain within the routine reporting period was more than 13,000,000 bushels of wheat, which exceeded last year's for the same time by some 3,000,000 bushels. This is only the beginning of the movement in grain which was hampered by the shortage in vessels due directly to the war's stringencies.

The hopeful reports from the manufacturers of iron and steel products of all grades are even more gratifying than from the textile and leather and motor departments of production. Pittsburgh is to share heavily in this line, the main essential being a willingness of Pittsburgh producers to meet with the representatives of governments and consumers on the other side. Now that that has taken definite shape, Pittsburgh soon will join the list of those hard at work profiting in peace through those at war.

Plainfield's turn will come in time.

A DOUBLE ADVANTAGE.

Just now the newspapers are giving page after page of space to the war news, which of course strikes the principal note of interest in daily chroniclings of current history. To many of our readers, who may have been foreign born, or whose parents were, the strife comes home closely, so that it is hard for them to give any thought or attention to other things.

But there are plenty of American people who have time to give to "other things," and just now they demand close, serious and continuous attention. The living cost problem has not been made any simpler by the war, and as a result many who heretofore have not given much thought as to where they could best do their buying, are watching the advertisements closer than ever.

Natural apprehension exists, as an exchange says, as to whether the present buying conditions are to continue, or whether the prices of various articles are going to take a decided boost. The advertisements of the stores consequently take on special significance and interest, for they contain that sort of news which affects home finances and home economies.

Every live merchant is taking advantage of the opportunity opened for him because of the war, and is making his store a public service institution, by trying to keep prices where they will convince the people that he is doing his share to keep the routine of life in its normal aspect. If you don't believe it, look over the offerings of the Plainfield merchants as shown in the advertising columns of the Daily Press on a Friday night for example. The merchants here are striving, in spite of a tendency on the part of some of the wholesale houses to raise prices, to make their advertising so full of cash value facts for the local buying public that in many instances they are gaining new customers daily. And these new customers will develop into regular patrons when the war is over.

Here is a lesson for the advertiser as well as the reader of advertisements, for there has been no greater opportunity presented to make store advertising a real public service, as it has always been to the initiated in this city. There has never been a better time than the present to secure the advantages gained by the liberal use of advertising space.

Mayoralty Candidate Calkins made some pertinent remarks on the local school situation last Friday night, and a large majority of the voters of the city will agree with all he says. Like other citizens, he has a high regard for the personnel of the Board of Education and for the time and effort they give to their work. But he is right when he says that there has been no effort on their part to get the public to attend their meetings or to take the public into their confidence, other than through what has been given to the newspapers. If elected it is evident that Mr. Calkins will be able to use the patience and tact which he has displayed as a councilman to bring about a larger degree of co-operation between the various city departments, and he undoubtedly will be in a position, with the appointing power, to bring the Board of Education to his way of thinking. It is to be hoped that the voters will see their way clear to place him in the office, for which he only agreed to be a candidate after the strongest kind of pressure was brought to bear.

County Chairman Newcorn, of the Republican party, certainly is leaving no stone unturned to make the campaign a go. In the list of advisers appointed to assist the Republican county committee have been named three Progressives, a Democrat and a resident of North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coke and daughter, Charlotte, of New York, have returned after spending four weeks with Mrs. Coke's sister, Mrs. William Holt, of Arlington avenue.

Women's Shoes

THE SHOE DEPARTMENT'S SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Children's Shoes

When we inaugurated this department two years ago some of the wise ones shook their head and said it won't go. I see its finish, there's shoe stores a plenty in town. The department is just two years old and on Saturday you never saw a livelier youngster in your life. Not only was it the busiest department in the store, but it also did the largest single day's business in its history, and this without the blowing of horns or a brass band.

There's a reason for the success of this department, and that reason is, we handle only the most reliable shoes we can find. Made in most instances to our special order from some of the largest and best factories in the country, and in buying as we do in such large quantities for our three stores, we are in a position to offer you better shoes for less money than you can get at ordinary shoe stores.

Now as to the New Styles for Fall and Winter

Those for women include: The gaiter top dress boot in black or grey cloth top, with patent leather or demi-calf foxings, vici kid button or lace dress shoes. Salmagundi

By George I. Sill.

What do you think of it?

We mean, what do you think of "Civilized Warfare?"

As you read the reports of German and Russian atrocities, don't the methods formerly pursued by the American Indian take a higher place in your estimation?

While it is true the American Indian is said to have been much amused if after properly impaling an infant on a sharpened stick, he could compel its mother to roast her unfortunate offspring at the fire, yet, we are not prepared to say that this diversion of Lo's was any worse than some of the happenings reported in the despatches. Besides, Lo was an untutored savage.

Rumor was rife that Mister Pestilence has been discovered lurking around the European camps. If latter joined by his brother, Mister Famine, and they both get right down to business, Europe won't be a nice place to stop off at.

Let us change the vein—They say the Germans have named their big siege guns, the "Jack Johnsons." We suppose it's because their effect is similar to that of lightning from a "cloud." Who wouldn't be a pugilist of darkest "ray serene," that he might have a siege gun named in his honor?

Thus far Turkey has kept out of it, but the last Thursday in November approaches. New form of the good old turkey joke.

If military operations around Przemysl become very active then its goodbye to many a linotype!

A despatch from Trenton says the foreman of a bakery in that town, before his discharge, put tacks, broken glass and plaster in batches of bread, intending thereby to injure his employer's business. It seems but waste of time and material for this man to have added the plaster, for no matter how good his intentions were, no plaster could ever be successfully applied to wounds anywhere in the mouth.

We of this country have been felicitating ourselves because of our remoteness from the danger zone of Europe, but it's possible our felicitations have been premature. Miss Christobel Pankhurst has landed on these shores and we may have a danger zone of our own, at any time.

The Westminster Gazette in an apparently inspired article says "Great Britain has no desire to crush or humiliate the German people, but at the same time there must be no mistake about the fact that she intends in conjunction with her allies, to take whatever political measures are necessary to crush German militarism." In other words Great Britain is actuated by no hatred of the German people, but only of the selfishly ambitious military system with which they are saddled. If the genius of Germany were not obsessed by this policy, to what heights might it not arise!

Now for puns on Villa and Villa-real. "The last Villa is the real thing; did Villa reel, or, was Villa real mad, when he heard that Villa-real had been elected Carranza's successor?" etc., etc. But we'll try to steer clear of them all.

It was about time to hear from the "Wizard of Menlo Park" again. This time he says we get too much sleep and perhaps after a million years or so, people won't sleep at all. He says sleeping is one of the serious things humanity must soon begin to study. We ourselves have never tried going without sleep altogether, Mr. Edison, but we do know that too much sleep has a tendency to make people heavy and stupid. Of course, this depends largely on the individual, some people requiring more sleep and some less. And some people would be stupid and heavy whether they had much or little.

The older we grow the harder we find it to keep up with the procession. When we saw the newspaper heading, "Notre Dame on the Way," we certainly were startled. What, said we, have the Parisians resolved to be on the safe side, taken the cathedral apart and shipped it to this country? Reading a little further, we discovered the heading referred to a football team connected with an institution of learning somewhere in the West called Notre Dame.

The Belgian capital has been officially renamed "Bruessel" by the Germans. It is also stated that they have imposed German time on the city. Do "coming events cast their shadows before?" At any rate it shouldn't be hard for the city's inhabitants to stand these little things after the course of sprouts—Brussel's sprouts—they have been put through.

We have large, substantial ears always open to the cry of distress. Any well authenticated cry of distress striking the expansive area of our tympanums (how's that?) thence makes quick time to the region of our inner consciousness. The following letter, one of many already received, is published to encourage others situated as the writer, to come to us for assistance. Here is the letter:

Dear Mr. Salmagundi:

I am a young lady of thirty-five summers, a tall, willowy blonde and said by my friends to be pretty. At present I am in great trouble and though a total stranger, thought perhaps you would be good enough to assist me with your advice. How shall I begin? For the last four years a young man has been very attentive to me and while a blonde like myself and but twenty-four years of age, I confess I love him dearly. He is a perfect gentleman and I was first attracted to him by the beautiful ties he wears—the sweetest things you ever saw! You may have seen him on Front street near the Babcock building—no one could help noticing him. Well, lately he's been trying to persuade me to go alone with him to Proctor's and I wanted to ask, if in your opinion it would be entirely proper for me to do so. I have always been most proper (properly brought up, you know) and am naturally of a modest, shrinking disposition. What I hate worst of all is the remarks people would be sure to make if we went without chaperones—wouldn't you?—hate the remarks worst of all, I mean. Fred will be so mad when he calls tomorrow evening and finds I won't go. I'm nearly distracted at the thought of it. I have eaten nothing but the pound of Huyler's he gave me night before last and yet my head seems ready to burst—I suppose it's the worry. Was it Laura Jean Libbey who said a woman hardly ever understands herself? Dear Mr. Salmagundi, please advise me—I will be guided by whatever you say.

NOBODY'S DUTY TO ENFORCE LAW, HE SAYS

Trenton, Oct. 20—Answering an inquiry from F. I. Jones, of Fanwood, as to why the law requiring horse-drawn vehicles to carry lights at night is not enforced, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Lippincott says that it seems to be nobody's duty to enforce the law.

He explains, however, that the State inspectors have no power except in the case of motor vehicles, but suggests that whenever possible the names of such violators be secured and that a complaint be made before a local magistrate. Mr. Lippincott says that he intends to ask for power from the Legislature to enforce this and other laws with reference to horse drawn vehicles, adding that primarily it is up to local police officers in each community to enforce the light law.

GETS MONTH'S VACATION FOR VALUABLE SUGGESTION

The Lehigh foreman of trackmen using his shrill whistle to warn his workmen of an approaching train or to call the attention of persons at highway grade crossings or trespassers on the right-of-way is appropriately dubbed "the traffic policeman of the railroad," in the October issue of the Technical World Magazine. With a description of the uses to which the railroad puts the whistle appears a photograph of W. T. Morris, who won a month off with full pay from the railroad for this "Safety First" suggestion.

BOROUGH COURT NOTES.

Abe Leiner and Abe Goldstein, both of Newark, were arraigned in the borough court before Recorder Fred Hand, on the charge of selling papers on the borough streets on Sunday and thus creating a disturbance. A fine of $3 was imposed upon each of the offenders.

HONOR HERMAN SCHWED

was not here to take part in that contest, he was surprised to learn that he was in Europe. This reminded him of the story of the little girl who asked her mother where she would go when she died, and she was told that she would go to Heaven. The little girl said she hoped her mother would go with her, but of course realized that father could not because he could not "leave the store." It was surprising that Mr. Schwed would "leave the store" even to go to Europe.

"It gives me great pleasure to pay tribute to Herman Schwed," said Mr. Saunders, in the course of his eloquent remarks, which were frequently interrupted by applause. "Who would not like to honor such a man, who gives his time modestly to help in public matters; one whom we always know where he stands; one who is self made, and who has achieved greatness, not had it thrust upon him."

The speaker then took up his topic, "Lessons of the War," saying that in his belief the first lesson was that the United States should thoroughly prepare armaments with all of the power and wealth of the nation, purely for the purpose of maintaining peace. He praised the policy of President Wilson in the Mexican situation and abroad, as one that would go down to posterity, and said that he believed that other nations would eventually follow the example set by this country. The first lesson was therefore that the "moral standard of the United States is the highest in the world and makes for perpetual peace." His second lesson came from the economic conditions brought about by the war, and said the most important thing for the people of this country to do was to practise the most rigid economy. If such is practiced this nation will eventually reap great returns, for all the world will turn to us at the end of the war for supplies of all kinds. We must encourage and develope our export trade, and also begin manufacturing the things for which we have depended upon foreign nations to supply in the past.

Schwed Replies Modestly.

Mr. Schwed was then called on. He modestly expressed his feelings at being so highly honored by the evening's program, and to find so many friends present. He said he certainly was glad to be home again, and he pointed to the little American flag in the lapel of his coat that made it possible for him to travel through Europe undisturbed. He said that the Germans, as soon as they learned his party were Americans, treated them finely. He expressed himself as opposed to war, and hoped that this country would continue to instill in the minds of the young people the idea of peace, and ended his remarks by saying that he was ready and willing to do anything he could to relieve the suffering and want in this city this winter.

Bullock On Advertising.

Mr. Bullock's remarks were received with careful and interested attention. They were interspersed with names of successful advertisers, to illustrate the points brought out. He said in part:

"Confidence is the keynote of business success. Without confidence and public good will no business can grow. J. P. Morgan had the confidence of the financial public to an altogether remarkable degree. He may not have had $50,000,000, but financiers believed he had, and were certain that he could get it in twenty-four hours for the asking, so they turned to him for help in times of financial distress.

"What are you Plainfield merchants doing to gain and to hold the confidence of your public? Do you make your stores as attractive as possible? Are your window displays interesting? Do your clerks radiate friendship, courtesy and good will? Do you use the great compelling force of the printing press to the best possible advantage?

"The printing press is the greatest aid to salesmanship. Salesmanship is not only the oldest art—it is the art universal. It knows no time nor place, no nation, no people, no climate, no language. Consciously or unconsciously, every man that ever lived is a salesman. We are all offering something for sale—our talent, our ability, our personality, our ingenuity, our service, our time or our product—and the reason why some of us are such poor salesmen is due to the fact that we know so little about what we have to sell. We do not give sufficient study to our market, our opportunity, our possible audience or ourselves. In these days of keen and steadily increasing competition we must be ready to sell before we can sell successfully. The basic general fault of salesmanship is its unpreparedness.

"Until within the last 100 years or so there was only one method of salesmanship in the world—an appeal to the senses through the spoken word. Not only is this the oldest salesmanship—it is today, and always will be, the best. If you have anything to sell a man go and look him in the eye and tell him your story. But this can be done with but one—or at the most with but few customers at a time. At best it results in a very restricted business. It does not fit in with the rapid expansion of modern commerce.

"Nothing in the world was ever sold—or ever will be—without advertising. Is this a startling statement? Suppose we analyze it. The word is from the Latin ad-verte, to turn. Hence to turn the mind—to inform, notify, make known, announce, preclaim, promulgate, publish. Was there ever anything sold that was not first made known—or regarding which the buyer was not first given information. Selling is advertising, and advertising is an absolutely essential prerequisite of salesmanship. An encyclopedic definition of advertising is 'The public announcement of a fact'—and the word fact is emphasized because any public announcement that does not state a fact is not good advertising.

"Back of the ability to sell we find five basic essentials: (1) Preparation, (2) concentration, (3) imagination, (4) presentation, (5) determination.

"A successful advertiser must be a psychologist. He must be a keen student of human nature. He must be courteous and persistent. He must have an earnest desire to be of real service to his customers. Above all, he must be honest with himself and with his public. The man who makes a promise in an advertisement that he does not keep and does not intend to keep is violating his business honor just as surely as though he deliberately lied to you in person—and he is just as certain to be found out in the long run.

"If you build up a reputation for courtesy, promptness, good service and fair prices you can have the biggest business in town and no one will take it away from you. Don't fill your announcements up with prices. Price, but itself, means little. It should never be the first consideration. It isn't what we pay, but what we get for what we pay, that really counts.

Basic Principles.

"In writing an advertisement have in mind the class of trade to which you wish to appeal, and write accordingly. Remember that every possible customer must have some buying motive, and try to put yourself in his place. Ask yourself, 'Why should I buy this particular article at this particular store.' The five buying motives—under one or more of which every purchase ever made can be classified, are: (1) Profit, (2) utility, (3) caution, (4) pride, (5) self-indulgence.

"An understanding of these basic principles and their application to your particular problem of publicity will be very helpful. I like that word, publicity. It means light, and light means truth.

"As far as possible sell advertised goods. Goods that are favorably known are half sold. They have not only the reputation of your store back of them but the reputation and guarantee of a big concern that is not afraid to back its name and its product by a nation-wide campaign of publicity. You may make less on the individual sale of an advertised article—but you sell it more quickly—you sell some of it—and the reputation you get as an up-to-date merchant, who offers the best the market affords, much more than makes up the difference. Advertised lines bring customers to your store, and hold them regularly after they know the way. Give your customer credit for knowing what he wants—and then supply the wants.

"Don't say 'it isn't necessary' for you to advertise because everybody knows your store and your goods. That isn't true, and if it was, fifty per cent. of the people who know to-day will forget inside of six months. Don't refuse to apply the compelling force of advertising to your business because your grandfather or your father built up a successful business without advertising. Times have changed. They got along without the telephone, the electric light, the typewriter, the filing cabinet and the automobile delivery wagon. Don't say you 'can't afford' to advertise. Because advertising pays only if used taken in a big way and at big expense. The truth is, you can't afford not to advertise. Ten dollars will buy as much advertising as $100, but it will buy just as good advertising as $1,000.

"Every one of us is directly influenced by advertising every day. We live in an age of publicity. The more truth we put into our advertising the greater will be the results if we persist. The secret of good advertising is to have something to say—say it, and stop. Sometimes the hardest part of it all is to stop."

Mr. Thomas and Mr. Quick told what the Somerville Merchants' Association is doing, and both joined in congratulating Mr. Schwed upon his successful return to this country, paying high tribute to him as a man and friend.

Calkins Praises Schwed.

"There is no one on the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital to whom the members look with a greater degree of confidence than Herman Schwed," said Councilman Calkins, when called upon to speak. "We have all learned to love him." He then complimented Plainfield upon its public spirited civic bodies, and said that there are many questions which come up in which the Mayor and Council would like to have the advice of the business men. He said that he hoped that the ultimate lesson of the war would be an expansion of the local method of using police and judges to regulate cities into a great international police force and judges to regulate nations.

Mr. Calkins brought forth much applause when he praised Woodrow Wilson, and said that the people of the country should uphold the President in trying to keep the United States out of all war. He said that there is at present a feeling of industrial unrest brought about by the problem of the high cost of living, and that the present situation was not a matter of partisan theories, but a vital question, which we would have to "get down to brass tacks" and settle, or we would eventually end up with socialism.

Councilman Theodore Martin made a few remarks, after which the dinner adjourned.

The entire evening's program was successfully worked out by a committee consisting of John H. DeMott, Henry Haurand and M. C. VanArsdale. Manager Stephen Haff, of The Ritz, gave his personal attention to every detail, and the dinner was well and quickly served.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 20—Progressive ratification meeting in Schwed building, Elizabeth; ex-State Senator Everett Colby to deliver address.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Letters have been sent the candidates for the Legislature in this county, asking their positions on the maintenance of the present civil service laws. The communications are signed by J. Frank Cornelius, of Pompton Lake, secretary of the New Jersey Civil Reform Association. The candidates are asked if they favor one State commission or the administration of the civil service laws by county bodies. They are also asked if they would be in favor of adequate appropriations for the State commission, and if they favor the referendum clause in the civil service laws.

In advocating the election of Percy H. Stewart, the Democratic candidate for State Senator, a number of his active boomers are reminding voters that Mr. Stewart, if elected, will have a vote in the selection of the next United States Senator from this State to succeed United States Senator Martine. According to reports, the Senator expects to be a candidate to succeed himself at the primary election two years hence and if he is the popular choice at that time, the Legislature will feel bound to recognize the expression.

All of the municipal clerks of the county have certified to the correctness of the copy for the ballots as prepared by County Clerk Calvert and it is now open for inspection in his office in the court house, Elizabeth. All candidates are invited to examine the copy to see that names are spelled correctly, are in the right place according to alphabetical arrangement, and for the right office. The copy will be sent to the printer in a few days for both the sample and regular election ballots. Delay in getting this matter to the printer might cause a delay in delivery of the ballots.

By way of Trenton, the report comes that ex-President Theodore Roosevelt will tour New Jersey in the interests of the Progressive candidates. It had been previously announced that he would address a rally in Newark, but no further speeches were expected. Everett Colby will be in charge of the colonel's itinerary.

Representative William E. Tuttle, Jr., returned to Washington again Sunday, in order to be present to vote upon the administration currency bill. He will return immediately after it, that will practically complete the calendar for the session.

Today will be the final chance to register for the general election in communities of more than 5,000 population. Leaders in the different parties declare that the number of men registered is large, and that every legitimate means is being utilized to get them out today.

When the county committees meet in the Morris end of this Congressional district, they hold all-day sessions. Parts of that county are so truly rural that frequent night meetings such as are held at Elizabeth, are beyond question.

Watchung.

Mrs. Janet Howat Wilson, aged 90 years, widow of John Wilson, one of the oldest residents of this place, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Simon Mantz, on the Valley road. She had been a resident of Plainfield and vicinity for fifty years, coming to this country sixty-four years ago. She leaves four children.

Governor James F. Fielder will speak in front of the Watchung School at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Services will be held in the Wilson chapel this evening at 8 o'clock.

MAC SAYS

Further indication of the strength of the Plainfield High School football team was evidenced at Morristown, Saturday afternoon, when the local pigskin chasers swamped the Randolph Military Academy youths. With their goal line yet to be crossed, the Plainfielders will go against Rahway High next Saturday, with one of the best lineups of recent years. The Morristown youths may not have been the strongest combination in the State, but any opponent has to travel pretty fast to pile up forty-four points on a slippery field. The Plainfield outfit turned the trick in fine style and we are really led to believe that the localites have one fine chance of subduing the speedy Rahwayites, who have been tearing everything else to pieces. Many and varied are the players from which Captain Peacock has to choose and this big variety has probably been the big key to the team's successes thus far.

Rumor has it that Coach Woodman, of the Plainfield High School eleven, has signified his intention of redonning moleskins and grabbing a position in the Holy Cross backfield. An all-American ball rusher would make a valuable addition to the red and blue aggregation and Manager Doyle will probably snatch up the opportunity to land him. His strength and weight would add greatly to the combination and his general knowledge of the game would aid nobly in the effort to boost the eleven to a higher pinnacle of fame this fall than has heretofore been attained.

Hope Chapel baseball players will wind up their season in their annual indoor fashion tonight, when they convene as guests of the Women's Auxiliary at an eat-fest in the chapel. This pleasant feature, which comes as an aftermath of each season's work on the diamond, is an event looked forward to by all of the Hope contingent's members and some good things are in store tonight.

Monroe Good and Herbert Stine continue to illuminate the metropolitan sporting pages with their cognomens. Both are playing guard positions on collegiate elevens and to date have some excellent performances credited up to them. Stine plays with the Springfield College combination and Good wears Colgate colors.

Some evidence of real activity in the Eagles' Bowling League was displayed yesterday, when the officials of the organization made public the season's alley schedule. This organization has already proven itself to be a pretty healthy youngster and some excellent winter competition on the lanes of nearby cities is assured.

Miss Sadie Rothberg, manager of the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team, has certainly gathered together a choice galaxy of opponents for this year's sextet. Giving the schedule the once-over we note that such aggregations as Montclair and Hackensack are included. There must be some pretty promising indications of a record-breaking team for the red and blue feminine athletes this fall.

The Princeton Club members rang up another verdict at the expense of the Eli rooters on the Plainfield Country Club links Saturday afternoon. Now we are of the opinion that the proposed tennis match will be unnecessary inasmuch as the Tigers trimmed the Bulldog cohorts in two branches of sport. Baseball also proved disastrous to the New Haven crowd.

BRAVES CHIP IN FOR GIFTS TO INELIGIBLES

Willie Connor, Mascot, Gets $250—Stallings Will go Into Vaudeville.

George Stallings was still about New York yesterday. The manager of the world's champion Braves continues to be besieged by vaudeville agents. Despite his resolution made right after the World's Series, he has already fallen for one offer, and is to make his appearance in New York soon. Josh Devore, Hank Gowdy and Chuck Deal are with Stallings at the Somerset, and what with rehearsing their act and listening to offers from managers of semi-pro ball clubs, they are having a pretty busy time.

After they had drawn their shares the Braves made up a pool, and those ineligible were provided for.

Willie Connor, the mascot and bat boy, was given $250; Jimmy Neary, the trainer, was given $1,000; Tom Hughes, the pitcher who was with the club only about ten days or so, coming from the Rochester club, of the International League, was given $500; Bill Martin, the Georgetown boy, who came to the club crippled and got into only the last game of the season, also was given $500.

Herman Nickerson, the secretary of the club, was also given $1,000.

All this came from the players themselves.

They also made presents to Dick Rudolph, George Tyler, Bill James and Hank Gowdy.

Rudolph and Tyler, being married men, were given silver sets, and James and Gowdy were given diamond rings.

Gowdy, Maranville, James and Rudolph each received a bonus of $1,000 from the Boston club for their good work, and while it is not known definitely, it is understood that Charley Schmidt, the big first baseman, was also remembered when the bonuses were passed around. He certainly earned whatever he got.

BASEBALL WAR MAY EXTEND TO MINOR LEAGUES

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—Indications point to a spirited renewal of the baseball war between the Federal League and the National and American Leagues, when the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues meets at Omaha next month. The Federal League magnates, it was learned today, are going right into the convention with a proposition for a working-agreement with many of the minor leagues who are dissatisfied with the treatment handed them by the major leagues.

It is said among managers that minor league baseball was a losing proposition this year, and that financial backers are shy on risking their money for next year's expenses unless a readjustment of agreements comes about.

It is rumored that several of the minor leagues will go to the convention ready to force through a provision for a working agreement with the Federals, and that if whipped by the majority, who are tied up with the majors, they will form a new association of minors and continue the baseball war down the line.

Conservative managers in the major leagues have voiced the opinion that this action may be forestalled by the drafting of peace terms between the rival big leagues.

EVERS' BIG RECEPTION.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 20—Troy gave Johnny Evers, captain of the Boston Braves, the world's champions, a rousing reception last night upon his return to his home in this city. There was a parade with ten bands and several drum corps and over 5,000 men in line. Nearly every organization in the city, including the Chamber of Commerce and the fire companies, were represented, besides many prominent business men. The marchers carried baseball bats and red fire and each wore a large button the size of a tea saucer and which bore Evers' picture.

K. OF C. BOWLER SETS UP A PERFECT SCORE IN TOURNEY.

Pinning in the Knights of Columbus one-man tourney on the club's alleys, last night, Miles Wilson set up a 300 tally, the first perfect score ever recorded here. This feat is a notable one and one that is seldom accomplished by a bowler.

His fine record was made in his final game with Arthur Cannon. Wilson started off the first frame with the only lucky strike of the contest, the ball hitting the head-pin nearly square, but all fell. After that he had perfect hits until the last ball which struck the pocket a little "thin" and the spectators were held breathless for an instant, four of the pins failing to go down for an instant.

This is the first time a perfect score has ever been made by a local pinner and less than a dozen United States exponents of the sport are credited with the feat. A number of years ago Chief Kiely tallied 298 and that is considered the closest that a local man has ever come to the mark.

BROOKFED OWNERS AFTER THE YANKEES

Ward Brothers Said to Be Dickering for Purchase of New York Club.

According to a report that was circulated yesterday the Ward brothers, owners of the Brooklyn Federal League club, are negotiating for the purchase of the New York American League club. While this story is flatly denied by President Frank Farrell, of the New Yorks, Robert B. Ward, president of the Brooklyn independents, states that there are good grounds for the assertion. He declares that more than a week ago he was approached by a reputable business man of New York with the information that the local property was for sale and that he at once took steps toward effecting a purchase.

One of two things is clear. Either certain of the interests associated with Mr. Farrell are trying independently to dispose of a majority of the club stock to the Brooklyn magnates or some one who is not vested with proper authority has been talking prematurely to the owners of the outlaw club established at Washington Park. Both Messrs. Farrell and Ward appeared emphatically sincere in their declarations yesterday afternoon.

BIKE RACING STARS KILLED IN BATTLE

E. Vedrines, French Sprinter, Who Rode in Newark, is Among the Wounded.

Paris, Oct. 20—Gabriel Poulain and George Parent have been killed and Ernest Vedrines has been seriously injured in battle. All three were noted professional bicycle riders.

(Signed) WILLIAM REESE.

Poulain and Parent were two of the most noted professional bicycle riders in France. Vedrines was a second-class sprinter who competed at the Newark Velodrome last season.

Poulain won the sprint championship of the world at Antwerp in 1905 and was second to Leon Hourlier in the Grand Prize of Paris this year, but was disqualified for foul riding He defeated Frank Kramer, the American champion, in a match at Madison Square Garden some years ago.

Parent is a motor-pace rider and won the world's championship in 1909, 1910 and 1911. He competed in paced races prior to six-day contests at Madison Square Garden.

N. Y. STATE LEAGUE OPENING.

New York State League basketball will be inaugurated tonight with Paterson playing in Kingston and Gloversville meeting Cohoes at Cohoes. Each team will play a schedule of fifty games, twenty-five to take place at home and a like number abroad. The other clubs represented are Utica and Troy. They will get in action later in the week. Frank Bruggy, formerly of this city, plays guard for Gloversville.

WILSON MADE A PERFECT SCORE

First Bowler in This City to Score a 300 in a Single Game.

Miles Wilson set a high score mark in last night's play of the Knights of Columbus individual bowling tourney that can never be taken from him and there is a small chance of it even being tied. This score was the highest obtainable in a bowling match and in the last game with "Art" Cannon the scorers were forced to give him a 300. It is the first time this feat has ever been accomplished in this city and there are only a very few men who have ever done it. In order to get that score the pinner must make every frame count for a strike. The first strike of the last frame was a lucky one, but the other nine must be credited to the excellent pinning of Wilson. All of his other scores were low and he won four out of the six games played.

Wilson started off with Strappe, taking the first and third games while a 195 gave Strappe the middle one against his opponents 159. Cannon took the first game from Wilson, but was very low on the next two which went to his opponent. Cannon took on Hillman in the second match and could only get two, the first score being 200 against Hillman's 177. The latter copped the last roll, the scores being 158 to 133.

Hillman went back into the game and took revenge out of Strappe who won only the first game with a 193. Hillman pinned 236 and 216 in the last two games and his rival could come nowhere near those scores. The following men have been paired to meet tomorrow night: G. Taylor and Pasch; Blatz and Moynihan, Blatz and Taylor and Moynihan and G. Taylor. The scores:

Wilson	186	159	179
Strappe	140	195	153
Cannon	200	183	133
Hillmann	177	128	158
Wilson	167	171	300
Cannon	182	157	161
Strappe	193	192	166
Hillmann	168	236	216

The first ling of the season on the Long Branch pier was taken Saturday night. One man got a basketful of croakers and weakfish.

There was very little doing yesterday at Morgan Station. Few of the boats were out, and weakfish and croakers were scarce.

Skate wings are considered a delicacy by some fishermen, and those who like them could have had all they could carry at the Long Branch pier yesterday. There were close to fifty fishermen on the pier during the day, and everyone got more than his share of skates. More than five hundred of them were landed and "pumped" to the top of the pier. They weighed from a pound to twenty pounds apiece. Here and there a weakfish, croaker or eel was picked up, but the larger part of the catches were skates.

This is ideal autumn weather for a trip to the fishing banks. The steamer Taurus is carrying many novices these days because of the ocean being calm as a rule. One day on the sea is worth considerable to the average man in fresh air.

The fishing season is not through by any means in the Shrewsbury River, as weakfish and croakers can be caught at any of the old grounds, and there is excellent snapper fishing at the dike and plenty of eels close inshore. There is no trouble whatever to get a bushel of crabs, and one fisherman declared that bluefish were breaking water just inside the hook.

Two men went out to the fishing banks Sunday and each caught ten blackfish and four ling. A six-pound blackfish and a four-pound cod were also landed.

A number of blackfish and ling have been caught at Ambrose Channel lately.

ELIZABETH WINNER OF MOOSE LEAGUE

Plainfield Represented at Meeting Called to Settle Squabble Last Night.

Elizabeth Moose Baseball League players were declared champions by the president of the circuit, Oscar DeHart, at a meeting in the Elizabeth headquarters, yesterday afternoon. The Bayonne representatives nosed out the Elizabeth aggregation by one game, but the latter protested on the grounds that Bayonne had used ineligible players. The Elizabeth team became the possessor of the trophy, which, in order to become the permanent possession of a lodge must be won three times.

Although every lodge represented on the baseball circuit this season was notified of yesterday's meeting, only four—Elizabeth, Plainfield, Orange and Jersey City—were represented by delegates. At the meeting it became known that practically every club in the league, with the exception of Elizabeth, used ineligible players, and therefore President DeHart thought it only just that Elizabeth should get the honors. The Bayonne lodge was accused of using a team against the champions made up of practically all ineligible players.

There is no doubt that the league will be reorganized next year, and it is probable that the circuit will be considerably larger, as Hoboken, Newark, New Brunswick and several other nearby towns are anxious to enter teams. It is also known that the champions of the Delaware circuit are anxious to make arrangements to play the winners of the northern New Jersey league, and when the reorganization meeting is held next spring efforts will be made to have the inter-league series arranged.

ROSCOE BLANCHARD FAVORED IN P. H. S. TENNIS TOURNEY

The first round of the Plainfield High School tennis tournament was played off yesterday afternoon. Roscoe Blanchard still looks like the probable winner, yesterday afternoon defeating Randolph Stelle, 6-0, 6-0.

The results of yesterday's matches are: Schenck defeated Borden, 6-3, 7-5; Newell defeated Swackhamer, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4; Blanchard defeated Stelle, 6-0, 6-0; Case defeated G. Smith, 6-2, 10-8; Stringham defeated Carter, 6-3, 6-2.

EIGHT Y. M. C. A. ATHLETES QUALIFY AS GYM LEADERS

Thirty boys from the Indian League, of the Y. M. C. A., took part in the first examination for the leaders' corps, yesterday, and eight qualified for this position. Brownlee topped the list with a percentage of 90, and Smith was second with 81. Wilson was the lowest to qualify with a mark of 71.

The standings are as follows:

Brownlee, 90; Smith, 81; Brown, 80; Gates, 77; Feaster, 76; Doane, 73; Krausse, 72; Wilson, 71; Enander, 70; Willett, 68; Poling, 67; Nielson, 67; Spicer, 66; Billian, 63; Kornfield, 58; Wolf, 57; Goss, 56; Angleman, 53; Boyle, 52; Windham, 51; Weglau, 51; Alexander, 51; Mckey, 50; Cuming, 47; Lynn, 47; Ewart, 45; Purcell, 43; Allen, 42; Satterfield, 42; Moore, 42.

BOYS GET RIBBONS.

Thirteen boys of the Indian League, of the Y. M. C. A., were presented with Grade G swimming ribbons, yesterday afternoon, after the regular swim in the pool. After short talks by Mr. Bingeman and Mr. Meermans the following boys received ribbons. Harold Allen, James Brownlee, Edward Boyle, Thomas Cuming, Ellis Enander, Clarence Goss, Charles Gates, Edwin Mackey, Alfred Smith, J. Squires, Donald Willett, Harold Wilson, Wallace Weglau.

SOMERSET F. C. CHALLENGES.

The Somerset F. C., of the borough, has reorganized for the 1914-15 basketball season and would like to arrange games with any teams in this vicinity averaging 85 to 90 pounds, all games to be played on opponents' courts. Address all communications to Arthur Townley, 12 Grandview avenue, or telephone 596-W, Plainfield.

HOLY CROSS PRACTICE.

The Holy Cross squad will practice tonight on Marshall Field and Coach Martin is anxious that all players report. The workout this week will be a hard one and there may be some changes in the lineup next Saturday, when the team meets the eleven from the battleship Wyoming on Cricket Field.

PLAINFIELD K. OF C. OUT OF LEAGUE RACE

Too Many Activities Going on in Front Street Club Now.

Because of the many activities that are going on in Columbus Hall at the present time, it was decided that the local Knights of Columbus should not enter a bowling team in the State league this year and therefore Plainfield was not represented at the State meeting which was held at Columbian Hall, Newark, last night when final arrangements for the league were made. Last year the locals were in the league and finished in fourth place.

The Columbus Club is subject to rental for entertainments, dances, banquets and such things at any time and on those nights the alleys could not be used and the members of the club are also busy with a club bowling schedule which is now being run off. The schedule of the State league could not be arranged to avoid these things and there would be many cancellations. Besides the individual tournament which is now being held, a team tourney will be started some time soon and that will take up more dates.

All of the lodges that expect to enter the State circuit were present at the meeting last night and the first games will be rolled in the early part of November and the schedule will extend all through the winter months.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR LEAL QUINTET

Chauncey Stewart and His Warriors Expect to Make Strong Bid for Title.

Captain Chauncey Stewart, of the Leal School basketball team, had his charges out for the initial workout of the season on the Y. M. C. A. court yesterday afternoon, and this morning the midget leader stated that the outlook for his team's chances in the interscholastic series this year are much better than last. Only seven men reported for the first practice, but several others are expected to try for positions later. Athletic Director C. D. Wardlaw was on hand yesterday and took the team in charge and will again coach the players this season.

Last year the private school team finished last in the city series but toward the end of the schedule played great ball and defeated the Plainfield High School team in the last game of the series. This year the Front street team is going after its opponents right at the start and have great hopes of finishing in first place. Several players have been lost to the team through graduation. Fred Krom and Stewart Faber will no more wear a Leal suit and "June" VanDeventer will play against his former teammates if he gets in the series at all, as he is at the present time enrolled in the borough school and is making a strong bid for one of the substitute positions. Four of last year's men will take the floor.

The team faces a hard schedule this year, which will begin on December 3. The Morristown trip will probably be cut out this season and that team may appear here for once. Those who reported for practice yesterday are Captain Chauncey Stewart, Fred Dickerson, Lawrence Schneider, Erwin Stevenson, Clarence Garrigues and Fred Wilson.

POULTRY ASS'N TO MEET.

The New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement will hold its monthly session Wednesday evening at Exempt Firemen's Hall on Park avenue, at which time plans for the annual poultry show in this city will be completed. Reese Hicks, of Browns Mills, this State, will be the lecturer of the evening.

Y. M. C. A. POOL TOURNEY.

Twelve names have already been entered in the Y. M. C. A. pool tournament that is to be started next month. Many more are expected within the next few days, and the tournament will undoubtedly prove very interesting. The first matches will be played November 2.

Y. M. C. A. PRACTICE.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball squad will practice tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and all candidates are requested to be present as this will be an important meeting. The first game will be played two weeks from tomorrow night.

AIR MEN'S FEATS MOST THRILLING FORM ONE OF CHAPTERS OF WAR

Deeds of Valor as Told In the News Dispatches From the Front.

Graphic Side Lights on the Great Armed Conflict of the Nations.

LIEUTENANT W. PEYTON, an officer of the South Staffordshire regiment, who was wounded in the battle of the Aisne, near Soissons, has written a letter to a friend describing the fighting at that place and telling a story of the pluck of a British aviator. The letter says:

"It was a battle of artillery. The constant racket of machine guns merged in the almost steady roar of quick firers and field pieces.

"Suddenly from the sky a British aviator dropped down on us. High in air, his aeroplane, struck by shrapnel, was nearly wrecked. One wing was badly torn. The perforated framework, cracking and twisting, commenced to come apart. Wabbling and lurching, the flying machine, like a wounded bird, fluttered forward.

"The engine was uninjured, but the biplane, almost refusing to be steered because of the damage done to the fuselage, threatened any second to collapse and sink. As a last resort the aviator shut off the power and planed down, trusting that the sweep of his descent would carry him across the British lines. Luck supplemented his pluck to the extent that he landed his smashed machine just inside our trenches.

Dying, Gives Message.

"He was dying when we tore away wreckage and released him. But he wasn't unconscious, nor did he ignore the call of duty. With bloody froth bubbling from his lips he said: 'Quick, man; take down my message! Get it to the general with all speed!'

"Captain Falconer produced notebook and pencil. Painfully the aviator dictated. Almost with his last gasp he repeated to make sure that what he said was clearly understood:

"'Got it now?'

"'Just as you gave it to me.'

"'All of it?'

"'Assuredly.'

"'Hasten, then, to the general. I'm done for.'

"So passed an aviator lieutenant upholding the honor of the royal flying corps. Bentley I believe his name was.

"The information obtained by the aviator lieutenant and dispatched to General Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien was important. How important we didn't realize until perhaps an hour afterward we received orders.

"To other troops in the trenches came the same commands. But favoring the Staffordshire regiment that day was the fact that we occupied the intrenchments nearest the enemy. At the word we emerged from our burrows and scurried forward. The instant we showed our faces the fighting commenced.

"How in making the crossing any of us ever survived the German fire I don't know. I can't describe what we went through. What happened when the German trenches were taken I didn't see. Before the hand to hand fighting took place some German 'potted' me.

"When I came to two days later I was in the hospital."

Thrilling Pursuit.

The activity of German aeroplanes over Paris has brought up a general discussion of the value of these machines in warfare and a recital of thrilling aerial duels between French and German machines.

One French corps commander is quoted as having said that, in his opinion, a single aeroplane was as valuable as a division of cavalry. Aeroplanes are of the greatest service in preventing surprises, and few important movements of troops have been made which have not been reported by aerial scouts before their completion.

A daring encounter took place recently between a German monoplane and a French biplane at a critical moment in the execution of an important maneuver north of the river Oise. The German machine was seen sailing over the French lines just before a strong detachment of troops was to start on a movement to the north. For the success of this movement it was vital that this sentry of the air be removed, and a French biplane undertook the task.

Hair Raising Dive.

The French machine rose from the ground abruptly and in rapid circles gained an altitude greater than that of the German, but even this advantage was not sufficient to drive the scout away. In a daring dive in which he braved a heavy fire from the French lines the German descended to a height of 1,000 yards and, skillfully avoiding the French machine, started to drive for the German lines.

For awhile the German was successful in keeping out of reach of the Frenchman, but the biplane, continuing its flight at a considerable height, finally attained an advantageous position.

Then there could be heard the quick and sharp reports of a machine gun on the French flier. The monoplane floated for a few moments as if the pilot had lost control and then, fluttering like a wounded bird on the wing, started an oblique flight downward, which ended in its crashing to the earth.

Saw Dramatic Charge.

A young English aviator, who was injured in a landing accident, tells how he saw what he described as a real "old fashioned cavalry charge." He says:

"A considerable body of German infantry advancing across a wide valley lost the support of their guns through the destructive fire of French seventy-fives. They were attacked on one side by the French dragoons and on the other by English cavalry. Both arrived almost simultaneously and rode right through the German column. Then they wheeled and charged again, cutting the German force to pieces.

"The infantrymen, caught unawares, were unable to resist effectively, and after the second attack they broke and ran for cover, pursued to the edge of a wood by the horsemen, whose sabers were flashing in the sunlight."

The airman concluded:

"A regular picture it was, I tell you. We airmen are the only ones who are seeing this war properly."

Red Trousered Heroine.

With a convoy of wounded brought to Paris was a pretty work girl named Eugenie, who, attired in baggy red trousers and a red "chechia," had followed a zouave regiment from her home town of Bagnolet and with rifle on shoulder had marched thirty miles a day with the soldiers. She was under fire at the battle of Marne, where she was wounded. She is to be sent back home, but swears that she will get to the front again.

Linked Arms For Charge.

Since the outbreak of the war there have been numerous stories of officers drilling wavering troops under heavy fire as if on parade ground, thus restoring their waning courage, but a new device of this sort is described in the Paris Figaro, which the writer says he heard from a wounded lieutenant colonel in a Versailles troop train. The men whom the officer commanded showed restlessness under artillery punishment and seemed likely to refuse to advance.

When the order came the officer seized the arm of the man nearest him and bade him link himself similarly with the next. The whole force was thus united and made a daring charge and captured the hostile position.

When the officer finished the story his hearer praised his courage and quick wit, but he replied:

"Why, I was more frightened than any one else, but had to give an example, so just bluffed it."

Sausage For the Kaiser.

The Berlin correspondent of the Chicago News writes:

"I have heard an anecdote about the kaiser at general headquarters which came from reliable sources and which has not appeared in the German press. One is about his diet, which consists of a thick soup, a piece of sausage and a piece of bread and butter, although he may have the best food to be obtained. His advisers are impatient with him for endangering his health, but to their importunities he replies:

"'It is what my soldiers are getting on the battlefield. It is good enough for me.'

"One day he heard that his men at the front were reduced to a piece of bread and red wine. He cut his diet accordingly."

Newspaper For Trenches.

A London newspaper is publishing an edition especially for the trenches. The work has been so well done that the men in the trenches have their daily paper by noon each day. Naturally the news from home is welcomed by the men, and the distribution of papers becomes a very valuable public service. Experience has shown that the greatest demand is for football news.

SCENE OF OPERATIONS ON RUSSIAN FRONTIER.

Official announcements definitely indicated the battle line of the great main Austro-German and Russian armies as extending from the western Warsaw district along the rivers Vistula and San to Przemysl and farther south toward the river Dniester, as shown by the heavy black line on the map. The German line was defined officially as reaching from the neighborhood of Warsaw—that is, of course, well to the west of the capital—parallel to the course of the rivers Vistula and San to Przemysl and still farther south to the Dniester. The distance in a straight line is about 220 miles, but the real line of frontier occupied is nearer 300.

"BABY DOLL" AND HETTY URMA AT PROCTOR'S

Among the feature events on Proctor's opening vaudeville bill of the week is an act put on by Kelley and Williams. Williams, or the baby doll of vaudeville, has been seen here before and is a favorite with local vaudeville lovers. He takes the part of a big doll, his immense stature and good natured smile going a long way toward making him resemble the real article. Together with his partner he gives a clever repertoire of jokes and songs.

Williams, of Kelly and Williams, as BABY DOLL.

Hetty Urma, in a novelty song act, introduces the season's latest hits in a pleasing manner. She appears on the stage in man's clothing. The remainder of the bill includes Sagar, Midgley and Company, in a side splitting period of comedy; three female singers, and W. S. Harvey and Company, in his original offering, "The Room Upside Down." Rare feats of strength are introduced in the latter sketch.

EVENING SCHOOL CLASSES TAXED TO LIMIT CAPACITY

The enrollment in the evening High School, last night, totaled 365. This is so much beyond all expectations that no more entries can be received this term. Applications from this time on will be placed on file and as pupils drop out others may be filled into the classes.

The enrollment in the foreign classes increased 50 per cent. last night. There is still room for a few more in these classes, but the limit for them is nearly reached. The attendance in these two schools is so large that the High School building is almost as busy in the evening as it is in the daytime. The work is now well organized and the pupils are taking hold in splendid manner, so that there is promise of an excellent winter's work.

The demand for evening High School instruction could not be measured by the Board of Education in anticipation of the opening of the school, but it has proved nearly double what the Board estimated. Another year it is hoped that the appropriation for this work will be large enough to meet all demands.

PERSONAL.

Alexander Millar, of Madison avenue, has returned home after spending the summer months at Warrenville.

Miss Margaret Miller, of New York, has returned after spending a week with Miss Reba Kline, of Somerset street.

Miss E. M. Wyckoff, of Watchung avenue, is visiting in Newark.

Miss Lillian TenEyck, of Westfield, has returned home after having spent the week-end with Miss Jennie Sears, of Westervelt avenue.

Miss Carrie Borrup, of Central street, has returned home from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Charles Kirchner, of Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Mills have removed from Grandview avenue to Westervelt avenue.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The Men's Association, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will meet in the Parish House next Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The election of officers will be held and a general social time with refreshments will follow the business meeting.

SHOPS AND MERCHANTS

There Are Shops and Shops—Merchants and Merchants

"MERCHANTS" like poets are born and not made—Shops are not only born, they are made—Made by the People.

THE W. C. T. U.

The beneficient effects of the prohibition law in West Virginia are surprising the men who voted for it as well as those who opposed it. A man in close touch with the situation for years, writing in the Youngstown (Ohio) Telegram, says that the conditions in Wheeling and West Virginia are so utterly changed that the State can hardly be recognized as the liquor-ridden community it formerly was.

On the testimony of a resident of the city of Wheeling, located in a county that gave a majority of 4,004 against prohibition, the Telegram says of the changed conditions in that city:

"The old cry of the wets that business would cease has been proven untrue, as all of their alleged arguments are proven untrue, if an attempt is made to investigate them. The wets raised the cry that the law would make hundreds of buildings empty, and that they would not be taken by other businesses. Before the saloons had closed the most desirable locations were taken. Some now hold groceries, some shoe stores, some dry goods stores, some confectioneries, some packing houses, but every building that is at all in a desirable location is taken by some legitimate business.

"Moreover, big improvements have been made. The German bank, the National Bank of West Virginia, and the Quarter Savings Bank have acquired some of the property and are making extensive improvements. On the site of one saloon a skyscraper is being erected. Another has been turned into a meat packing house. The saloon which stood next to the leading theatre has been turned into a confectionery store, and it is a strange sight to see the men who formerly went in behind closed shutters to toss off their whisky and cocktails, now standing up before a counter in the open and sipping soft drinks.

"The effect on the police departments and workhouse has already been felt. Patrolmen have been taken from the beats which they were compelled to tramp day and night and have been converted into traffic policemen. It is the first time in the history of Wheeling that traffic policemen have been stationed at the corners. There is talk of decreasing the police force already. The workhouse is almost depopulated On this account the city will be forced to abandon some of the improvements to streets and parks which were planned. The prisoners were made to work out their fines on the streets and in the parks, but there is no longer a sufficient number of prisoners to do the work.

"One instance is related of a former leader of the wets who is in the grocery business. A man who had owed him a grocery bill for four years came in the first pay day after the saloons were closed and gave him $10 on his account. He explained that now he could not spend his money for booze, he would have it to pay his honest bills. Similar incidents are related by the hundreds from all over the State."

Language can hardly express the benefit prohibition has been to Kansas. It has made a new civilization here. To tell the simple facts about it is to tax belief and challenge one's credibility abroad. One must tarvel and see the contrast, as I have done extensively for four or five years, to really appreciate the difference between saloonless Kansas and States where saloons flourish. I believe it is not extravagant to say that we have half a million of young people who have grown up here and have never seen a saloon or a saloon sign. My wife and I have reared four children to manhood and womanhood and they had to go out of the State to see a saloon or a saloon sign. And the financial benefits parallel the moral benefits. How could it be otherwise? When a State quits patronizing the saloon, and turns its attention to productive instead of destructive things and follows that policy for a third of a century, great good must inevitably result. To me it is amazing that business men everywhere cannot see that the saloons is the enemy of every legitimate business, and that of every five dollars that go into the till of the saloonkeeper four at least are kept out of their own. Not only that, but the saloon enormously decreases the earning capacity of its patrons and thus again robs the legitimate merchant of patronage he would otherwise get.

In Kansas we have tried prohibition for a third of a century, and it has been a great moral, educational and financial success—such a success that there is hardly a politician, of any political persuasion, who now opposes the prihibitory policy. We have whipped the politicians as well as the saloonkeepers, and the former was a bigger job than the latter.

Our assessed valuation of property exceeds the per capita valuation of any other State.

One-third of our counties are without prisoners in their jails and without paupers in their poorhouses.

More than one-half of our 105 counties have no prisoners in the penitentiary.

Eighty-seven counties have no insane.

In dozens of counties there have been no murder trials in ten years.

Only three States exceed Kansas in total value of assessed property—New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

More High School graduates go to higher institutions of learning, relative to population, in Kansas than in any other State.—San Francisco Bulletin.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The freshmen class held its initial basketball practice, yesterday afternoon, in Saengerbund Hall. The squad was under the supervision of Captain Seymour Day. Those reporting to Captain Day were the following: Leslie Daley, Kenneth Giddes, Douglas Stewart, Alec. Milne, Moses Genison, Stanley Burner, Harold Mantz, Frank Rowley, Clemont Texier, Russel Kinney, Harold Tomkinson, Harold Livingston, Jack Cannon and Frank Ball.

The Girls' Athletic Association held a meeting this noon in reference to holding a dance at Saengerbund Hall, Friday evening. The affair is one of the social gatherings which will be held this fall under the supervision of the girls. The committee in charge is planning to make this affair very pleasant for the incoming students.

Mr. Earley has apointed six students in the High School to act as firemen in using the fire extinguishers in case of fire in the school. Ralph Smalley, Duclos VanMater and Hoyt Tomkinson will have charge of the front hall, and Harold Willard, Sherman Chandler and Warren Townley will have charge of the rear hall.

Ralph Smalley left for Bellview, Pa., where he will sojourn for the rest of the week. Ralph's absence will be missed, as he is practising hard to make the basketball team.

Captain Abrams gave out five pairs of basketball shoes to the varsity at yesterday's practice. Those receiving them were the following: Warren Townley, Ronald Conroy, Roy Love, Duclos VanMater and Hyman Abrams. The captain has three more pair which were purchased by the Boys' A. A. to give to the next three substitutes.

Some Cookery Suggestions

ECONOMICAL CAKES.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Pickled Lambs' Tongues.
Baked Potatoes.
Quick Biscuit.
Banana Cake.
Cheese.
Iced Tea.

WHEN eggs are high the housewife may economize by baking cakes and preparing desserts that call for a minimum of these.

Some inexpensive cakes are suggested here:

Simple Nut Cake.

Walnut Squares.—Cream one cupful sugar, one-half cupful butter; then add one egg, unbeaten, and beat hard. Add one cupful milk, one cupful flour with one teaspoonful soda and two of cream of tartar, sifted in; beat, add another cupful flour and beat again. Add flavoring and bake in a sheet 8 by 12 inches. Frost with confectioner's sugar mixed with cream and flavored with vanilla; mark off in squares and place half an English walnut meat on each square. Bake in a quick oven.

Banana Cake.—Take two eggs well beaten and to them add one cupful sugar, one cupful flour, with one teaspoonful baking powder sifted with it, one teaspoonful vanilla and a pinch of salt. Mix well, add one-half cupful of boiling milk, poured in very slowly, stirring constantly. Bake in three layers; between each layer put filling made up of one cupful sugar, two mashed bananas, pinch of salt and white of one egg, well beaten together; add slices of banana to the top and whipped cream.

Two Egg Cakes.

Fluff Cake.—Take one cupful sugar and a small tablespoonful of butter mixed to a cream, one cupful of milk, one cupful flour, one tablespoonful cornstarch, two even teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful vanilla or almond extract and lastly the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Sift baking powder, cornstarch and flour together. The yolks of eggs may be used for a chocolate cake.

White Cake.—Take one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful each of butter and of milk, one cupful of flour, one-half cupful of cornstarch, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and the whites of two eggs. Rub the butter and sugar to a cream and add the milk. Sift the flour, cornstarch and baking powder together, and add them, beating well. Lastly stir in the whites of the eggs, beaten to a stiff froth. Bake for one-half hour in a well buttered tin and a moderately quick oven.

Anna Thompson.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Little Boy Played Saint.

So He Hied Himself to the Kitchen.

"I DON'T see why any little boy would want to play that," said Jack as daddy announced the title of the evening story.

"Of course you don't," said Evelyn; "'cause you are a naughty boy."

"Well, maybe you think you are a saint!" cried Jack.

"Stop fighting and listen to the story," said daddy severely as he cuddled the warlike kiddies.

"You know it is considered quite the thing for great writers and other great persons to write their autobiography—that is, the story of their own lives.

"Anatole France, a great writer, who lives in France, by the way, tells very entertainingly in his life story of how much he was impressed by the stories told him about the lives of saints and how he was filled with a great desire to imitate them.

"One saint in particular he thought was fascinating above all the others—St. Simeon Stylites, who achieved a reputation for holiness, which was rather unique.

"St. Simeon Stylites dressed himself in a hair shirt and lived for years on the top of a high pillar, where he had nothing else to do all day long but pray.

"This incident, related to him by his mother, seized upon the vivid imagination of little Anatole, and he concluded that he would play no more, but would devote his life to being holy in the same singular manner.

"He was in a terrible quandary, however, because, after he had improvised a shirt which he thought would do, you see, he had no pillar.

"So he hied himself to the kitchen. The cook was out, and he cleared the kitchen table, placed a chair upon it, and, arrayed in his shirt and with a prayer book in his hand, he climbed to the table, sat down in the chair and began his life of fasting and prayer.

"Unfortunately the cook had a bad disposition, and when she returned from her marketing she nearly expired from a fit of temper brought on by the fact that upon her immaculately scrubbed kitchen table Anatole had placed not only the legs of a chair, but his own feet.

"He endeavored to explain his project to her, 'but,' he writes in his story, 'my efforts to be saintly were discouraged not only by the cook, but by other members of the family, by which I perceived that it is a very difficult thing to be a saint while living with your own family. I see now why St. Anthony and St. Jerome went into the desert to practice their saintliness.'"

"Well, I think he was just about right," sighed Evelyn, looking very hard at her brother.

Enameled Kitchen Ranges

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — SCOOP IS A VERY SOUND LITTLE SLEEPER — BY "HOP"

THIS IS THE LAST DAY FOR REGISTRY

Voters today have the last opportunity of registering for the fall election to be held two weeks from today, November 3. Political leaders are responsible for the statements that the registration up to this point is not all that it might be, and a strong effort is being made to materially increase the registration today.

The various polling places are to be opened this afternoon at 1 o'clock, and will remain so until 9 o'clock this evening. Unless the individual does not personally appear before the boards and register, he will be deprived of his vote on election day, and for that reason they should make it a point to see for themselves that their names appear on the voting lists.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE NAMES COMMITTEES

The standing campaign committees of the Union county Democrats recently appointed, contain these local names: Finance, Fred Endress; speakers, D. J. Courain; naturalization, John F. Connolly; entertainment, John F. Casey and Patrick Motley; organization committees:

Plainfield—John P. Owens; Second ward, not yet filled; L. J. Ellis, Third ward; P. J. Reville, Fourth ward.

Fanwood Borough—A. L. Alberts

Fanwood Township—Charles H French.

New Providence Borough—Wilbur F. Brower.

New Providence Township—Robert Rogers.

EXTENDS PRIVILEGES TO MEN OUT OF WORK

The directors and secretaries of the Y M. C. A., extend a hearty invitation to men out of employment to make use of the reading and social rooms of the association building. The free use of these privileges may be had any day from 9 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening.

The association desires to serve men out of work in every way possible without placing them under any obligation whatever and it bespeaks the co-operation of all who are interested in meeting the serious situation which has arisen in extending this invitation.

MADE ASSISTANT TREASURER OF NORTHWESTERN SYSTEM

Harry W. Rush, of 525 East Second street, has been elected by the board of directors to the position of assistant treasurer and assistant secretary of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company and Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Company. Mr. Rush has been a resident of this city for several years and his many friends are pleased to learn of his promotion.

CONVENTION TO MEET HERE.

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association, the last gathering of which was held in the Greystone Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, last week, will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, this city, next fall.

—Your "help wanted" ad makes every worth-while work-seeker in the city an applicant for the position.

THE woman of the house has enough to do.

She should not be forced to provide food and earn the money to pay for it.

And yet that is just what thousands of women are doing to-day.

And the saddest thought is--they are doing it because their husbands neglected to buy life insurance.

HAS 'GOOD SPORT' HUBBY ARRAIGNED

Albert Lederer is $186.50 in Arrears in Alimony Payments Agreed Upon.

CONTEMPT IS ALLEGED

Local Man Will Have to Show Cause Why He Disregarded Court's Order—Hailed as "Good Sport" by Ex-Wife at Trial Last April.

Albert Lederer, a real estate operator living at 52 Craig place, the borough, was arraigned before Vice Chancellor Lewis in the Chancery chambers, in Jersey City, yesterday, in response to an order to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. According to his wife, Mrs. Florence Lederer, of Crescent avenue, Jersey City, he is $186.50 in arrears in alimony payments ordered by the court some time ago.

On April 29 last, Mrs. Lederer appeared before Advisory Master Charles H. Hartshorne, in Jersey City, with an application for an absolute decree of divorce, alleging that her husband had deserted her in June, 1910. The couple were married in 1902 and in filing an answer to her application last April, Lederer said he was not responsible for the legal action, but would not contest the trial. In court the wife testified that she had made several unsuccessful attempts at reconciliation, and her sister, Mrs. A. Seifried, of Newark. Since the couple's separation the wife has been conducting a hairdressing establishment in Jersey City and has been living on Madison avenue, this city. Her business address in Jersey City was given at the hearing yesterday.

At the previous hearing the Advisory Master announced that he had recommended an interlocutory decree for Mrs. Lederer and while the lawyers were trying to settle the amount of alimony, they being $1 apart, Mrs. Lederer walked up to her husband and said:

"Split the difference; what do you care for a dollar. You're a good sport, make it $7.50."

Lederer's lawyer had previously claimed that $7 would be a sufficient amount and her lawyer contended that $8 a week would be right. In reply to Mrs. Lederer's statement her ex-husband said:

"I'm game," and gave her the additional fifty cents.

Five minutes after this incident the couple left the courtroom together, but Mr. Lederer did not take his wife's hand when she offered it. They were talking and laughing and appeared to be the best of friends. They have two little girls which were placed in the custody of Mrs. Lederer with the proviso that her husband be allowed to see them whenever he chose.

According to Mrs. Lederer her husband has failed to comply with the court's orders and she has been compelled to support herself and two children with the exception of a little help she has received from Mr. Lederer. Even now she says she gets but $7.00 a week, the extra fifty cents her "good sport" husband agreed upon, not being forthcoming. This latter amount is permanent alimony, however. Lederer claims it is his mother and not he who has all his money referred to in round figures by his former wife in court.

In open court yesterday Lederer signed a stipulation agreeing to pay his wife $10 on November 2. If he fails to make payment Lederer will be forced to supply a bond or submit himself for commitment in the county jail.

WAS WILLING TO QUIT CITY IN RECORD BREAKING TIME

Although William Frisby had little respect for the size of Plainfield when he was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, and promised to get out of the city within two minutes, this assertion earned him a suspended sentence. The man was arrested by Patrolman Meyers yesterday on a charge of buying whisky for Ben Eddy, who is on the black-list. Upon the condition that he make himself scarce in the Queen City as soon after two minutes as possible the offender was let go and beat a hasty retreat in the direction of Newark.

Ben Eddy, who requested the man to purchase the booze for him, was arraigned on a charge of intoxication several weeks ago and at that time was allowed to go on a suspended sentence with the proviso that he leave the amber fluid alone in the future. The court gave the offender a severe reprimand this morning and allowed him to go on a suspended sentence on the condition that another arrest on this charge would mean six months in the county jail.

PLAINFIELD AERIE TEN YEARS OLD

Fraternal Order Eagles Celebrate Anniversary in a Pleasing Way.

Fraternal addresses, musical selections, cigars and refreshments all helped to fill the session of Plainfield Aerie, No. 866, F. O. E., last evening, when that organization observed its tenth anniversary. Many of the members of the local lodge, as well as visiting brothers from Elizabeth and Somerville, together with State officers, were in attendance.

The local aerie was organized October 20, 1904, with a charter list of 142, and its membership has steadily grown since that time. The degree team of this lodge has a State-wide reputation for the work it accomplishes on the floor during initiatory exercises. During the ten years of existence, the lodge has paid out over $2,000 in sick benefits, and over $1,100 in death claims. The organization not only has an up-to-date meeting place, but has recently leased bowling alleys and pool rooms for the use of the members as well.

The present officers are: Past worthy president, H. H. Coddington; worthy president, James Mahoney; worthy vice president, Joseph Buckley; worthy chaplain, Eugene Weidner; worthy treasurer, Arthur G. Adams; worthy secretary, Horace G. Adams; worthy conductor, Isaac Wyckoff; worthy inside guard, George York; worthy outside guard, J. H. Adams; trustees, H. H. Coddington, E. J. McCann and Herman Frowery. Horace G. Adams has been secretary for the aerie since it was instituted.

FREEDOM CASTLE, KNIGHTS GOLDEN EAGLE, ENTERTAINS

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, of this city, at a meeting last night, conferred the second degree on ten candidates. There were about ninety members present at the meeting, including representatives from castles in Trenton, Flemington and New Brunswick. The regular routine business was transacted before the honors were conferred.

After the meeting a banquet was enjoyed at The Ritz, Past Chief William E. Day acting as toastmaster.

HEADQUARTERS OPENED BY SUFFRAGE LEAGUE

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield opened its headquarters at 128 East Front street, yesterday afternoon, under auspicious circumstances. It was a gala occasion and a large number of enthusiastic guests responded to the invitation to meet Mrs. Helen Hoy Greeley, who has been beguiled away from the Empire State to direct for awhile the local suffrage campaign.

Mrs. Arthur B. Jones, the president of the league, introduced the guest of honor in a brief, vigorous speech, amid considerable applause. In her introductory remarks, Mrs. Jones called attention with some pride, to the fine headquarters and equipment and said that Mrs. Greeley would show the league how to make the best of it. To continue the headquarters for the next ten months would require money. Mrs. Jones said that she would like to see this money supplied by a large number of small pledges, thus showing a general interest and a spirit of co-operation.

Mrs. Greeley gave a reading, "Sally Ann's Experiences," full of pathos and humor and adorned by an unmistakable moral concerning the subjection of women. Tea was then served and old members had the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the many new members that are rallying to the cause.

BIG BLACK SNAKE ATTACKED PARTY OF DUNELLEN HIKERS

In returning from a hike to Mt. Bethel, Sunday, three Dunellen young men were attacked by a six foot black snake which made its way from a clump of bushes at the side of the thoroughfare. The boys, Russell Brakeley, Leo Logan and Adam Dealaman, did not notice the reptile until it was directly in front of them and at the sight of the snake Brakeley swooned.

The young man has suffered considerably from a weak heart and the surprise at seeing the snake stretched across the road was too much for him. He was rescued from the enraged reptile by his companions, who revived him and he was later able to return to his home.

FAVOR REOPENING OF OLD HOSTELRY

Netherwood Residents May Form Corporation to Conduct Netherwood Hotel.

BENEFIT TO EAST END

Civic Association, at Its First Fall Meeting, Discusses Project and Decides That the Scheme Would Be Practical—Other Business.

Members of the Netherwood Residents' Association met at the home of A. C. Wilmerding, 518 Belvidere avenue, last night and completed arrangements for the fall schedule of civic activities. Reports of various committees concerning the summer work were made, new members were introduced and the treasurer read a report showing a very satisfactory condition of the association's treasury.

The educational committee reported on the advisability of starting a movement for a much needed primary school for the smaller children in the Netherwood section, and a sub-committee was appointed to canvass the district to ascertain the number of children now eligible to first grade and kindergarten classes.

The highway committee received complaints of various matters requiring attention, notably the bad condition of pavement on Woodland avenue, from East Seventh street to Richmond street. The health committee reported that, as far as it could ascertain, the neighborhood is entirely free from contagious diseases and it had no complaints of nuisances.

The mail committee reported that it was still working on a solution of the question of non-delivery of mail in the Helene avenue section of the city. Owing to a ruling in the Post-office Department no mail matter is delivered to residents of Helene avenue and they are obliged to go over one mile to the Plainfield postoffice for their mail, a condition which is well nigh unbearable, while less populous communities have Rural Free Deliveries to their house doors.

The public safety committee reported that the new large automobile pumping engine would be installed in the Netherwood fire house next month, and with the new receiving reservoir at the water company's plant and additional fire hydrants in our streets the fire protection for Netherwood would soon be ample. The entertainment committee reported favorably on the subject of a "smoker," which will be held at an early date for the entertainment of the members and their friends. A nominating committee was elected to suggest names for candidates for officers to be elected at the annual meeting, which will occur on Monday, December 14.

An informal discussion took place in regard to forming a corporation to reopen "Truell Hall," on Belvidere avenue, as a first class and up-to-date hotel. It is believed that if the hotel were reopened with suggested improvements in the building and more liberal plans for entertaining guests the hotel would have a revival of its old time prestige, and be the means of greatly improving the surrounding neighborhood.

The meeting was concluded with an able address by Seymour Perkins on the subject of "Commission Form of Government." The address brought out some very strong points in favor of commission administration of city affairs, but indicated that under the present New Jersey Commission Law and the honest government existing in Plainfield, it did not seem desirable to strongly agitate for commission government in this city at the present time.

After the meeting adjourned a bountiful collation was served and a pleasant hour of social intercourse was spent by all present. The officers of the association are. Henry P. Stevens, president; Harry B. Wier, vice president; George Brisbane, treasurer, and Frank B. Martin, secretary.

$12 MORE FOR RELIEF OF WIDOWS AND ORPHANS

Three more contributions, amounting to $12, were received by the Daily Press this morning, to be applied to the Belgian Relief Fund. They come from "New Jersey" $5, H $5 and "Commission" $2. Money for this worthy cause will be welcomed by the Daily Press and promptly forwarded to the proper authorities.

MISS MURRAY IMPROVING.

GROWTH OF SAVINGS SYSTEM

Third Anniversary of Establishment Here Shows Great Progress.

NEARLY 500 ACCOUNTS

Total Business Transacted Amounts to $51,710.00 While the Deposits Aggregate $32,026.00—$134.80 in Interest Paid.

Today marks the third anniversary of the establishment of the United States Postal Savings System in Plainfield, and facts concerning the remarkable growth of the fund here are interesting. The system was put in operation here on October 21, 1911, and from that time to date the total business transacted amounts to $51,710.40. The amount of money deposited was $32,026.00, and the interest paid by the Government amounted to $134.80. The receipts from savings, card and stamps amounted to $950.60.

The money on deposit has been distributed pro rata share among the four city banking institutions. There are in all 457 accounts. The denomination of certificates issued by the Government are $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100.

Depositors in this system may apply at any time to exchange the whole or a part of their deposits for United States registered or coupon bonds in denominations of $20, $100 and $500. Such bonds dated January 1 or July 1 of each year will bear interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually. They will be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from the date of their issue and payable twenty years from that date, both principal and interest being payable in United States gold coin.

The object of the system is to provide facilities for depositing savings at interest, with the security of the Government for repayment. The faith of the Government is solmenly pledged to the payment of deposits made in postal savings depository offices, with accrued interest. An account may be opened and deposits made by any person of the age of ten years or over in his or her name or by a married woman in her own name and free from any control or interference by her husband. Deposits will only be accepted from individuals. No charges or fees are collected or required from depositors in connection with the opening of accounts or subsequent withdrawal of moneys.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE WINS YALE SCHOLARSHIP

Willard McKay, a graduate of the Plainfield High School in the class of 1913, has been awarded the Joseph Austrian scholarship at Yale University, where he is a sophomore. McKay always stood at the head of his class while at the local High School and on graduating was chosen valedictorian. Last year, McKay's freshman year at Yale, he stood third in his class.

In the selection of a candidate stress is laid primarily upon qualities of character and influence, and secondarily upon ability and promise of distinction. This scholarship provides a certain amount of money each year until the time of graduation.

TODAY'S ADV. WRITER.

The advertisement by the Plainfield Business Men's Association which appears in tonight's issue of this paper, was written by Sam Rothberg, who has charge of the advertising end of the organization. The writer took his subject from the speech of W. L. Saunders at the business men's dinner last Monday. He gives advice that if local citizens would give their home merchants a chance no matter in what line, they would get very satisfactory results.

COUNTY CLERK IN CRASH OF AUTOS

James C. Calvert and Court Crier Schoppe Are Severely Injured.

REMOVED TO HOSPITAL

Occurred on East Front Street Near Berckman Street Yesterday Afternoon—Campaigners Hit by Godfrey Weinmann's Car.

As the result of an automobile crash which occurred at East Front street, at Berckman street, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, which witnesses declare was unavoidable, one man is lying in a serious condition in Muhlenberg Hospital and a second is confined in the same institution suffering from minor hurts and shock. In the fated machine were Union County Clerk James C. Calvert, of Madison avenue, Elizabeth, and Court Crier Henry Shoppe, also of Elizabeth. After the accident Shoope was picked up in a semi-conscious condition and rushed to the hospital and Mr. Calvert was taken there later in the evening. Shoppe was thrown through the windshield and his shoulder was broken and several ribs crushed. Calvert's injuries were scalp wounds and cuts about the eyes. He was just recovering from an illness of several months and the shock left him in an extremely nervous condition.

The crash occurred at the juncture of Berckman street and East Front street. The Elizabeth car was proceeding east on Front street, toward Fanwood, where the county clerk intended to distribute a quantity of election ballots secured in this city, and collided at right angles with a car driven by Mrs. Godfrey Weinmann, of Westervelt avenue, coming out of Berckman street and traveling in a northerly direction. Every attempt was made on the part of the two drivers to avoid the crash, but the two cars came together with a terrific jolt, the report of the collision being heard for several blocks. None of the occupants of the Weinmann car were injured, although they were badly shaken up.

Mr. Calvert's car, which was considerably larger than the auto that hit it, was turned completely around and reduced to a heap of wreckage. So great was the impact that the iron mud-guards, radiator and lamps were twisted and broken and the vehicle had to be towed to a local garage.

The Weinmann car was slightly damaged. A throng of people soon gathered on the scene and the injured men were given first aid treatment pending the arrival of doctors. Both were in great agony and for a time it was feared that Shoppe had sustained fatal injuries. Mr. Calvert was removed to the office of Dr. Albert Pittis, but Shoppe was hurried immediately to Muhlenberg Hospital. The county clerk was taken to that institution at 6:15 last night, after the physician had made a preliminary examination of his hurts.

The Elizabeth car was carrying a large supply of election ballots and other campaign literature which Mr. Calvert was distributing in the interests of his campaign for re-election as county clerk. This was scattered along the roadside.

Chief of Police Kiely went to the scene of the accident soon after it happened and made a thorouflh examination of the circumstances surrounding the affair. Indications along the East Front street thoroughfare were that the Elizabeth car had been swerved to the left hand side of the road near the corner, but this was probably done in an effort to avoid the collision. The automobile in which Mr. Calvert and Mr. Shoppe were riding and the chauffeur were furnished by the Blue Ribbon Garage, of Elizabeth.

When advised of the injuries sustained by Mr. Calvert, County Chairman William Newcorn stated that he deeply regretted the incident and it was doubly unfortunate coming at this time in the heat of the campaign as it would prevent the candidate from continuing on the stump in the interest of his campaign for re-election. Mr. Newcorn stated, however, that he had confidence in the loyalty of Mr. Calvert's friends to look after his interests while incapacitated, and that personally he should exert every effort to prevent the occurrence re-acting on Mr. Calvert's re-election. This is also the sentiment of the other candidates on the ticket.

BRITISH FREIGHT STEAMER GLITRA SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINE OFF COAST OF NORWAY

CAPTAIN FORCED TO HAUL DOWN BRITISH FLAG AFTER WHICH IT WAS TRAMPLED UPON.

THE BOMBARDMENT OF PRZEMYSL CONTINUES

Great Object is the Extermination of the Main German Base in the Pacific, Says Winston Churchill—Japanese Navy Giving Invaluable Help—Warships Forbidden to Enter the Gulf of Smyrna—Germans Release Swedish Steamers.

London, Oct. 21. (Central News Cable)—The sinking of the British freight steamer Glitra by a German submarine off the coast of Norway is told in a telegram from Stavanger, sent by Capt. Johnston of the Glitra. The captain reports that the Glitra was proceeding from Grangemouth to Stavanger with a coal cargo when it was stopped twelve miles west of the Norwegian coast by the German submarine. A German officer, revolver in hand, forced the captain to haul down the British flag after which the officer tore it and trampled it underfoot. He then gave the captain ten minutes to clear away the life boats, order the crew into the boats and leave the Glitra. The captain and crew were later rescued by a Norwegian torpedo boat.

The correspondent of the Morning Post telegraphs from Stockholm that the Germans have released nine of the ten Swedish steamers they captured last week off Falsteroo, Sweden. Seizures of vessels continue, however. The whole lumber shipping industry is threatened.

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, has sent the following message to the Japanese minister of marine at Tokio: "Great object is the extermination of the main German base in the Pacific. The Japanese navy is giving invaluable help and the protection of trade the search of the enemy's ships and the convoy of troops in this decisive theatre of the conflict.

Rome, Oct. 21, (Central News Cable)—A despatch from Petrograd to the Messaggero says: "The bombardment of Przemysl continues. The excellent Russian artillery has destroyed almost all the fort cupolas causing the magazines in the fort to explode. The town was not damaged, the Russians having given orders to avoid damage to private property.

"The battle of the Vistula and San Dniester rivers still continues. The Russians have a vast system of trenches along their whole front and the artillery of the Russian army is markedly superior.

Copenhagen, Oct. 21.—The Frankfurter Zeitung prints a message from Constantinople to the effect that the foreign ambassadors have been notified by the Porte that warships are forbidden to enter the Gulf of Smyrna. The Vossische Zeitung states that the Porte's action is directed against the Anglo-French Mediterranean fleet.

Petrograd, Oct. 21 (Central News Cable).—The defeat of the Germans in the region of Warsaw last Sunday and the repulse of the Austrians of Przemysl on the same day represent the positions of the two principal seats of war on the Russian border as briefly communicated by an official announcement of the General Staff of the Russian forces under date of Monday. In Warsaw the panic has subsided and the streets and cafes are crowded with people who exchange mutual congratulations. The Germans have been thrown back and train service has been resumed between Warsaw and Skerniewice, a distance of forty miles. Nevertheless the sound of cannonading can still be heard occasionally at Warsaw. The success of the Russians south of Przemysl exhibits another attempt by the Germans at their favorite strategy which has failed.

London, Oct. 21.—An official communication issued at Vienna at noon yesterday is given in a despatch from Amsterdam. It says: "The battle in central Galicia has increased in force, especially north of the Etrwait River, where our attacks are progressing. The atempts of the Russians to retain the Magiera Heights have been repulsed. The Austrians have occupied Strzj, 42 miles southwest of Lember, Moerogsmecie and Serth, afong strong Russian resistance."

A despatch from Athens says that it is learned there that two submarines and some aeroplanes are en route for Constantinople and will probably pass through Rustchuk on the northern frontier of Bulgaria.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The sudden uprising of disgruntled Boers in South Africa is being put down. The London Foreign Office today advised the British embassy here, according to the information, the insurgents are at odds with their German allies and many are awaiting an opportunity to desert and return to their allegiance.

Paris, Oct. 21 (Central News Cable).—Requests have been laid before the Civil Tribunal of the Seine for the sequestration of the goods of Germans and Austro-Hungarians and it has been decided to seize the property of former Broker Rosenberg, whose liquidation will be effected. A group of deputies of the Seine has requested Cachin Bienaime to consider with M. Halvy the questions involved in the sugar and coal trade.

Amsterdam, Oct. 21 (Central News Cable).—The Telegraff's correspondent at Sluis, Holland, reports that a great battle is proceeding along the Belgian coast. Thirty thousand Germans are entrenching from Middlekerke to Westende.

Prince Wolrad Friedrich von Waldeck Pyrmont, half brother of the Queen mother of the Netherlands, has been killed while doing patrol duty in the western war zone.

Petrograd, Oct. 21.—It is estimated that the Germans lost nearly forty per cent. of their troops in the battle on the Nienen. After the battle the Russians found and buried 16,000.

Pekin, Oct. 21.—Refuges from Tsing Tau report the Japanese losing several thousand in fighting there, while the German losses were a few hundred of the garrison.

Paris, Oct. 21.—In its statement given out, this afternoon, the War Office declares that yesterday's attacks by the enemy at Nieuport, Dixmue and la Bassee were all repulsed by the Allies.

The text of the French statement follows: "Throughout yesterday, (Tuesday) the attacks of the enemy were particularly violent on Nieuport, Dixmude and La Bassee. All were repulsed with great energy by the Allied armies. Along the wings the situation shows no change."

New York, Oct. 21.—A wireless message from Berlin says that the German Official Staff announced today that there was no change in the western theatre of war.

OUTLINES SOME DIRECT BENEFITS

Forest F. Dryden Tells of the Plan to Mutualize Prudential Insurance Co.

TO MEET DECEMBER 7

On That Date 12,000,000 Policyholders Will Vote on the Proposed Question—What the Change Will Mean is Explained.

In issuing a call for a meeting of the 12,000,000, and more policyholders of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, at which time the proposed mutualization of the Prudential will be voted on, President Forrest F. Dryden outlines some of the direct benefits which he and his associates believe will follow. It is the first statement the company has made on mutualization since the project was started in January, 1913.

The date of the policyholders' meeting has been set for December 7. Every policyholder above the age of 21 years, and whose policy has been in force at least one year, will be privileged to either attend the meeting and vote, or else send a proxy to be voted in his or her name. Former Chancellor William J. Magie, former Supreme Court Justice Bennett VanSyckel and Vice-President John K. Gore have been selected to represent the policyholders who are unable to be present at the meeting.

Among other things Mr. Dryden has this to say on mutualization:

"The plan of mutualization was adopted in the belief that it would insure to the welfare of the company and would result in substantial benefit to its policyholders. As the proceedings have progressed we have become more firmly convinced of the correctness of these conclusions.

"While the company must maintain an impartial position in connection with the policyholders' meeting, it is nevertheless proper at this time to advise the policyholders of the reasons which have actuated the management in instituting the proceedings and carrying them to their present stage.

"The mutualization of the company will provide for the election of directors by the policyholders, which will insure for all time a continuance of the uniform practice of The Prudential to accord to its policyholders the greatest degree of liberality commensurate with safety.

"When mutualization is effected, distribution of the surplus earnings of the company will include all its policyholders, both participating and non-participating. While under the existing low rates, the net cost to the present policyholders may not, at the outset, be greatly reduced on account of mutualization, nevertheless every dollar earned by a continuance of the sound and economical conduct of Prudential affairs will, from the very beginning, be credited to the policyholders as the owners of the company.

"We believe that the substantial benefits to be gained through the acquirement by the policyholders of the stock at a price judicially ascertained to be fair and reasonable will appeal forcibly to them and will induce them to give approval to the plan.

"We shall be glad to answer any inquiries that may be made prior to the meeting by any interested policyholders."

After the Legislature of New Jersey had passed an act early in 1913 enabling the company to mutualize the main problem presented was an accurate ascertainment of the value of the capital stock of The Prudential. This was finally done by appraisement, the appraisers being former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., former Governor John Franklin Fort and former Assistant Postmaster General William M. Johnson, who were appointed by Chancellor Walker, of New Jersey. The interests of the policyholders in this proceeding were looked after by former United States Attorney-General John W. Griggs and Merritt Lane, of Jersey City. After a long and careful deliberation the value of each Prudential share having a par value of $50.00 was fixed at $455.-06, and at a recent meeting of the stockholders of the company, attended by seventy-seven per cent. of the share-holders, this price was approved without a dissenting vote. The meeting of the policyholders is the next step.

BOUND BROOK'S PART IN RUTGERS HISTORY

Is Shown in a Bundle of Letters Now in Possession of the College.

The historical pamphlets of Rutgers College have recently been augmented by the appearance of a booklet containing about fifty letters written to John Bogart, of Queen's College, between the years 1776 and 1782. These letters give an exceptional insight into the earliest days of the college, as they discuss topics which have to do with the life of Queen's (now Rutgers) at that time.

John Bogart was graduated from Queen's College in 1788. Almost a century and a quarter after his college days, a bundle of letters preserved by his family was given by his grandniece to the Reverend Charles T. Anderson, at that time minister of the Dutch Reformed church, of Bound Brook. They are now in the possession of Rutgers College.

The writers, save one, were Queen's College friends—students, graduates, tutor, president. Eight of them are among the sixteen men graduated before 1781, one was graduated in 1782, and two in 1783; most of them became distinguished in war, politics or professional life. The letters show something of the customs of the times, and tell something of the affairs of the war; they display the manner of writing usual then, and give glimpses of individual character.

The booklet was prepared by President W. H. S. Demarest, and issued by the college.

A GREAT PAPER.

The letter of President Wilson written to Mr. Underwood, the Democratic leader of the House of Representatives, and given to the public on Monday last, is one of the most remarkable papers ever written. No longer can anyone doubt the President's political wisdom. A more effective political document has seldom, if ever, been issued by any public man, for his party, in the history of the country. It recites in an almost captivating way the record of the Congress just closing and the achievements of the Administration during the past twenty months. The letter is also one that no one will begin to read and not finish. It will prove a great campaign document for the Democratic party. It will also furnish information for campaign orators. It is, and will prove to be, a convincing document.

The fact is, and by this letter it is made all the more evident, that Woodrow Wilson is the one great asset of the Democratic party. Everybody trusts and respects him and to about the same extent everybody stands in mortal dread of the party. It would never have held together but for him during the past two years. The problem is, will he be able to pull it through at the election on November the third next? If the Democratic party shall win in the coming election, it will be owing, alone, to Woodrow Wilson's popularity and the confidence and trust which the vast body of the American people put in him. These are times when the people wish to feel that they have a strong, safe, well-balanced man in the White House in whom they can put their trust. We all want peace and a leadership in whose hands we feel that peace is safe. Is there doubt that Woodrow Wilson is such a man? The election will answer.

"MADE IN AMERICA."

It was not many months ago that American merchants took particular pains to announce in their advertisements that this or that article was "Imported," or "Made in Germany" or some such similar statement. Now they have awakened to the fact that they have been making a mistake for years, and the "Made in America" slogan has become one that is seen in the advertisements of every up-to-date business man.

Until the war broke out there were a whole lot of misguided Americans who thought that in order to be in "style" they should buy everything that could be purchased with a foreign tag on it. There was a sort of mysterious mistrust of American goods that could not be explained, but still was evident. It did not make any difference whether the domestic product was of better quality than the foreign. All the salesman had to do was produce the article that had the ear-marks of being imported and it went to the customer at once, and usually at a higher price. In this way the people of the country have sacrificed hundreds of millions of dollars and at the same time interfered seriously with the development of native industries that we now wish we had.

It is one of the beneficent results of the war, as the Asbury Park Press says, that we are outgrowing this superstition. As customary imports are cut off we recognize with surprised satisfaction that in nearly every case we can get the same class of goods from our own factories—usually cheaper, and very likely better made, by better paid workmen, under more sanitary conditions. In a year we shall be more nearly self-sufficient industrially than we ever dreamed of being.

The first good effect of this development is to stimulate business by spending our money at home. But the new encouragement given to American manufacturers also provides impetus for the mastery of foreign markets.

Germany covered the world with "Made in Germany" goods because she was proud of her own products. With similar pride in our domestic output we shall see that "Made in America" is a trademark to conjure with.

Herman Schwed is indeed a fortunate man. There are mighty few of us who know what the others think about us in this world. Most of the nice things are usually left until after we are dead and gone, and then our friends are not so reluctant about expressing their opinions. But with Mr. Schwed it may truthfully be stated that every word that was said about him at the dinner given in his honor by the Business Men's Association on Monday night, was sincere. Many more complimentary things could have been made about the man whom the business and professional men were honoring, but the speakers did not have time to do the trick. In the course of his modest speech, Mr. Schwed remarked that he knew that he did not have any enemies, but was delighted to know that there were so many friends. Had all his friends attended that dinner there would not have been a hall big enough to hold the crowd. The committee would have had to hire a tent.

Women's Shoes

THE SHOE DEPARTMENT'S SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Children's Shoes

When we inaugurated this department two years ago some of the wise ones shook their head and said it won't go. I see its finish, there's shoe stores a plenty in town. The department is just two years old and on Saturday you never saw a livelier youngster in your life. Not only was it the busiest department in the store, but it also did the largest single day's business in its history, and this without the blowing of horns or a brass band.

There's a reason for the success of this department, and that reason is, we handle only the most reliable shoes we can find. Made in most instances to our special order from some of the largest and best factories in the country, and in buying as we do in such large quantities for our three stores, we are in a position to offer you better shoes for less money than you can get at ordinary shoe stores.

Now as to the New Styles for Fall and Winter

Those for women include: The gaiter top dress boot in black or grey cloth top, with patent leather or demi-calf foxings, vici kid button or lace dress shoes. Combination lace shoes with extra toe measurement for enlarged joints, and arch supporting shoes in black kid. High cut shoes in black demi-calf and tan calf in button or lace. The prices range from $3.00 to $6.00.

The Shoes for children embrace those that are especially adapted to growing feet; all made on the orthopedic broad toe last; the only sensible kind to buy. We are showing complete lines in tan or black Russian calf, patent leather with kid or cloth tops, white buck and neu buck in hand turned or welts. Priced according to size from $1.25 to $4.00.

GRADUATED FROM BROOKLYN HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

Miss Helen F. Callahan, daughter of Thomas Callahan, of East Second street, was a member of the class of twelve young women graduated as nurses from the Brooklyn Hospital Training School, last night. The exercises were held in the Harriman Memorial Dispensary and were followed by a reception. Miss Callahan completed her course last June and has since been practising her profession in Brooklyn, where she will continue to reside.

The following relatives and friends of Miss Callahan were in attendance at the exercises: Thomas Callahan, Jeremiah Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Albert LaRock, Miss May Birmingham and Miss Nora Callahan.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Brookes' freshman English classes have just finished a series of character sketches representing scenes from Homer's Oddessy.

The chemistry classes will perform their first experiment in the chemistry laboratory today. There was a misunderstanding in the ordering of the aparatus which caused a delay in the laboratory work.

Because of the overcrowded condition in the fifth period chemistry class, sixteen pupils will have to perform their chemistry experiments in the afternoons from 2 to 3:30, on the days which the class meets for experimental purposes.

About fifty girls met in the old gymnasium yesterday afternoon to practice the school yells. Miss Bessie Marchant acted as cheer leader. A meeting will be held in the near future to elect a permanent cheer leader.

Mr. Woodman came out to football practice yesterday afternoon and added three new plays to the string which the team already has.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Spelling books were given out this morning and each pupil assigned a lesson, as this subject will be compulsory in the future.

The freshmen class held a meeting yesterday and elected Theresa McCullough captain of the girls basketball team and Marion Blair manager. The freshmen girls expect to have one of the best teams in the school.

Hoyt Tomkinson, of the senior class, was presented at the chapel exercises this morning with a cup for winning the boys' single tennis tournament. Last year Tomkinson was the runner-up in this event.

Hoyt Tomkinson, the winner of this year's tennis tournament, and Sherman Chandler, the runner-up, have accepted the challenge issued through this paper of the Watchung A. A. Tennis Club.

The Girls' Athletic Association expected to run a dance Friday evening, but owing to Saengerbund Hall being rented on that occasion the date of the affair has been postponed. The girls have sold quite a number of tickets and the money will be returned.

CLASSIS WILL NOT RECOGNIZE CHURCH

Failure to Drop Pastor Keeps Flock Out of Reformed Denomination.

That it is not the intention of the Classis of Newark to restore Christ Reformed church, of Newark, to good standing under present conditions, was clearly evidenced at the meeting of the Classis in the German Reformed church today. Although no official action was taken in the matter, it not being considered necessary, it was the concensus of opinion that the Newark church should remain out of the Classis until such time it is willing to drop its pastor, Rev. Percival Barker, who is said not to be in good standing in the Reformed church body.

The Synod at its meeting in New Brunswick sometime ago directed the Classis of Newark to restore Christ Reformed church to its membership and at the same time directed the church to drop the pastor, but inasmuch as the church has failed to do as directed, the Classis will not comply with the request of the Synod, believing that one action is dependent upon the other.

There were about twenty-five delegates present at today's meeting, most of the churches being represented. Rev. W. J. H. Miller, of Newark, is presiding officer at the sessions. Most of the morning was taken up with the reading of minutes of previous meetings, the presentation of reports, etc., all of which was of routine nature. Rev. J. Y. Broek, who is visiting him home in Grand Rapids, Mich., was not present, but Trinity Reformed church was represented by Robert M. Clark, Jr. Rev. George Hauser represented the entertaining church, while Rev. Edward Ralston and Horace J. Martin were there from the Netherwood Reformed church and Rev. J. T. Landsdale from Marconnier Reformed church. At noon the women of the German church served dinner.

ENTERTAINED AT CARDS.

Mrs. Rufus F. Lincoln, of 862 West Eighth street, held yesterday, the first of a chain of card parties to be given for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange. Bridge was played at two tables until 5 o'clock, when about fifteen other guests arrived and light refreshments were served and a social half-hour followed.

"ALL SOCIETIES" PRAYER MEETING AT GRACE CHURCH

An "all societies" prayer meeting will be held at Grace M. E. church tonight, in connection with the social and evangelistic campaign now in progress there. Rev. C. C. Cain, the pastor, will be in charge and he urges the attendance of all the members of the various societies, the congregation and the official board. Tomorrow night Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will be the special preacher.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA BEGINS ITS REHEARSALS

The Plainfield Symphony Orchestra held a rehearsal at the Franklin School Auditorium last Monday night. The evening was spent studying Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and a few other numbers. Each week the orchestra grows larger and is augmented by new players, among them being Prof. Gottschalk, Arthur Mosher, Bert Harold, and several women.

A complete list will be published later of the membership, which now numbers about thirty, and will be added to as other players are secured. The leader of the orchestra is S. Frederick Smith, organist of the Grace church, who also conducts the Plainfield Choral Society.

GOVERNOR AND CANDIDATES TO SPEAK IN BOROUGH

Governor James F. Fielder, Congressman Allen B. Walsh, who seeks a re-election; Azariah M. Beekman, candidate for State Senator, and Francis E. Bodin, candidate for Assembly on the Democratic ticket, will speak in front of the engine house on Somerset street, the borough, at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

From North Plainfield the party of candidates and friends will go to Basking Ridge, Bernardsville, Gladstone, Peapack and Bound Brook, ending up at Somerville, where there will be a big mass meeting in the armory in the evening.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.

Elizabeth, Oct. 21—Frederick V. L. Jones, of Plainfield, was awarded $400.21, and his wife was awarded $100, as a verdict in the Circuit Court, yesterday afternoon. The Jonses sued to recover for injuries to Mrs. Jones in this city October 10, 1913, when she fell and broke her left leg while alighting from a Main Line car. The Public Service Railway Company was defendant.

DR. COCHRAN TO SPEAK.

Dr. Samuel Cochran, who is visiting relatives in this city, having returned from his mission field in China, will give an illustrated lecture in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, telling of his work in Hwai Yuen. Dr. Cochran's pictures are said to be unusually good and as he is an interesting speaker no doubt many people will be attracted to the service.

REGISTRY SHOWS FROM 10 TO 15 PER CENT. GAIN

The District Boards of Elections met yesterday afternoon and evening from 4 to 9 o'clock and registered many of the voters who had failed to put in an appearance earlier in the campaign. The registration throughout the city as it now stands appears to be somewhat above normal, one or two of the districts reporting gains in registration over last year from ten to fifteen per cent., although decreases were reported in others.

The next event of great interest to the voters is the mailing of the official sample ballots, which occurs on or before noon of next Wednesday.

County Chairman William Newcorn stated this morning that he had every reason to feel very encouraged with the result of the registration figures compiled by the office of County Clerk Calvert.

"It is another indication added to the many encouraging signs which point to a Republican victory November third," said the G. O. P. county chairman.

CHORAL SOCIETY ELECTS H. B. COOMBE PRESIDENT

Under the auspices of the Recreation Committee, the Plainfield Choral Society, elected officers for the season, last night. There were 116 singers present and H. Bernard Coombe was elected president of the society. Mr. Coombe then took the chair and Miss Marjorie Robinson, who is secretary at the North Plainfield High School, was elected secretary, and Mrs. L. A. Enstrant, of the Plainfield High School faculty, was elected as treasurer. Karl Wilson was chosen librarian.

S. Frederick Smith is the musical director of the Choral Society, and Wendell Glover presides at the piano.

GIVE US DIGNITY, THEY SAY.

Washington, Oct. 21—Because the Congressional Union for Woman's Suffrage did not meet their ideas of dignity, several hundred women of souther birth, have seceded and have formed the Kate Gordon Branch of the Southern States Conference. In denouncing the tactics of the older organization, Mrs. Wesley Martin Stoner, president of the Kate Gordon Branch, says: "We are tired of their antics and intend to carry on a dignified campaign, to which any southern lady may be proud to lend her support." The Congressional Union has been using somewhat strenuous measures, particularly in rounding up the members of Congress. Last summer they bearded President Wilson and administered a lecture which he declined to allow. The vice-president of the new chapter is Mrs. Percy Quin, wife of Congressman Quin, of Mississippi.

COUNTERFEITERS ON TRIAL.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21—Eight Italians, caught in a round-up by the secret service agents, appeared in the Federal Court here, today, on counterfeiting charges. The men were run down after a raid on a farmhouse at South Walpole, Mass., where the gang had its headquarters. The house it situated in a lonely section, and for many months mysterious men had been seen approaching the place from different directions. The East became flooded with bogus coins, mostly half dollars and dimes, and the sleuths of the Treasury Department were put on the scent. The stoves in the lonely cabin were still hot when the officers arrived, and scraps unburnt showed that the counterfeiters had hastily destroyed some of their outfit. The sleuths found clues leading to the top floor of a house in the North End of Boston, and there the gang was found on Sunday, October 11.

ATCHISON PRODUCE SHOW.

Atchison, Kansas, Oct. 21—The big produce show of the Commercial Club of Atchison, opened this morning, and a big gathering of producers arrived early. The exceptional crop yield of this section was a common cause of rejoicing, and prosperity was reflected not only in the profusion of excellent exhibits, but in the enthusiasm of the visitors at the fair.

HOW CHILDREN LEARN TO BUY

New Branch of New York's School Course Explained.

MODEL STORES INSTALLED.

Pupils Receive Practical Instruction of Value to Their Parents—White Aproned Teachers Show Them the Way to Be Successful Purchasers of Staple Commodities.

Model stores at which provisions are bought and sold have been opened in New York public schools for the instruction of school children.

The plan was adopted by the board of education at the suggestion of Chairman George W. Perkins of the mayor's food committee. It is hoped that the children will take many of the ideas learned in school home and thus not only become good marketers themselves, but impart the knowledge to their parents.

Most of the school principals have appropriated empty storerooms or large closets for the model stores. Shelves and counters are built close to the walls, and white aproned teachers, equipped with scales and ladles instruct the children how to buy food staples intelligently.

Real Food Supply.

A large toy factory got a rush order for several thousand sets of toy stores. Small boxes are labeled tea other boxes are marked salt, beans peas, etc.

In a few schools real food commodities are traded in, and the scholars are told to watch the scales to see that purchases are sold at fair weights.

As part of the domestic science courses boys and girls are taken to nearby markets by teachers and given practical lessons in selecting vegetables and groceries.

Miss Mary R. Davis, principal of public school No. 1, outlined the new "food course" to a reporter.

Watch Quality and Scales

"The children were very anxious to know if they were to have real money," she said. "We thought it best to prepare pieces of cardboard and wooden cylinders with money values marked on them.

"The little people are taught to comment upon the quality of the spaghetti, coffee or whatever they purchased and to be particularly careful that they receive fair weight.

"They are also given a good business training by doing all the book keeping for the store. Of course they learn to make change.

"One of the butchers in Washington market sends us a note when he has an animal to cut up, and a party of children is sent down in care of a teacher. She explains different cuts and what each is worth.

"The model store is a new phase of the domestic science courses, which have been in operation in New York public schools for several years. The thing which makes it sure of success is that the children look upon the practical work of buying and selling more as a recreation than part of their regular studies."

WAS A NOTED MATHEMATICIAN

Michael A. McGinnis Wrote a Book on Algebra While In Prison.

Michael Angelo McGinnis, a mathematician of international fame, who died in a Kansas City (Mo.) hospital, wrote a book on algebra, called "Algebra, the Universal Solution For Numerical and Literal Equations," while confined in a Missouri penitentiary. It was published in this country and attracted the attention of mathematicians and educators all over the world He was a descendent of John M. Napier, the inventor of logarithms, who died in 1617.

For some time McGinnis was professor of mathematics at Wichita, Kan., and later at a college in Missouri. Not long after this he was sent to the penitentiary for forging a deed and in August, 1910, applied to the governor of the state for a pardon, claiming that he had worked out a number of mathematical problems that had been universally despaired of. Among these he said that he had found the exact ratio of the diameter of a circle to its radius, that he had found the exact root of all numbers and that he could reduce equations of the tenth degree.

PREDICTS RUSH TO AMERICA.

Thousands Will Leave Countries Where War Is Constant Menace.

Professor Jeremiah Whipple Jenks, lecturing at New York university on the European war, declared that the conflict would undoubtedly force the United States to make changes in its immigration laws to prevent this country from being flooded with Europeans after peace has come.

He said he had just come from a conference on this subject and that it had there been averred by one who has been in Europe since the war started that on every side men were saying that they would have no more governments which at any time might plunge them into war. "When this war is over I will go to America," was the statement of thousands of middle class and laboring men.

PETITIONERS GET STREET DRAINAGE

Dunellen Council Authorizes Needed Improvement to Thoroughfares.

NEW LIGHTS WANTED

Communications Received From Newark Office of Public Service—Borough Asked for Its Share in State Improvement of Roads.

At the adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Common Council of Dunellen, held in the borough hall, last evening, a long felt need of the property-holders, residing in the area bounded by North avenue, from Washington avenue to Madison avenue, and thence down Madison avenue to the brook was realized when the law and ordinance committee was empowered by a unanimous vote of a full Council chamber to draw up an ordinance covering the construction of a surface drainage system to serve that section. The subject was opened by a communication from the Board of Trade, which called the Council's attention to the need of the borough for a proper drainage system and especially as regards the area described above. Before the motion had been made for the law and ordinance committee to draw such an ordinance, Assessor J. H. L. Peters, former Mayor Harry Swackhamer and Bartholomew Kelly were all heard from on the subject and emphatically set forth the need of that section for some drainage system. The Mayor also stated in that connection that he had had a twenty-minute talk over the telephone with Edward Maurer, who owns fully fifty per cent. of the property in the vicinity of Madison avenue, that morning, and that Mr. Maurer was heartily in favor of such action being taken and furthermore that Mr. Maurer was of the opinion that the property-holders should bear the full cost of the improvement, instead of the borough bearing a portion.

A petition was received signed by C. W. Smith, Philip Eder, J. H. L. Peters, Francis McSorley and others requesting that an electric light be placed at a point near the easterly end of Columbia street. The petitioners stated that the property-holders had laid a storm sewer and sidewalks and made other improvements along that thoroughfare and they could not understand why the electric light company wouldn't place a light at the point desired, as it evidently had refused to do. In this connection a letter written by Chairman Ryan to the Newark office of the Public Service Company was read as follows:

"We desire to say that we have been endeavoring for the last seven or eight years to make Dunellen a home centre for people, by having in the first place a good government, whose officers give their services gratuitously for the benefits of the residents and devote all their spare time towards the development of the home town. You have a contract with us for lighting and our efforts in developing the place are very well known to your company, as evidenced by our rapid growth in the last five or six years.

"In the franchise which you have with us it does not seem that you are living up to the spirit of the contract. It is true that you are living up to the letter of the contract, but in many cases you are thwarting our efforts by the stand you take in regard to the contract itself, and, while you are not obligated by the contract to place your mains within certain distances, we think it to your interest to make the necessary connections for our citizens when they are asked.

A notice from the State Department of Public Roads requesting all municipalities desiring State aid in repair and improvement of roads to submit their applications to the Board of Freeholders before December 1, naming the amount which the municipality is prepared to devote thereto. This must be 60 per cent. of the cost of new work and not less than 50 per cent. of repair work. The statute provides that aid for repair work can be given only on the most important improved roads and that aid in improvement must be limited to 40 per cent. of the cost. North avenue is an important road and needs repairing badly and the street committee was instructed to attend to the matter.

It was moved by Councilman William Shiebel and seconded by Councilman Neighbour that the Central Railroad be written a letter of appreciation for the improvement that is now under way at the Prospect avenue crossing.

Councilman Neighbour, chairman of the sidewalk committee, recommended that the sidewalk on the southerly side of North avenue petitioned for from the borough hall to Taylor's Hotel, be relayed only from the Farrell property to the lumber yard of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, as the remainder of the stretch was in fairly good condition. The recommendation of Mr. Neighbour's was accepted.

Mayor Latham appointed Harry S. Shugars as special marshal to garner in unlicensed dogs, and the appointment was confirmed.

Chairman Castner reported that the Devgin Structural Co. would assist the borough in repairing the condition of South avenue west of Chestnut street.

Other business included the ordering paid of current bills aggregating $741.45, and the empowering of the borough clerk to float a note of $500 to meet current bills.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 21—Republican county candidates speak at Union and Hillside.

October 22—Republican rallies in Elizabeth and Cranford, county candidates speaking.

October 22—Meetings at Springfield, Kenilworth and Garwood, to be addressed by Republican county candidates.

October 27—Secretary of Commerce William F. Redfield, personal representative of President Wilson, addresses mass meeting, probably in Gordon Hippodrome, Elizabeth.

October 27—Final registration day in municipalities of less than 5,000 inhabitants.

October 29—United States District Attorney J. Warren Davis and Senator Hennessy, of Bergen county, address Democratic rally in Gordon Hippodrome Hall, Elizabeth.

October 30—Congressman Kinkead and Prosecutor Stein speak at Democratic meetings in St. Patrick's and Sacred Heart parish halls, Elizabeth.

October 31—Prosecutor Martin P. Devlin addresses Democratic open-air rally in South Park street, Elizabeth, outside Americus Club. Another county tour tentatively arranged.

November 3—Election Day.

Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., will spend three full days toward the very end of the campaign in Morris county. Mr. Tuttle was in Morris for a day last week, and if his duties at Washington permit, will devote more time than that now scheduled to his rival's home county.

United States Senator Martine made one of his inimitable speeches at a recent session of the Senate, when he denounced a tobacco trade journal published in New York. This paper hotly criticised the Plainfield statesman's "profligate mouth," for declaring that tobacco should be taxed almost out of existence. Mr. Martine raised a question of personal privilege and declared that the articles in question were "from the blatant mouthpiece and organ of the outlawed tobacco trust. They do not love me, and God knows, they are not alone in that." Senator Vardaman wanted to know if Mr. Martine was indeed meant, and the latter answered: "There it is in plain type. But do not let the Senator or the writer trouble his soul. I say to this journal that James E. Martine has the courage to stand in his place and vote for what he deems best. I say to them, spread your abuse and castigation to the wide end of our commonwealth. Go, I say, and tell it from the hills of Sussex to the sands of Cape May. Tell it to the gleaners of Hunterdon and Monmouth, tell it to the miners of Morris and Sussex, tell it to the stevedores of Hudson and Middlesex. Tell them all."

INCREASE IN POTATO YIELD.

Portland, Me., Oct. 21—The total potato crop is placed at 333,000,000 bushels for this year, a gain of 16,000,000 bushels over last year. The area harvested in Pennsylvania and Ohio, owing partly to drouth, is somewhat short of last year. The Maine yield is far above normal, and it is expected that the Minnesota yield, now being harvested, will bring that State further to the front in totals. In Aroosook county, Maine's famous potato section, farmers are marketing at from 35 to 40 cents per bushel, while Michigan and New York farmers are realizing 40 to 45 cents. During the past year a shortage of supply brought in 14,000,000 bushels of foreign potatoes, mostly from Canada, but this year the domestic yield will supply all our demands.

VAGRANT LET GO.

Patrick Doyle was arrested last night, and arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on a charge of vagrancy. He was found sleeping in a barn at the rear of 312 Liberty street. Sentence was suspended.

SOLD TEN PROPERTIES.

Tax Collector George Brown sold at auction, yesterday, ten properties on which 1913 taxes had not been paid. Two of these properties were improved and contained dwellings, the others being vacant lots.

COMPANY K PRACTICE.

The Company K basketball squad will hold a practice in the Front street hall tomorrow night. All candidates are urged to be present so that a good practice can be had.

REGISTRATION NORMAL.

The borough District Boards of Elections met yesterday as in this city, and registered a large number of voters. The total registration of the borough is about normal.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE WINNERS FEASTED BY ADMIRING MATRONS

The members of the Hope Chapel baseball team, champions of the Sunday-school Baseball League for 1914, were given their annual reception at the chapel, last night, when they were the guests at a chicken dinner given by some of the mothers of the players. This dinner has been a yearly function ever since the Hope team has been represented in the Sunday-school league and this year the presentation of the cup was an added feature. The members of the Young Men's Club were present as were the president of the league, the umpire and officers of the Sunday-school.

There were thirty-two present all told and they first enjoyed a bountiful repast which the diners claimed only Hope mothers can serve. After all had eaten their fill several fine speeches were enjoyed. George T. Leighs, leader of the Young Men's Club and manager of the baseball team, was master of ceremonies and made a short speech before introducing the other speakers. He thanked the members of the team for the way in which they had stuck by him during the season and then introduced Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel. He gave an interesting talk on the ball player as a man and sighted many instances to illustrate his point.

G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of the Sunday-school, also spoke and he was followed by Dr. P. B. Cregar, one of the team's faithful rooters. J. Henry Crane, president of the league, told of the ups and downs of the organization this year, but stated that it had been very successful despite the many rumors to the contrary, that were spread around last summer. He congratulated the Hope team on its fine showing and stated that the boys who won the cup deserved all the credit that could be given them. The handsome silver loving cup was presented by the donor, Leo Slonim, a local jeweler, and he expressed a desire to have that honor as long as the league existed. He gave the cup last season that was won by the First Baptist team. Three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Slonim. Jack Martin was also present and was called upon for a few words, but his topic was the basketball team, of which he is coach. He urged every player who was on the team last year to return and help the team win the city championship again. Before the festivities ended cheers were given for the mothers and waitresses who assisted them.

The mothers who were responsible for this spread are Mrs. James Heron, Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. Aaron Snyder, Mrs. George T. Leighs, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. James Penny. They were assisted by the Misses Josephine Snyder, Agnes Leighs and Eunice Eckert.

ENTRY LIST GROWS FOR Y. M. C. A. POOL TOURNEY

Much interest has been taken in the Y. M. C. A. handicap pool tournament which will start some time next month. Those in charge of the tournament are planning to have preliminary matches for all entrants, after which the handicaps will be selected and match play started. The first games of the preliminaries will start on the night of November 2, and all those who have entered will have a chance to show their best. When this round is completed the committee in charge will give the handicaps and the drawings will be made.

The regular match play will then start for the prizes and the winner and runner-up of the tournament will be rewarded with a handsome pool cue. This is the first time that an event of this kind has been held in the local association for some years and there is so much interest in this that others will probably be held later. All members who wish to enter the tournament may do so by signing their names on the entry blank at the association.

JACK MARTIN WILL HAVE NEW MANAGER NEXT YEAR

Jack Martin will have a new boss to report to next season. President William Baker, of the Philadelphia National League Club yesterday disposed of Charles Dooin as manager of the Phillies and appointed Pat Moran in his stead.

Moran for the past few years has been acting as coach for the Phillies. Of late years he has appeared in the lineup but a few times. Moran gained quite a reputation some years back as a Chicago catcher.

DONLIN MARRIED AGAIN.

Asbury Park, Oct. 21.—Michael Joseph Donlin, utility outfielder and pinch-hitter for the Giants, was married here at noon yesterday, to Miss Rita Ross, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Ross (Ross and Fenton), at the Church of the Holy Spirit. The Rev. Father Roche officiated. The best man was Fred Mace, and the bridesmaid was Miss Blanche Ross, sister of the bride. The married couple will live in the Hotel Bristol, New York.

"MET" TOURNEY TOMORROW.

The Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will hold the third of its one day tournaments in Westfield, tomorrow afternoon. There are several local entrants in this event. There is one being held at Ardsley this afternoon.

WITH THE BOXERS

Colin Bell, the Australian, is somewhat of a disappointment.

It does seem like old times to read that Jack Johnson was pinched in London.

A match between Carl Morris and Jess Willard is being arranged by Billy McCarney.

Al Reich is getting rid of the boils that prevented his meeting Jim Flynn in New York.

Freddie Welsh and Matty Baldwin are to meet next Tuesday night at Boston.

That was a severe setback for Leach Cross at Boston, when Gallant bested him last week.

Fight fans in Brooklyn are to see Joe Jeannette and Battling Jim Johnson in a clash soon.

Larry Gilbert, of the Boston Braves, may assume the new role of referee at the New Orleans clubs this winter.

Boxing is taking a spurt in Massachusetts, Chicopee and Cambridge opening clubs with lively meets last week.

Johnny Coulon is tiring of business, and his friends say he will soon lock up store in Chicago and re-enter the ring.

Dan McDonald, of Nova Scotia, and George Robinson, of Chelsea, will fight at Boston next Tuesday night. They are middleweights.

Willie Ritchie and Johnny Dundee will be seen in a go at San Francisco on Friday night. This is Ritchie's first match since he lost to Freddie Welsh.

Jimmy Clabby and George Chip have finally arbitrated on weights, and will meet at Frisco, October 30, for 20 rounds.

Dan McKettrick, manager of Young Ahearn, is looking for a match with Gunboat Smith. The sailor is busy picking up change in the East.

Y. M. C. A. PRACTICE.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will practice tonight in the association gym. All members of the squad are requested to be present at this time for the first game is drawing near, and Captain Brynariski wishes the team to get as much practice as possible before that time. It will begin at 8 o'clock.

Members of the Plainfield Elks' bowling quintet motored to New Brunswick, last night, and in a series featured by a lot of good pinning dropped two out of three games rolled to the home five. In the opening game the Brunswicks were there for 884 and this was good enough to win by thirty-three pins. The visitors came back with 958 and the home five, in spite of the fact that it jumped to 915, was beaten by forty-three pins.

The second game saw the New Brunswick five account for a total of 978 and it won by more than one hundred pins, the Plainfield team being there for 852. Harkins rolled 237 for New Brunswick, Coyne had 204 and McCormick 201. Campbell was there for 212 for Plainfield and Blatz tallied 202.

ELIZABETH ELKS TOOK A PAIR FROM NEW YORK

Elizabeth bowlers were in a high-scoring mood in their match, last night, on their own alleys with the New York Elks, an which they captured two games out of three. In the initial contest the Betsytown pinknights were there for 1,023, Bock turning in 233, Nolte 203, Clauss 202 and Maloney 201. The visitors only marked 771 in this game, but came back with 896, showing the Elizabeths the way in an interesting contest by sixteen pins. The last and deciding game was also interesting, Elizabeth with 889, winning by sixty-one pins. The scores:

LOCAL GUNNER FINISHED SECOND AT PERTH AMBOY

Shooting on the Perth Amboy Gun Club range, yesterday, Tom Brantingham, of Park avenue, finished second in an "all together" shoot of fifty. First honors went to Thorfin Tait, of Metuchen. The local gunner made some very good scores notwithstanding the strong cross wind that was blowing all the time. The match was livened with good fellowship and friendly rivalry and the guests of the Perth Amboy club thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Inter-club shooting matches were discussed by the representatives of the various clubs present and it is probable that some competitive tournaments will be arranged. The visiting clubs at the recent shooting were Metuchen Gun Club, West End Gun Club, of Staten Island; Ponquoit Gun Club, of Long Island, and the Asbury Park Gun Club.

LANGFORD SCORES K. O.

Boston, Oct. 21—Sam Langford knocked out Gunboat Smith in the third round of their scheduled twelve-round bout at the Arena here last night. A right and left hook to the jaw sent Smith down for the fatal "ten" after two minutes of fighting in this round. Langford scored two knockdowns previous to the knockout.

PLAINFIELD PLAYERS IN GOLF MATCHES

Mrs. H. R. Stockton Highest Local Entrant With Gross Score of 92.

Four Plainfield and two Westfield women competed in a one-day golf tournament on the links of the Hackensack Golf Club, yesterday, and Mrs. James C. Barclay, of the home club, led the field with a net score of 82. Mrs. Barclay went round in 90 strokes, and had she not missed a putt on the home green would have tied Mrs. W. J. Faith, of Wykagyl, for the gross prize

Second net prize was won by Mrs. W. H. Watt, with a card of 104, 20-84, while Mrs. C. F. Uebelacker, of Hackensack, tied for the third net prize with Mrs. S. Weil, of Fairview. They had totals of 87, but in a play-off Mrs. Uebelacker won.

Mrs. Charles Greenhall, of Fairview, won the approaching and putting competition with a score of 9.

The results of the Plainfield and Westfield entries follow: Mrs. H. R. Stockton, 92, 3-89; Mrs. Wagner, 111, 18-93; Miss Helen Gardner, Westfield, 114, 18-96; Mrs. H. E. Manvel, Westfield, 116, 12-104; Mrs. H. A. Avery, 118, 14-104; Mrs. D. S. Rowland, 128, 20-108.

WESTFIELD WILL ENTER TEAM IN K. OF C. LEAGUE

Ten teams will compose the Knights of Columbus Bowling League this season. This was decided at a meeting held Monday night in Newark and the Perth Amboy lodge will fill the vacancy left by Plainfield, which was in the league last season. The Jersey City team dropped out and Westfield will be represented in the league by a team. The final meeting will be held at Bayonne next Tuesday night. The Plainfield team could not enter because of many other activities they have now. They finished in fourth place last year.

The ten lodges entered are: Montclair, Newark, Star of Bethlehem of Newark, Star of the Sea of Bayonne, Hope of Jersey City, Paulaus Hook of Jersey City, Hudson of Jersey City, Westfield, Bayley of Elizabeth, and Perth Amboy.

OPENING GAME FOR Y. M. C. A. FIVE POSTPONED ONE WEEK

Because of several social events that take place on Saturday night, November 7, the management of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team has decided not to open the home season on that date but to postpone it for one week. The locals were originally scheduled to play the Summit Chapel Club, but will now open its season with a fast Newark aggregation.

Mid-week trips are being planned for the team to keep the players in shape for the hard schedule of home games that will be played. Negotiations have been closed with the fast Chatham Club, of Brooklyn, who will appear here on November 28. Nothing definite has been done about the Y. M. C. A. League, but it is very probable that it will be formed.

LAURELS TO ENTER STATE JUNIOR BASEBALL LEAGUE

It was learned today that Frank Mullin, one of the main stockholders in the Laurel Baseball Club, champions of the Parker Field Middle League this season, has taken advantage of the offer which appeared in this paper Monday night, and entered his team in the 1915 New Jersey Boys' Baseball League which is now being formed. The league is now a sure thing, according to reports from Manager McCarthy, of Elizabeth, who has charge of the formation, and he will enter the Laurel team as Plainfield representatives.

The team is a combination of the best young baseball players in this city and put up a stellar article of ball during the summer. A trophy will be given to the winner of the league and the local team is going to try and bring it to Plainfield.

TEACHERS MEET AT BISMARCK.

Bimarck, N. D., Oct. 21—The North Dakota Educational Association opened a three-day convention here today, which was notable for the prominence of the visitors and speakers. President E. F. Sparks, of the State College, Pennsylvania; Dr. Ralph Johnson, of Girard College, and E. G. Blair, State superintendent of Illinois, will address the convention tonight and tomorrow. President C. R. Travis delivered the annual address and State Superintendent E. J. Taylor spoke this morning.

HOLY CROSS TEAM BADLY SHAKEN UP

Men Changed All Around on the Team and Coach Martin Gives Hard Practice.

The Holy Cross football team went through a fine practice last night on Marshall Field, and if they do not start winning now it will not be for want of instructions from the coach, as Martin gave them the kind of practice that will make them get the spirit of the game and show what they can do. Individual practice was held and Coach Martin took every player and gave him private instructions on how to play his position. Then he put the team through fast signal practice and shifted men all around in the line.

Two of the tackles were put in at guard and Ricketts was shifted from halfback to quarter. Coyle will not play that position any more this season. Becker and Stiglitz were worked at righ half and both showed up well. The exact lineup for the next game has not been decided on, but this matter will probably be decided when the team has its next practice, which will probably be tomorrow night.

Clarence L. Woodman, the P. H. S. coach, will assist in coaching the team and may play one of the back positions. The team will have one more hard workout before it tackles the eleven from the battleship Wyoming, champions of the Navy. This team will bring a large delegation with them and intend to win the game. This team has appeared here before and put up a good game.

EUROPEAN SUPREME COURT TO END WARS, SUGGESTED

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—That a supreme court of Europe to prevent excessive armaments and compel the maintenance of international treaties may be found practicable after the present European war, as a preventative of further gigantic struggles between the nations, is the belief of Samuel J. Elder, expert on international law. Mr. Elder represented the United States as senior counsel in the fisheries dispute before The Hague Tribunal in 1910, and is a close student of European affairs.

The court of the nations, with certain definite powers, particularly with reference to armaments and treaties, would be a sure preventive against sudden clashes such as occurred the first of August, he says. He believes that the decisions of such a court can be enforced. His idea is that, when the decision of the court has been given, the nations that have signed the contract to abide by the findings of the court will, if the convicted nation does not accept the decision, proceed to enforce a policy of non-intercourse with the guilty nation as regards trade and mail. That such a course would soon bring an offending nation to terms is the opinion of Mr. Elder.

RIVAL FATHERS, RIVAL SONS.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 21—The most interesting college men at Yale this year are two sons of college presidents. The boys are rivals for highest scholarship honors, just as their fathers before them were rivals for one of the biggest honors in the college world. Morris Hadley, son of President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, and George Vincent, son of President George E. Vincent, of the University of Minnesota, are today named in the honor roll for scholarship standing of the class of 1916. Although no official announcement can be secured, it is rumored that young Hadley leads his class. Young Vincent is a close rival, it is said. It is recalled here that when President Hadley was chosen to his present position, the choice of the Yale corporation lay between him and Professor Vincent. The decision to select an Eastern man finally prevailed. And now the sons of the rivals are themselves rivals as well as good friends and classmates.

CANAL LOCK OPENED TODAY.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 21.—The third lock in the St. Mary's ship canal was formally opened today. It was announced that despite the failure of further government appropriation for the work, there is sufficient money left to begin construction of the fourth lock and carry the work through the winter. Excavation for the fourth lock will begin at once, but may be halted if the government makes no provision for the concrete work.

KANSAS WOMAN NAMED.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21—The women of the Middle West are deeply interested in the campaign which has been launched in Kansas to place Mrs. George Thatcher Guernsey in the office of president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The next convention is to be held in 1915 and friends of Mrs. Guernsey have mapped out a platform on which they will fight to bring this honor to Kansas.

BREATHE FREEYL! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD---END CATARRH

Instant Relief When Nose and Head Are Clogged from a Cold—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges—Dull Headache Vanishes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Trolley Extension.

South Plainfield has lost its fight to secure trolley extension with the outside world. The decision of the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners refusing to order the Public Service to make the extension of the Plainfield line to South Plainfield is interesting to this city.

Here the people have been asking for an extension of the trolley line out French street, and for a loop connecting the Codwise avenue line with the Throop avenue line, as well as for an extension of the Codwise avenue line out to the new industrial section of the city.

But the Public Service insists upon being shown a profit in extension work before it will consider it. If this city can prove that travel on the Codwise avenue line would be so increased by an extension of the line that the added business would pay the interest on the investment and dividends on the stock, the Public Service would jump at the chance to build the line.

It is said that the men who tried to have a trolley line constructed through Livingston Manor and the growing part of Highland Park found themselves up against the same proposition and were unable to convince the Public Service officials that such a line would be profitable.

Some years ago when the trolley company was looking for favors in this city it promised to extend the Codwise avenue line through Sandford street, and out Livingston avenue to the brook. It secured a franchise for this line, good for five years. The five years have expired.—New Brunswick Times.

NO TOY FAMINE, SAYS SANTA.

New York, Oct. 21.—Kriss Kringle was in a jolly mood today when a reporter came across him looking over the toys and good things he is selecting. "I have enough to fill all the stockings this year," he said confidentially. "Lots of my dolls won't be finished in time, but I have a big crowd of hard workers right here in America making others to replace them. The American boys and girls will have their good things, whether they get or not in Europe." The reporter found out that Santa's big bag will this year contain practically nothing but gifts made in America. They won't all be the old kind, either, for there are plenty of new jumping things and whirly things—but the reporter promised not to tell about them in advance.

MONUMENT NEARLY COMPLETED

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 21.—The Perry monument shaft at Put-In-Bay, to commemorate Commodore Perry's victory over the British on Lake Erie, and a century of peace, will be completed before the lake freezes, the engineers said today. The shaft rises 337 feet, is 45 feet in diameter at the base and 36 at the top. A bronze cap weighing 40 tons is being placed on the shaft. A bowl filled with electric lights will send a pillar of light into the darkness of the night. The building of this monument is an engineering marvel, because of its peculiar construction. Near the top it is overhung by a square balcony. Forty-eight flights of stairs rise to the top.

MINNESOTA PEACE DAY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21—"Patriotism-Prosperity-Peace," is the banner of the Minnesota Educational Association, which opened its annual convention today at St. Paul. Friday will be Peace Day, and the session that afternoon will be given over to addresses on peace. President George E. Vincent, of the University of Minnesota, will be the peace speaker. Miss Elizabeth Hall, of Minneapolis, president of the association, opened the convention this morning and welcomed the teachers. Other speakers are: Henry Suzzalo, professor at Teachers' College, Columbia University; President Foster, of Reed College; Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, president of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission; Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League, and Jessie B. Davis, secretary of the National Vocational Guidance Association.

CARMAN SERVANT ON THE WITNESS STAND

Celia Coleman Tells of Seeing Revolver in Mistress' Hand After Shooting.

Mineola, L. I., Oct. 21—The air of quiet confidence which marked the demeanor of the accused and her counsel, was the most striking feature at the opening of the third day of the trial of Mrs. Florence Carman. Apparently elated over the fact that little testimony of a damaging nature was brought out by the prosecution during its inning, yesterday, the defense this morning calmly awaited the appearance on the witness stand of Celia Coleman, the negro servant, employed in the Carman household at the time of the homicide and who is believed to furnish the foundation stone of the people's case.

It is not believed that the tramp, Farrell, will be placed on the stand by District Attorney Smith. Although it had been hinted that he would spring a surprise before the morning was over, it is believed that he will rest his case largely on the testimony of the negro girl. Immediately when court convened Celia Coleman was called to the stand.

She told in a clear and collected manner the story of the shooting. But in many points Mr. Graham was able to confuse her and this confusion resulted in her unfavorable impression on the spectators. Court was adjourned for the noon recess while Celia was on the stand. She was called again after court convened for a resumption of her cross-examination. She told of how Lawyer Levy for the defense, had forced her to sign a statement two days following the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey declaring that Mrs. Carman had not been downstairs after dinner on the night of the murder, June 30.

A few minutes before she had retold the story of how Mrs. Carman had left the kitchen by the back door, how she heard a shot, the crash of glass and how her mistress returned to the kitchen a few minutes later with a revolver in her hand. She was asked what Mrs. Carman said at that time. The colored maid replied in quivering voice, "I shot him."

A gasp went through the courtroom when the girl repeated the words she attributes to her mistress. The admission was later forced from her that she told an untruth at the coroner's inquest when she said that her mistress had not been downstairs following dinner on the night of the shooting. Her whole testimony tendered to lend strength to the theory of the defense.

Attorney Graham tried to discredit the Coleman girl at every opportunity. The effectiveness of his work was evident from the effect on the spectators. It was seen after the girl had been on the stand for two hours that it was the purpose of the defense to make the former Carman maid a witness for the defense, rather than for the prosecution. She had not been under cross examination more than a half hour when all of the effect of her earlier testimony had been offset. It was then that Mr. Graham seized his opportunity to construct his case from the material the defense has provided.

INCENDIARY STARTED FIRE IN WEST END

Flames Did Damage Amounting to $300 at Midnight Last Night.

Fire, thought to have been of an incendiary origin, did damage amounting to $300 to an empty house at Liberty and West Third streets, at midnight last night. When the fire department arrived in response to a call from box 46 they found the flames raging in the second story of the structure. It was the opinion of Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings that kerosene had been sprinkled on the floor and the place had probably been set on fire.

The dense smoke issuing from the burning building made the fighting of the flames a difficult task and it was more than an hour before the firemen had them under control. Chemicals and a stream from a fire hydrant were brought into play.

South American Meetings Opened in the First M. E. Church Last Night.

Bishop William F. Oldham, of South America, was the principal speaker at the first of a series of South American meetings held in the First M. E. church, last night, a large and interested audience greeting the speakers. The affair was given under the direction of the World's Sunday-school Association and a local committee composed of William C. Hubbard, William D. Murray, George E. Hall, A. M. Harris, J. W. Gavett, Fred E. Smith and Miss Florence Hawkins, were instrumental in organizing the initial gathering here.

The bishop described in a vivid manner the habits and customs of the South American people and the peculiarities of the country. He commented on the many opportunities for development that present themselves, declaring that the country was overflowing in mineral wealth and hundreds of acres of cultivated land yield big harvests. He compared and contrasted the area and size of the country with other flourishing United States regions and stated that in Brazil alone 90 per cent. of the people were of the illiterate class. Bishop Oldham declared that these individuals, however, were eager to learn and made anxious grasps at all opportunities that presented themselves. He explained the need for missionaries and closed his address with a strong plea for united work on the part of the World's Sunday-school Association in this direction.

Herbert S. Harris gave an interesting travelogue and explained in pictures and words the country which he had visited three years ago. Charts and pictures made for his personal supervision added greatly to this portion of the program. He took his listeners on a tour through the country, describing the various advantages and the need for improvement ment that present themselves.

The lecture was followed by vocal solos rendered by Miss Etta Raybert and the Sunday-school orchestra played several selections. H. J. Heinz, of Pittsburgh, the man who made the "57 varieties" famous, was also a speaker. He spoke on South America and declared that the Monroe Doctrine places this country under a commercial, spiritual and moral obligation to South America.

LIVELY SKIRMISH REPORTED.

Amsterdam, Oct. 21 (Central News Cable).—An Austrian official statement says that a skirmish occurred off Cape Ostro, at the entrance of the Gulf of Cattaro, between Austrian torpedo boats and submarines, accompanied by an airship, and a French cruiser, the Waldeck Rousseau. Although heavily bombarded the Austrian ships returned undamaged. The French cruiser fired at the Ostro lighthouse, which was slightly damaged. Austrian torpedo boats attacked Antivari, Sunday, destroying the Montenegrin warehouses and a number of loaded railway wagons containing war stores.

CALVERT'S OFFICE A CLEARING HOUSE

Union County Clerk Has Many Responsibilities to Uphold During Term.

Statesmen have decided that geographical divisions of the State were essential to good government and the office of the county clerk has become the clearing house for the county. An ever increasing population and an ever critical public has imposed, through legislation, additional duties, new labors and additional responsibilities.

Under the careful and painstaking methods of James C. Calvert, the Union county clerk's office has become a business centre of great responsibilities, conducted with the thought ever uppermost in minds of the officials in charge that the welfare and convenience of the taxpayers and residents must be served. Those who are intrusted with the responsibilities of local government should be as well equipped for the performance of their duties as those who are given responsible positions in indusrtial and commercial life.

BRITISH SEIZE STANDARD OIL COMPANY STEAMER

New York, Oct. 21.—The Standard Oil Company's steamer Platoria, flying the American flag, has been seized by British warships off the coast of Scotland and taken into Stornoway, a port in the Lewis Islands, as a prize of ward, according to cable despatches received here today, by the company, from her captain. The Standard Oil Company has requested the State Department to make another protest on the seizure of the Platuria, which is identical, the company claims, with the circumstances attending the seizure of the Brindilla.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS TO ORGANIZE FRATERNITY

The Plainfield representative of International Correspondence Schools will organize a fraternity at his office, 226 East Front street, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. All students of the schools are cordially invited to be present at this meeting and join the club.

The object in organizing this body is to get the students to know each other better and also to form social and debating clubs. The latter will undoubtedly prove interesting as the problems of the students that are worthy of consideration will be talked over and discussed. All students are urged to be present.

A Quaint Old Clipping.

From an old scrapbook, under the date of Oct. 25, 1791, is the following:

A young Fellow, of the City of Bristol, being in London lately, was, out of Curiosity, led to see the Lunatics at Bedlam. His first Approach was to the Cell of a poor Man, to whom he addressed himself thus—"So ho! what brings thee here?" The miserable Object remaining silent, he repeated his Question and was answered only by a Languishing Look, which so enraged the Visitant, that he immediately spit in the Man's Face through the Grate. This caused the Lunatic gently to wipe his Face wit a Whisp of Straw, and raising his drooping Head, he made this calm, sage and sensible Reply—"I am here, Sir, because God deprived me of that Blessing which you never enjoyed."

Habits.

Imagine Hercules as oarsman in a rotten boat; what can he do there but by the very force of his stroke expedite the ruin of his craft? Take care, then, of the timbers of your boat and avoid all practices likely to introduce either wet or dry rot among them. And this is not to be accomplished by desultory or intermittent efforts of the will, but by the formation of habits. The will, no doubt, has sometimes to put forth its strength in order to strangle or crush the special temptation. But the formation of right habits is essential to your permanent security. They diminish your chance of falling when assailed, and they augment your chance of recovery when overthrown.—John Tyndall.

Rapid Sightseeing.

"I've been up to the Metropolitan museum," he volunteered to a seat mate. "Bally fine place, but big. Took me an hour to see everything in it."—New York Tribune.

Bees have ruined the grape crop in Westchester county, N. Y. Because of the long drought the flowers withered, and the resourceful bees attacked the grapes.

HE LIVED IN WASHINGTON'S TIME; HEALTH GOOD AT 120

Thomas Morris Quit Work at 115. Drinks Quart of Coffee at Night.

Thomas Morris of Westerville, Neb., has lived through the term of every president of the United States and is vigorous today on a Nebraska farm. He is believed to be the oldest white man in the United States and probably the oldest in the world, says the Wisconsin State Journal.

He has lived in three centuries. He was three years old when Washington's term as president closed. He lived in the period of the Napoleonic wars and reached his majority six months before Waterloo was fought. He has seen the reigns of George III., George IV., William IV., Victoria, Edward VII. and the present king. He was thirty-eight years old when the first Atlantic cable was laid, sixty-seven years old when Fort Sumter surrendered and more than threescore and ten when Lincoln was assassinated.

Morris was born Jan. 15, 1794, at Bellew, Montgomeryshire, Wales. Thomas had no sisters, but one brother named Charles, who died in 1861.

He never attended school and never married. About five years ago he gave up work. Up to six years ago he made almost daily walks of one and a half miles to Cedar creek, in Custer county, to fish.

He still has the use of his faculties. His eyesight is remarkable.

Morris always used tobacco and liquor in a moderate measure. He takes tea or coffee at all meals and upon retiring takes to his bedroom a quart of tea or coffee, which he drinks during the night.

Forty-seven years ago a lad named Charles Mython went to live with Morris, and from that time the two have been inseparable companions. In 1871 they left Wales and emigrated to America.

WE MAY SELL TO EUROPE.

No Violation of Neutrality to Furnish War Material.

In response to inquiries Robert Lansing, acting secretary of state, has given out a statement containing the administration's interpretation of the law regarding the shipment of contraband articles from the United States to countries now at war in Europe. The statement says:

"It should be understood that, generally speaking, a citizen of the United States can sell to a belligerent government or its agent any article of commerce which he pleases. He is not prohibited from doing this by any rule of international law, by any treaty provision or by any statute of the United States. It makes no difference whether the articles sold are exclusively for war purposes, such as firearms, explosives, etc., or are foodstuffs, clothing, horses, etc., for the use of the army or navy of the belligerent.

"Furthermore a neutral government is not compelled by international law, by treaty or by statute to prevent these sales to a belligerent. Such sales, therefore, by American citizens do not in the least affect the neutrality of the United States.

"It is true that such articles as those mentioned are considered contraband and are, outside the territorial jurisdiction of a neutral nation, subject to seizure by an enemy of the purchasing government, but it is the enemy's duty to prevent the articles reaching their destination, not the duty of the nation whose citizens have sold them."

69 PER CENT OF ALL EUROPE AT WAR.

Sixty-nine per cent of the total population of Europe, according to a press estimate, is now at war. Taking the Balkan war as a basis for calculation, the casualties in the present war will approximate 650,000 killed and 2,300,000 wounded.

"LESSONS OF THE WAR"

The speech of Dr. William L. Saunders at the dinner of the Business Men's Association Monday evening brought home some "lessons" that are of particular interest to every person in Plainfield.

The need of mutual co-operation and helpfulness in local business was never more needed than at the present time when business is feeling the depressing effects of the European war.

Plainfield has long needed the manifestation by our people of a more general interest in our local industries and business enterprises, and a more altruistic business spirit—and it needs these now more than ever.

There are comparatively few people in the city of Plainfield whose incomes are not directly affected by business conditions in general in our city. It therefore becomes a matter of direct personal interest to each one of these to look beyond the immediate source of his own income and do what he can to insure the prosperity of his neighbors and thus insure the prosperity of his city and his own.

Plainfield has excellent stores ready to supply practically all the needs of our people. These stores are too often passed by our local people merely because of the want of a proper pride in our city and her enterprises and because they seem to find an indefinable satisfaction in possessing goods that were purchased at a distance from home.

To some the fact that an article was purchased in one of the larger cities seems to be a certificate of superior quality or evidence of discriminating buying.

Nothing could be further from the real facts. Our PLAINFIELD merchants are ready to furnish to the people of PLAINFIELD at fair prices the best qualities of goods in the markets of the world, in some cases not as promptly as can be done by the larger stores in the big cities, but the wants of the most fastidious can be supplied, if they will but give our merchants a fair chance and manifest a little patience.

A spirit of local patriotism and loyalty to their own city and neighbors, and even their own personal interests, should move the people of Plainfield to experience more satisfaction in saying, "THIS WAS BOUGHT IN PLAINFIELD." "After visiting the stores in other cities I came home and bought in our Plainfield stores just what I wanted." Than in saying "I bought this in— —"

Whenever we say or do anything that helps our PLAINFIELD manufacturers, merchants,, businessmen, craftsmen or mechanics we are helping our city and incidentally ourselves.

A proper spirit of loyalty to our city should move every citizen of PLAINFIELD to give our local merchants at least a fair chance before buying elsewhere, and to help to create a public sentiment more favorable to goods purchased in Plainfield.

Plainfield People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Plainfield who suffer with weak kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only, and one that is backed by willing testimony of Plainfield people. Here's a case.

Mrs. Cecelia Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am only too pleased to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I hope that all kidney sufferers who read my statement will profit by my experience. I have had a world of good from this remedy, backache, headache, dizzy spells and trouble with the kidney secretions being corrected by its use. I don't know what I would have done without Doan's Kidney Pills and I am certain that there is no kidney medicine that can be compared with them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rosseter had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Geogre M. Cohan has gone up one step more and reached the round of permanent fame in the ladder of success. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is his greatest play. It teems with thrills and fun. "Mystery farce" is a new and original classification for melodrama, but the "mystery" element is strong and keeps one guessing. The plot is perplexing at first—its complete solution does not come until the curtain is rung down on the last act. William Hallowell Magee was the writer of popular melodramatic novels. He was writing a book on a bet in "the lonesomest spot on earth—a summer hotel in the winter"—to which he is given an elleged "only" key by its owner. He is just beginning to work when unsuspected happenings rob Baldpate of its lonesomeness. Five other "only" keys admit successively a robber with murderous intent, a charming girl reporter (and it's love at first sight with the author), an adventuress with "cuss" galore, a "grafting" Mayor and his henchmen, an unscrupulous railroad president and a real, live, humorous "ghost." There are political intrigue and scandal, round ups and pistol shots and thrills a-plenty that start a guessing game in the audience. The owner of the inn and party of the second part to the bet, arrives with the seventh key to Baldpate, and unlocks part of the mystery at the expense of the audience. He discloses that all the fearful happenings were planned to spoil the author's job. The last scene, however, gives a clue to the whole plot of this ingenious performance. Whether the public likes to be fooled as this play fools them remains to be seen, but the fact remains that "Seven Keys to Baldpate" stayed an entire season in New York, and that three companies are at present playing it throughout the country. It comes to the Plainfield Theatre on Monday evening, October 26.

MONTREAL AIDS UNEMPLOYED.

Montreal, Oct. 2[illegible].—Arrangements have been completed to put to work next week 20,000 men who are out of work in this city. The city government has offered to hire these men for six weeks, and use them on the public works. The board of control is busy mapping out the work, and all sections of the city will be touched up during the campaign. In addition to the boon of employment which the workers sought, it was decided to raise the pay from $2.25 per day to $2.50 per day, despite many protests on account of the stringency of war times.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

An X-Ray has just been turned upon the forces that are doing their best to defeat equal suffrage at the coming November election. It is in the form of an editorial by Edgar Howard, a pioneer Democrat of Nebraska and editor of a prominent Democratic paper.

Mr. Howard is a man of wide influence in Nebraska, and had been actively opposing the equal suffrage amendment in that State. The other day he wrote as follows:

Many men have applauded the sentiments which I have uttered in opposition to the extension of the suffrage.

Many men have patted me on the back and said to me, "We are with you."

I had not carefully considered the matter of the applauding influences at my elbow, but one day, after earnestly contemplating the approving characters, I recognized:

The attorney for a private gas company which sandbags a city.

The attorney for a stockyards company which steals unfair tribute from farmers and shippers.

The president of a big city bank which privately conducts a loan shark game.

An attorney for a great brewery which operates hundreds of lawless saloons.

The president of a great factory, wherein sweatshop methods are practised upon the women, and where the laws against chiid labor are defied.

An attorney for a millionaire who rents much city property at high rental for bawdy-house purposes.

The discovery appalled me:

For twenty years I had been preaching in Nebraska the doctrine of opposition to corporation control in the affairs of city, State or nation, yet here I find myself giving comfort to the worst corporation influences.

What shall I do?

Shall I continue upon the easy pathway of subserviency to a sectional sentiment, or shall I enter boldly upon the pathway of duty to my long-cherished anti-monopoly principles?

If duty calls the corporation influences as I have here named to oppose the extension of the suffrage to women, then, and reasonably so, duty should impel a true anti-monopolist to take the opposite course, and give favor to that policy which wins the disapproval of monopolists.

I see the pathway of duty plainly. It will lead me away from associates whom I have prized. It will carry me to the ridicule of some, and to the scorn of others, who will not understand. But my feet are on the pathway, and no steps will be retraced.

The applauding influences at my elbow have taught me that the corporation influences fear the extension of the ballot to the women of Nebraska, simply because they feel and know that the intelligent women would employ their ballots in opposition to every claim by every corporation that it has a divine right or any other kind of a right to rule the affairs of city, State or nation.

Having made this discovery, I bid adieu to the applauding influences at my elbow. From this day my lips are sealed against any words of opposition to the extension of the suffrage to the women of Nebraska.

EDGAR HOWARD.

New stars for the suffrage flag are coming out in every quarter of the sky. Right after the granting of Parliamentary suffrage to women in Iceland follows the news that they have been given municipal suffrage in South Africa, and that in Johannesburg 27,000 women have registered to vote. The trend of the times is unmistakably in the direction of equal suffrage. American women cannot be long shut out from a right which women are now exercising in so many other parts of the world.

A. S. B.

The Red Cross is working to cure some of the sufferings caused by war. The Suffragists are working to bring about a condition where wars will be impossible. Both are good objects, and worthy of all support. Women can aid both at once by working for the great suffrage bazaars to be held next month in Boston and Baltimore. In each of these cities the Suffragists have voted to share the proceeds with the Red Cross.

A. S. B.

"As for myself, I am not in doubt as to my duty. I desire to present the argument to which I give the greatest weight—the mother's right to a voice in moulding the environment which shall surround her children.

"She has proven herself equal to every responsibility imposed upon her.

"LET HER VOTE!

"WILLIAM J. BRYAN."

In my judgment, child labor will be abolished and civilized standards of employment secured far quicker by the combined political action of men and women.—Owen R. Lovejoy, secretary National Child Labor Committee.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To IDA GREENBAUM—

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the first day of October, Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen, in a cause wherein Peder C. Thomsen is complainant and you are one of the defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant on or before the second day of December next, or said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage for $8,000.00 given by La Rue Realty Company, a corporation, to Peder C. Thomsen, dated the twelfth day of June, Nineteen Hundred and One, on lands in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey.

And you, Ida Greenbaum, are made one of the defendants because you claim an interest in the said lands by virtue of an unrecorded deed or other writing.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SERVING OKRA.

THIS vegetable is known chiefly as an ingredient of gumbo soup, but it may be served in many other appetizing ways.

Okra must be cooked in earthen or lined dishes to avoid discoloring. When fresh okra is not available evaporated okra may be used after soaking in cold water over night.

Simple, but Delicious.

Boiled Okra Salad.—Boil the young pods, with stem ends cut off, in salt water until tender. Drain well, set on ice to chill. Serve with French dressing.

Stewed Okra.—Wash young pods and boil them in salt water until tender. Drain and reheat in cream for five minutes, adding butter, salt and pepper.

Cooked With Tomatoes.

Stewed Okra and Tomatoes.—Take one quart chopped tomatoes, one-third quart sliced okra, salt and pepper. Scald, skin and cut tomatoes rather fine. Slice okra, mix with tomatoes, season and stew until tender.

Spanish Okra.—Take one quart okra cut in slices, three tablespoonfuls butter, one small onion chopped, one pint tomatoes, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, one teaspoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful pepper and some toast points. Cook onion in the butter until yellow. Add okra, tomatoes, parsley, salt and pepper, mix thoroughly and turn into a baking dish. Cover and let cook one hour in a moderate oven. Remove to a hot serving dish, surround with toast points, buttered, and the ends of the points dipped in chopped parsley.

The Popular Soup.

Gumbo Soup.—Take tender, plump chicken, one-half pound bacon, two thick slices ham, two onions, six large ripe tomatoes, one-half large pod mild red pepper, one teaspoonful minced thyme and parsley mixed, one pint tender sliced okra, stemmed and cut lengthwise. Disjoint the chicken, season well with salt and pepper and fry for ten minutes in the fat of the bacon, with the ham cut in pieces. Add the onions chopped fine, the tomatoes peeled and chopped, the pepper cut small, the savories and the okra. Cook all together, watching carefully and stirring until everything is well browned. Then add three quarts fresh boiled water on the boil and set pot where it will barely simmer for an hour, guarding constantly against scorching.

But the Turtle Heard Him Just Before He Reached It.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Happened to The Red, White And Blue Turtle?

"I TOLD you once upon a time about the boy who spent his summer vacation capturing turtles and putting them in a washtub, then letting them go and getting others," said daddy. "But before I am through telling about that funny boy I must tell you how he captured the red, white and blue turtle and what became of it."

"Oh, daddy—you're joking!" declared both children at once. "There are no red, white and blue turtles!"

"Maybe there aren't any now," acknowledged daddy, "but there was one once. Listen and I will tell you about it.

"I have told you how this boy would spend the day paddling about the pond near his home and reaching out on stumps and little grassy islands for turtles which he would steal upon quietly and grab.

"Upon a beautiful summer day he finished the chopping of the kindling, that I told you about, early in the morning. Then he got his lunch, done up in a brown bag, from his mamma and started out in his flat bottomed boat, which he had named the Letter B., to see how many turtles he could capture.

"Some days he had pretty good luck, but others the turtles seemed to be listening, and the least little sound would send them scuttling into the water off the logs before he could reach them. This was one of that kind of days, and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when he would have to begin thinking about stopping and getting home for supper, he had only three turtles—one the size of a quarter, a baby one, and the others about half the size of Jack's cap.

"Just as he was about to give up trying he saw something on a stump, away up in a little bay of the pond, that made him rub his eyes, for, children, it was a real rainbow turtle, a red, white and blue one.

"The little boy stole up in his boat upon that turtle. He paddled as carefully as an Indian, not making a sound in the water, and just before he got to the turtle he crept, barefooted, to the stern seat as quiet as a mouse and with his heart thumping—well, Jack, you know how it is before you start to run a race.

"But the turtle heard him just before he reached it, and off it plumped into the water. But the boy reached under and grabbed it.

"It was not a big turtle, but it was covered with the prettiest red, white and blue stripes you ever saw. At first the boy's parents thought they had been painted on, but they hadn't been. The stripes were natural. The boy's folks had never heard of such a turtle and were going to send it to a museum, but somebody stole it out of the washtub, and the boy never saw it again."

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Israel Belowin and Mrs. Israel Below in:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein The Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant and you and Isadore Friedlander and The Plainfield Ice and Supply Company are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complainant on or before the fourth day of November, Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Isadore Friedlander, and Lillie, his wife, to the said The Board of Trustees of the Seventh-Day Baptist Memorial Fund, dated May 1, 1913, on land in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, and you, the said Israel Belowin, are made defendant because you are the owner of said mortgaged premises, and you, the said Mrs. Israel Belowin, are made a defendant because you are the wife of said Israel Belowin and entitled to an inchoate right of dower in said lands or some part thereof.

Dated September 3, 1914.

"BUSINESS CAKE"

HERE'S OUR RECIPE:-

Select nothing but the most dependable Shoe Qualities that the market affords. Flavor to taste with SNAP and STYLE. Sell at the closest margin of profit consistent with good business. Serve each patron with Skill, Courtesy and then Back up each pair for Absolute Satisfaction.

That's the kind of "cake" the consumer has been getting at the Van Arsdale store these many years. Is it any wonder that our "Boarders" keep a coming back for "Second Helpings," and that we have grown in this community accordingly?

VON MINDEN TO BE STATE COUNCILOR

Will Be Promoted at Annual Session of Jr. O. U. A. M. Next Week.

EXPECT 350 DELEGATES

Convention to Be Held on the Million Dollar Pier, Atlantic City—Funeral Benefit Association Also to Meet at the Same Place.

Much interest is being manifested by members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics in New Jersey regarding the outcome of the annual convention of the order and the yearly session of the Funeral Benefit Association of New Jersey, which is affiliated with the Jr. O. U. A. M., to take place in Atlantic City this month. The latter body will meet in Odd Fellows' Hall, Tuesday, October 27.

The convention of the State Council will take place October 28 and 29, on the Million Dollar Pier, and there will be about three hundred and fifty delegates, representing a membership of 65,000 in the State. The principal business will be the election of State officers, particularly that of State vice councilor, for which there are at least a dozen candidates, in all parts of New Jersey.

Everett S. Barrit, of Paterson, is one of the most popular candidates in northern New Jerey for that office. Among others who have considerable following are Brigadier General E. T. Humphrey, of Nutley; and Theodore Buttenbaum, of Hudson county.

For State Council secretary opposition to William Henry Miers, of Trenton, the present holder of the office, has developed, but the friends of the secretary are confident that the opposition will dwindle away by the time the voting begins. Mr. Miers has been the State Council secretary since 1880, and has held membership in the order for thirty-eight years, being a charter member of Malaska Council, in Phillipsburg, and later transferring his membership to Trenton Council. In 1872 he was elected State treasurer of the order, and two years afterward became State councilor, being the sixth State councilor, and now the senior past State councilor.

Judge Rene P. F. Von Minden, of Friendship Council No. 81, of New Market, the present State vice councilor will by promotion from his present office become the new State councilor.

Indications are that Rev. J. Morgan Read, of New Brunswick, the present State Council treasurer, who has served in that capacity since 1905, will be re-elected. Since the organization of the Funeral Benefit Association in 1892, Mr. Read has been its only president.

For the office of State warden, Past Councilor William J. Smith, of Newark, will have a fight on his hands, as there are candidate galore for this stepping stone to higher honors.

The headquarters of the State Council officers will be at the Sea Side House, Pennsylvania avenue.

ELKS PLAN AN EXCLUSIVE RECEPTION IN CLUBHOUSE

Plans have been completed for the reception to be given by members of the local lodge of Elks in their clubhouse on Watchung avenue next Thursday night, and the committee has arranged an excellent program for the occasion. Similar entertainments were held under the auspices of the Plainfield Elks last year and are for members and their friends exclusively. Admittance is gained by invitation only on that occasion and the entire clubhouse is placed at the disposal of the visitors, accompanied by members.

The event will be an informal one, dancing with special terpsichorean music being a feature. Refreshments will be served during the affair and various side amusements have been planned. The Rutherford Elks are scheduled to bowl the local pinners on the Watchung avenue alleys on this night and unless other arrangements are made prior to the holding of the reception the State League series will probably be one of the conspicuous events of the evening.

The program for the regular weekly motion picture entertainments at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday will include "The Enemy's Baby," "Odd Inventions," "The Comedian's Downfall" and "Alkali Ike and the Wildman." The last two named are especially pleasing comedies.

—There are still many delicious fresh fruits and vegetables to be found in the market, as the late summer has kept them from freezing. Neuman Brothers are offering a splendid assortment at their Watchung avenue market.—Adv. ***

SERVANTS HEARD IN HARDY TRIAL

Complainant Produces Former Employes to Testify to Husband's Character.

CRUELTY IS ALLEGED

Colonel Hardy's Counsellors Show That Witnesses Were All Inspired to Deface His Reputation by Personal Animosity.

Testimony of several witnesses for the complainant was given before Vice-Chancellor Howell, in Newark, yesterday, at the continuation of the suit to determine the ownership of securities originally owned by the late Mrs. Hannah C. Hardy, of this city. At the conclusion of the second day of the final hearing, yesterday, the vice-chancellor announced that the case would be laid over until Monday morning when a final disposition will probably be made. Servants and intimate friends of the complainant were placed on the stand and forthe most part their testimony tended to attack the character of Colonel Hardy by citing certain instances that occurred at the farm near Oak Tree while the colonel was living with his wife.

Cross examination brought out the fact that the testimony was offered by individuals who for the most part were antagonistic to Colonel Hardy, and who are said to have attempted to influence his wife to leave him. The servants testified that they had heard Mr. Hardy speak harshly to his wife on several different occasions and one said that he had cautioned the cook not to take any orders from her.

Mrs. Hardy married Col. Hardy when she was seventy-five years old, and she was eighty-four years of age when she died last December. After willing all her property to a son by a former marriage, Henry V. A. Parsell. Hardy was twenty-five years his wife's junior. Following their marriage Mrs. Hardy assigned five mortgages, totaling $53,000, to her husband and had bonds and stocks held in the Pullman Company, the Adams Express Company and the Home Insurance Company, placed in joint name in The Plainfield Trust Company. Later the Hardys became estranged and Mrs. Hardy took up her residence with her son, dying at his home last year.

By her will the securities, said to amount to $350,000, which were held jointly by herself and her husband, were bequeathed to her son.

Sarah Cayon, who was employed as a cook in the Hardy home, declared that Hardy told her not to take orders from his wife, but from him or Mrs. Martha Griggs, the housekeeper. The witness claimed that she was empowered to eject her mistress from the kitchen, if necessary. Similar testimony was offered by Mary Reid, colored, an erstwhile cook in the Hardy home. She added that on a number of different occasions Hardy killed cats and kittens that were pets of his wife's.

Mrs. Sarah Krug, a friend of the testator, testified that she had heard him plead with his wife to sign over her property to him. She also stated that Hardy had asked her to use her influence to bring this end about.

Colonel Hardy is represented at the hearing by William A. Coddington and Charles A. Reed, of this city, and Alton B. Parker, of New York. In cross examination they were able to show cause for animosity on the part of the witnesses toward Colonel Hardy and it was the contention of the defense that the attempts to deface their client's character were inspired by their antagonistic spirit.

REPUBLICANS PLAN BIG DAY FOR THE WESTFIELD VOTERS

John H. Capstick, Republican congressional candidate for election in the Fifth District, will establish his headquarters for Saturday afternoon at the postoffice building in Westfield, where he will meet informally the commuters of that town. The affair will be in the nature of a get-together meeting.

Two G. O. P. meetings will be held in Westfield, Saturday night, and one in Garwood. All of the county candidates will speak at each of these gatherings, the list being divided so as to have one group alternating with another at the three places.

DONATES PRIZE MONEY.

The local poultry show is to be held during the week of Dec. 28, which takes in New Year's Day. Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk has donated $200 to be spent for prizes. Prof. Hicks, of Brown's Mills, president of the American Poultry Association for two terms, delivered an address on "Raising Birds for Exhibits," at last night's meeting of the Poultry Association.

CALKINS SPEAKS ON LOCAL TAXES

Mayoralty Candidate Talks on Issue at Colored G. O. P. Rally.

EXPLAINS THE OFFICE

Other Candidates Present at Enthusiastic Rally—City Chairman John J. Carroll Reviewed Local Situation.

Before a large gathering of colored Republican voters at their clubrooms on Plainfield avenue, last night, Leighton Calkins, candidate for Mayor; Councilman Francis J. Blatz, candidate for re-election, and John J. Carroll, chairman of the city committee, made interesting addresses. Mr. Carroll reviewed the local situation, urging the voters to support a ticket that he said was sure to give Plainfield good government. Mr. Blatz, in addition to making an appeal for votes in behalf of his candidacy, strongly urged the election of Mr. Calkins, declaring him to be the best man to help the Common Council in its work. Mr. Calkins in addressing the voters, said:

It is a mistake to think that the taxpayers object to paying taxes. They don't object because they want the things which taxes pay for, that is, they want schools and streets and sewers, and fire and police protection. Only two things concern the taxpayer. First, that he shall not be called upon to pay more than his fair share, and second that the total expenditures of the city shall be kept down to a reasonable amount. Of course everybody really wants the best of everything, in public and in his personal affairs. But in public as well as in private affairs it is not just a question of what we would like to have, but also a serious question of what we can afford.

Now, the taxpayers are chipping in nearly $600,000 to run the city. You are interested in having rigid economy practised in the spending of so large a sum. Anybody can get good results whether he is running a city or a club or a football team, if he lays the money on thick. The trick is to get as good results as the other fellow without spending as much money!

I am a candidate for the office of Mayor and I want to say just one or two things about our city and about your duty as voters. A Mayor or a councilman hasn't got anything to do with State or National issues. He can't raise or lower the tariff or regulate the trusts or the railroads, even though he would like to take a whack at some of those problems. Running the city is simply managing the people's business for them. It costs you good money, and you want good results at low cost. When you elect a Mayor and councilmen you are simply picking out your managers, to handle your business. Don't support us just because we are on the Republican *ticket. You wouldn't put a man be*hind the counter in your store just because he is a Republican. I maintain that in our local affairs the only useful purpose of the party organizations is to rival each other in getting men of experience and ability and non-partisan sincerity of purpose to stand for office.

A Mayor is not just an honorary official with a few appointments to make. He should be familiar with our laws affecting schools, joint sewers, health, fire and police regulations, etc. He must understand our financial problems and be able to work with the city treasurer, and with our legal adviser in suggesting constructive legislation by ordinance. He can't sit back and call on our city experts and heads of departments to frame up the papers for him to sign. He has got to be able to do the work himself. I have served on our important Council committees, and particularly as chairman of the finance committee. I have had an opportunity to get down to the bottom, or near the bottom, of many of our important problems of finance. If elected it will be my aim not just to act as an honorary chief executive, but to take my coat off and get down to brass tacks in real constructive work with the chairmen of the Council committees, in an effort to work out greater economies in our public business. I think there should be a closer co-operation between Council and the Board of Education. There is a wide-spread feeling that our schools cost too much. If they don't, let us know it. If they do, let us know why. The public, either themselves, or represented by their Council, must be in closer touch with the details of school expenditures. I stand for a get-together spirit, but can't make a success of your public affairs any more than your private business, unless everybody pulls together. I ask your support if you believe that with my experience and knowledge of our public affairs, I am the best man for the job. It's your job, and it's up to you to choose your manager. The same applies to Mr. Blatz, Republican

MRS. CARMAN WILL GO ON STAND FOR DEFENSE

So Her Attorney, Mr. Levy, Intimated in Court This Morning.

Mineola, L. I., Oct. 2—While waiting for Judge Kelby to enter the court this morning, Mrs. Carman, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Bailey, began discussing her case with her attorney. She continued the animated discussion while the names of the jurymen were called. The accused woman appeared to be pleading to be allowed to take the stand in her own defense.

Mr. Graham during the early part of the morning session seemed to be trying to establish through his cross examination of Farrell, the strike breaker, that the witness was not looking for work when he went from New York to Freeport on June 30. The attorney did not succeed in getting Farrell to make any contradiction or to do further damage to the testimony he gave yesterday. The cross examination of Farrell, together with the re-direct examination by the district attorney, consumed the remainder of the morning session.

Mr. Graham persisted in his efforts to bring out that Farrell's presence near the Carman home was for some other purpose than the quest for food.

After Farrell left the stand Attorney Levy for the defense, in his opening speech, announced indirectly that Mrs. Carman would take the stand later in the trial. He declared that the defense would show that she was upstairs when the shot was fired and that her actions were most commonplace on the night of the crime. She did not leave the house on the night of June 30. Mr. Levy said that the defense would also show that she did not know Mrs. Bailey and saw the slain woman for the first time in the morgue.

PONDS TO RESUME REGULAR SCHEDULE

Beginning Monday the Plant Will Be Run 55 Hours a Week.

Beginning on Monday and continuing until further notice, the Pond Machine Tool Works will operate the large plant on full time, fifty-five hours a week. For the present the force of men employed there will not be increased. It will probably be two or three weeks before any additional help is taken. The fact that the works would resume full time was welcome news to many machinists who have been employed 36 and 40 hours a week, and to others who have been out of work for some time.

When the force is increased the company's old men will be taken back first. The company has been receiving a few orders and there is now a sufficient amount on hand to keep the present force busy on the regular schedule. Other orders are expected in the near future, and while the company's officials have made no statement it is said that the outlook is more promising.

It was reported in the New York newspapers today that the Bethlehem Steel Company has obtained a contract from France to furnish the French army with 900 six-inch field guns, to be delivered in eighteen months. These guns will cost between $27,000 and $30,000 each, and the total contract would amount to about $25,000,000. It was recently stated that the Bethlehem concern was expecting a big foreign order and that the Pond Machine Tool Works likewise was expecting to get a share of this work. If the French order has been received it is believed that part of it will come to Plainfield.

CANDIDATES MAKE PLEA FOR VOTES

Governor Fielder, Congressional and County Nominees Speak in Borough.

DISCUSS LIVE ISSUES

Progress in Legislative Matters in State and Nation Are Emphasized by the Speakers as Reasons for Electing Democratic Ticket.

Governor James F. Fielder, Congressman Allen B. Walsh, Azariah M. Beekman, candidate for State Senator, and Francis E. Bodin, candidate for assembly, visited the borough this morning, and addressed a gathering of fully 250 people in front of the engine house on Somerset street, under the auspices of the Somerset County Democratic Committee. William A. Coddington presided and announced the speakers. The candidates were announced to speak at 8:30 o'clock, but it was after 9 o'clock when they arrived.

Governor Fielder was announced as the first speaker. He spent eight years in the Legislature, reviewed the record of the Democratic administration, both in the State and nation, and the progress made in legislative lines accomplished since Woodrow Wilson was first elected Governor in 1910. The Governor made a strong plea that both the President's and his own hands be upheld in the legislative halls at the coming election. "The Democratic party," he said, represented the people in critical times, and for that reason, it should receive the support of the voters. The heads of the administration cannot expect support for their measures from candidates of other parties who are bound by other sets of pledges."

Allen B. Walsh, of Mercer county, candidate for re-election to Congress in the Fourth district, referred especially to his record at Washington during the past two years. Mr. Walsh dwelt especially on the revision downward of the tariff, and the failure of any panic to follow this course, as the opposition party had promised would be the case under such circumstances. The currency reforms, the trade commission, as well as the Clayton Anti-Trust Act as passed by the Democratic Congress, were all lauded as parts of the progressive legislation which was part of the Democratic program. Mr. Walsh also referred briefly to the Mexican situation where President Wilson had been successful in restoring peace to the war-ridden nation.

Azariah Beekman, of Somerville, for two years in the Assembly, and candidate for State Senator in Somerset county, together with Francis E. Bodin, of North Plainfield township, candidate for the Assembly, both delivered short addresses on the issues of the campaign within the county and were well received.

At the conclusion of the gathering, about twenty-five automobiles conveyed the party, together with a large number of workers from all parts of the county, to Watchung, Stirling and Bernardsville, where similar open meetings are to be held during the course of the day. The tour of Somerset will be concluded this evening at the armory at Somerville. Walter Linbarger and Andrew Kenney, both of the borough, acted as a reception committee to Governor Fielder when he reached this city shortly before 9 o'clock this morning. A number of North Plainfielders accompanied the party through the mountain towns.

STEPHEN KENNEDY WEDS MISS HAZEL VAN SICKLE

Miss Hazel Belle VanSickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. VanSickle, of East Third street, and Stephen T. Kennedy, son of Mrs. Ella Kennedy, of Dunellen, were married this afternoon by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor-emeritus of Trinity Reformed church. The ceremony was performed at the home of the officiating clergyman on West Front street.

The bride wore a traveling gown with hat to match. The witnesses were Mr. VanSickle, father of the bride, and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Philadelphia and Washington. Upon their return they will reside in Dunellen. Mr. Kennedy is employed at Garwood as a patternmaker.

ALLIES MAINTAIN POSITIONS AGAINST VIGOROUS GERMAN ASSAULTS; SOME ADVANCES

FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORTS THAT SITUATION ALONG ENTIRE BATTLE LINE IS GENERALLY SATISFACTORY.

JAPANESE SEEK GERMAN FLEET NEAR HAWAII

English to Drive Enemy's Ships Out of Suez Canal That Are Seeking Refuge There—Allies Hope to Retake Brussels Within a Month—Austrians Say They Have Driven Russians Out of Their Country, While Russian Victories Are Reported at Warsaw.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Paris official statement at 3 o'clock this afternoon says: "On our left wing large German forces have continued their violent attacks, notably around Dixmude, Warneton, Armentiere, Radinghem and La Bassee. The positions occupied by the Allies have been maintained. On the rest of the front the enemy has made only partial attacks which have all been repulsed, notably at Fricourt, to the east of Albert, on the plateau to the east of Cronne, in the region of Souain, in the Argonne, at Four deParis, in the region of Melancourt, in the Woevre region toward Champlon, at the southeast of St. Mihiel, in the Bois d' Ailly.

We have advanced slightly in the Argonne and in the southern portion of the Woevre region and Bois de Montmare. In the Russian theatre of war the forward movement of the Russians continues. The Russians have accomplished an important success in the region of Warsaw. They have repulsed the enemy more than thirteen kilometres. The progress of the Russians is equally appreciable at Ivangrov and south of Przemysl.

Tokio, Oct. 22.—A Japanese squadron, it is officially announced, is seeking the German fleet in the neighborhood of Hawaii.

The Japanese are preparing to make a grand assualt on the fortress of Tsing Tau on October 30, in honor of the Emperor's birthday.

London, Oct. 22, (Central News Cable)—The following official statement was given out by the press bureau today: "The Egyptian government is taking steps to remove from the Suez Canal all of the enemy's ships which have been long enough in the canal ports to show that they have no intention of departing in the ordinary way, and which apparently are putting the canal to a use inconsistent with its objects.

"The British government denies the conventional rights of free access to the canal and denies the right these enemy's ships imply that they can use the canal for an indefinite time for the purpose of escaping capture.

A Central News despatch says concerning the successes of the Allies, it may be said that the prospects of retaking Brussels within a month is in the bounds of possibility.

An official statement given out at noon Wednesday at the Austrian general headquarters regarding the fighting in Galicia is contained in a despatch to the Reuters Telegram Co. from Vienna by way of Amsterdam. It says: "We have gained ground in several spots in a heavy stubborn attack on the fortified positions of the enemy from Plotzyn to the high road east of Medyka, while the Russian counter attack could nowhere penetrate. Yesterday we captured in the Carpathians the Oblonki Pass, the last point held there by the Russians. There is now no enemy left on Hungarian soil."

Copenhagen, Oct. 22, (Central News Cable)—The Germans have occupied the northern canal system reaching from Arleux, fifty-nine kilometres in the direction of the River Oise, says a despatch from Berlin. The canal is new and not yet used. It is entirely dry and the German troops have converted the canal bed into fortified positions, occupied by strong forces. The canal has been the object of the latest fights and is considered a highly important position in this part of the northern battlefield. In Berlin the battle in the region of Lille is considered absolutely decisive to the development of a definite result, which will affect the entire campaign on the western front.

The last remaining Russians invading Galicia, after a new defeat, have fled over the Galician frontier back into Russia, according to a despatch from Berlin, emanating from official sources there. The despatch also declares that Hungary is now cleared of Russians. A German military administration is now in operation in Russian Poland, having been established at Sosnovic, instead of the former Russian administration.

London, Oct. 22.—The Central News correspondent at Copenhagen says that an engagement between German torpedo boats and hostile submarines in the Baltic Sea, near Rugen Island, which is off the Prussian coast, is reported from Stockholm.

The German cruiser Emden, at a point 150 miles southwest of Cochin, British India, has sunk the British steamers Chilkana, Troilus, Bennohr and Clan Grant, and the dredger Ponrabbie, bound for Tasmania, according to a report received by the Admiralty from Colombo, Ceylon. The British steamship Eyford has been captured by the Emden.

The Troilus, yesterday, carried 700 tons of tin valued at $500,000. It was consigned from the Straits settlements to London.

The Allied troops found near Castro the body of Prince Max, of Hesse, killed by revolver shots. He was clad only in his tunic and socks. Up to the present the means by which he met his death is unexplained. He was buried in a rough coffin made in a homely way by peasants of the neighborhood. No French priest could be found who would read the burial service over the dead man, who was a nephew of the Kaiser. Tuesday was his twentieth birthday.

The Roterdam correspondent of a news agency quotes travelers from Antwerp as saying that 10,000 German marines, with machine guns, left Antwerp Tuesday night. They went in a southerly direction. Later a number of carts bearing wounded entered the city. The garrison of Antwerp has been greatly reduced and only a few policemen are on duty.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

The annual meeting of the Dunellen Council Boy Scouts of America, was held in the Borough Hall Tuesday evening with President Henry D. Wiliams presiding. The meeting was well attended and numerous matters considered which it is hoped will result in the Boy Scout movement receiving greater support from the people of Dunellen. The present troops and patrols now have a membership of over 50 boys. The question of officers for the ensuing year was taken up and the following members were elected to hold office: President, Earle M. Jones; first vice president, Richard M. Ryan; second vice president, Paul Carpenter; treasurer, Egbert J. Gessner; secretary, Guy H. Rentschler, and scout commissioner, Edward J. Dusel.

VAN SICKLE—KENNEDY.

Miss Hazel Van Sickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Van Sickle, of Plainfield, and Steven T. Kennedy, son of Mrs. Ella Kennedy, of Washington avenue, were quietly married this afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, formerly pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield, the couple going to his residence on West Front street and having the nuptial knot tied there. The bride's father was present as a witness. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy departed for Washington, D. C. They will be gone a week. Upon their return they will make their home with Mr. Kennedy's mother. The bride received many valuable presents, principally cut glass, silverware and linen.

A new house to be erected by Contractor J. Newton Apgar for real estate operator John P. Fenner, on Third street, adjoining the Miss Sarah Curry property, was staked out yesterday. Firman H. Gise has been awarded the mason contract of this house.

Leslie Vail, son of Mrs. Lydia Vail, of Front street, is able to be out after a week's illness with a catarrhal sore throat.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, of Dunellen avenue, have departed for Canada, where they will spend three weeks with relatives of Mrs. Wilson's.

Miss Lottie Barton, of Brooklyn, who is visiting at the home of her brother, A. L. Barton, of Front street, had her tonsils removed yesterday morning by Doctors Platt and Longbothum.

James Margentino, or "Smiling Jimmy" as he is called by his many friends, is making his brother, George Margentino an indefinite visit at Plainfield.

Arthur Barto, of Front street, who has been ill for the past couple of days, is able to be out again.

REALTY CHANGES.

The Watchung Investment Company house on Walnut street, between Whittier and Prospect avenues, has been sold through the John P. Fenner agency to Emile J. Galichet, of Somerville, who will take possession about the middle of November.

George Cameron led the mid-week prayer service of the Presbyterian church, last evening, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. R. Brown, who has been attending Snyod at Atlantic City.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

John Fedderman, the local real estate agent, who was stricken with an attack of acute indigestion on Tuesday, had recovered sufficiently from his illness by yesterday to be able to put in a very busy day in New York. He spent the morning in the Municipal building, where he was summoned to appear before the coroner's inquest of the case of M. E. Badgley, a brother of Mr. Fedderman's wife, who was run over by an automobile on August 5 last, from the effects of which he died in the Bellevue Hospital on August 18. In the afternoon Mr. Fedderman put through a realty deal in which the Dunellen Home and Investment Company purchased three lots, located on Columbia street, this place, from the First Construction Company of Brooklyn, and also settled up an interest in a matter connected with some former deal.

Mrs. Margaret Mansior, of New Market road, has recovered from the effects of a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Runyon, Mrs. Walter Clawson, Mrs. J. Newton Apgar and Miss Lucy Clawson were visitors in New York yesterday.

BARACAS TO BOWL.

On Saturday evening the Baraca "5" will bowl against the crack team of Woodbridge Parish House at Woodbridge. The Baracas will line-up as follows: Frederick, Oakley, Voorhees, Zink and Braun, with Parker acting as a substitute. The trip to Woodbridge will probably be made by automobile.

Real Estate Operator Fenner is having an addition, another room, made to his palatial residence on Washington avenue. Contractor J. Newton Apgar is doing the work.

PUMPKIN PIE SOCIAL.

On Thursday evening, October 29, a pumpkin pie social under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Presbyterian church, is to be held in the chapel of the church. The price of admission will be 10 cents and will entitle one to pie, crullers and steaming hot coffee.

The cellar of the Joseph M. Maier building on North avenue is being water-proofed by Contractor Goldson W. Smalley.

Business continues to pick up at the plant of the Hall Printing Press Company, a dozen additional men having been taken on this week.

The women's two-team bowling tournament will be continued on the Presbyterian alleys this evening.

PERNELL ARRESTED.

Israel "Buck" Pernell, of Chestnut street, was arrested by the local police, last evening, on a warrant in the possession of the Plainfield authorities. Pernell is wanted in connection with a house in South Second street, Plainfield, which was raided on Saturday.

RUMMAGE SALE.

A rummage sale under the auspices of the First Baptist church is being conducted in the vacant store of the A. G. Nelson building on Main street. The sale, which is an afternoon and evening event, will be continued tomorrow and Saturday.

J. G. Burdick has returned from Shiloh, where he attended the meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist Association of New York and New Jersey.

IMPROVING STREET.

Street Commissioner George A. Schenck is improving the unimproved portion of Centre street. This is the only thoroughfare over which the heavy girders of the Levgar Structural Company can be carted and is in such poor condition that the teams frequently get stuck there.

MARSHAL ON THE JOB.

Special Marshal Harry Shugars, who was appointed at Tuesday evening's session of the Borough Council, has garnered four of the crop of unlicensed dogs to date, which is a most excellent showing when the fact that he has no net in which to catch the canines is taken into consideration. Marshal Shugars has made no arrests thus far, having no occasion to do so.

MIGHTY PALACE OF HORTICULTURE, ONE OF THE WORLD'S ARCHITECTURAL WONDERS

Beautiful Horticultural Palace at San Francisco, wherein will be exhibited a marvelous display of the horticultural industries of the world.

THE photographer was looking west over the location of a lagoon to lie before the palace. The building is one of the most remarkable and beautiful of the exhibit structures. The main glass dome and the lesser domes and minarets are typical of the Orient and suggest the mosque of the Sultan Ahmed I. in Constantinople, which, in turn, was copied after St. Sophia, mother of most of the famous architectural works in the Levant. The decorations of the lower portions of the building are suggestive of the architecture of the eighteenth century French renaissance, while the wooden trellis work, forming a distinctive feature in the decorative scheme, is derived from the garden architecture of the Louis XIV period, which with the large areas of glass, suggest the purpose for which the structure is intended. The Palace of Horticulture covers an area of 600 by 300 feet, and its huge glass dome is 186 feet in height and 152 feet in diameter.

Glories of Great Panama Canal Celebration In 1915 Are Revealed by the Beautiful Court of the Four Seasons

COURT OF THE FOUR SEASONS.

THE Panama-Pacific International Exposition, to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal, will be the greatest expression of national achievement since the Declaration of Independence. This photograph shows the beautiful Court of the Four Seasons as it appears during the latter part of August. This is the great west court of the Exposition, exalting the favors which nature has bestowed upon mankind. The court is superbly executed in Roman Ionic architecture, modified with a touch of modern detail. It is 340 feet square and opening at the north upon San Francisco harbor by way of a colonnaded avenue 473 feet long and 171 feet wide. In each of the four corners of the court behind a screen of columns is a niche containing a fountain, the statuary symbolical of one of the four seasons—Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter. Mural paintings by some of the greatest artists of the country are behind the colonnade, expressive of the theme of the court. Mr. Henry Bacon of New York is the architect of this court.

RESULTS OF PIERCE BANK TAX ACT

For the Current Year, a Total of $29,407 to Be Collected From Banks.

The abstract of ratables recently issued by the Union County Tax Board, brings into clear relief the operation of the Pierce Bank Tax Act passed last winter. For the current year, a total of $29,407 is to be collected from the banks of the county, of which one-half is applied in reduction of the county tax and the other half in reduction of the local rate where the bank is situated.

The effect of the law is to make the average tax rate throughout the county, about two points less than it would otherwise be. The total bank tax collected in the State is $704,623.

Of equal value to the State, though not appearing specifically in the sheet of ratables, is the benefit derived from the re-valuation of railroad property, completed about two years ago. The re-valuation acts were drafted by Senator Pierce, and were passed mainly through his efforts in co-operation with the efforts of Senator Smalley, of Somerset county, then in the Assembly, and Senators Frelinghuysen and Ackerman. The re-valuation established that the railroads were under-assessed. The additional yearly revenue now coming to the State as a result of the re-valuation is approximately the sum of $750,000, the greater part of which goes to the school districts in reduction of the local school tax. It is safe to say the average tax rate through the State is two points lower by reason of this income, than it would otherwise be. It is reported that the bankers and the railroads are opposed to Senator Pierce, and are proposing, if possible, to defeat his re-election.

It is believed such efforts will react in Senator Pierce's favor. It is said that if the general body of taxpayers of the county fail to sustain service such as Senator Pierce has rendered in their behalf, they will penalize similar efforts in the future.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Selwyn & Company's production of Roe Cooper Megrue's gripping mystery play, "Under Cover," will enter upon the tenth week of its engagement at the Cort Theatre on Monday night, with William Courtenay featured in the principal role and the same excellent cast as first appeared in the play. A battle of wits against almost overwhelming odds, with a woman the victor against men trained in the secret, is the foundation of the story which goes to carry the play to such great popularity. Seats are selling four weeks in advance.

"My Lady's Dress," at William A. Brady's Playhouse, serves to attract large audiences. The entire novelty of the theme and its treatment keeps the interest keyed to a high point, and each of the several plays within the main play is viewed with varying fascination. These inner plays run the gamut from the lightest of farce to outright tragedy, so that there is quite unusual variety in the entertainment. Miss Mary Boland and Leon Quartermaine, who have the principal roles in all the episodes, are provided with many opportunities for the emphasis of their versatility, and both are highly successful in holding the complete approval of the spectators.

At W. A. Brady's Forty-eighth Street Theatre, George Broadhurst's "The Law of the Land" appears to have duplicated last season's popular success, "Today," in the same house. Miss Julia Dean, in the principal role, has quite the most important task of her stage career, and the conduct of the audiences indicates their complete conviction that she has fully surmounted its difficulties. In this drama Mr. Broadhurst has distributed his several "punches" most effectively, the most telling stroke coming just prior to the fall of the final curtain.

George M. Cohan's successful play, "The Miracle Man," at the Astor Theatre, while not presented as a preachment, nevertheless conveys a lesson that is particularly forceful and enlightening, delivered in an atmosphere at times serious, yet filled with innumerable passages of subtle humor that is most appealing. Houseful audiences attest its popularity.

"On Trial" at the Candler Theatre presents a stage story of deep human interest punctuated with thrills and surprises. The play, which is one of the distinct novelties of the season, has taken New York by storm and will undoubtedly crowd the Candler Theatre for as long a time as the management elect to present it in that beautiful West 42nd street playhouse.

"It Pays to Advertise," the successful farcial fact at the George M. Cohan Theatre, is just one hearty laugh after another for two and a half hours. Cohan & Harris declare that it is the funniest farce they have ever produced, an assertion that is borne out by the continually crowded condition of the Cohan Theatre, where it is estimated that upward of 1,500 theatre goers gather at each performance to watch the evolution of an idle rich young man who, through the inspiration of love and the soap industry, is transformed into a live wire in the commercial world. "It Pays to Advertise" is a corking good play with a clean plot full of unexpected twists, and as was said before, one big laugh after another.

Success in the theatre is a most elusive thing. It is often difficult to determine which of several qualities is the one that is the magnet for the public. Margaret Mayo's "Twin Beds" is a rollicking, rapid-fire farce marked by the same qualities which made its author, Margaret Mayo, famous when she wrote "Baby Mine." She introduces a vein of tender sentiment which humanizes and makes real the more farcial action of the piece. And it is a debatable question whether "Twin Beds" succeeds at the Fulton Theatre in New York, because of its sentiment or its laughter. They both probably contribute somewhat to the general result. A vigorous misunderstanding has arisen between Harry Hawkins and his wife, Blanche, as a result of the intrusion of Signor Monti into the apartment occupied by the Hawkins'. Monti, who is a sentimental tenor, has come home late at night in an irresponsible condition. And as the Monti's and the Hawkins' both rejoice in "twin beds," Monti makes the mistake of spending a night in the wrong apartment. The succeeding situations are strenuously humorous.

MANY FEATURES PLANNED FOR SUFFRAGE CONVENTION

Plans for the State convention of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, at Camden, November 6 and 7, are going forward successfully. Among other features, will be a number of special suffrage exhibits. Probably the most interesting of these will be a large map of New Jersey, showing the exact organization of the State in the work for suffrage. The localities of the various suffrage leagues and committees will be shown by little flags stuck in the map on the names of the cities and towns which they represent. Different colored flags will be used to indicate whether these organizations belong to the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, the Women's Political Union or the Equal Franchise Society.

There will also be a press exhibit, containing cartoons and editorials from all over the State and sample copies of the many "Votes for Women" pages which are published weekly by many of the leading papers.

There will also be a "Responsibility Exhibit," showing Suffragists of each county just how many voters there are in their district and what percentage of them may be expected to vote at the special election, which will be valuable to workers in determining their plans for a successful political organization of the whole State along political lines. There will also be a "Melting Pot" into which will be put gifts of old gold and silver, brought by the delegates.

MICHIGAN BAPTISTS MEET.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 22.—The seventy-ninth annual convention of the Michigan Baptist Association concluded its three-day meeting here today. Many notable speakers and a large attendance from all parts of the State made the gathering one of the most enthusiastic ever held here. Among the speakers were Dr. W. F. Padelford, of Boston; Prof. David C. Gilmore, of Burmah, India; Dr. Bruce Kinney, of Topeka; Dr. W. H. Stallings, of the University of Chicago, and Rev. Carl D. Case, of Buffalo.

RAILROAD MEN END TOUR.

San Diego, California, Oct. 22.—After a week of sight-seeing on the coast, the special trainload of passenger agents who are the guests of the Gould lines, wound up their trip here today, where they are the guests of the exposition managers. There are 230 people in the party, which consists of members of the American Association of Traveling Passenger Agents and their families.

HYDE PARK CHURCH CALL IS RATIFIED

Classis of Newark to Meet November 4 to Examine Candidates for Pastorate.

The Hyde Park Reformed church, of East Orange, reported at the fall meeting of the Classis of Newark, held in the Reformed German church, yesterday, that a call had been prepared to be sent to Rev. Charles F. Stube, of the New Brunswick Seminary, and the call was ratified by Classis. Wednesday, November 4 was fixed as the time for the examination of Mr. Stube, at the North Reformed church, Newark.

The pulpit of the Belleville Reformed church, Newark, was reported vacant, Rev. W. H. T. Miller, the pastor, resigning to take up special studies at Union Theological Seminary. At present the congregation is having supplies. A similar condition was reported at the Franklin church, Nutley, where Rev. Milton T. Stauffer, the pastor, resigned to take up a special line of study at Yale University.

Among the other matters considered during the afternoon session was the appointment of a permanent committee on temperance, with Rev. George D. Hulst, of Montclair, as chairman. The next meeting of Classis will be at the North Reformed church, Newark, November 4.

DEAN MATTHEWS WILL TAKE POST OF DIOCESAN BISHOP

Trenton, Oct. 22.—Dean Paul Matthews, of the Episcopal Cathedral of Our Merciful Saviour, at Faribault, Minn., has notified Rev. Charles M. Perkins that he would accept the post of bishop of the diocese of New Jersey, which was tendered him two weeks ago by the nominating convention of the diocese.

As the consent of two-thirds of the bishops and diocesan standing committees in the United States is necessary before the bishop-elect can assume office, it may be six weeks or more before Dean Matthews can be consecrated. This ceremony probably will take place at Princeton.

Mr. Perkins said that there was little likelihood of the necessary consent being withheld by the bishops and diocesan committees.

Dean Matthews was elected to succeed Bishop John Scarborough who died about a year ago. At present the bishop-elect occupies the chair of systematic divinity at the Seabury Divinity School.

Dean Matthews, as told, is a graduate of Princeton and a son of the late Stanley Matthews, an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court.

MANY CHANGES IN CONGRESS EXPECTED

A Number of Representatives Will Retire at the End of 1914.

Following the November election there will be many Congressional changes throughout the country. Among them will be the following:

Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader, goes to the Senate from Alabama, on March 4.

Richmond Pearson Hobson, of Alabama, of Merrimac fame, forfeited his seat to run for the Senate against Underwood.

Augustus O. Stanley, of Kentucky, famous in the steel investigation, also retires this term.

Thomas W. Hardwick, of Georgia, leaves the House for the Senate. He investigated the sugar trust.

Robert F. Broussard, of Louisiana, advances from the House to the Senate, in Thornton's seat.

Victor Murdock, of Kansas, Progressive leader, is running for the Senate, and may be seen no more in the House.

George A. Neeley, of Kansas, is the Democratic nominee for the Senate in Kansas, and his retirement from the House is expected.

Charles H. Burke, of South Dakota, is sure of election to the Senate, he says, and is placing his hopes on advancement.

Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, leaves the House to run for Governor of the Buckeye State.

Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, the great peace advocate of Congress, retires after twenty years of service, next March.

Henry George, of New York, the single tax advocate, was not renominated.

Jefferson M. Levy, of New York, failed of renomination and will be among the missing in the next Congress.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, already of 38 years' service, is the principal "come back" hope of the Republicans.

William McKinley and William A. Rodenburg, two other Illinois veterans, are seeking to come back after previous defeats.

Nicholas Longworth, who shares with Secretary McAdoo the distinction of being the best known sons-in-law at large, is campaigning as a comeback Congressman in Ohio.

Peter F. Tague, of Boston, will fill the shoes of Hon. W. F. Murray, who has resigned to become Postmaster at Boston.

POTATO SHOW IN MICHIGAN.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 22.—To arouse interest in the potato and its cultivation, the Menominee Commercial Club opened yesterday a potato show, and brought together farmers and land-owners from all parts of the upper peninsula. The development of this crop was the theme of the exhibition and the speaking, and it is aimed to make Michigan the foremost potato-growing section in America.

BETSYTOWN TO CELEBRATE

The 250th Anniversary of its Settlement to Be a Gala Event.

TO BEGIN ON SUNDAY

Religious and Patriotic Services to Mark the Affair—Secretary Josephus Daniels to Speak at Open-Air Mass Meeting—The Program.

Elizabeth will celebrate next week in appropriate ways the 250th anniversary of its settlement. Broad street and other business centres, as well as residential districts, are gaily dressed in flags and bunting, and everything will be in readiness when, at twenty minutes after six o'clock next Sunday morning, the bells of the many churches will help the sun usher in the first day of ceremonies. All the churches will hold religious and patriotic services during the morning, and in the afternoon Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, will address an open-air mass meeting in Union Square, where the Minute Man's Statue looks out upon the spot where the sturdy men of Elizabethtown skirmished with Hessians in Revolutionary days.

Especially will the First Presbyterian church observe this day, for this congregation dates its origin to the first year of settlement. So President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, descendant of Nicholas Murray, an Elizabethan, and President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, will be speakers at the two services in the "Old First"—for it was in Elizabeth that the Rev. Jonathan Dickinson obtained, in 1746, a charter for the "College of New Jersey," out of which grew Princeton University.

There will be no formal exercises on Monday, but on Tuesday morning at half past 10 o'clock, Councilman Edward Nugent will call to order a civic meeting and exercises in the "Old First" church, over which William J. Magie, formerly Chancellor of New Jersey, will preside, and at which Governor James F. Fielder will respond to a welcome extended by the Mayor, Dr. Victor Mravlag. Justice Francis J. Swayze, president of the New Jersey Historical Society, and Dean William J. Magie, Jr., of Princeton University, will also speak. A public reception to Governor Fielder and others in the rotunda of the Union county courthouse will follow, and then a luncheon to distinguished guests, including representatives of patriotic and hereditary societies, given in Carteret Arms, one of the many historic mansions of the city.

Following this gathering, the Society of Colonial Wars will unveil, at 3 o'clock, a commemorative tablet on St. John's Episcopal church. And to this service will come a procession of school children, completing a sentimental pilgrimage during which wreaths of bay leaves will be placed at monuments, cannon and historic tablets in various parts of the city. Band concerts in the evening will conclude the day's exercises.

Such a celebration would be incomplete without recalling concretely some of the chief events in the history of Elizabeth. So, on Wednesday, October 28, the "Pageant of Elizabeth" is to be given, afternoon and evening, in the Second Regiment Armory. The various episodes, in which several hundred persons will participate, will depict, with proper costume and setting, the life of the Indians, the coming of the settlers, colonial and revolutionary days, life in the early part of the last century, civil war times and the coming of the industries which have helped develop Elizabeth into the manufacturing centre of today. Miss Mary Porter Beegle, of Barnard College, assisted by the Rev. J. H. M. Dudley, pastor of the First Congregational church, will direct the pageant.

An elaborate display of fireworks will also be given on Wednesday evening and will close the celebration.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"Seven Keys to Baldpate," George M. Cohan's latest play, which is to be seen at the Plainfield Theatre on Monday evening, October 26, is in an entirely different vein from any of his previous efforts, and is strikingly original. A writer of dime novel fiction makes a wager with his friend the owner of Baldpate, a summer resort perched on top of the mountain of Vermont, that he will shut himself in the empty hotel and in 24 hours write a story of 10,000 words. The bet is for $5,000; well worth the adventure. He reaches his destination from New York, half frozen, in the midst of a raging blizzard. The caretakers have been wired by the owner to make him comfortable and his interview with them is unique, for they deem him crazy to undertake such a job, and their rustic New England simplicity is cleverly brought out. They tell him of a mountain hermit surnamed Peter, alleged to be a woman-hater, because his wife eloped with a traveling salesman. The ghost who inhabits the region is also described. They start a fire, arrange a room for his work and, departing, hand him the only key to Baldpate. This ends the prologue to the play as he locks the door to keep out the warring elements raging without. During the night six others let themselves in with as many keys, each being the only key to Baldpate. The hermit, masquerading as ghost, with a white sheet overhead, is among these. A millionaire's right-hand man has entered and put $200,000 in the office safe—money to pay a corrupt mayor for a street-car franchise. There also arrives a newspaper woman reporter, who is to write up his doings.

WOMEN'S ANNUAL RECEPTION.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22.—The annual reception of the Protestant Women's National Association took place this afternoon in the Auditorium Hotel. The hostesses were Mrs. Charles Jegen, Mrs. W. G. Webber and Mrs. Orrin Hitchcock. Mrs. Marion H. Bell, one of the charter members, addressed the gathering.

WAITING FOR MONEY.

Somerset county is complaining because it can get no money from the State in payment for road improvements made long ago under the State-aid law, says the Trenton Times. Because Commissioner Stevens has failed to get the money from the State treasury into the hands of the county collector, Somerset county has been obliged to borrow $20,000 from the banks and pay interest on it.

One of the Freeholders thinks the Road Department has been bluffing the county boards. A better explanation will be that under the old unbusiness-like system of over-running appropriations, and paying for work done in one fiscal year out of the next year's appropriation, the 1913-14 moneys were long ago exhausted and the Road Department is trying to straighten out its accounts in order to conform to the new law and new auditing system.

After next week there will be money available for a few weeks, but it is a fact now, as it has been for years, that any treasury balance at the close of the fiscal year on October 31 will soon be dissipated. At present many county boards and State department heads are able to appreciate the feelings of the man with expectations who is waiting for a rich relative to die.

Through President William Jeffery, of the Board of Trade, we have been able to procure a copy of the tabulated assessment roll of the city of Middletown, N. Y., for the current year. It is a pamphlet, which publishes by streets, the assessments of every property-holder in the city, such as the Plainfield Board of Trade suggests be done here. The work in this form makes it easy for every person to see at a glance what his neighbor is assessed for, and is a much simpler method than if the assessments were furnished in alphabetical order. The number of the lot, owner's name, front and side dimensions, as well as square feet, the assessments for the two preceding years in total, and for the current year by land and total valuations, is shown in detail. It is one of the kind of public documents that makes favoritism on the part of any official impossible. The railroad, personal, special franchise taxes, and the property exempt from taxation is all listed. Plainfield would do well to follow the example set by the New York State city. The expense would not be great, and it would give the owner of every property who wished to investigate, an opportunity to examine the assessment roll at his convenience, in order to make application to have his assessment corrected in case error has been made.

According to the Farmers' Union news service, it is a common sight in New Jersey to see farmers drive to the harvest field in automobiles. It takes considerable money to buy and run an automobile, and it also takes good roads, as well as gasoline, to run them. While we have never seen autos used for harvesting purposes, it is true that hundreds of farmers are using the machines to go and come from the markets with their stock. There are plenty of opportunities for people to ride along the roads for miles between growing crops, and there is no more attractive landscape to the city man. "See Rural New Jersey First!" would be a pretty good slogan to adopt.

Occasional contributions continue to reach the Daily Press to be applied to the fund being raised in this city for the relief of the Belgian widows, orphans and homeless. Each day's news brings more tales of the misery and helplessness of these people, and we who are far from the scene of strife, want and suffering, cannot realize how terrible conditions are in that stricken country. Every dollar received will help relieve the want of sufferers. The local women having the matter in charge are expecting to forward over $1,000 to the New York committee before they complete their work.

Saturday's editorial will be a political one. It will be written by a man who has been active in local politics for many years, and who now occupies a prominent position in the Republican party. Last Saturday the Democratic side was ably presented, and as an independent journal, the Daily Press wishes to have its readers informed of the issues of the campaign from the viewpoints of the two leading parties.

According to the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture, the bee business has been bad in New Jersey this year. That may be true of the winged variety, but judging from the list of men who sought office in the recent primaries, there was no failure in the political variety.

The tuberculosis exhibit at the High School will be concluded tomorrow night. Since it opened there have been thousands of visitors, and the exhibit has done untold good in showing Plainfielders how to fight the great white plague.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR PISCATAWAY PUPILS

Monthly Meeting of Board Held in New Market Last Night.

Representatives of several concerns dealing in fire extinguishers were present at the monthly meeting of the Piscataway Township School Board in New Market, last night, the organization being shown the merits of the various devices which have been proposed for the township schools.

The building and repair committee submitted estimates for the iron fence it was instructed to build around the South Plainfield school property and said it did not feel justified in spending $800 for a fence without the approval of the Board. The committee told of the objections raised by adjoining property owners to the concrete fence proposed.

The question of additional toilets at several schools was referred back to the committee for recommendation at the next meeting. Two communications from County Superintendent Willis telling of his inspection of several schools in the township with recommendations for their improvement was read, but no definite action was taken. The finance committee reported a balance of $11,241.28 on hand.

The committee that visited the Board of Education of Middlesex reported that it had been received very cordially and had accomplished its object in getting that body to accept pupils along the River road upon the same terms as last year, with the promise that when a change was desired a reasonable notice would be given the Board. The clerk was instructed to write to the Middlesex Fire Company and call its attention to the law requiring fire escapes upon buildings used for public purposes and ask that some action be taken immediately to comply with it.

Supervising Principal Mets read his monthly report, which showed a total enrollment of 520 pupils, exclusive of those attending the High Schools, being an increase of forty-four over last year. He reported the average attendance as 93.6 per cent. The report was full of statistical information and several recommendations, the most of which are under advisement.

candidate from the Fourth ward. The people of that ward will send him back to the Council not just because he is a Republican, but because he has had two years' experience in the Council. His opponent is a good able man. But he is no more able than Mr. Blatz; and it will take him two years to catch up with Mr. Blatz in knowing how to do the work. You see, it comes down to a business proposition every time. I have worked with Mr. Blatz, and know his ability. I want to see the First and the Fourth wards send back Mr. Edgar and Mr. Blatz because I know what they have done for Plainfield, and I want their help if I am myself elected to serve you further.

Women's Shoes

THE SHOE DEPARTMENT'S SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Children's Shoes

When we inaugurated this department two years ago some of the wise ones shook their head and said it won't go. I see its finish, there's shoe stores a plenty in town. The department is just two years old and on Saturday you never saw a livelier youngster in your life. Not only was it the busiest department in the store, but it also did the largest single day's business in its history, and this without the blowing of horns or a brass band.

There's a reason for the success of this department, and that reason is, we handle only the most reliable shoes we can find. Made in most instances to our special order from some of the largest and best factories in the country, and in buying as we do in such large quantities for our three stores, we are in a position to offer you better shoes for less money than you can get at ordinary shoe stores.

Now as to the New Styles for Fall and Winter

Those for women include: The gaiter top dress boot in black or grey cloth top, with patent leather or demi-calf foxings, vici kid button or lace dress shoes. Combination lace shoes with extra toe measurement for enlarged joints, and arch supporting shoes in black kid. High cut shoes in black demi-calf and tan calf in button or lace. The prices range from $3.00 to $6.00.

The Shoes for children embrace those that are especially adapted to growing feet; all made on the orthopedic broad toe last; the only sensible kind to buy. We are showing complete lines in tan or black Russian calf, patent leather with kid or cloth tops, white buck and new buck in hand turned or welts. Priced according to size from $1.25 to $4.00.

DR. MURRAY SPEAKS ON MODERN CURES

Local Physician Presided at Meeting in the High School Last Night.

Another large attendance of those interested in municipal work was recorded at the tuberculosis and health exhibit in the Plainfield High School, last night, Dr. William M. Murray acting as chairman of the evening. In the opening address Dr. Murray took for his topic, "What Union County Has Done Toward the Eradication of Tuberculosis." He said in part:

"Union was one of the first counties in the State to establish a tuberculosis sanitarium and to Plainfield people is due a vast amount of credit for this movement. The charity organizations of Plainfield and Elizabeth both made very strenuous efforts to effect the formation of such a movement and were instrumental in establishing the project on a firm basis. We are maintaining one of the best and most complete county hospitals.

"Other speakers have laid special stress on the home cures and treatment, but where it is possible to maintain such an institution such as we have at Bonnie Burn it has been found that cures made are far more complete and at the same time prevented the spread of the disease among the immediate family of the afflicted individual. New Jersey has found that it is far more economical to take care of cases in classes. For instance, Glen Gardner, the State institution, is founded solely for the purpose of caring for the incipient stage of the disease, while Bonnie Burn accepts all classes of the disease. They have, however, facilities for caring for patients in all stages and giving them the necessary treatment for their personal needs.

"Statistics on this disease indicate that one case will spread the affliction throughout an entire family. Bonnie Burn, about four miles and a half from Plainfield, is located on the highest point of land in the county. We have a farm there of about one hundred acres, where a great deal of the produce used is raised. We have eight buildings of the most approved type where the patients can be kept with the greatest amount of personal comfort."

Dr. Murray then introduced Dr. Edward Krans, who spoke on the open-air school in this city. He said in part:

"For years scientific ventilation has been tried out with very little success in caring for the tubercular inclined pupil but we have been impressed with the fact that outdoor air cannot be brought inside. Therefore the only successful way has been to teach these pupils out of doors. Providence, R. I., was the first city to establish an open-air school and at the present time there are over two hundred of these schools in active operation. All of them are not for the tubercular child, ten per cent. being for normal, healthy children. In teaching children out of doors it has been found that their mentality has been increased with much less effort and with shorter hours. We have had an average gain of eight pounds per pupil in nine months of school life."

Dr. Millard Knowlton also spoke again last night.

BUCK WEAVER NABBED BY DUNELLEN POLICE

Man Wanted for Complicity in Disorderly House Management Arrested.

Buck Weaver, colored, who has been arrested here on several previous occasions for his part in various episodes, was taken into custody by Marshal Tarpey, of Dunellen, last night, on a warrant sworn out by the local authorities charging him with complicity in the management of the disorderly house which was raided Sunday afternoon. When Patrolmen Thomas and Martin Flatley "pulled" the place, Weaver is alleged to have been one of the inmates. Both of the officers identified him in a cell at the local headquarters this morning, as the individual who eluded them Sunday.

When the place was entered by the coppers Weaver is said to have been inside along with a number of others, five of whom were arrested. At the sight of the officers he made a wild scramble for an open window and dropped fifteen feet to the ground below. The minions of the law obtained a good description of the man and the warrant was later issued. Since the escapade he has made himself scarce around these parts and was taken unexpectedly by the Dunellen marshal last night.

Weaver is well known in local police annals and has served time before in the county jail. Owing to the fact that there was no session of the city court, this morning, he was held for trial until tomorrow. Three of the inmates of the house are now serving time in the county jail.

P. H. S. STUDENT COUNCIL PLANS ANNUAL RECEPTION

The first meeting of the Plainfield High School Student Council was held at the close of school, yesterday afternoon. This council is composed of the officers of the four classes, the presidents of the two athletic associations, the editor-in-chief of the Oracle, the business manager of the Oracle, and the president of the Commercial Club. It acts with the principal on school issues.

At yesterday's meeting the council decided that the principal of the school, in conference with the presidents of the four classes, should appoint two members from each class to serve on the public works committee. This committee looks out for the general welfare of the school, such as seeing that the grounds are kept clean, that the athletic trophies are kept in condition, and that the pictures of the athletic teams and school plays are hung in their proper places.

The council decided to hold a freshman reception in the High School on Saturday, October 31. In past years the sophomore class gave the reception to the freshmen, but this year, with the enlarged auditorium, it was thought best to have the whole school present.

Mrs. Willard Ross, formerly of this city, but now of Washington, is visiting Mrs. C. B. Pope, of Summit avenue, after nine years' absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Lodge have returned from their wedding trip and are residing at 661 East Sixth street.

MISS APGAR BRIDE OF C. A. M'GUIGAN

Rev. Edward Ralston Performs Ceremony at Netherwood Church.

Miss Ida A. Apgar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Apgar, of Johnston avenue, and Charles Albert MacGuigan, also of this city, were married at 7 o'clock last evening, at the Netherwood Reformed church in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Edward Ralston, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white satin and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Mrs. Charles Collins, as matron of honor, and her sister, Miss Cora Apgar, as bridesmaid. Charles Collins was the best man and the ushers were Clifford Cole and Angus Kennedy.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, there being present many relatives and friends. Both the church and house were attractively decorated for the affair. Congratulations were offered and supper was served and later the couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside on Johnston avenue. The bride received a large number of gifts. Mr. MacGuigan is employed at the local plant of the Century Rubber Company. Both the bride and groom are members of the Netherwood Reformed church.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS MEET.

Fitchburg, Mass., Oct. 22. At City Hall tonight, the Massachusetts State Biennial Convention of Christian Endeavor opens for a four-day session. Mayor Benjamin A. Cook welcomed the big gathering and Rev. A. Z. Conrad speaks on a timely topic. All of the churches of the city will be thrown open to the visitors next Sunday.

Mrs. Elston Johnston-Elston, Jr., and Miss Lillian Johnston, of Leland avenue, are confined to their home with tonsilitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Billings and sons, of Vine street, will remove Saturday to Westchester, where Mr. Billings has secured a position.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

A UNITED EUROPE AFTER THE WAR?

Possibility of the Late W. T. Stead's Dream Coming True.

WOULD MEAN LASTING PEACE

Famous English Editor and Sir Max Waechter, Founder of European Unity League, Co-operated in Movement to Establish a Federation For Nations' Common Welfare.

The name "United States of Europe" is continually being mentioned in discussions of what is going to happen after the present war is over and peace is here. Numerous well informed men, says the New York Times, have declared themselves as believing that peace will be maintained hereafter by the United States of Europe—a federation of the powers for the common welfare and lasting peace of the continent.

If the United States of Europe becomes an accomplished fact it will mean the realization of the dream of the late William T. Stead and the fulfillment of the aims of the European Unity league, which was founded by Sir Max Waechter and was hard at work just before the war in furthering its purposes.

Mr. Stead, in using the term the United States of Europe, declared that the phrase was naturally suggested by the United States of America. "The latter," he used to say, "enables the former to be at least thinkable." Napoleon III., Mr. Stead pointed out, used to dream of constituting some kind of a federation of Europe.

Called a Conference on Subject.

Sir Max Waechter, a German by birth, though a naturalized Englishman since 1865, worked with Mr. Stead toward the proposed federation of Europe, the formation of the European Unity league being the outgrowth of the work. In 1909 a congress was called, on Sir Max's initiative, in Rome, where delegates from various nations discussed the feasibility of a federation. It was not a conference of governments, but of eminent men from all parts of Europe.

A few years ago Sir Max made a tour of Europe and laid the plan before sovereigns and governments. He studied the difference between the nations and was led to the conclusion that it was not an impossibility to bring about a European federation.

Last year Sir Max estimated that the armed peace was costing Europe $5,000,000,000 yearly, declaring that all progress was retarded by this expenditure. In discussing the question of armaments he made a prophetic forecast, saying that Europe might soon find relief from militarism in a mighty war.

Once the great masses of the populations of the great powers became convinced that a federation of Europe would mean permanent peace, and once they could be educated up to appreciate the blessings of such peace, Sir Max thought that the United States of Europe might become an accomplished fact.

Advantages of a United Europe.

After his investigations all over Europe he came to the conclusion that one of the great steps to bind Europe together is to break down the tariff walls between the nations, and while admitting that this would be difficult to achieve, he believed it would not be insuperably difficult. Of the advantages of a united Europe, Sir Max said:

"When the unity of Europe is firmly established great European wars would become impossible. The excessive armaments would become unnecessary and would gradually disappear. Security would become greater. Money would become more plentiful. Prosperity would increase by leaps and bounds. Salaries and wages would rise.

"For not only could hundreds of millions of pounds which are now spent on armaments be saved and be applied to industrial and other productive purposes, but the productive power of millions of able-bodied men, who now spend their time in military drill, would be added as an important factor in producing the things required by mankind."

SWORDS AND PLOWSHARES.

Bryan Mementos Turn Isaiah's Prophecy Into Realism.

Realism has been given by Secretary Bryan to the prophecy of Isaiah. "They shall beat their swords into plowshares." The United States army furnished the swords, and between times of signing peace and arbitration treaties Secretary Bryan had them beaten into plowshares, and when an ambassador or a minister signs one of these treaties he carries away a plowshare to remind him of its meaning. It is made from a real sword too—a sword that has seen service.

But as for the plowshare, it isn't a real big plowshare. It's just a miniature steel plowshare, nickel plated, intended to be used as a paperweight. The ministers and ambassadors are getting the blades of the swords and the handles are being finished into paperweights for the senate foreign relations committee.

TELLS OF MISSION WORK IN CHINA

Dr. Samuel Cochran Gives Interesting Talk at Crescent Avenue Church.

Dr. Samuel Cochran, who has been engaged in mission work in China for the past fifteen years, gave an interesting illustrated lecture at the Crescent Avenue church, last night, telling something of his work in the new Republic. Dr. Cochran, who is a son of Mrs. I. W. Cochran, of this city, formerly lived in Morristown, but has visited here on several occasions, where he is well-known.

During his lecture, Dr. Cochran displayed about seventy-five slides, which gave the large audience an excellent idea of true conditions in China, and the progress made there by the people during recent years. The speaker first touched on the home life and the industries of the natives. The dwellings of old were contrasted with the modern present day structures, another incident of progress. China's famous wall was shown about which Dr. Cochran made some interesting remarks.

Dr. Cochran is at the head of a hospital in Hwaiyuen, pictures of which were shown. The speaker gave very many interesting incidents in connection with his work at the hospital. The buildings used when he first went to China were shown and the present ones which are modern in every respect. There are accommodations for about fifty patients. Reference was also made to the change in the public schools which are now up-to-date.

In discussing the various diseases in China, Dr. Cochran explained the treatment which had proven most successful. Pictures showing some of the methods of treatment and other interesting phases of the work were thrown on the canvas. Dr. Cochran spoke last night under the auspices of the Men's Missionary Committee of the church, which has arranged a series of similar meetings. The lecture was preceded by devotional exercises in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, the pastor, who was in charge.

PROTEST BRINDILLA SEIZURE; ROCKFELLER IS RELEASED

Washington, Oct. 22.—Formal protest against the seizure of the Standard Oil tank steamer Brindilla was made to the British Government today by the State Department. Acting Secretary Lansing sent a lengthy cablegram to Ambassador Page, at the same time notifying the British Ambassador here.

The American tank steamer John D. Rockefeller has been released by the British and has been allowed to proceed on her way. This information, following a protest to the British Foreign Office by the State Department, was conveyed to the White House today by Sir Cecil Spring Rice the British Ambassador. The Rockefeller was taken off the Orkney Islands by a British cruiser.

SELECT CHAMPLAIN MONUMENT.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 22.—The monument to Samuel de Champlain, which is to be erected to commemorate the visit of the famous explorer to Ontario, has been chosen. When completed the monument will be about 30 feet high. On each side of the pedestal are groups illustrating the introduction of Christianity and the work of the couriers-du-bois. The pedestal will be surmounted by a heroic bronze statue of Champlain, 12 feet high. The monument will be unveiled at the three hundredth anniversary of Champlain's visit, and the site is at Orillia, Ontario.

COLLEGE ANNIVERSARY.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The fiftieth convocation of the University of the State of New York began this morning, and the occasion brought together a notable list of prominent educators. Governor Martin Glynn welcomed the educators and opened the session, which will be of two days' duration. Rev. Dr. George Herbert Palmer, of Harvard, gave an address on "What Is a Profession?", and Rev. Dr. Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, of Columbia, spoke on "The University and the Public." "What the School Should Do For the State" was discussed by various State commissioners, and Governor Glynn, Herbert Quick, editor; Dr. Charles W. Kent, of the University of Virginia, and John H. Finley, president of the State University, were among the speakers.

COTTON BALL IN NEW YORK.

New York, Oct. 22—Great preparations are being made for the Cotton Ball to be held at the McAlpin Hotel here tomorrow night, at which all the women will wear cotton gowns, stockings and gloves. Society leaders are joining with a will, for the event is for the benefit of the cotton growers. A large bale of cotton will decorate the middle of the ballroom, and music will be given by an orchestra of darkies. During the intervals between the dances, pickaninies will give Southern dances. Mrs. Martin H. Glynn, wife of Governor Glynn, is honorary president of the Women's Democratic League, which organization is in charge of the ball.

CHICAGO TO LOSE FAMOUS CLUB.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The Calumet Club, a landmark in Chicago, will soon pass out of existence, because of lack of new members. Here Marshall Field, George M. Pullman, Levi Z. Leiter, Philip D. Armour and others famous in the industrial development of the city, were wont to meet and discuss big business. The famous pipe of peace of Fort Dearborn hangs on its walls, and another was the fiddle played in old Fort Dearborn, long before the city was settled. A generation ago aspiring social climbers would have spent fortunes to gain membership. Today there is no special prestige in the name, and it is a relic.

TWO BOOST MARKS IN K. OF C. MATCHES

Taylor and Moynihan Increase Averages at Expense at Blatz and Pasch.

George Taylor and Harry Pasch had a hot time in the first match of the Knights of Columbus individual bowling tournament, last night, and two of the games were decided by close margins. After the smoke of the battle had cleared away Taylor claimed two of the games and his opponent was credited with the first. Both men bowled well in the first game and Pasch came out a winner by one point, the scores being 217 to 216. In the second game the scores were lower, Taylor winning this time with a three-pin lead. The scores were 197 to 194. In the deciding roll Pasch fell off and his opponent had no trouble in taking the match with twenty tallies to spare.

With a pair of 202 scores, Blatz had an easy time taking the majority of games from Moynihan and the latter could not touch either of these rolls. Blatz let up in the third and his opponent took advantage of this and annexed this decision. Blatz found his match in the next three games and although he hit the wood for a 223, Taylor took the game with a score that went five points higher. Blatz took the second with a 183 but fell off on the rubber and Taylor won it with a 218 against his opponent's 202. This was the third 202 score Blatz made during the night. The last victory put Taylor in the lead in the night's play with four wins and two defeats.

But Moynihan also wanted to boost his average and he took three straight from Pasch, who did not come within sixteen points of his score at any time. Moynihan's best was 212.

The scores:

G. Taylor	216	197	177
Pasch	217	194	157
Moynihan	193	162	193
Blatz	202	202	169
Blatz	223	183	202
G. Taylor	228	159	218
Moynihan	177	212	204
Pasch	118	168	188

Those who will bowl tomorrow night are Duffy vs. Howe, Sullivan vs. Caulfield, Sullivan vs. Howe and Duffy vs. Caulfield.

BRICKLY MAY GET IN GAME.

Boston, Oct. 22—Charles Brickley, Harvard's football star, is rapidly recovering from his operation for appendicitis, and the medical authorities are swapping opinions as to whether he will be able to get into the game again this year. The most important opinion is that of Dr. H. L. Williams, coach of the University of Minnesota, who predicts Brickley will get into the Yale game. He cites the cast of Earl Pickering, one of the stars at Minnesota four years ago, who, twenty-four days after a similar operation, played the first 20-minute period against Wisconsin that year and a week later played through the entire game with Michigan. And, says Coach Williams, Pickering never felt the slightest after-effects. The Harvard doctors are not so optimistic, however, and the parents of Brickley are putting their ban on future football glory for the Harvard star.

N. P. H. S. QUINTET TO PLAY ALUMNI

"Ash" Burner Will Lead the "Grads" in Saengerbund Hall Friday, Nov. 6.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team will meet the Alumni in the first game of the season at Saengerbund Hall on Friday night, November 6. Ashley Burner, captain of the team last year, is running the ex-High School boys and made these arrangements with Hyman Abrams today. It was at first thought that the game could be played next Friday before the dance that was to be held, but the postponement of the dance also means the postponement of the game.

The first regular contest of the season was cancelled by the Nutley five and the game with the old players will be a practice to put on the finishing touches. Burner will have to scout around for one more man who can play the game and who went to the borough school. Bill Taylor, 1911 leader; Burner, Newkirk and Dunning are the four men that are now in line for this exercise, but another will be found without much trouble.

The borough team is practising hard and will be in fine shape for the first game which comes in a few weeks. Coach Jeffery is with the team much of the time and is giving the players a number of pointers that will help them. There will be a dance after the game with the Alumni team.

BOB FITZ WAS SECOND TO USE THE "SHIFT" MOVE

Although Bob Fitzsimmons has often claimed the shift as a fighting innovation all his own, a good case can be established for a warrior of a much earlier date. According to Sir Thomas Mallory, Battling Launcelot, of King Arthur's court, employed the shift to good advantage in an important encounter with Sir Meliagrance.

"Then Sir Meliagrance came with his sword all on high," says Mallory, "and Sir Launcelot showed him openly his bare head and the bare left side, and when we weened to have smitten him upon the bare head then lightly he avoided the left leg and the left side and put his right hand and his sword to that stroke, and so put it on side with great sleight; and then with great force Sir Launcelot smote him on the helmet such a buffet that the stroke carved the head into two parts. Then there was no more to do, but he was drawn out of the field."

INTERSCHOLASTIC GAMES ARRANGED

City and Borough Teams Will Meet in First Tilt at Saengerbund Hall.

All arrangements for the Interscholastic Basketball League have been made and the teams will start practising hard for these games and eagerly await the day when the local teams will meet for the championship battles. The three managers have already met and picked the best dates out of their schedules for these games. The city and borough teams will not meet until after the boroughites and the Leal combination have played two games of their three. The North Plainfield and Leal teams will inaugurate the league on December 23.

The Canadians will act as defenders of the title this year, having taken it from the city team last season in one of the closest series in the history of the organization. The first game in which these two teams will clash has been set for January 23 in Saengerbund Hall and a return match will be played on the new P. H. S. gym on Lincoln's Birthday. The third game will be staged on the Y. M. C. A. court on March 6. North Plainfield meets Leal in the second game at the Y. M. C. A. on January 13 and the place of the third game has not as yet been set.

All games will be played regardless of the standing of the teams and the financial end of the league has been favorably settled to all concerned.

The complete schedule follows:

Dec. 23—Leals at North Plainfield.
Jan. 13—N. P. H. S. at Leals.
Jan. 23—P. H. S. at N. P. H. S
Jan 27—Leals at P H. S.
Feb. 8—P. H. S. at Leals
Feb 12—N. P. H. S. at P. H. S.
March 6—N. P. H. S. vs. P. H. S at Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. QUINTET GETTING READY FOR ITS FIRST GAME

The Y. M. C. A. basketball squad held a practice last night which consisted of shooting, signal drill and scrimmages. There was a large number out and the first team was provided with signals which were worked with good results against the seconds. Captain Brynairski also put the first team against the others present in two short halves and the passing and shooting was accurate.

Another workout will be held Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. The management announces that one of the main attractions this year will be the deaf team of Trenton, that is known as the Silent Workers. This team appeared here last year and gave the association five a good run for the verdict.

HOW PLAINFIELD TEAM IS RATED BY RAHWAY ELEVEN

Rahway, Oct. 22—The Rahway High School football eleven will have a particularly hard game Saturday, when it will go to Plainfield for a contest with the Plainfield High. Owing to the hard coaching the line has received within the past few days the team will be much stronger on its defensive work. Schweitzer and E. Durand will also be in the line and tend to strengthen it owing to their weight and experience. Captain Rossell will probably appear at fullback and Elmer Armstrong at quarterback for the first time this season as the result of the latter's injury at the outset of the season.—Elizabeth Journal.

LESLIE MANN COACHING LOCAL BASEPBALL PLAYERS

Three local athletes who are attending Springfield Training School are spending all their spare minutes in the gymnasium with the baseball and glove and most of the time are working out with Leslie Mann, a member of the Boston Braves, who is at that college studying. These players are Townley, Nash and Sminck, all of whom have made good baseball records in this city. Townley and Sminck are out for positions on the pitching staff and there is no doubt but that the former will again get his berth of last year, when he was one of the best pitchers on the team and did the bulk of the work. This is Sminck's first year at the school and he is working hard to get in trim.

Jim Nash will try for the catcher's job. "Hub" Stine has been too busy with football to bother with the diamond game, but he is assured of a regular position. He will not be able to play football again this year as he was injured recently in practice.

VISITING SCOUTS TO PARADE HERE

New York, Elizabeth and Yonkers Delegations at Parker Field Demonstration.

PLANS FOR EXHIBITION

Other Troops From All Parts of the State Expected to Send Delegates—Competition Will Be Very Keen.

Final orders governing the public demonstration of Boy Scout activities at Parker Field, Saturday morning, were issued today by Commissioner Allen E. Beals. The orders call for the assembling of all local and visiting Scouts at the rear of the First Presbyterian church at 8:30. At 9 o'clock the procession will move west on Front street to Central avenue, down West Second street to Park avenue to the Central Railroad bridge where a halt will be made to await the arrival of the 9 o'clock express train from New York bringing the New York, Elizabeth and Yonkers delegations and Dr. Frits V. Holm, who will be one of the judges of events.

After giving Dr. Holm and the New York delegates the Scout yell, "A-M-E-R-I-C-A, Boy Scouts, Boy Scouts, U. S. A.," the parade will proceed down Park avenue to Parker Field. After marching past the grandstand and half way round the track the column will turn and march directly up through the center of the field to a point 25 feet from the grandstand, when it will turn to the right and take positions by patrols along the west side of the field. The program will proceed upon the sounding of a bugle fan fare by the commissioner's aid, Lawrence Sutton. Musicians will then join their own patrols. Henry Hannigan will be detailed as aid to Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., and a Scout from Troop 11 will serve as aide to Deputy Commissioner E. A. Sprowl.

Competing patrols and their leaders will be as follows:

Troop 5: Wolf Patrol, defending champions, Harold McKay; Engineers' Patrol, John Richards; Red Cross Patrol, Thomas P. Fitch.

Troop 7: Lion Patrol, R. Tildon; Tiger Patrol, leader to be announced.

Troop 9: Eagle Patrol, David Dunavan.

Troop 10: Merged with Troop 9, leaders, Howard Leek and Howard Willett.

Troop 11: Stag Patrol, Irving D. Manley, and Signalling Patrol, John Causebrook.

Troop 12: Flying Eagle Patrol, Harold Livingston.

Troop 8, Alan Stephenson, leader; Troop 13, F. M. Tomlinson, scoutmaster; Troop 14, E. K. Powlison, scoutmaster pro tem; Troop 15, in charge of Miss Koons and Mr. Dix of the special training classes of the public school system; Prospective Troops 16, 17 and 18, of Hope chapel, St. Stephen's parish and the Church of the Heavenly Rest have been invited to serve as field guards during the exercises, with visiting troops from Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville, Chester, Raritan, New Brunswick, Westfield, Garwood, Cranford, Roselle, Elizabeth and New York.

Boys not having uniforms will be designated as Scouts in line by a red bandana handkerchief worn cowboy fashion about their necks. The parade will be made up by troops in numerical order.

The rules of the competition are based upon the letter of the Scout law. Each patrol may enter one or two boys for each event excepting those requiring full patrols, like the barrier climb, ambulance drill and pyramid building. Points however, will only be accredited to patrols as units, two contesting from one patrol scoring as one competitor. In surprises it is optional with the leader as to the number of Scouts introduced. Awards will be made by the judges on the usefulness and practicability of the devices or features introduced to Scouts in actual field work. The decision of the field day committee will be final in all cases in matters pertaining to terms and condition of competition. This committee consists, of J. W. Aughiltree, chairman; T. A. Davis, A. D. Beers and Paul R. Collier. The judges will be William D. Murray, of the executive committee of the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America; Dr. Frits V. Holm and Judge William N. Runyon, with Dr. H. D. Corbusier, special judge in awarding the first aid trophy of a handsome silk Red Cross flag and staff to the patrol making the best showing in first aid work.

THIS COACH HAS SOME AUTHORITY!

Westfield High School Eleven Routed by Board of Education.

Violations of scholarship regulations is the reason that the health committee of the Westfield Board of Education gives for taking away the authority of the High School football team to represent that institution for the rest of the season. The committee met on October 10 and discussed a punishment for the team for allowing ineligible players to take part in the game played on Columbus Day against the Plainfield High School eleven on Parker Field when the Westfield crew went down to defeat by the score of 19 to 0. In the second half of this game the committee claims that a player who had been previously disqualified was sent in. It is said that the coach of the team informed the player not to go into the game, but his orders were not obeyed and the "ringer" played.

The notice of the committee's actions was read by Acting Principal Linn at the High School session Monday and the members of the team and their supporters immediately "went up in the air" and revolted. The captain of the team has not as yet been given a chance to explain his side of the story for the eleven and when he does it may put a different light on the story. This is a repetition of last year's conditions, when the school authorities placed a ban on football and the team played independently under the name of "Outlaws." They played all of their scheduled games and had one of the best teams in the history of the town.

Although the manager has been notified to cancel games already scheduled the squad has met and decided to play the rest of the season as an independent organization if the health committee does not remove the ban and will perform under the name of "Outcasts."

A telegram was received this afternoon by Donald Updyke, manager of the Plainfield High School team, from Manager Bourne, of the Westfield High School team, notifying the local athletic authorities that the Westfield High School football team has been reinstated by the Board of Education.

HOLY CROSS BEING USED TO ADVERTISE

Dexters Select Strong Plainfield Eleven as Holiday "Bait."

According to latest reports from the vicinity of Perth Amboy Plainfield football fans will not have the pleasure of seeing Holy Cross play on the Cricket Field on Thanksgiving Day, as the manager of the Dexter football team claims that attraction for Perth Amboy gridiron enthusiasts. That is the way it appears on his schedule and is the last game of the season.

The schedule includes the hardest teams of the State and if all the games are won the Dexters can again claim the State title. This report comes from Middlesex county, but nothing has been heard here of the Holy Cross team leaving town this season. The remainder of the Perth Amboy schedule follows:

October 25, Elizabeth A. A.; November 1, Vikings, of Bayonne, at Perth Amboy; November 8, Valleys, of Newark, at Perth Amboy; November 15, Diamonds, of Paterson, at Paterson; November 22, Montanas, of Stapleton, at Perth Amboy, and November 26, Thanksgiving Day, Holy Cross, of Plainfield, at Perth Amboy.

JACK MARTIN TO PLAY IN ELIZABETH SUNDAY

Jack Martin will appear in Elizabeth next Sunday afternoon with some of the Brooklyn National League team players, who will lineup against the Elizabeth Leaguers. Several men who have played in this city will be present and the Philadelphia player will perform at his usual position.

Miller and Fischer will probably be the battery for the Brooklyn team and several other regulars will be on hand. Frank Bruggy, formerly a local players, will be on the receiving end for the Leaguers, and "Flick" Luyster will occupy one of the garden positions. Sonny Lee, of the Athletics, will play in the field for the Elizabethans.

LARGE SQUAD OUT FOR BORO GIRLS' QUINTET

If quantity makes a basketball team, the borough girls will stand a fine chance of regaining lost laurels on the court this year, as the largest squad that has ever reported for practice turned out yesterday, at Saengerbund Hall, at the call of Captain Marjorie Burtis. Twenty girls were on the floor and all were put into the practice. This is as many as reported at the boys' call a short time ago and with a little work a fine team will undoubtedly be picked to represent the school.

The girls are very fortunate this year in having Miss Barnard for coach, as they have not had a woman instructor for years. Four of last year's players are again out for places and only one guard is needed to complete the team. Marjorie Burtis and Lillian Spencer, last year's regulars, will probably do the shooting honors with Lucy Douglas in center and Elsie Debele one of the guards.

Those who reported yesterday were Lucy Douglas, Lillian Spencer, Margaret Ewart, Bertha Keller, Marion Blair, Theresa McCullough, Adelaide Ricketts, Marion Chandler, Dorothy Krewson, Julia Rowley, Ann Hull, Bertha Bodine, Lena Mobus, Viola Hauser, Grace Townley, Emilie Freydell, Katherine Goodwin, Bessie Carson and Grace VanDemburgh.

THIRD AND FOURTH ROUNDS IN P. H. S. TENNIS TOURNEY

In the matches played in the fourth round of the Plainfield High School tennis singles championship yesterday afternoon, Mills defeated Beckman, 7-5, 6-4, and Blanchard defeated Newell 6-2, 6-1.

In the third round Ellis defeated V. Williams 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, and Parvin defeated D. Williams, 6-2, 6-0.

HUNT CLUB ENJOYS A TEN MILE CHASE

The mid-week run of the Watchung Hunt Club, yesterday, covered a distance of about ten miles. The hounds were thrown in on the Delafield estate, going to New Brunswick, where they were checked on the Hamilton farm. They were taken up and thrown in on the Manning farm, the chase being finished on the Dunbar farm at New Market. Owing to the blind condition of the country there were several spills, but no serious mishaps.

There was a large field out, but only the following finished: Rufus C. Finch, M. F. H.; L. B. Smith, Harry L. Finch, Miss May Baker, R. H. Towner, Col. C. E. S. Bellows and Huntsman Harrison.

RECREATION NOTES

Everyone in the vicinity of Washington School is urged to take advantage of the splendid moving pictures which are being shown on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The newest and most up-to-date films are secured each day. There are two performances, one at 7:30 and one at 9 o'clock.

The Bryant Social Club will meet at Bryant School tonight. There will be music and dancing. The club will be glad to welcome new members.

The Dunbar Club will hold its weekly dance at Washington School tomorrow evening. Membership in the club is open to any and all of the colored people of Plainfield. It is desired to extend the membership to 200. Mrs. Warmley is the club leader and may be seen at Washington School tomorrow evening for further information.

The Civic Club, conducted by R. S. Rowland, will meet tomorrow evening at 8:15 in the Stillman School

The municipal dance at Franklin School is gaining in popularity. Come on Saturday evening and learn the Maxixe.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Beginning Monday the minstrel show will hold rehearsals every afternoon until the night of the show.

Owing to the injuries to several players the South Orange High School football team was forced to cancel the football game scheduled for October 31 with P. H. S.

Because of conflicting schedules, South Side High School will be unable to play Plainfield High School this year. A game had been scheduled for October 28.

Daniel McNamee, president of the senior class, has appointed the following committees: For the selection of the senior class pin, William Peacock, chairman; the Misses Dorothy Stelle, Elsie Stevens, Muriel Cockburn and Nicholas Zelmas and Edwadr Ryder; for the selection of the senior play, the Misses Claire Britton, Elizabeth Martin, Dorothy Simons, and Harold Davis, Randolph Stelle and Roger Cockburn; to take charge of the freshman reception, program committee, Miss Dorothea Case and Harold Tomlinson; games' committee, Miss Helen McKillop and Frank Carey; floor committee, Miss Helen Watson and Harold Burdick; music committee, Miss Ella Guttridge and Carl Evans; decoration committee, Miss Lillian Fountain and Donald Updyke. The following members have been appointed for the public works committee: Picture and trophy committee, Miss Louise Fuller and Harold Chamberlain; ground committee, Miss Adelaide Cole and Miss Elia Cook.

Manager Updyke received a letter from Easton High chool asking for a game on November 7, but he was unable to accept the date because of the game with New Brunswick on that date.

ALL IS HARMONY ALONG THE MEXICAN BORDER

Washington, Oct. 22.—Colonel Hatfield, in command of the American troops on the Mexican border, telegraphed today to the War Department a complete denial of reports that the military and civil authorities at Naco, Arizona, were not in perfect accord. They are working together in complete harmony, Colonel Hatfield declared, and there had been no suspicion of friction. No further fighting between the Mexican forces across the border has been reported.

WAR TAX BILL FASSED; WILL RAISE NINETY MILLION

Washington, Oct. 22.— The war tax bill passed the House by a vote of 126 to 52 today, without a roll call. The only Democrats voting against it were Representatives Thompson, of Oklahoma, and Witherspoon, of Mississippi, who showed their disapproval of the defeat of the cotton bale cash bill yesterday. Just before the vote was taken Representative Underwood, of Alabama, made the statement that the act is an emergency measure and that he does not believe the $90,000,000 which will be raised under it will be sufficient to meet the full effect of the European war on the Government's income.

When the House met this morning with the war tax bill conference report before it Representative Underwood had prepared a joint resolution providing for the adjournment of Congress at 6 o'clock today.
